Obituaries

Julius Elzinga

Julius J. Elzinga, 83, died Wednesday, March 30, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

A Masonic funeral service under the auspices of Charlevoix Lodge No. 282, F. & A.M., was held at Winchester Funeral Home Saturday, April 2. Virgil McClue of Boyne City, past district deputy instructor officiated. Interment was in Lakeside Cemetery near East Jordan.

Born in Essex in Antrim County on Sept. 17, 1904, the son of Harry and Harriett (Telgenhof) Elzinga grew up in Antrim County and attended schools in the area.

As a young man he was employed in Charlevoix. Later he lived in Grand Rapids and Detroit. In 1941, he married Rose-Dodd Collins in Charlevoix. They resided in Detroit 1941-47, where he was employed at Kelsey-Hayes Wheel Co. as an industrial electrician.

In 1947 they returned to Antrim County where they lived briefly before coming to Charlevoix where he was employed at Browe Electric Service and later at American Mold Engineering Co., retiring in 1971.

He was past treasurer of ACE Credit Union, past chairman of the Charlevoix County Democratic Committee and a member and past master of Charlevoix Lodge No. 282, F. & A.M.

Surviving are his wife, Rose; one son, Michael B. of Fairport, N.Y.; three daughters, Juliana Martin of Allen Park, June McCullough and Jean Dougherty, both of East Jordan; 11 grandchildren; eight grand-children; five brothers, Lawrence Elzinga of East Jordan, Harrison, Gerrit and Charles Elzinga, all of Charlevoix, and Raymond Dodd of Harsen's Island and two sisters, Dorothy Dodd of Grand Rapids and Mignonette Moore of Duarte, Calif.

The family suggests memorials to Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Thelma Bradford

Former Ellsworth resident Thelma D. Bradford, 89, died April 4, 1988, at Pleasant View Nursing Home in Corunna.

Funeral will be 2 p.m. Friday, April 8, at the Ellsworth Wesleyan Church. The Rev. William Lyons will officiate and burial will be in the Ellsworth Cemetery.

The former Thelma D. Kirby was born Aug. 3, 1898, at Central Lake, the daughter of Lewis and Sadie Manchester Kirby.

On Nov. 25, 1922, she married Edward Bradford. They lived in Flint, Royal Oak and Charlevoix County before moving to Banks Township in Antrim County in 1947. They resided on a farm on Essex Road and Mr. Bradford preceded her in death in 1986. That same year, Mrs. Bradford moved to Corunna.

She was an active member of the Ellsworth Wesleyan Church. Survivors include: two daughters, Mrs. Willard (Shirley) Drost of Charlevoix and Mrs. Donald (Emily) Abel of Owosso;

Thomas-Keller engagement

Rhonda Thomas and Michael Keller

Rhonda Thomas and Michael Keller will be joined in marriage aboard the Port City Princess dinner cruise ship in Muskegon on June 18.

Both are Niles, Mich., residents. The bride-to-be's parents are Jacob and Barbara Veltman of Muskegon and the bridegroom's parents are Myrl and Joann Keller of Charlevoix.

The bride-elect graduated from Ferris State College's school of business in marketing-sales and is an account executive for Page Indiana, covering northern Indiana.

Her fiancé graduated from Ferris State College's school of pharmacy and is pharmacy manager for Meijer Inc. in Benton Harbor.

Youth artworks in McCune display

A display of art by students from Charlevoix and Emmet counties is on exhibit at McCune Arts Center in Petoskey.

The exhibit runs through April. The gallery is open 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday. Admission is free.

OF BLESSINGS

Imagine how hurt some were when one day a person suggested that those who don't catch fish were really not fishermen, no matter how much they claimed to be. Yet it did sound correct. Is a person a fisherman if year after year he never catches a fish? Is one a follower if he isn't fishing?

Lawn center opens at plumbing shop

A lawn and garden center has been added to Haggard's Plumbing and Heating on U.S. 31 South.

The garden center is managed by Harold Cowies of East Jordan, who has 30 years of retail sales experience. Managing the service department is Scott Wells of Charlevoix, who has 10 years experience in repairs.

The garden center is open 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and later will be open on Saturdays.

Featured products will be from Lawnboy, Homelite and Jacobson and will include various types of mowers, tractors, chainsaws, generators, trimmers and pumps.

What's News

Thomas A. Mielke has been named to represent Michigan Officeways, Inc. in all of Charlevoix County. He has been with the company for over five years and was sales representative in eastern Charlevoix County as well as product sales manager for office machines.

The Beaver Island Boat Co. has hired its first full-time business manager. Lynn DeGrow, a native of the Thumb area of Michigan, comes to Charlevoix from Mayville where he had a residential construction business and owned and operated a hardware store.

The 1967 graduate of the Coast Guard Academy is in charge of the operation of the 96-foot Beaver Islander and 65-foot South Shore.

REAL ESTATE

A single-family home, condominium or rental unit — which type of household is best?

The answer is they all are best. The real question should be: "What is best for each particular family?"

The type of household that is best for one family might very well be the worst possible choice for another. Really, the family's lifestyle and economic circumstances go a long way toward determining what is best.

Before deciding whether to buy a detached, single-family home or condominium, or whether to rent, the family ought to consider the following:

- Cost of either the single-family home or condominium. Often, a family can get more total living space for their money in buying a condominium.

How important a factor is privacy? A single-family home, surrounded by a plot of land and perhaps a fence, offers a good deal more privacy than a condo.

Would the down payment on either a single-family home or a condominium put the family in precarious economic circumstances? If so, perhaps renting an apartment — or buying a lower priced home or condo — would be best at least initially.

Are you likely to be transferred within a year or so? If so, buying either a single-family home or condo could end up costing the family money in a resale.

Are you handy and unafraid to tackle minor repair jobs, or is the simple task of mowing a lawn a chore you'd rather not do? Maintenance abilities and the willingness to perform these tasks could be the ultimate determinant for the family: single-family home for the able and willing, and a condo or rental unit for the others.

Whatever the choice, the Realtors can help you in your final decision.

Roller skating with the champ

All the controversy about building over the water brought something to mind I thought I'd forgotten. It was really something I didn't know a lot about but I did remember seeing it and, a very long time ago, I was inside the building just once.

What was it? A roller rink that I remember as a comparatively long, low gray building that stood out on the south side of Round Lake. It was the first thing that caught your eye on Belvedere Avenue at the foot of the May Street hill.

In the summer open window were the only type of air-conditioning and you could hear the music, probably from a player piano, and the low rumble of roller skates on the wooden floor as it floated out over the water. In the winter, it was the light that caught your eye.

I don't know when the rink was constructed. Ralph Hamilton, who grew up down the street on Belvedere Avenue, didn't either but thought it was early in the century and that a man named Karlake owned it.

He said the rink was much larger than a basketball court, especially in length, and had bleachers along the sides for spectators.

It must have been in the teens that it was first used as a gymnasium where basketball games were played during the winter.

After I talked with Ralph, I had a letter from Will E. Hampton of Dearborn who grew up here and whose father owned the Charlevoix Courier in those days. He said he graduated from high school in 1919 and played basketball in the rink.

He recalled it was heated by one pot-bellied stove and that often was so cold you could see your breath. He also remembered that the ceiling was so low, the players would shoot through the rafters to the basket.

Basketball, in those days, was a different type of game than is played today and scores would often be in single digits, if you can imagine. It's no wonder if you had to shoot through rafters!

Roller skating, in those days, was quite the thing.

I grew up hearing tales about an Allie Moore who was a world famous skater. I asked Ralph about him. Seems he was a cousin of the Hamiltons who came here to work in the Hamilton Boat Yard and learned to skate on the oak floor in Oleary's Livery Stable at Bridge and Belvedere Avenue.

Moore became an excellent skater, was challenged by a world champion named Harley Davison whom he defeated, was hired by a roller skating company to skate for them and demonstrate their product and for eight years retained his title as world champion until being injured in an accident in Madison Square Garden.

Ralph also recalled that Jack Foch of Petoskey and his skating bear were big attractions at the local rink during the resort season.

Moore joined a resident circus in Berlin known as the Bostok Jungle with a skating act of jumping over bears, later substituting barrels for bears.

During his championship days, he skated before Kaiser Wilhelm (before World War I) and in England for Queen Victoria and her consort, King George, and other crowned heads of Europe.

After being injured in what was said to be a planned accident, he returned to Charlevoix and ship building. As a boy, he had served as a cabin boy on the Rosabelle, a passenger boat. He later lived aboard boats he built, basking in the glory of days when he was a world champ skater.

Sometime in the 1920's, the rink was razed when roller skating was no longer the sport it had once been.

Schools face cuts or new vote

One option the Charlevoix school board will consider following defeat of a tax increase includes staff layoffs.

Other options include trying again for voter approval of the original request and asking for a lesser amount, says business manager Vince Olach.

The school board will hold its first meeting since the March 28 defeat of a three-mill boost at 7:30 p.m. Monday, April 18, in the high school study hall.

District voters rejected the two-year request 754-466 in the first defeat of a school millage request in recent history.

Olach said he will be presenting three alternatives to the board — which may choose one or come up with some approach of its own.

Olach's options fall to both ends of possible courses of action and at a mid-point.

The first option is to put the same tax request on the Monday, June 13, ballot.

The second is to not seek any additional millage and to make spending cuts.

The third is to seek a tax increase which would put millage rates at the same level as last year.

The March tax request was the first since 1977 seeking a hike in school operational funds. Requests since taxes were lowered that year have been for specific projects.

Olach's second option contains the widest changes in school operations — as the district would try to match spending plans with a half-million revenue shortfall.

Olach said he would recommend six actions if the board were to decide to live with expected revenue, without a tax hike:

- Lay off two teachers;
- Lay off 16 of the district's 22 aides;

- Increase the city recreation department's fee for using facilities from $5 a night to $20;
- Reduce capital outlays for such things as equipment replacement by 50 percent;
- Reduce teacher conferences and travel by 50 percent;
- Not replace two buses as the district now does every other year.

With all these cuts, Olach

Permit flip-flop criticized

A neighbor fighting construction of Park Avenue condominiums has accused the city of giving preferential treatment to the developer.

City Manager Mike Wiesner denied David Miles' allegation.

At the root of the dispute is a city decision to delay asking the county building inspector to issue a stop-work order.

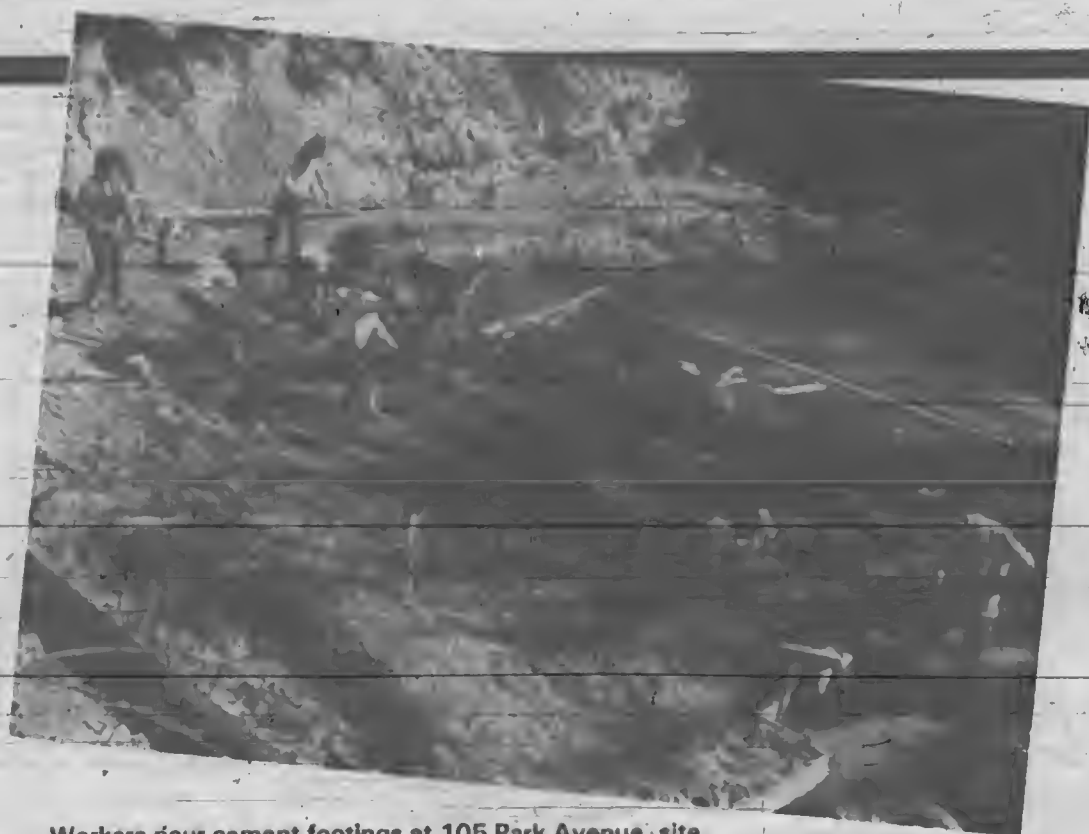

After city planner Gerry Harsch wrote Don Berlage that his city zoning permit was being withdrawn because of questions with a revised site plan, he and city attorney Jeff VanTreese decided they needed an interpretation from the zoning board of appeals before proceeding.

Several days later, Miles took a copy of Harsch's letter to the building inspector, who attempted Friday, April 8, to halt construction.

After a series of telephone calls, the city asked inspector Howard Carson not to issue the stop-work order. Carson complied with that request.

Miles then appeared at the Monday, April 11, city council work session to complain.

"I don't think there's anybody in Charlevoix who would be given the privileged, preferential treatment that VanTreese and Harsch have given Berlage on this whole thing," said Miles. "This last episode makes a grand total of 2½ days that Park Place has gone up without a permit."

Miles said there were 20 days in December and January when construction was continuing.

with only a permit for footings and 5½ days between when Harsch sent his letter to Berlage and Carson delivered his stop-work order.

"I take exception to you saying that there's been preferential treatment by staff," Wiesner told Miles.

Wiesner, who was on vacation last week, said he did not yet know all the details but agreed

'We did' vote to open secret — but they didn't

Some city council members have been mistakenly under the impression they authorized disclosure of a secret court settlement.

The city is one of four parties involved in a zoning and construction dispute which resulted in a mediated, confidential settlement.

That secret accord has led to criticism from the community and a lawsuit filed by a federal district judge.

Both plaintiffs in the original lawsuit have signed a request to release the terms of the settlement. The developer and the city have not.

But mayor pro tem Shirley Roloff and other council members indicated Monday, April 11, they thought they had.

"It's council's understanding we already did that," Roloff said. "We said any time we'd be more than happy to..."

"We already did that," said council member Earl Muma.

"I remember all of us saying we wanted this thing taken care of right away," Roloff said later.

The settlement and the judge's subsequent lawsuit had not been discussed at an open

Ahead-lines

Star of Charlevoix getting ready

Plans are going full-steam-ahead for the return of Star of Charlevoix cruises on Lake Charlevoix.

The new sternwheel paddleboat is in Virginia for more work before it begins the trip north. The vessel was in the Annapolis, Md., area during the winter.

On May 2 the Star begins its trip to Charlevoix, traveling up the New York Barge Canal on its way to Detroit. In Detroit, finishing touches, such as stacks and outside painting, will be added.

The ship should arrive in Charlevoix in the last part of May, says Karen Kelly, director of sales.

The maiden cruises of the new ship will be conducted on June 14-16, Kelly says, when VIP cruises are held by invitation.

The first public cruises are set for Friday, June 17. There will be three cruises a day until Labor Day.

Lunch cruises will be held from 11 a.m. until 1:30 p.m. and from 3 to 5:30 p.m. Dinner cruises will last from 7 to 10 p.m.

There will be live entertainment aboard ship and specialty events are planned, says Kelly.

The Star should be operating from its new dock at the foot of Clinton Street. The city is rebuilding most of the Round Lake Marina docks to give the Star a showplace location and to extend pleasure boaters' docks.

Bids for dock work are to be opened Thursday, April 14, but work cannot begin until Department of Natural Resources' approval is granted. An application is being processed.

Kelly says the ticket sales office location is not certain, although the Star's headquarters will be in the former 218 Bridge Street restaurant building.

The location is close to the Star dock and will allow for easy access with meals cooked in the building.

Meals will be sit-down instead of buffet-style as they have been in the past. The new Star does not have kitchen facilities aboard as have some of the past Stars of Charlevoix.

The Star did not operate in Charlevoix last summer because the new boat was not completed on time.

A group of local business and municipal people convinced Star Line Corp. to return this season. A local investment group will have part ownership.

The local group originally faced a Jan. 1 deadline for putting together its funding, but preparation of legal documents has prevented conclusion of the agreement.

Arts Center set for fund-raiser $5 Million Dinner

This year's Crooked Tree Arts Council fund raising Five Million Dollar Dinner will be held at the home of Mary Cay Jones in West Wequetonsing, overlooking Little Traverse Bay.

Last year two couples from Charlevoix — Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Agnello and Dr. and Mrs. Dennis Joy — were among five couples winned and dined as prize winners.

This year's six-course dinner planned by area chefs will be held Saturday, May 21.

Dr. and Mrs. Jeffrey Porter and Michael Bonello will be a part of the staff at this year's dinner. Jeff Porter will be one of six waiters, while Nancy Porter will be one of five hostesses. Bonello will assist in the kitchen.

Winning couples will be chauffeured to and from the dinner by arts council members in cars provided by Bay Buick of Petoskey.

Weather permitting, five winning couples will be served champagne and hors d'oeuvres on the bay at Harbor Springs in the steam-motor launch Windemere, donated by David Beler of Walloon Lake Inn. The Lake Street String Quintet will play before and after dinner.

Participating owner-chefs, chefs and their restaurant-catering services are: Hors d'oeuvres on the Bay — Walloon Lake Inn, David Beler; Symons' General Store, Lynne Symons. Pecan Stuffed Morels — The Rowe Inn, Kathleen Ruis. Soup Cream of Spring Greens — Tapawingo, Harlan "Pete" Peterson. Fish Smoked White Fish Mousse — The Arboretum, K. Remick Simmons. Salad Chrysanthemum Greens — A Matter of Good Taste, Fine Catering, David Phillips. Minnesota Stuffed Breast of Pheasant — Stafford's Hospitality Inc., Robert Stark. Pecan Puff Pastry Mousse — The Crows' Nest, Mike McElroy. Wines — Gurney's Harbor Bottle Shop, William Gurney, Ameel Inc. of Traverse City, Linda Vigneau.

Tickets are available at Appletree in Charlevoix and McCune Arts Center in Petoskey.

The drawing of winners will be Friday, May 6, at McCune Arts Center at 8 p.m. at the opening of an Alina College print show. The public is invited.

AROUND THE TOWN

Charlevoix wordsmith Charles Duerr not only has a new book out — he has two new books out.... Duerr has teamed up with big-league publisher Simon and Schuster to put out two collections in what is expected to be a series of his brain-teaser puzzles.... And they carry a catchy name, too — Dur-Acrostics.... Duerr has been publishing his puzzles on a small-scale for several years, but now has nationwide distribution.... "Match wits with this collection of 50 original, mind-teasing puzzles presented by Charles A. Duerr," the brightly colored covers say.... Simon and Schuster has a first-printing of 12,500 of each of the books, with 7,900 sold at the time of publication....

Duerr had 23 previous books of 25 puzzles each printed in north-west Michigan and sold several hundred of each volume through mail orders to puzzle aficionados.... His new publisher will be using the same list so his devotees won't miss out.

Park Avenue is expected to be a busy place in the next couple weeks — and that's without the traffic.... Work on dismantling the old water tower and on stringing cables under the channel will join construction of condominium units.... Michigan Bell will return — probably before the end of the month — to make a second try at burrowing seven electrical cables under Pine River Channel using a state-of-the-art oil drilling technique.... Last fall the utility found out cable couplings weren't state of the art and ended up with one usable cable out of seven.
 Pittsburg Tank and Tower Co. of Kentucky will have a crew here — possibly by the end of this week — to tackle its demolition project (more on this can be found elsewhere in the paper).... And construction of the 11-unit Park Place project progresses (stories and photos on this project are elsewhere in the paper, too).

Graffiti peppers the side of the old water tower. The tower is scheduled for removal by a company which plans to begin the job late this week or early next week.

'Terrible, terrible site'

Tower removal team set to begin demolition

Dismantling the old water tower will be like eating an ice cream cone — start at the top and keep at it until you've got it licked.

But it won't be nearly as easy, says an executive of the company that offered to chop the tower down at a cut-rate price.

"It's a terrible, terrible site," says Don Johnston, vice president of Pittsburg Tank and Tower Co. in Henderson, Ky.

The tower sits atop a sand hill overlooking Pine River Channel. And condominiums are within spark-flying distance next door.

So the company is sending its most experienced man to decide how to attack the job: Asked how Vernon Parrish and his crew might approach the dismantling, Johnston said, "very carefully."

Parrish is expected in Charlevoix late this week or early next, Johnston said. He will evaluate what needs to be done at that time.

"It's a very difficult job and we're going to have to work with the city on it," Johnston said. After a preliminary look at the site, Pittsburg Tank asked the city for help.

"Due to these site conditions, we cannot dismantle the tank in the manner in which we had anticipated," contracting engineer Herman Johnston wrote to utilities chief Ed Whitley. "We wish to ask your ideas regarding this predicament."

Johnston's letter listed four items the company did not anticipate in making its bid. These include the presence of two sheds under the tower, a cast iron riser pipe, accessibility to remove scrap from the top of the hill and the condominiums next door.

Whitley talked with Herman Johnston, and the city has agreed to provide a loader vehicle if needed and to have a fire truck at the site while cutting torches are in use.

Don Johnston told the Courier two main concerns are wind and sparks. It's been too windy in Charlevoix lately to begin the job, he said.

Other weather conditions are not a major problem he said, saying the crews work in all weather. Parrish and his crew just returned from Fort Wayne, Ind., and before that were in Los Angeles and Georgia, he said.

Johnston said his company is the largest tank and tower erector and mover in the nation, but said there are no plans to use materials from the Charlevoix tank elsewhere.

"We'll just send it to the scrapyard," he said. Usually, scrapyards pay about what it costs to transport the metal from the site, he said.

Pittsburg Tank is taking down the Charlevoix tank for about $5,500 — one-quarter what the city had socked away to pay for removal of the 62-year-old tower.

"That's about what our normal price is," said Johnston. "We just didn't understand the congestedness of the site."

He said it could take anywhere from one to two weeks to remove the tower, depending on how Parrish decides to proceed and what weather conditions are.

"We want to get it down without any accidents," he said.

Trash bag sale aids performing arts

Members of the Charlevoix High School performing arts team are selling 30-gallon, two-ply garbage bags, Thursday, April 14, from 6 to 8 p.m.

The heavy-duty bags will be sold in cases of 100 for $12. Proceeds will help underwrite the costs of performing arts projects.

The team has a school-year long series of events, including debate, drama and speech competitions. A dinner theater is set in May.

Students and a parents' support committee must raise approximately $9,000 to meet costs which include travel expenses, royalties, costumes and set construction.

In addition to door-to-door sales, bags will be available at the 7-Eleven store.

OPINIONS

Beauty replaced by greed

The following is a portion of a letter to Charlevoix resident David Miles, the writer submitted the letter, through Miles, to the Courier.

Editor,
Your "city fathers" should see the city of the 70's as my heart remembers it! Such excitement and love and pride lived in the residents and it rubbed off on tourists. We REALLY wanted to move there. Now, I don't even want to visit.

Everything that made Charlevoix a sweet heaven away from home has had a price put on it where love used to live! All the condos where openness and boats graced the lake and sky. It was fun for us to wait to cross the bridge. Now, even that fun is turned into a stressful experience.

If these "city fathers" are elected, who let this happen?

Letters to the editor:

Everyone wants his city to be shared but not at the expense of the foundation of original integrity.

When we found Charlevoix and Boulder Park and the Miles History of Charlevoix book there was no active expression of greed anywhere there. Who let this happen?

Park Avenue was my idea of the ideal street on earth. Beautiful homes, fine families and the channel crowned by the lighthouse.

Even Park Avenue is so different as to only life in old photographs and memories. How sad.

In a way, this greed has robbed Charlevoix of its vital essence as the American Indians were robbed of their land and heritage. As every city changes in the name of progress, we the people lose.

I hurt for you. No one should have to sit back and watch the life taken out of such a beautiful, gentle place and turned into a monster that has no lasting value.

Well...I may not be a Charlevoix voter but my soapbox and banner would fly high!

Flora "Butch" McMannis
Springdale, Ohio

Resorters, year-round families linked

The fund to preserve North Point is growing at a steady pace. One of the contributions received was in memory of Roy MacArthur.

Who was Roy MacArthur? Well, for starters he married a Charlevoix girl named Olive Mildred Eckinger. Her father, David John Eckinger, was sent here by Booth Fisheries in 1915, when fishing was the major industry in Charlevoix. He soon opened his own business where the Wharf condos now stand.

They shipped lake trout and white fish to New York and Chicago, where it was served in the finest hotels and restaurants. In the winter, he supervised the cutting of blocks of ice, which were then stored between layers of sawdust in an ice house.

Olive Eckinger attended Charlevoix High School and sang in the choir in the Methodist Church. She had a beautiful voice and was often asked to sing at weddings.

After her marriage to Roy MacArthur, she moved to Flint, but returned every summer to Charlevoix with her two children, Mildred and Bruce.

In a letter to her mother, Olive wrote of the trip in those days, "We made good time—it only took 10 hours and we had 4 flat tires." (Today, we drive from Charlevoix to Flint in a mere 3½ hours, with rarely a flat tire.)

Olive and Roy's daughter, Mildred MacArthur Darnton, waxes nostalgic when she now takes her grandchildren by the Pine River Channel to watch the bridge go up and down. She remembers so well standing there with her grandparents and waiting in awe as the North American passed through the old steel swing bridge.

Mildred remembers other things too. She remembers a near disastrous high school party on the barge Keuke in the early 1930's. The pleasure barge had a roof over it and it was towed out into Lake Charlevoix on balmy evenings. A band played

CLOCKWISE

The beach is back

After years of rising water, Charlevoix is in for a break this summer.

Judy and I actually took a stroll down the Lake Michigan beach from W. Dixon Avenue to Pine River Channel Sunday night and were surprised to find how much beach we are going to have this summer compared to recent years.

The shoreline was still poorly defined because of ice, but there was a wide swath of beach between the bank and the water. And there will probably be even more when the ice melts and warmer weather sets in.

Last year, the water came right up to the sandbags and rip-rap revetments that were placed along the shore to protect lake front property. Strolling that particular stretch of beach was impossible.

We also made a circuit of East Park and were equally surprised to find that Round Lake is well below levels of recent years, when it lapped over the sidewalk and splashed into the park itself.

Of course, lake front property owners spent millions of dollars protecting their property from the rising waters and most of their handiwork is now high and dry.

But it wasn't money wasted. Lake levels are cyclical, and in a few years the breakwalls may once again save the day.

since World War II at least.

But why abbreviate beautiful "San Francisco" and equally beautiful "California?"

Abbreviations might make sense when you're trying to jam everything into the tiny space allotted for return addresses. But when you have the entire face of an envelope to work with, why cramp your style?

So whenever I get a chance I have been writing out "San Francisco," "California," "Charlevoix," "Michigan," "Pennsylvania," "Florida," "Indiana," "New York," "Mississippi" and other nice looking place names that usually get abbreviated in our compulsion to do things in a hurry.

Has anyone noticed? Nope. Does anyone else give a rap? Nope.

It's just a personal fetish I plan to practice until something more interesting comes along. I wish I had a pen pal in Tuscaloosa, Alabama.

BY THE SAME token, what has happened to courtesy titles on envelopes?

A few years ago, letters were always addressed to Mr. John Jones, Mrs. Gertrude Smith, or Miss Gladys Postalthwaite.

Then something happened and I attribute it to the general confusion stemming from women's lib. Ms. reared its ugly head and courtesy titles became a matter of contention.

I remember one father who was ready to crucify a newspaper editor who referred to his daughter in print as Ms. So-and-So. The old man felt that Ms. was a slap in the face for a young lady of impeccable morals.

So, one by one the courtesy titles have been dropped in formal correspondence—and letters come addressed to John Jones, Gertrude Smith or Gladys Postalthwaite.

And they get them just the same.

Somehow it doesn't seem right.

Tax notice sent before review date

Editor,

Thank you for your patience but I want to call attention to the people of your city certain information which has occurred since my letter to you dated Jan. 29, 1988. My letter showed that the assessment was increased from $45,100 to $55,500—an increase of 23 percent; also an increase from $8,600 in 1971 by $46,900 or over 540 percent.

In your Feb. 10 issue Mike Wiesner said that the average assessment increase in the city was 6.7 percent and that some had remained the same and some even reduced. At the same time council orders a 20 percent cut in the budget.

On March 3, I wrote a letter of protest to the board of review. Shortly thereafter I received a denial of petition No. 8, dated March 8 and signed by Arlene Staley, copy enclosed. This was done six days before the board was to meet, March 14 to March 16. In other words my rights to a hearing were denied. On March 15, my agent, or proxy, a realtor who is very familiar with the property on Petition No. 60, copy enclosed, was heard but given no consideration.

Unless this is corrected, I will consider legal action when I return this summer.

George R. Bradbury

Families linked to area's past

live dance music and refreshments were served aboard, much like the Star of Charlevoix.

One night a storm came up suddenly. Fortunately all the young folk were taken off the barge safely, but it sank just off what is now the Irish Marina. This, today, has become a favorite spot for scuba divers.

Mildred says she always had a foot in both camps—socializing with the summer people, when the family rented on the Belvedere Resort, and with the year 'round people whom she knew through her grandfather's fishing business.

She says her grandfather's blood pressure would rise when he was asked by a customer, "Is your fish fresh?" She recalls with amusement that she was 12 years old when she learned that "thegodamresorters" was more than one word!

"Horseback riding in Charlevoix spoiled me for riding anywhere else," Mildred recalls. Hooker's horses used to make two trips a day across the bridge from the downtown stables to the northside paddock on the corner of Burns and Michigan Avenue. (Can you imagine what that would do to traffic today?) The English riding master used to take riders in a circle to the Lake Michigan beach and through the woods, past Mount McSaubia and home again.

Mildred, her husband Bill, their two sons and daughter have summered on Lake Charlevoix these many years. Daughter Judith teaches school in Pellston and is married to Paul Ivan, a member of the Charlevoix police force. They are expecting another little Charlevoixan very soon.

Grandmother Olive Eckinger MacArthur Scott lives with her present husband, Hugh, at LaCroft condominiums. And brother Bruce MacArthur, as everyone knows, is active in Keep Charlevoix Beautiful and the North Point fund-raising drive.

The Charlevoix descendants of Roy MacArthur are tolerantly amused when Bruce repeats the remark someone made to him recently, "Well, you don't really know how things are—you're a newcomer here!"

Newcomer or not, there are other families in town that can and do weave similar lifestyle patterns and relationships between the "summer people" and "year 'round" Charlevoixans. Former clear-cut distinctions have blended. As they say, what goes around comes around.

City Clerk Arlene Staley and board of review members say Bradbury's and other written petitions were considered on March 8 when work was finished on earlier appeals. It was thought written assessment complaints would be considered at later board of review sessions. Staley called Bradbury after receiving a copy of his letter to the editor from a council member to whom it was sent.

RAISING IMPORTANT QUESTIONS

In some cases, a lawyer may see fit to file a "motion." This is a document which raises a question that begs a ruling by the court. To support the motion, a brief, or written legal document, is submitted along with the motion. An example of a motion is questioning whether a plaintiff's complaint is too arbitrary. As with any motion, such a question has the potential to alter the entire course of a suit. In pure logistical terms, a motion and accompanying brief can take many hours to draft. Many more hours can be taken to form a response by the other side, in addition to the time it takes for the court to formulate a ruling. Such time-consuming strategy often underlies the actual intent of the motion.

For your security it is important not only to know the correct answers to vital questions, but it is imperative to know the questions to ask. ROBERT HOFFMAN, 103 Belvedere, Charlevoix, will be happy to discuss those areas that are important to the protection of your rights and security. We will provide the answers you seek as well as the answers to the questions you should be asking. For the legal representation you deserve, call

Elementary school kindergarten roundup changes

Kindergarten round-up will be held Tuesday and Wednesday, April 26 and 27.

Parents or guardians must call the elementary school prior to registration to schedule a time.

A new format for registration is being adopted this year. It will include a 90-minute mini-kindergarten class designed to give the child a feeling of what a day in school would be like.

Children being enrolled will take part in kindergarten activities while their parents go through enrollment procedures in the gymnasium.

Parents will meet in the gymnasium with principal Vane Smith, counselor Gayle Gennett and nurse Geraldine Brady to discuss bus runs, family profiles and health records. Tours of the building will be conducted.

Scheduled time periods for registration are 9-10:30 a.m. or 1-2:30 p.m. both days.

Parents must take the following items to registration:

— A certified copy of the child's birth certificate from a county clerk's office with seal affixed; church, baptismal or hospital records are not acceptable.

— Up-to-date child's immunization records.

— Guardianship papers, if necessary.

The Charlevoix board of education recommends children entering kindergarten be five years of by Sept. 1.

For further information call the elementary school at 547-3215 between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. weekdays.

School board will face options after tax defeat

says, the district could reach a break-even point. No money would be left for maintenance, except routine items, and teachers or aides that left voluntarily would not be replaced, he says.

Voter approval of a 1.8-mill increase would require only the layoff of six to 10 aides and leave other proposed cuts unmade, Olach says.

With the 1.8-mill levy, the school tax rate would match that of the past year, he says, because two levies equalling that amount have expired.

A one-mill rate creates $1 in taxes for every $1,000 in State Assessed Valuation of property.

A $50,000 value house, for instance, would generate $25 in taxes at a one-mill rate.

The district presently levies 28.925 mills.

For the past three years, it has been using money from its reserves to pay bills and keep taxes from being increased.

Not enough is left in the reserve to cover this year's anticipated cost increases, Olach says.

Big increases in health benefit, insurance and utility bills are expected, and the district will be paying teachers and administrators seven percent a year more over the next three years.

Council members thought they OK'd release of data

council meeting before Monday night. They had been discussed in private sessions with the city attorney.

Mayor Ralph McRae emerged from one of those closed sessions and told reporters council was willing to make the settlement public. When asked why no vote was being taken that night, he said council was waiting for others to act first.

ject and originator of the mediated lawsuit, and the environmental group WATCH Inc. have asked for the agreement to be unsealed.

WATCH president Jerry Puhl told council it was a mistake to approve the secrecy stipulation in the first place.

"We thought that when we came up with this agreement that we would keep from having people take sides and tear it apart and to just save problems by not making it public."

"Well, this has turned out to be the opposite. More questions and more problems have come up because of the fact it's not public."

Developer Don Berlage has said he is considering signing the request.

Roloff told the Courier after the meeting she would talking with the city attorney about having a council vote.

The lawsuit by Detroit Judge Avern Cohn, who owns a condominium near Park Place, seeks to force the city to release terms of the accord.

Casseroles top Legion menu

Plans have been completed for a casserole-salad supper to be held at the American Legion post home on Wednesday, April 20.

Supper will be served from 5 to 7:30 p.m. Tickets will be $3.75 for adults, $3.50 for senior citizens and $2.50 for children 10 and younger.

The auxiliary has received two awards for surpassing its membership quota. The auxiliary will sponsor two high school juniors at the annual Girls' State.

Need a Doctor?

For most of us, the answer is yes.

We need a doctor who can help us stay well, one who can guide our care when we're ill. We need someone who is there for us and our family in an emergency.

Finding a doctor who meets your individual needs is not always easy. That's why it's important to find a doctor before you need one when you have the time and energy to make a careful choice. Now, there is a new, free service that can help you with this important decision — HealthSource Physician Referral.

At HealthSource Physician Referral, trained staff will personally answer your call and give you the names of physicians whose location and hours are most convenient for you. Computerized files help the staff supply other information you may want about a physician's background, education and special interests.

Your call will be answered 24 hours a day.

A wall is ripped down as demolition of a house at 107 Park Avenue takes place. The house and one at 105 Park were removed as part of the construction of an 11-unit condominium building on the two lots. Developer Don Berlage says an attempt will be made to transplant trees in the foreground, using a device which scoops up roots, soil and tree.

Handling of permit dispute criticized

Miles, who earlier filed a lawsuit against the city and Berlage over the project, Harsch revoked the zoning permit.

A zoning permit is first issued by the city to indicate provisions of the city zoning ordinance have been met. A building permit is then issued by the county to indicate provisions of the county building code have been met.

Harsch questioned propriety of the basement entryway on two grounds:

- It violates the zoning ordinance maximum height restriction by requiring measurement from the new lowest grade it creates; and,
- It was not agreed to in a mediated, secret settlement of Miles' lawsuit against the city and Northern Michigan Realty Services, of which Berlage is president.

VanTreese told the Courier last week he agreed with what Harsch wrote, but said a zoning board of appeals' interpretation on basement stairwells is needed.

A special zoning board meeting was scheduled for Wednesday, April 13. Attempts to meet sooner were derailed because the board chairman, who must call the meeting, was out of the country.

Miles and Doris Lundteigen questioned why Northern Michigan Realty Services is allowed to continue construction while the interpretation is sought. Lundteigen was a leader of an attempt last summer to restrict condominium-type construction along the city's waterways.

Harsch told the Courier last week the decision of the zoning board would not alter construction of the rest of the building. The present building permit for 105 Park Avenue, which contains the second five units of the 11-unit structure, is for footings. The footings were poured the morning of Friday, April 8.

Demolition of houses at 105 and 107 Park is not affected by the construction dispute. The house at 107 was torn down a couple weeks ago, and the house at 105 came down Friday, April 8.

Berlage said he is hoping to have the first phase of construction finished by June. He did not know when the second phase might be completed.

Miles and Jerry Puhl, president of WATCH Inc., have said the detached pool the basement walkout leads to on the March 16 site plan was not part of the mediated settlement.

Puhl told council there is a possibility of another lawsuit if the city does not address violations of the accord. WATCH was a co-plaintiff with Miles in the original lawsuit.

"It is within the authority of Northern Michigan Realty Services to construct the pool in the location shown on the site plan," VanTreese told the Courier on Monday, repeating his opinion of a week earlier.

Questions about possible violations of the secret agreement would have to be resolved by Circuit Judge Richard Pajtas, said VanTreese and Berlage.

Pajtas signed the judgment, which included the mediated settlement, in Miles' lawsuit.

SURE SIGNS OF SPRING

The change of seasons is reflected by the blossoming of watercraft on and near area lakes. From the big, commercial Beaver Islander and Ironton Ferry to small pleasure craft, boats are being cleaned up, fueled up and revved up in anticipation of the upcoming season.

The Beaver Islander heads toward Charlevoix on its first voyage from St. James of the season. The ferry arrived on schedule to pick up supplies that were running short on the island.

The Ironton Ferry gets a fresh coat of paint as part of its overhaul conducted this winter in the Ferry Avenue Beach parking lot by Irish Boat Shop. The ferry was put back in the water awaiting the break-up of ice to allow it to return to Ironton.

The Meghan B breaks up ice as it moves through the marina at Irish Boat Shop.

A covering of ice on part of Lake Charlevoix doesn't prevent a quick spring spin around the open sections of the lake.

6 seeking 2 spots on school board

Six area residents, including an incumbent, have filed for election to the Charlevoix school board.

They will be competing for two seats at the Monday, June 13, election.

Seeking re-election is Ron Moore. He is joined on the ballot by William Gengle, Janet Rathke, Larry Levengood, Phyllis Hess and Jon Myers.

The two top vote-getters will be elected. Incumbent Ken Boss chose not to seek re-election.

Grange holds pancake meal

Barnard Grange will sponsor a pancake supper 5-7 p.m. Saturday, April 16, at the Grange Hall for the benefit of the Charlevoix County School for the Hearing Impaired.

Tickets for the all-you-can-eat supper will be $3 for adults and $2 for children 10 and younger.

The supper will be followed by a "pound auction", featuring a pound of anything members would like to contribute. Buyers will bid on a bag rather than its contents.

A pedro card party will conclude the evening's entertainment. The event is open to the public.

Sheriff George T. Lasater "swearing in" DARE Bear as a deputy. DARE Bear is held by Deputy Sherry Martin.

Bear aids drug program

The most recent recruit at the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department, DARE Bear has been sworn in as a deputy by Sheriff George T. Lasater.

Holding DARE Bear during the ceremony was Deputy Sherry Martin, one of two instructors in a pilot program called Drug Abuse Resistance Education (DARE).

The program is being offered to students in Charlevoix and Boyne Falls elementary schools. Assistant Boyne City Police Chief Randy Howard is the instructor at Boyne Falls School.

The program will be introduced into other schools in the county during the 1988-89 school year.

DARE Bear plays a major role in the program designed to teach children how to say "No" to drugs and alcohol.

DARE Bears were donated by Barb's Hallmark Harbor of Charlevoix. Uniforms, red with black lettering, were designed and made by Rosemary Wolf of Boyne Falls from material donated by Animal Crackers of Boyne City. Screen printing was done by Roger Nesburg of Charlevoix Screen Masters.

NATURE'S WAY

As the last pieces of ice melt into the lake, signs of the new season spring up at Ferry Avenue Beach. Cattails abound in the wetlands area purchased by the city for expansion of the beach, as ducks stretch their legs on a manmade island. With water levels more than 1½ feet lower than they were last year at this time, the tops of rocks are left exposed — resulting in a elliptical wave pattern as water rolls in all directions.

FAMILY

Judie and Bob Vollmer

Vollmer 25th anniversary

A 25th anniversary party will be held from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday, April 17, for Bob and Judie Vollmer of Ellsworth.

The party will be held at their home, hosted by their children and friends. The Vollmers have four children: Jeff and Bryan at college and Scott and Doug at home.

The couple was married April 19, 1963, at Belltower Reformed Church in Ellsworth.

Bob Vollmer owns a used car lot in Ellsworth and Judie Vollmer works for Klooster Equipment in Atwood.

Speaker coming to Baptist church

The Rev. John W. Hill, evangelist from Kalamazoo, will be at First Baptist Church of Charlevoix the week of May 8-14. Meetings begin at 7 p.m.

Hill, a veteran pastor and evangelist, has also served as a prison chaplain and mental health advocate.

On one of his trips overseas, he was part of a group that smuggled Bibles into Russia. In 1966 Hill was in Holland as a part of Billy Graham's "Amsterdam '66" and preached in Amersfoort assisted by third world evangelists.

Joseph Felio

Graveside services for Joseph H. Felio, 86, of Charlevoix and Sanford, Fla., were held Monday, March 30, at Brookside Cemetery in Charlevoix. The Rev. James K. Gardner of St. Mary's Church officiated.

Mr. Felio died Saturday, March 28, at Sanford Fla., where funeral services were held.

Born in Pierson, Czechoslovakia, on Oct. 24, 1901, Mr. Felio came to the United States as a boy with his parents, who settled in Chesaning. For many years he owned and operated Superior Fish and Chips Restaurant in Flint.

In 1968 he came to Charlevoix where he spent the summer. In the winter he went to Sanford, Fla. While in Charlevoix, he made canvas covers for boats.

On Jan. 4, 1977, he married Elizabeth Zitka.

Surviving are his wife; two daughters, Elizabeth Moore of Long Beach, Calif., and Mary Felio of Rohnert, Calif.; a son, Joseph W. Felio of Stayton, Ore.; four grandchildren; two sisters, May Haggerty of Jackson and Anne Abbiss of Palm Springs, Fla.; and a brother, Rudolph Felio of West Palm Beach, Fla.

The family suggests memorials to St. Mary's Church or Bergmann Center. Envelopes are available at Winchester Funeral Home, which was in charge of arrangements.

As we go through life from childhood to old age, there are many things that seem important to us that are purely superficial.

As youngsters it is very important to be like everybody else—dress alike, act alike, be popular. Then as we graduate into the world of business, success becomes important.

We must "keep up with the Joneses." Position becomes important. All through life, the thing to be avoided is ridicule—being different.

But what does it gain us? "come one—try it"; one of the gang says in school, "everyone does it." Not to be different you take the first drink or first "grass."

A subject in college is very difficult—"come on, forget the studying, I'll give you the answers for the exam." You graduate, but you don't have the education you should have had.

Business, too, can have many compromises to get to the top. Work, work, work but the family is neglected along the way and often lost because you were too busy becoming a success.

It is much easier to say yes to temptation than it is to say no. Jesus called his generation "sinful" and so the world remains today.

With all the temptations of everyday life it is much harder to say yes to Jesus than it is to say no.

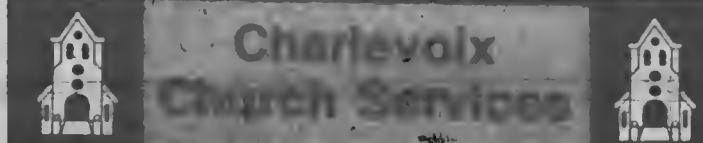

And yet how wonderful our lives could be if we could keep saying yes to Him. To be able to hold onto the ideals we had when we first gave ourselves into His hands. To stand up to skeptics and say, "Yes, I believe in the teachings of Jesus."

Then life will have meaning, direction and fulfillment. We will not be ashamed of Jesus and can rejoice that He will not be ashamed of us, but will welcome us into His Father's home.

Track teams returning to own home field

Rayder boys' and girls' track teams host two meets on their own track next week following major renovations to Kipke Field.

Hal Evans, coach of the boys' team, and Ken Plude, girls' coach, have had their athletes preparing for the past month.

The boys' team has a nucleus of runners back from a successful 1987 season when they won the CHIP Relays for the first time since 1948, placed second in the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference, won the Class C Regional meet and were fifth in the state.

Returning seniors and middle distance runners, Pat Rajewski and Sean Henne and sprinters Marv Witthoef and Mark LaBlance.

Juniors returning include Jason Whitley, hurdles, pole vault and middle distance; Dave Miller, sprints and long jump; Mike Stargardt, hurdles; Eric Moore, middle distance; Mark Dietrich, field events; Dan Chase, shot and discus, and Bob Jess, high jump.

Sophomores are Scott Miller, distance; Matt Schnackenberg, distance and middle distance; Gerhy Wiesner, middle distance and high jump; Brian Livingston, long jump, sprints and hurdles; and Matt Gibbons, long jump and middle distance.

In addition, there are 17 first-timers trying out for the squad.

The girls team has 25 athletes reporting regularly, among them 11 veterans, Plude said. "This is the team that moved from last place to third in the league in one year and shows promise of doing even better this season," he said.

Seniors returning are Betsy Haggard, middle distance runner; Heidi Ollinger, distance; and Christy Engle, hurdles.

Juniors are Linda McClanathan, high and long jumps plus sprints; Laura Wilmet, shot put and discus; Marci Whykoop, long and high jumps and sprints; Barb Haggard middle distance.

Among sophomores are Kathy Pease, sprinter; Michelle Jacobs and Kendra Ollinger, middle distance; and Chrissy Dillon, hurdles and middle distance.

The teams for the first time in several years will host several events at Kipke Field where the new track will be used for the first time.

The first home meet is scheduled for Tuesday, April 18, with the Rayders host Rogers City and Cheboygan. On Thursday, April 20, Petoskey and Sault Ste. Marie will be here.

Bill Olstrom has been named general manager of the North Division of Harbor Industries in Charlevoix succeeding Max Hosmer who retired. Olstrom started with the company 23 years ago as a mill worker. Hosmer joined Freedman Aircraft as chief engineer 22 years ago. When Harbor Industries purchased the company in 1981, Hosmer was named general manager.

Chief Machinist Mate Robert W. Chaika retired from the U.S. Coast Guard after 22 years of service. He was honored by the crew of the Cutter Mesquite, Chaika, wife Peggy, and their two children plan to remain in Charlevoix.

Big Rock shut for refueling

Consumers Power Company's Big Rock Point nuclear plant has been taken out of service for scheduled refueling and maintenance outage.

The plant is expected to be out of service for approximately two months.

Operators will replace 20 of the reactor's 84 fuel bundles, and maintenance workers will complete projects involving the reactor, turbine-generator and related equipment.

Big Rock Point's last refueling was completed in March 1987. Since then, the plant has generated almost 495,000 megawatt-hours of electricity.

Nuclear plant training certified

Consumers Power Co. has been named a full member of the National Academy for Nuclear Training following accreditation of employee training programs at Big Rock Point nuclear plant in Hayes Township.

Induction follows accreditation of five training programs at Big Rock by the Institute of Nuclear Power Operations.

The accreditation process was begun at Big Rock Point more than three years ago with evaluations of the training programs by Consumers Power personnel using INPO objectives and criteria.

Later, INPO accreditation teams observed training activities, inspected facilities and classroom materials, reviewed instructor qualifications and examined training program content.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE
FORECLOSURE SALE

On December 14, 1987, the Honorable Richard M. Pallas, Judge of the Charlevoix County Circuit Court, entered a DEFAULT FORECLOSURE JUDGMENT against William P. Holland and Marilyn A. Holland that ordered William P. Holland and Marilyn A. Holland, jointly and severally, to pay to First of America Bank-Petoskey, N.A., no later than January 16, 1988, the sum of $21,056.36, plus 14 percent interest per annum thereon commencing December 14, 1987, and

The Court further ordered that in default of such payment being made, certain mortgaged property hereinbelow described shall be sold, as a single parcel, at public auction, under the directions of the Sheriff of Charlevoix County, Michigan, and Since William P. Holland and Marilyn A. Holland have defaulted in the payment of the above described sum by January 16, 1988,

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN to all persons that on April 28, 1988, at 10:00 a.m. local time, in the Main ground-floor Lobby of the Charlevoix County Building, State Street, Charlevoix, Michigan, the following described property shall be offered for sale and sold to the highest bidder at public auction, at a foreclosure sale conducted by the Charlevoix County Sheriff, for the purpose of satisfying the amounts due and unpaid on the DEFAULT FORECLOSURE JUDGMENT, together with allowable costs of sale, additional legal costs, additional interest, other charges and expenses, and also any sums which may be paid by the undersigned that are necessary to protect its interest in the premises.

The property is described in a Mortgage recorded in Liber 163, Page 130, Charlevoix County Records, as amended in Liber 174, Page 102, Charlevoix County Records, and is described as: In the City of Boyne City, Charlevoix County, Michigan; Lot 11, Block 5, Village of Spring Harbor, now City of Boyne City, according to the recorded plat thereof, except for all coal, oil, gas, minerals, and aboriginal antiquities, being on, within, or under the described premises, which have formally been reserved to the State of Michigan; together with all tenements, hereditaments, and appurtenances thereunto belonging, and subject to other easements, covenants, and restrictions of record.

During the six (6) months immediately following the foreclosure sale, the property may be redeemed.

REFLECTIONS

The old county building

The Charlevoix County Building on State Street was constructed in 1957-58 to replace a former two-story red brick structure built as a library in the early days of the village.

The building housed the offices of the county clerk, treasurer, register of deeds, prosecutor and road commission on the first floor with the county jail and city fire department in a small wing to the north.

A courtroom occupied the entire second floor with a residence for the fire chief over the fire department wing.

A jail with related offices and living quarters for the sheriff was built in the mid-1920's.

The original structure was built when construction costs were not what they are today. Little thought was given to heating costs, for the ceilings in the old courthouse building were 12 feet high on the first floor and even higher in the courtroom.

Windows were long and narrow and a wire hanging from the ceiling held lamps over desks to light the building. In the early days kerosene lamps suspended from the ceiling were the light source.

Employees in the courthouse were nearly as few in number as the number of offices. The county clerk, treasurer and register of deeds had deputies and the sheriff had an under-sheriff. However, in the early days it is doubtful any office boasted a deputy.

Until the re-writing of the state's constitution in 1963, the county had as many as 25 supervisors, one representing every township and city ward. In 1968 the number was cut to 15 based on equal apportionment of the county's population. After the 1980 census, the number was trimmed to six commissioners.

While the numbers in the governing body decreased, the number of offices and employees in each office increased steadily.

Today's county building is a far cry from the days when I first visited it as a member of a high school government class.

Secrets release near — or far off

Suit settlement remains sealed

Release of a secret court agreement involving the city and a developer appeared imminent earlier this week — then not so imminent.

The third of four parties in the lawsuit which led to the mediated, confidential agreement signed a stipulation requesting the circuit judge free them from the secrecy agreement.

The fourth refused to tell the Courier Tuesday afternoon whether he had agreed to release of the agreement.

And the city attorney, who had expected to present the stipulation to Circuit Judge Richard Pajtas for his concurrence, left word with area newspapers Tuesday afternoon that the judge would not be signing the accord that day.

The secret agreement has caused controversy from the day it was signed, upsetting residents who had been involved in the months-long debate that culminated in the lawsuit and leading to a subsequent lawsuit attempting to force disclosure by the city.

And there has been disagreement among the parties involved over whether a pool and basement walk-out on a new site plan were part of the agreement.

The lawsuit was filed in November by David and Esther

This is the view from the upstairs windows in the westernmost unit at Park Place. The city ordered the building built at a specific point to preserve the view from Hoffmann Park, which is to the east. The trees and dirt mound are on the neighboring property.

Miles, neighbors of the Park Place condominiums being built on Park Avenue. Later joining as a plaintiff was WATCH Inc., an area environmental group.

Sued were Northern Michigan Realty Services Inc., which is building the units, and the city, which approved the project.

A mediated settlement was reached in February with all terms — except acknowledgment the building would be condominiums — sealed.

WATCH and Miles were the first to sign a waiver of the secrecy portion of the settlement.

On Monday, April 18, city council also approved the waiver — something several members thought they had done at an earlier meeting.

There had been no public council discussion of the settlement until the April 11 meeting where they discovered they had taken no action to release the agreement. There had been private meetings with their attorney.

Don Berlage, president of Northern Michigan Realty Services, sidestepped questions Tuesday about whether he had or would sign the waiver.

Although several elements in the agreement have filtered out through the site plan and other sources, disagreement over the pool has made some parties in

Miscommunications led to attempt to halt project

An attempt to issue a county stop-work order after city officials decided not to apparently resulted from miscommunication.

The series of events began when Northern Michigan Realty Services submitted a revised site plan for the Park Place condominium project.

The revised plan was filed with the city March 16, about six weeks after a secret agreement was reached in a lawsuit over the development.

The plan was reviewed by city planner Gerry Harsch, who issued a zoning permit. A copy of the permit and the plan were then sent to the county building department.

A zoning permit indicates a development plan meets the stipulations of the city zoning ordinance. The county issues a building permit stating the terms of the county building code have been satisfied.

Then David Miles — neighbor of the project who filed the lawsuit that led to the mediated, secret agreement — looked at the plans and found something he said was not in the agreement.

After talking to Miles, Harsch decided there were sufficient questions about a basement walk-out area to withdraw the

Schools seek public's views on new tax vote

A public forum on school finances will be held before the Charlevoix school board decides what to do following a millage defeat.

Voters in March rejected, for the first time in recent memory, a school tax request.

The forum will be held at 7 p.m. Monday, April 25, in the high school study hall.

The school board is hoping to get comments from the public and from staff members before deciding whether to go to the voters again.

The three-mill, two-year request for operational funds was turned down by a 754-466 vote.

Superintendent Gordon VanWieren and Vince Olach, business manager, outlined possible options for the board at the Monday, April 18, meeting — the first since the tax defeat.

The three alternatives developed by Olach are: ask voters again for the full three mills; ask for 1.8 mills; not ask for any millage increase and cut spending.

The 1.8-mill levy would keep school taxes at the same rate as they were last year. Two earlier increases expired Dec. 31.

Layoff of between six and 10 aides would be included in cuts necessary even if the 1.8 mills were approved.

If no new tax were sought, Olach said, two teachers and 16 aides would have to be laid off and other cuts would be made.

For the past three years, the district has been spending more than it has collected. Money in a reserve account built up over the years has been used to make up the difference.

There is not enough left in that account to make up the coming year's deficit, Olach said. The reserve fund is intended for use in emergencies.

Ahead-lines

Solid waste plan

The committee revising Charlevoix County's solid waste management plan expects to finish work Thursday, April 28.

The long road the committee has travelled has been bumpy — and they encountered another jolt when the new owner of the only licensed landfill in the county made a veiled threat to shut it if it is not given the OK to expand.

The planners voted not to reconsider their previous decisions against expansion of the Eveline Township site.

Following completion of the plan, county planner Larry Sullivan will take the document to DNR offices in Lansing to make sure it covers all criteria set forth in DNR regulations.

When the plan passes that test, it will be presented to the county planning committee, county board of commissioners and the 18 local units of governments for approval.

Then it will go back to the DNR for final approval. According to Sullivan, the DNR cannot withhold approval if the plan meets all its criteria.

"They just can't say they don't like it," Sullivan said.

The committee must now also address the matter of an agreement between Emmet and Charlevoix County about use of the landfill. That discussion will begin Monday, April 25, at a joint meeting in Petoskey.

Also still to be decided, according to Sullivan, are methods of waste disposal on Beaver Island, placement of transfer stations (green boxes) around the county and recycling centers.

In a letter to the committee, dated April 7, Michael E. Andrews, staff vice president of Waste Management of North America Inc., wrote that if the committee did not permit the company to expand its landfill size by 60 acres, "I respectfully recommend that the County develop a contingency plan to address potential closure of the landfill by the end of this year."

The committee has twice voted against Waste Management's request for landfill expansion from 40 to 100 acres. Andrews' letter asked for another hearing by the committee in an effort to change the voted.

Wetlands essays earn scholarships

Essays on Charlevoix County wetlands have earned scholarships for three Charlevoix High School seniors.

The scholarships are sponsored by WATCH Inc., an area environmental group. Although the winners all came from Charlevoix, the competition was open to students from five area schools and judges did not know whose essays they were reading.

Earning a first place $1,000 scholarship was Sean Henne, who looked at the wetlands dilemma from the viewpoint of a crayfish.

Henne plans to attend Lawrence University in Appleton, Wis., and study English and philosophy.

Second place and a $500 scholarship went to Eric Richardson, who wrote that effective management can stop the obliteration of wetlands.

Richardson will attend Alma College in Alma, Mich., and study secondary education and physical science.

Scott DeYoung's essay on how the state wetlands law is working also earned a $500 scholarship for third place.

DeYoung will be attending Grand Valley State College in Allendale, Mich., and study business and finance.

WATCH received 50 application requests and 15 essays in its third annual competition. Judges were members and non-members, including a developer.

WATCH's Jerry Puhl, Eric Richardson, Sean Henne, Scott DeYoung and WATCH's Michelle Rick-Biddick

SONG OF ORCONECTES: HOW A CRAYFISH VIEWS THE WETLANDS DILEMMA

By SEAN HENNE
 (Translated from the crayfish)

Morning, and a cold wind comes crying crying through the grasses on a gray dawn Awakened, I look out at a diminishing world and wonder what has happened, what has gone wrong.

They came unexpectedly, into a land of natural abundance, a land where all of creation seemed to be a limitless gift to be used as they saw fit. We do not blame those first arrivals; their hearts and minds were preoccupied with the survival of their families. They drained the swamps and planted in the lowlands for the necessity of food. But these that came after, these ones who call themselves developers, they should know, and the people should know the impact of what they propose to do.

A developer is a special breed of man with ready and able arguments. He knows that people will pay him more for land along a waterfront than for land elsewhere. But waterfront land grows ever more scarce, as the population increases, and the developer now moves into those "undesirable" pieces of our world, the wetlands that nobody wants.

What is a wetland, you ask that Orconectes should be concerned, who lives his life in the water, not on land? I say to you with sincerity that it's those who love the water and who depend upon our lakes, great and small, who should reverse the wetlands. For the wetland, existing as it does, where land and water meet, is the place where runoff from precipitation is stored, and gradually filtered into the lake. This is important to both our races, crayfish and human, for two great and all important reasons: the control of flooding, and the maintenance of water quality.

Let me sing of rising water, of powerful water that rips away the shoreline and erodes the land from beneath your feet. Let me sing of the wasted greed of men who would build along the lakeshore only to see their work drowned in the rising tide. For the wetlands store vast quantities of water, allowing some to evaporate, filtering some into the groundwater, and releasing the rest naturally and gradually into adjacent bodies of water.

It is said among my kindred, even sung in the earliest songs of teaching, that without the wetlands the lakes would consume the land and become vast and shallow, not deep and clear as seems to be the human ideal.

This does not concern Orconectes as much as the other important impact of the wetlands on the lakes, the control of pollution both natural and man-made. When the rains come, their runoff brings into the wetlands fertilizers and pesticides from farmlands and heavier chemicals and petroleum from the highways and cities.

In the wetlands such substances are filtered out and kept from entering the lakes because the speed of the water is slowed enough to allow unwanted particles to settle out. Some beautiful wetland plants, such as the water hyacinth, are even capable of removing or breaking down chemicals in polluted water.

It is not only the unnatural chemicals that are stopped by wetlands, however, but organic pollutants also. The process of lake aging, which men call eutrophication, is caused by the introduction of nitrogen and phosphorus into the water. These two elements are essential to the growth of algae on the lake surface.

Dying algae and other organic materials that wetlands normally filter out, collect on the lake bottoms, allowing water plants to grow and eventually turn beautiful fish-filled lakes into ponds. This process is perhaps not as dramatic as the erosion caused by flooding, but it is just as final in its inevitable result. The golden sun pauses halfway across the sky.

Perhaps it bears, far below, a lonely voiceless cry. In the marshes birds are silent, bullfrogs cannot sing. They are powerless to stop it, this all-consuming thing.

I can tell you of flooding, of pollution, of eutrophication. I can sing of a bleak future devoid of wetlands. But these things mean not so much to me as what I must sing of now, while the sun pauses halfway through its daily journey.

I will lift my voice to the sorrow of habitats lost, of lives endangered or irrevocably altered. The beginning of the aquatic food chain begins in the wetland, in those organic materials and tiny organisms that the wetland filters into the lakes.

Almost all species of fish in our area are dependant in some way on the wetlands, either for the food they supply, or for use as spawning grounds. Some fish species that humans deem extremely valuable, such as the

Charleviews

Town generous, not greedy

Editor,

Negative letters about Charlevoix have gone far enough. I've lived here all my life, and both my grandparents homesteaded here over 100 years ago. I love nostalgic things, and a few years ago, negotiated the gift of the Harrah House to the community, and have helped with many other preservations of historical memorabilia. I believe in saving something that is of quality, but I fail to see the value in keeping something junky just because it is old. I am tired of listening to all the negative letters about changes here.

It is refreshing to the eye to see the city so beautiful when you cross the bridge and look around Round Lake. The stone planters and the trees and flowers make the Edgewater Inn very nice to behold. Many of the old buildings were fallen-down, dilapidated old structures, and I can remember well when every time the wind blew from the east, the smell of fish guts was wafted from one end of Bridge Street to the other.

I peddled milk for many years to 105 and 107 Park Avenue, the two houses in front of Don Berlage's new creation on the channel. Let's be honest, now that the old buildings are gone, and the new building and Hoffmann Park are prominent, it is beautiful. You can see the lake more today than you could five years ago. Let's not let envy cloud our thinking.

A letter in the Courier last week said we were greedy, and I disagree. Charlevoixians (townies and summer residents alike) are very generous. When you can get 800 people in the street year after year to plant petunias, and pitch in to help when someone is in need financially or otherwise, I am proud to say that there isn't a town more generous in any of the needs which may come up. This is grassroots America, and I am happy to be a part of it. The local people raised thousands of dollars for the finest fire engine north of Chicago, and at present are raising thousands to save one of the most lovely sand dune areas anywhere, and have also given generously to the petunia project, and I, for one, appreciate what they have done.

Another very unique thing which many may not realize, Charlevoix is very fortunate to have two fine banks which are locally owned and governed by local boards of directors. This is almost unheard of in this part of Michigan.

We also have very fine schools, churches, and we have one of five municipally owned ski areas in the entire state. We're the only town on the Great Lakes that boasts four beautiful sand beaches, with a nice municipal golf course, and many other recreational facilities, as well as the most beautiful harbor on the Great Lakes. We are fortunate, indeed.

Last Thanksgiving, when Marilyn and I took the new petunia truck and the chamber's big float to the Detroit parade, we stayed overnight in the big motel next to Bronner's in Frankenmuth. The owner called me aside and asked how a little town like Charlevoix could afford a beautiful rig like that, and I told him you can afford anything you want, if you are willing to work for it. He said they could never do anything like that in their town, and remember Frankenmuth is the No. 1 tourist attraction in the state.

So, please don't say Charlevoixians are greedy.

There's an old expression "Keeping up with the Joneses." Let's not kid ourselves, we are the Joneses.

Last, and most important, you can travel the world over, and you will never find a nicer, more caring people than in our little town, condos and all.

Rainbow Shoppe thanks volunteers

Editor,

Volunteer. The definition of the word volunteer is... one who does, but doesn't have to. As we are celebrating "Volunteers Week," I just could not pass up the opportunity to put all the volunteers of the Rainbow Shoppe on that so-called high pedestal.

Every October at our annual appreciation dinner for these nice people, this president sings their praises. Now I have the opportunity to tell every reader of this fair paper just how great these people really are. We now have almost 200 volunteers giving of their time and talent at the Rainbow Shoppe. To think we started with seven individuals only five years ago. We have come a long way, baby!

Weather-wise, we had a very bad winter, but we had very little absenteeism through it all at the shop. One would think these volunteers had taken the mailman's oath, "Neither rain, nor sleet, nor snow..." Talk about dedication and loyalty, they certainly have it!

So hats off to our beautiful volunteers, if it were not for everyone of you we would not be able to open our doors at the Rainbow Shoppe to serve the community.

Rita Orłowski, President
Board of Directors

The new Toronto

Many years ago, a Canadian humorist — I think it was Stephen Leacock — wrote that he hoped to die on a Saturday, because he didn't want to spend another Sunday in Toronto.

I know what he meant. My last visit to Toronto was sometime in the mid-1960s. The city in those days was little more than an overgrown small town — a sleepy cluster of sedate red-brick business places surrounded by sleepy neighborhoods of equally sedate red-brick homes.

The chief entertainment in downtown Toronto on a Sunday afternoon was listening to street-corner evangelists warning that the end of the world was at hand.

You half-wished they were right, because almost any kind of excitement would be preferable to shuffling up and down deserted Bloor Street peering through the windows of shops that had buttoned up for the weekend.

Last weekend, however, the Clocks had an opportunity to visit Toronto again and I'm happy to report that the Toronto of yore is no more. In its place has risen a fabulously exciting world-class city — right up there with New York, Chicago, Tokyo, San Francisco, Montreal and Washington, D.C.

Intimidated by horror stories about traffic congestion in downtown Toronto, we booked a room in a motel in North York, about 12 miles from the central city. It was there we left the car while we wended our way downtown by bus and subway Sunday afternoon.

When we finally surfaced, we were surrounded on all sides by a forest of skyscrapers, their windows sparkling merrily in the late afternoon sun.

And although it was Sunday, the streets were jammed with people from all over the world, most of them young, happy and in love.

English and French were the most common languages overheard, but Chinese, Japanese, Korean, Filipino, Italian, German and Spanish also were fairly common.

Since we hadn't eaten since breakfast, we made tracks for The Old Spaghetti Factory whose reputation for fine food and whimsical ambience had preceded it. We weren't disappointed.

Then to the CN Tower, the tallest free-standing structure in the world where fast elevators whisk you to an observation deck so high up you can hardly see tiny planes landing far below on one of the off-shore islands in Lake Ontario.

Monday, we drove downtown, jostling with street cars, rubber-tired trolleys, trucks, buses, bicycles and hordes of automobiles. I began to understand that part of Toronto's success as a city depends on a multifaceted transportation system, capable of moving a million commuters, visitors and shoppers a day. Probably more.

Our business was at the American Consulate, a pleasant older building on picturesque University Avenue. You might not give a second thought to the huge concrete planters in front, until you realize they are the first line of defense against attack by urban assault vehicles. Behind them the sidewalk bristled with hollow steel pipes filled with concrete. The driveway at the rear of the building was blocked by a steel baffle, which could be lowered mechanically to admit vehicles. The whole complex was surrounded by a high iron fence.

Unnecessary precautions for an American consulate in a friendly nation? I hope so. But they gave me an uncomfortable feeling just the same.

Since our consulate business necessitated a six-hour wait, we had plenty of time to explore Toronto on foot and discovered a three-and-one-half mile underground concourse linking the basements of many of the major buildings. The concourse is lined with attractive shops, fountains and gourmet restaurants.

We left Toronto at the height of the rush-hour exodus and at one point found ourselves in one of 12 westbound lanes on two cheek-by-jowl expressways, with no one traveling less than 100 kilometers an hour.

Surprisingly, there were just as many vehicles entering the city as leaving it.

We found Toronto to be as exciting a metropolis as you're likely to find in North America. We plan to return again as soon as our financial resources recover.

Only next time we'll probably take the train from Sarnia and avoid the traffic.

Trip from North to South: Differences but similarities, too

by PEG OHLE

After spending a month in the sunny, warm weather of the Carolinas and Virginia, we returned home just in time to awaken to a winter wonderland of snow-capped trees and questioning daffodils. However, it was not an unwelcome sight because we knew it was all part of the coming-of-spring in northern Michigan.

We spent a week of our vacation in an island beach cottage near Charleston, S.C., where surf-boarders challenged the waves morning, noon and night.

Sitting on the deck of the cottage, we watched their adventures and marveled at the physical stamina the sport calls for. Of course, most of the surf-boarders were high school and college kids.

Cottagers on Lake Charlevoix can watch sailboats and water skiers during the summer months, but that action is mild compared to the sights and sounds of the ocean.

The waves roar through the night and the tide comes and goes on a predictable schedule to leave shells and flotsam and jetsam along the wide, sandy beaches.

Once again we were reminded of what it means to the public when the whole beach area is accessible by ramps at almost every street end.

The City of Charleston has a history dating back 350 years to a Spanish settlement. It has many Revolutionary War-time structures; a waterfront that includes Fort Moultrie, site of the first decisive American victory in the American Revolution; Fort Sumter, against which was fired the first shot of the Civil War; and one of the world's largest modern naval bases, with all its submarines, minesweepers, destroyers and tenders.

Charleston has done a good job of preserving its old houses, churches and places of business, due largely to the respect for tradition and family so common in the south.

On a tour of the city, a colonial home was pointed out as being occupied by the ninth consecutive generation of the original owner.

In the old market place of Charleston, we saw native women weaving baskets from sweet grass, just as the Ottawa Indians of northern Michigan did for so many years.

However, the South Carolina government has taken steps to protect sweet grass sources from destruction by modern development, as has happened here.

In Columbia, the capital city of South Carolina, we visited the Statehouse, a pre-Civil War building that is full of statues and relics of persons and things pertaining to the "War Between the States," as most southerners call that conflict.

The South Carolina House of Representatives was in session, engaging in the same restless maneuvering we have seen in other legislatures around the country.

After we left Columbia, we read that an investigative reporter for a local newspaper had received a Pulitzer prize for uncovering the problems of Jim and Tammy Bakker and the PTL Club, located in Columbia.

Unfortunately, we had forgotten they were located in Columbia or we could have reported on what that playground looks like.

Up-and-coming young men in Charlevoix will be glad to learn that the briefcase-carrying professionals around the South Carolina capitol building all wore khaki trousers and navy blue blazers with three brass cuff buttons on each sleeve.

We spent a couple of days in Myrtle Beach, S.C., leaving just before the onslaught of college kids on Easter Vacation.

IN TRUTH

Although most people possess a healthy confidence in our judicial system, it is not a perfect system. People still form the basis for the law's interpretation and application. Judges, juries, witnesses, and lawyers all possess human characteristics which can alter the direction of a verdict. Therefore, just being right is not always enough to win a case. The truth still remains to be proven. This requires that a lawyer present the case in its most effective terms, to an impartial audience, while parrying the legal thrusts of his opponent. In reality, it takes skill and experience to ensure that elementary truth will prevail.

When you come to ROBERT HOFFMAN, 103 Belvedere, Charlevoix, you have the benefit of the professional and experienced staff who will afford you the competent legal representation you seek. We will start with a thorough analysis of your needs, discuss the options available and recommend and pursue those avenues that will best serve your legal requirements. For experienced and capable representation, call

Petunia planting prince, princess picked

This year's Operation Petunia will have an added attraction: A prince and a princess.

The Keep Charlevoix Beautiful board has agreed with a suggestion from Frenchle Novotny to include royalty from the middle school in the planting festivities.

Charlevoix Middle School students have been enthusiastic helpers in the annual planting of 50,000 petunias along U.S. 31.

says KCB president Bruce MacArthur.

Selected by the student body as the first Petunia Prince and Princess are Jody McGlinick and Sheila Siegwart.

They will ride in the Venetian Festival street parade on a new Operation Petunia float being designed and constructed by Marilyn and Dale Boss.

The petunia watering truck-chamber-of-commerce float entry (which won prizes in Detroit, Traverse City and other parades last year) won't be broken up, though, says MacArthur.

Pulling the prince and princess float will be this year's KCB drawing prize, a Chevrolet S-10 pickup truck from Davis Chevrolet.

KCB has decided to offer the winner of the drawing either the truck or a cash equivalent—probably about $3,000.

The truck and other items will be given away during the annual KCB auction on Labor Day.

This year's petunia planting will take place at 5 p.m. Thursday, May 26. The planting, which usually takes about an hour, will be followed by a free picnic for volunteers.

The KCB board has also approved new board members, replacing two who have resigned because of work-related time commitment problems.

Darrell Linder will replace Dave Knight, and Novotny will replace Elaine Martin.

Knight will remain as a writer-consultant for the organization.

Old South has new look

tonk reputation during the summer months, its mild weather and wide beaches seem to beckon many middle-aged and older persons during the winter.

Myrtle Beach is well known by many northern Michigan men and women who served at one of the many military installations in that area.

Both North and South Carolina are divided into three geographical sections: the mountainous or hilly highlands to the west, the agricultural midlands in the center, and the Atlantic sea coast to the east.

This diversity of geography makes possible a diversity of industry, from tourist, cotton-textiles, tobacco, shipping, and paper, to the more modern chemical plants.

And the area is booming. New roads, new factories, new shopping centers, new subdivisions, really whole new towns are springing up everywhere as the natural beauty, moderate climate and employment possibilities of these once languid states are promoted.

With it all, however, comes the aftermath of rapid growth. Newspapers headline problems of solid waste disposal, a problem clearly visible by overflowing dumpsters at crossroad locations, and water pollution from industrial wastes, especially in the lowlands.

Farther north, in Charlottesville, Va., we revisited the home of Thomas Jefferson on a mountaintop overlooking the Shenandoah Valley. The ingenuity and brilliance of this founding father of our country is evidenced everywhere in the house he designed and built.

We were disappointed to learn, though, that his servants apparently buried their solid waste right outside the kitchen door, a fact that artifacts from archeological diggings are now proving.

We also found a modern bit of ingenuity in Charlottesville when we happened upon a laundramat called "Suds." We all know that suds is an integral part of laundering as well as a topping for beer. This laundramat was divided into two sections: one section for washing machines and dryers and another for a beer-dispensing bar complete with large-screen television and current magazines such as Rolling Stone. Wash day is happy hour day in this laundramat.

At Arlington National Cemetery we visited the grave of our grand-daughters' great-grandfather Ohle, a Civil War veteran. The price of war is particularly evident here when one looks down upon the thousands and thousands of soldiers' graves.

At the request of nine-year-old grand-daughter Rebecca, we visited Fort McHenry in Baltimore, where Francis Scott Key wrote "The Star-Spangled Banner" in 1814 after seeing it still flying over the fort following a night of bombing by the British. Literature handed out at the fort indicated that it was not Betsy Ross, but another woman who designed and made the first American flag. We have chosen to forget this woman's name because we know it was Betsy Ross who made our first flag. A picture of her sewing the flag with needle and thread was in our fourth grade history book.

The Carolinas and Virginia are good places to visit in April and May, before the weather there becomes too hot and also before we can spend much time outdoors in northern Michigan. While we were in Charleston, supermarkets and nurseries were selling flower and vegetable plants for the garden (a full two months before they will be available here), and the spring flowers, including azaleas and camellias were in full bloom.

We now await a second spring of daffodils (just out), tulips, forsythia, apple blossoms, and lilacs.

Contrary to what you may believe, many everyday items cost no more at 7-Eleven than they do at the huge supermarkets. Yet 7-Eleven gives you front-door parking and no long lines. Just check these prices to see how little it costs to get the good things easy!

AROUND THE TOWN

One sign of spring is the return of tree trimmers who were in town last fall.... Two trimming crews from Nelson Tree Service and a clean-up crew are due back in town before the end of the week to pick up where they left off when winter came....

Nelson was hired last summer to prune up to 2,200 trees along city streets and in the cemetery.... The company discovered many trees needed more work than anticipated and work went slowly.... Now they're returning to trim about 800 trees still to be pruned.

Another sign of spring — the annual pickup of unwanted household items — is officially a thing of the past, but don't think about dumping that old freezer out in the country.... The city has signed a contract with Waste Management Services that makes cleanup a weekly event....

For the same amount as last year's one-time pickup, Waste Management has agreed to pick up old furniture, appliances and lawn trash year-round.... The only things that were picked up in past years by city crews using front-end loaders but won't be collected now are construction materials, vehicle parts, sod and rocks....

When you get ready to try out your boat for the first time this spring, keep an eye on the lake bottom.... Water levels in Lake Charlevoix and Lake Michigan are 20 inches lower than they were at the end of March a year ago....

That's still eight inches over the long-term average, but 22 inches below the all-time March high set two springs ago.... There are reports of boaters hitting bottom and running aground in downstate Great Lakes tributary lakes, such as Lake Wacatawa in Holland....

The six-month Army Corps of Engineers' forecast calls for a four-inch rise during April with continued seasonal increases through June.... By the end of September, the lakes are expected to be about eight inches below their 1987 level.

Ferry Beach ramp rates set; No charge for beach parking

After several weeks of heated debate -- usually among residents in the audience -- city council has approved boat launching fees at Ferry Avenue Beach.

Heeding objections, council members opted for a fee schedule which may be harder to administer but gives residents a break.

There will be no fee for parking cars to use the beach, and residents or taxpayers will not have to pay to use the launch ramp.

Seasonal stickers will be available at City Hall. The season will begin May 1 and run through Nov. 1. Resident commercial ramp users will pay a $50 annual fee and non-resident commercial users will pay $100.

Non-residents using the ramp will pay a $2 fee if they have no trailer (such as a pickup carrying a fishing boat) and $3 if they have a trailer.

Seasonal rates for non-residents will be $12 without a trailer and $20 with.

The rates must meet with state Department of Natural Resources approval and were presented to the DNR in an earlier letter.

City staff proposed charging to use the boat ramp to pay for having an attendant at the launch area for the first time.

Several residents and council members have complained about bottlenecks at the ramp and about unregulated commercial use of the facilities.

The attendant will also be keeping an eye on a new fish cleaning station being installed and donated to the city by the Lake Charlevoix Trout Tournament Inc.

In order to accommodate residents who complained about early plans to permit beach parking only along Ferry Avenue and across the street, the parking scheme was revised.

About 30 new spaces for cars will be created by paving a 20-foot strip along the edge of the parking lot.

There will also be specially-marked spaces for stopping for short times to view activity on the lake.

The city has long-term plans to relocate Ferry Avenue and expand the beach.

A 300-foot lakefront lot purchased a couple years ago will provide for added beach and will aid in moving park facilities into a different configuration.

The city is awaiting word from a bonding attorney on whether money to relocate the road can be obtained by selling interest-bearing bonds.

Northern Pike, spawn only in wetland environments, they seek the protection offered by wetland plantlife.

I have often listened at night to the splendid orchestra of sound produced by piscine musicians. To me they have a sound of danger as well as beauty, but though they sometimes prove predatory to my kinsmen, I do not sing for the "development" of their spawning grounds, for these places are also the source of my life, and that of so many others.

Who can put a price on the lives of the thousand of wetlands inhabitants? Fish and amphibian, vertebrae and invertebrae, reptile, bird, and mammal — all species are represented in a wetland environment.

To say that they are not in danger is a falsehood; I know the figures: Michigan has lost more than two-thirds of her wetlands thus far; more are lost each succeeding year. Many of the animals and plants that mankind has labeled endangered depend on wetland habitats, notable examples are the bald eagle and the lynx.

Even the animals that don't necessarily live in wetlands habitats use them in times of need. During droughts, while the rest of the countryside is devoid of water, animals are attracted to the places where water is stored in such large amounts. In the winter the larger mammals, such as the white-tailed deer, use the wetlands as the primary means of forage and shelter.

Know then that the removal of a wetland means more than the destruction of an "unwanted" swamp or marsh. It also spells the end of a whole system of life, from tiny zooplankton to the most valuable of game animals. Evening comes and the pale moon rises a symbol of hope in our despair We know who bathe in its silvery light that not all of you are unaware And indeed knowledge is our greatest advantage. I might sing to you of stronger laws, of tax benefits for those protecting their wetland property, but these things are but actions of a foreign body to the individual citizen.

He must be made aware of the importance of these vital bits of property, both to himself and to the plants and animals he shares the world with.

If every man could walk in the marshes under the silvery moon and hear songs like this one in his own heart, our wetlands would be safe. But because this is not possible, we must sing to them, as I do now, of floods, and polluted lakes, and endangered ways of life. We must carry the song on to those who cannot hear it for themselves.

Then will government action be truly successful, and the destruction of wetlands end, when the sun brings a warm wind into the marsh grasses and Orconectes sings not of sorrow.

School accreditation extended

Charlevoix High School's accreditation by the North Central Association has been extended through the current school year.

"Once in every seven-year cycle, each NCA school must undergo a comprehensive, self-study followed by an NCA team visit," said principal David Smith.

"Charlevoix High School was last evaluated in 1984. In the interim years, the school is accredited on the basis of its report on conditions in the school and on such supplementary information as the North Central Association requests. This continued accreditation means that the conditions for effective education exist in the school."

Cemetery lot, use fees raised by city

Fees for using Brookside Cemetery are rising.

City council has approved the first major fee increases in several years after comparing them with those in surrounding cities.

There were about 40 burials in the city cemetery last year, Treasurer Richard Brandt says. It costs the city about $40,000 annually to maintain the facility.

With the new rates, riverbank lots increase from $150 to $225.

Adult lots increase from $150 to $175. The average in six Northern towns surveyed is $179.

Adult grave openings will cost $175, up from $125 and slightly above the $172 average.

Baby lots and baby grave openings remain at $50 each, below the $75 average for each.

Rates double on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

Council has decided against requiring flat markers in new sections of the cemetery. A new section will soon be opened.

A policy on plantings and floral arrangements is being developed by city staff and will be presented to council later.

St. Mary's kindergarten sign-up set

Kindergarten round-up for St. Mary's School will be held on Monday, April 25.

Parents may take children who will be five years old by Dec. 1 for an informal readiness evaluation.

Children will be attending a mini-kindergarten session with teacher, Anne Kelly, while parents meet with principal Sr. Lydia Korson, for enrollment information and a tour of the facility. Barbara Holmes, volunteer nurse, will be on hand to discuss health records and immunizations.

The mini-session is scheduled 9-11 a.m. with parents joining potential kindergartens the last half-hour to observe their children in the classroom setting.

Parents will also be able to view a readiness film from the Gesell Institute and a video depicting the St. Mary's kindergarten program.

Parents are requested to take a certified copy of the child's birth certificate and up-to-date immunization records to the session.

For further information call St. Mary School at 547-9441.

Autumn bandshell start forecast

An autumn start is being contemplated for replacement of the East Park bandshell with a Victorian-style pavilion.

A citizens' committee has been working on the project for the past couple months with city parks and recreation commission chairman John Hess.

City council, which must give approval to final plans, has indicated general satisfaction with the project.

Hess is scheduled to update council on plans, probably at a Monday, April 25, work session.

A model of the pavilion is being prepared by architect Jack Begrow, said City Manager Mike Wiesner.

The group's proposal would replace the 30-year-old, unfinished stage with an enclosed pavilion along the side of Wharfside Market at the south end of East Park.

Named for longtime school band director Clarence A. Odmark, the pavilion would have twice the floor space as the present structure and would be capped by a roof with a built-in acoustical shell.

Also planned are restrooms for performers and the public, storage areas, electric sound system and lights, and a ramp to Bridge Street for equipment access.

The fish pond would be replaced by a half-moon shaped waterfall, which would flow into a 10-foot-wide pond along the front of the pavilion.

There has been talk of reterracing the park, but Hess said the present proposal fits well with the present terracing.

There has also been talk of attempting to begin the work in the spring, perhaps in phases.

Ironton Ferry begins runs

The Ironton Ferry began seasonal operations Monday, April 18, following a complete overall in drydock at Irish Boat Works in Charlevoix.

The ferry will operate from 6:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily, carrying vehicles at $1.50 a crossing. Coupon books will also be available at $20 for 20 rides.

Surplus food distribution scheduled

The monthly distribution of surplus food will be held from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Wednesday, April 27, at the VFW Hall in Charlevoix.

Food available will be cheese, rice, dry milk and butter. Distribution will end early if supplies run out.

Eligibility is based on family size and income.

A household not headed by a senior citizen may have maximum income of $7,212.50 for one person and $2,450 for each additional person.

Income for families headed by a person 60 years or older cannot be above $9,232 for that one person or an additional $3,040 for each other family member.

But committee members now want to wait until after summer activities — such as Venetian Festival and Waterfront Art Fair — are completed.

The pavilion project could cost $110,000 or more. Hess said a final cost projection could not be made until the building design is completed.

About $56,000 is available through city and private bank accounts, some of which have been in existence for years.

Previous attempts to complete or replace the bandshell have failed for various reasons.

City council would have to approve of the plans since the pavilion would be on city property. And council would have to approve expenditure of city money for the project.

The rest of the money would come from private contributors. A letter is being sent by the committee to former band members, asking them for donations.

Donations may be sent to Clarence A. Odmark Pavilion, care of Joni Henry Olach, 300 Alice St., Charlevoix.

Need a Doctor?

For most of us, the answer is yes.

We need a doctor who can help us stay well, one who can guide our care when we're ill. We need someone who is there for us and our family in an emergency.

Finding a doctor who meets your individual needs is not always easy. That's why it's important to find a doctor before you need one when you have the time and energy to make a careful choice. Now, there is a new, free service that can help you with this important decision — HealthSource Physician Referral.

At HealthSource Physician Referral, trained staff will personally answer your call and give you the names of physicians whose location and hours are most convenient for you. Computerized files help the staff supply other information you may want about a physician's background, education and special interests.

Party plans in works for senior class

A parents' committee will meet with senior class members to discuss plans for an all-night graduation party.

The party is being proposed by the parents as a way to provide a safe, fun evening, says Janet Rathke.

The substance-free party would be held at Victory Lanes in Petoskey from 11 p.m. to 7 a.m. following the June 5 commencement ceremony.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday, April 25, at the high school — probably in the study hall.

The committee is also looking for contributions of money, items for door prizes or food from the general public.

For further information, call the high school at 547-3222.

Events planned for Grange Week

Several events have been planned by Barnard Grange during state Grange Week on April 24-30.

A hymn sing will be held at the Grange Hall Sunday, April 24, at 7 p.m. under the direction of Mary Warner.

A Community Citizens' Award will be given to a person who is not a Grange member for outstanding service to the community.

The Grange will sponsor sheriff department fingerprinting of students at Charlevoix Elementary School on Wednesday and Thursday, April 27-28 and at St. Mary's School on Wednesday, May 4.

At a dance at the Grange Hall on Saturday, April 30, Gordon and Adeline Mummery of Petoskey will have the Country Kickers demonstrate Texas line dancing.

Spring band concert set

One hundred sixty instrumental music students at Charlevoix middle and high schools will present their annual spring concert next week.

The concert will be presented without charge in the Charlevoix High School gymnasium at 8 p.m. Tuesday, April 26.

The seventh grade band and the high school symphonic band will play selections they will use in the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association State Festivals. The bands qualified for state competition by earning first division ratings in district competition.

The seventh grade band opens its program with three selections it will play at the junior high festival Saturday, May 7, at Clare.

These numbers are "The Happy Whistler March" by Andrew Balant, "Creole Suite" by John Klinton and "The Lone Star Overture" by John O'Reilly.

Among offerings by the eighth grade band will be two numbers on the lighter side, "Masterpiece" by Paul Mauret and "Soul Explosion" by John Caruso.

The symphonic band will open with three numbers it will play at the state festival at Grand Rapids Ottawa Hills High School Saturday, April 30. They are "La Fiesta Brava" by John Edmondson, "The Good Daughter Overture" by Nicoli Picini and "Apokrypos" by Mike Leckrone.

The John Philip Sousa Award and Distinguished Service Award will be presented during the concert.

Prior to the concert, there will be a 7 p.m. meeting of the Band Boosters in the high school study hall.

Condo height question resolved by panel

A specific question about a disputed basement walk-out has led to a general ruling on how to measure building height.

At issue was a opening from the basement of the Park Place condominiums on Park Avenue.

The walk-out would lead to a swimming pool area between the building and Pine River Channel and to a stairway down the hillside toward the channel.

The city temporarily withdrew approval of a zoning permit for the second phase of construction because it was thought zoning ordinance height limitations were being violated (see related story).

The zoning permit withdrawal was then put on hold until the zoning board of appeals could issue an interpretation on building measurement.

The zoning board was asked by city staff to determine where building height should be measured from if doors or windows dip below commonly accepted grade.

Normally grade -- and building bottom -- is measured from the sidewalk, foundation or some other obvious spot.

City planner Gerry Harsch pointed out irregularities in that thinking on past projects and, along with city attorney Jeff VanTreese, asked for a ruling on where to measure from.

After nearly two hours of debate, the zoning board approved, on a split vote, a formula based on building code ventilation requirements.

Under the current building code, a building must have an area equal to four percent of basement floor space open for ventilation.

The zoning board decided the sub-ground level would be counted in building height if openings exceed that percentage.

The outdated building code section the zoning board had access to at the time it made its decision showed the area to be open as two percent.

Voting for the interpretation were John Dixon, Bob Kern and Kevin Whitley. Voting against it were Patty Sitzema and Larry Sullivan.

For the specific question facing the city, Harsch said he would determine what size openings would be allowed without causing a violation of the height restriction.

Miscommunication led to 'stop work' try

zoning permit approval.

(The project already had permits for construction of the first phase of the two-phase building, for footings and foundations and for demolition of houses already on the site.)

Harsch dictated a letter to Don Berlage, president of Northern Michigan Realty Services, saying the walk-out violated the agreement and violated zoning ordinance height limits.

After that, Harsch talked with city attorney Jeff VanTreese, who talked separately about the plan with Miles and Berlage.

VanTreese and Harsch decided they needed an interpretation of a section of the zoning ordinance from the zoning board of appeals before they could determine whether the height cap had been violated.

Berlage was informed the zoning permit was not being lifted, pending a determination by the zoning board.

Several days later, Miles checked with county building inspector Howard Carson to see why he had not issued a "stop work" order cancelling the building permit for footings.

Carson told him he had not been formally informed -- by letter -- by the city that the zoning permit was pulled. Carson told him he was told a letter was coming the day the permit was withdrawn but he did not receive one, Miles said.

Miles, then, obtained a copy of Harsch's letter from City Hall and took it to Carson. Carson says he then checked with City Clerk Arlene Staley to make sure the letter was valid.

Staley told Carson she typed the letter for Harsch, but told the Courier she did not know until later that Harsch and VanTreese had decided to hold off on enforcement.

Carson then had a letter written informing Berlage the building permit was being held up. The footings had been poured earlier that day.

After telephone conversations among Harsch, VanTreese, Carson and Berlage, the city requested that Carson not issue the "stop work" order.

Carson complied with the city's request. The "stop work" order was not posted at the construction site.

The zoning board's decision a few days later appears to have resolved the issue of building height (see related story) from the city's standpoint.

Problem solvers at state event

For the fifth straight year, Charlevoix Middle School will be represented at state Future Problem Solving competition.

The event is sponsored by and held at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor on Friday and Saturday, April 22-23.

Team members are Anne Schairbaum, Mindy Nolrot, Paul Sheets and Keith Carey.

To qualify for the state finals, a team is required to solve three practice problems during the school year. The 1987-88 problems were Space Travel, the Elderly and Acid Rain.

The top 15 percent -- this year 40 teams -- are eligible for state competition. More than 14,000 Michigan students participated in the program.

Lawsuit terms remain secret

the suit more talkative.

Miles, WATCH president Jerry Puhl and Ward Kuhn, who is their attorney, say a free-standing pool overlooking the Pine River Channel was not in the agreement.

City attorney Jeff VanTreese and city planner Gerry Harsch both say the pool meets with city approval. And Berlage says disputes over the agreement would have to be resolved in court.

Kuhn says his clients would have to start a new lawsuit if they wanted to challenge the pool placement or some other part of the plan.

Since the original lawsuit has been settled, he said, there is no way to re-open it to iron out differences.

Kuhn said Monday, April 18, he had not heard from Puhl whether WATCH was contemplating such an action. Attempts to reach Puhl were unsuccessful.

Obituaries

Charles E. Terrill

Charles E. Terrill, 37, of Arlington, Va., died Monday April 11, at Arlington, Va.

A memorial service will be held at First Congregational Church of Charlevoix at 3 p.m. Saturday, April 23. The Rev. Philip Schairbaum will officiate. Earlier a service was held at the chapel at Arlington National Cemetery.

Born in Charlevoix Nov. 7, 1950, the son of Delbert R. and Eleanor (Purola) Terrill graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1968 and from Michigan State University. He worked for Congress where he was employed by several congressmen. He was a member of the Lutheran Church.

Surviving are his parents of Charlevoix and Nokomis, Fla., one brother, Delbert R. "Chip" of Vienna, Va.; a sister Cathie Terrill of Charlevoix; two nieces and a nephew of Vienna, Va.; an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Robert (Alma) Jess of Cleveland, and a great-uncle, Paul Sihlo of Lake Worth, Fla.

Lynn G. Seligman

Lynn G. (Rabb) Seligman, 79, died April 18, 1988, at his Eveline Township home.

Funeral will be 10 a.m. Thursday, April 21, at the Winchester Funeral Home, Charlevoix. The Rev. Lowell Anderson of the Assembly of God Church will officiate and burial will be in Brookside Cemetery.

Mr. Seligman was born May 30, 1908, in Attica, N.Y., and moved to Hammond, Ind. as a boy. He graduated from Hammond Central High School.

He was employed by the Shell Oil Co. and Phillips Petroleum Co. prior to moving to Charlevoix in 1938.

On June 1, 1934, he married the former Jessie M. Byers at West Crown Point, Ind. They lived in the Hammond, Ind. area until moving to Charlevoix. She preceded him in death March 30, 1968.

Mr. Seligman was an avid fisherman and was owner and operator of the Hidden Valley Resort on Nowland Lake.

Charles A. Gallagher

Charles A. Gallagher, 85, of Charlevoix, died Saturday, April 16, at Borth's Health Care of Petoskey.

A funeral mass was celebrated at St. Mary's Church on Tuesday, April 19. The Rev. James K. Gardiner was the celebrant. Interment was scheduled in Northside Catholic Cemetery in Pittsburgh, Pa., on Wednesday, April 20, with Msgr. Francis Rooney officiating.

Born in Carnegie, Pa., on July 24, 1902, Mr. Gallagher was raised in the Carnegie-Pittsburgh area and attended Duquesne University.

On July 24, 1929, he married Alice H. McGary in Pittsburgh, where they lived until 1969 when they moved to Pontiac. They moved to Charlevoix in 1971.

He was district manager for seven states for Lyon Metal Products headquartered in Aurora, Ill. He retired in 1955. Mrs. Gallagher preceded him in death on Nov. 18, 1982.

He was a member of St. Mary's Church in Charlevoix and the Holy Name Society and Legion of Mary at Charlevoix. He was the founder of South Hill Council No. 3084, Knights of Columbus, in Pittsburgh and served as the council's first Grand Knight; was Faithful Navigator, Fourth Degree, of Father Deny's Baron Assembly of Pittsburgh and a member of the Gaelic Arts Society of Pittsburgh.

Surviving are a daughter Carl Morris of Charlevoix; six grandchildren, Deborah M. Baldwin of Tecumseh, Pamela A. Phreet and Theresa L. Faust, both of Adrian, Cheryl M. Schafer of Deerfield, Carol Elizabeth Morris of Ann Arbor and Charles W. Morris III of Walled Lake; 12 great-grandchildren, and a sister Loretta Seren of Boston.

Bruce Donaldson

Graveside services for former Charlevoix resident Bruce Donaldson, 78, will be held at Sunset Hill Cemetery in East Jordan at 1 p.m. Saturday, April 23.

Mr. Donaldson, who lived in Harbor Springs in recent years, died Jan. 2 at Emmet County Medical Care Facility.

A native of East Jordan, lived in Charlevoix where he was employed at Brown Motors, Charlevoix County Road Commission and Hamilton Boat Yard. He later was employed by Cook Contractors in southeastern Michigan before returning to northern Michigan following retirement.

He is survived by his wife, Mary Helen; three sons, Richard of Tucson, Ariz., Charles of Laurel, Md., and Thomas of Cleveland Heights, Ohio; a daughter, Anne Gothro of Las Vegas, Nev.; 16 grandchildren; 14 great-grandchildren; and a sister, Edna Johnston of East Jordan.

father's salary was but $300 a year. As the elder Beecher sat one day drinking his tea, his wife began to murmur gently but sadly. The bills were due. She had no money. She didn't see how they would last for another day. For her own part, she expected to die in the poor house.

At that moment, her husband dropped his hand heavily on the table. His eyes sparkled as he said, "My dear, I have trusted God for 40 years, and I'm not going to begin to doubt him now."

Said Henry Ward Beecher, "That woke me up. It was better than the catechism. In all my own sickness, poverty and trouble I have never forgotten that scene or my father's words."

That's why we need a season of revival. We need reminders of the closeness to God that we are supposed to enjoy. We need to experience afresh His strength and care. If we are right with God, He will never forsake us. If something has come between us and Him, He stands ready to remove whatever it is and bring new life to your heart.

Personally, I'm still hoping for spring but a revival of God's Spirit in every heart would be even better!

Tennis team attempting to recapture last year's magic

The Rayder tennis team opens its season with a tough act to follow.

"We're coming off our best season yet when we finished third in the state," said coach Erik Lundteigen. "That will be hard to duplicate because we graduated six of the top 10 players.

"We are starting this year with numbers, 40 candidates, which is good. However, we will not be fielding an experienced team."

Among the veterans returning are seniors Marty Joy, regional No. 3 singles champion last season, and Scott DeYoung who with sophomore Ryan Holmes was regional doubles champion. Senior J.D. Boydston is also a letter-winner.

Among the juniors returning are No. 4 regional champion Wes Cumberland, along with Charlie Witthoef and Dan Bickersteth, both strong contenders for starting positions.

Other strong players, said Lundteigen, are seniors Heather Dietrich, Jenny Miller, Amy Kelly and Todd Holtzman; juniors F.L. Dammann, Bob Sell and John O'Brien and sophomores Tim Jervis, David Phul and Chad DeYoung. "We have many girls out this season. I'm hoping to schedule several girls meets. The candidates we have out, both boys and girls, are sophomores, juniors and seniors. There doesn't seem to be any interest in the sport among the freshmen," Lundteigen said.

SPORTS

Rayders split opening games

The Rayder baseball team opened its season by splitting a double header with Central Lake, losing the first game 13-8 and winning the second 15-1.

In the first game Central Lake took a 10-4 lead by the end of three innings and then coasted to victory. The Rayders used three pitchers with Shawn Putman starting and Steven Hopkins and Scott Denny relieving.

In the second game, Hopkins pitched a three-hitter for the victory.

Track boys take pair of firsts

Charlevoix finished first in two events as the boys track team lost its season opener 106-26 to Traverse City.

Marv Witthoef placed first in the 100-meter dash with a time of 11.4 seconds.

The 440-yard relay team of Witthoef, Dave Miller, Brian Livingston and Mark LaBlance finished in front in 46.7.

Second place finishes came in the following events: Two-mile relay: Scott Miller, Pat Rajewski, Sean Henne, Eric Moore.

110-yard high hurdles: Whitley.

100-meter run: Scott Miller.

High jump: Mark Dietrich, Bob Jess, Gehry Welsner, tied.

400-meter run: Whitley.

800-meter run: Rajewski.

Two mile run: Scott Miller.

100-meter dash: 2. Kathy Miller, Rajewski, Moore.

Softball squad short on veteran players

An inexperienced Rayder softball team is opening its season with non-conference games.

"We have 17 candidates reporting for practice, among them eight freshmen. So we will lack experience," coach Becky Gengle said.

Among veterans are two seniors, Lisa Smith, a first baseman, and Anna D'Angelo, a center fielder.

Juniors returning are Stacy Gebott, pitcher and shortstop, Kris Morrow who will alternate between second and shortstop, and Darsi Spencley, an outfielder.

Other candidates are senior Brenda Sutton, outfield and second base; Kristi Pearsall, infielder; and sophomores, Melissa Boss, first base and outfield; and Marty Bragg, catcher and infield.

The freshmen are Stacey Skeel, third base and pitcher; Cookie Lundy, catcher; Anne Hogan, third base and outfield; and Becky Rautio, Heather Radle, Mindy Caldwell, Angela Levensgood and Andrea D'Angelo, all candidates for outfield assignments.

Gengle said probable starters would be Gebott on the mound and Lundy behind home plate, Smith, Morrow, Sutton and Skeel in the infield and Anna D'Angelo, Spencley, Bragg or Hogan in the outfield.

Track girls finish third in debut triangular meet

The Rayder girls track team, in its first outing of the season, placed third among three teams.

Traverse City won the meet with 120 points, Benzle Central came in second with 35, and Charlevoix scored 19.

Following are the finishes for the Rayders:

High jump: 3. Sandy Fershee and Marci Wynkoop, tied.

100-meter low hurdles: 4. Tracee Smith.

100-meter dash: 2. Kathy Pease.

Long jump: 4. Wynkoop.

100-meter run: 6. Jennifer Keller.

440-yard relay: 2. McClanaghan, Pease, Walker, Rochelle Engle.

400-meter run: 7. Haggard.

300-meter low hurdles: 3. Smith.

200-meter dash: 5. Pease.

100-meter run: 3. Haggard, Christy Engle, Heather Keller, McClanaghan.

BUSINESS

What's News

Michigan Officeways Inc. of Charlevoix has selected John Willman Associates of Traverse City to provide sales and marketing activities for office and furniture systems in a 15 county area not previously covered by Michigan Officeways.

Glen's Market and Family Center is seeking pledges for a store-managers' bike-a-thon raising funds to sponsor area Special Olympians. Last year the local market sponsored 10 athletes. Pledges or donations are being sought.

SHOPTALK

JACQUE MERTA

Jacque Merta is executive director of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce.

At the fifth annual Governor's Conference on Tourism, there was a dynamic presentation given by Phil Wexler who has also been a featured speaker at conferences of the American Hotel and Motel Association, the National Tour Association and Days Inns of America.

Mr. Wexler asked participants, "what is the primary function of business?" Audible answers all were the same... "to make a profit."

Interestingly, it was pointed out that making money, a profit, is the primary goal of all businesses. When in fact, the primary function of every employee is to acquire and maintain customers.

Sounds simple doesn't it? All businesses want their customers to come back again and again and at the same time to add new customers. And what makes people come back? Being able to acquire what they need with quality service.

If like businesses offer the same product at competitive prices, then the only advantage one business can have over the other is better service.

Before inflation hit in the 1970s good service in the United States was commonplace, but with the escalating prices of the 70s people began to wait on themselves. As a result, customers lost service and according to Thomas Peters, co-author of In Search of Excellence: "In general, service in American stinks."

Now Americans are missing service and want it back. Luckily, in smaller cities such as Charlevoix, the businessman and customer know they will have a likelihood of doing repeated business with one another, therefore friendly, good service is more the norm.

This is one major reason why people return to Charlevoix year after year, generation after generation. You, the people of Charlevoix, are sincerely friendly. Let's keep our quality of service by always learning and improving upon our skills.

State Amateur's return to Belvedere 'doubtful' in 1990

The decision to halt a quarter-century string of Michigan Amateur golf tournaments in Charlevoix is not a reflection on the community, says the sponsor.

And it doesn't mean the Golf Association of Michigan is ending its nearly 40-year ties with Belvedere Golf Club.

The GAM has just opted for spreading the tournament around to top state courses, says executive director Jeff Rivard.

This year's Amateur - June 21-25 - will be the last of 26 straight at Belvedere. Thirty-seven of the 77 Amateurs have been played at the course. The GAM announced last October that it would be holding the prestige event at Country Club of Jackson in 1989.

No sites for other years have been announced. But Rivard says returning to Belvedere in 1990 is "doubtful."

He says Belvedere could ultimately be part of a five- or six-site rotation. To be included in a half-dozen of the 600 or so courses in the state is "quite a compliment," Rivard says.

The GAM has been satisfied with its arrangements in Charlevoix and last year raved about the excellent condition of the course.

"If the event wasn't so good up here, we wouldn't be in the position of offering it to others," Rivard says. "It's kind of a Catch 22."

The addition of sectional preliminary play in recent years had a role in allowing the GAM to move the tournament around the state, Rivard says. Now only 168 players use the main course, where, in past years nearby courses were used to narrow the field.

More than 800 entries are expected this year, breaking last year's record.

Michigan's is the No. 1 state amateur outside the Sunbelt; with the possible exception of New York's, Rivard says, and is the sixth largest in the nation.

"And I think that's a tribute to this place," Rivard says. Besides joining an Amateur site rotation, there is the possibility Belvedere could be the site of other GAM events, Rivard says.

An May meeting between Belvedere and GAM officials may yield more information on that possibility, he says.

When the GAM made its announcement in October, Belvedere president Carl Schumacher said the three-day state Mid-Am. championship might be an event suited for Charlevoix.

The Mid-Am. for players 25 years and older, would have many of the long-time area favorites involved and could be played in the fall.

People associated with the state Amateur have said college players in recent years have complained they don't get the pampered treatment at Belvedere they do at newer, larger courses.

Also, Belvedere is known as a putt and chip course, not to the liking of some of the longer, stronger hitters.

A community group headed by former mayor Hal Hill is working on arrangements for this year's Amateur.

"The job we do this year will have a bearing on when they return," Hill says.

Rivard says, however, that the decision to leave Belvedere is based on a change in philosophy, not on any dissatisfaction.

"The question is asked: What did we do wrong? The answer is: Nothing," he says.

Registration for this year's tournament closes at 5 p.m. Friday, April 29. The nearest sectional will be played at Michaywe in Gaylord.

Second try under channel

Michigan Bell is preparing to make its second attempt to tunnel seven utility cables under Pine River Channel using state-of-the-art technology. Last fall, sand and unfired couplers proved too much of a burden in a first try that yielded one of seven usable cables. From the top of the bluff on Park Avenue at Hoffmann Park to Pine River Lane, a well-drilling unit will try to poke the cables 89 feet below the surface. Park Avenue between State and Bridge will be closed for about the next two weeks because of the work.

REFLECTIONS

When gymnasiums had horsy smell

Gymnasiums are something everyone takes for granted today. Charlevoix presently boasts three such structures, one at each of its schools.

But how many people who live here today realize that Charlevoix did not have a gymnasium until 60 years ago? It's the present middle school gym at the corner of Mason and Grant Streets, which was opened for its first game in January 1928.

The present high school gymnasium where Rayder games are played today was opened in 1961, and the small gym at the elementary school in 1968.

But, you say, Charlevoix had basketball teams back at the turn of the century or shortly thereafter, and they had to have a place to play.

They did. It was on the third floor of the Charlevoix Opera House on Bridge Street at the highway bridge. It extended from the present Pine River Building to the channel until it was razed when the present bridge was constructed in the late 1940s.

In fact, it was last known as the Alhambra Hotel, one of Charlevoix's many summer hotels. A well-kept lawn now marks the spot.

I've heard all sorts of stories about when the opera house was utilized as a gym. I've heard tell that the players had one basketball. On numerous occasions, the ball went through a third floor window and ended up in the Pine River Channel, holding up the game until it could be retrieved and dried off.

The next basketball court was a roller rink on the south shore of Round Lake where players shot through the rafters. This was in use until the early 1920s when the scene shifted to Hooker's garage at the corner of State and Antrim Streets.

M.B. Hooker and Son owned that corner building. The section where the loading docks at Oleson's is now located was a garage with a cement floor. To the rear of this section, the Hooker family had a stable where riding horses were housed during the season.

The garage section, I might mention, was used for storing the vehicles owned by summer residents and their chauffeurs usually rented rooms in nearby homes.

When the garage section was rented by the school, bleachers were installed on the east side of the structure behind an office which has since been razed. A wooden floor, built in sections, was constructed and used as a playing floor.

All games were played there. When you returned home from a game, you were met at the door by your mother who took out garments and boots and placed them on the front or back porch to air because the smell from the horse barn always was present in the gym section though the animals were never housed there.

The present middle school gym with its balcony, was opened in January 1928.

It became more than a gymnasium. For the first time the school boasted a stage for class plays, for band concerts, for graduation ceremonies. Until then, plays and graduation were held at the Palace Theater (now Cinema III).

When the present high school was opened in 1960-61, the gymnasium on May Street came into use.

Charlevoix's first real gymnasium, however, continues to be used for many events and was renovated in the early 1970s.

The balcony is now closed off but the room still stands proudly as the community's first honest-to-goodness gymnasium.

Going over the top

Jason Whitley muscles his way to victory in the low hurdles race against Patoskey and Sault Ste. Marie. Track events returned to Kipke Field last week following the complete renovation of the athletic field.

Conferences help stretch city season

Efforts to expand Charlevoix's economy by attracting "shoulder season" events are beginning to pay off.

The first major conference with participants from throughout the state is scheduled for late May - with a possible visit by the governor included.

The conference joins three major events scheduled for this fall.

Several local groups and individuals have been working to stretch the summer season beyond the traditional tourism boundaries of Memorial Day to Labor Day.

Inclusion of conference rooms at Edgewater Inn and formation of a Convention and Visitors Bureau coupled with bridge-area hotel construction to provide the facilities needed to attract out-of-towners' meetings.

But it has taken the efforts of individual residents to convince major groups to schedule events in May-June, and September-October, says Jacquie Merta, executive director of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce.

The May conference sponsored by the Michigan Municipal League and Michigan Department of Commerce was the result of work by downtown revitalization planner Carol Sullivan.

Ed Whitley, city utility department director, convinced the Michigan Municipal Electric Association to plan an October meeting here.

Keep Michigan Beautiful will hold its annual meeting in Charlevoix in October because of the efforts of Bruce MacArthur and Dale Boss of Keep Charlevoix Beautiful and Lou Orlowski of the Charlevoix Historical Society.

And members of the Barnard Grange, largest in the state, persuaded the state Grange to hold its annual convention in Charlevoix in October.

"The Last Resort: A Conference on Waterfront Development and Tourism" will be held May 26-27 at Edgewater.

Weathervane Restaurant is providing meals. And nearby hotels are participating, some with special room rates. About 150 participants are expected for the two-day conference.

There are about 200 hotel-motel rooms at the bridge, says Harold Krusch, president of the Convention and Visitors Bureau.

Lawsuit secrets released but disagreements continue

The secrecy is gone. The acrimony remains.

Contents of a secret agreement stemming from a lawsuit over a condominium development have been released.

Waiver of the confidentiality provision by the four parties involved - including the city - followed public arguments over whether other terms were being violated.

Although the litigants said they hoped the fight was over, three of them appeared willing to continue jabbing.

The dispute involves an 11-unit condominium going up on Park Avenue. Involved have been at least 15 governmental public meetings, 18 site plan alterations, 800 signatures on petitions and three attempts to order construction halted.

David Miles, neighbor of the project at 105 and 107 Park Avenue, sued developer Northern Michigan Realty Services and the city in November.

Miles' suit said the city erred in granting some zoning law variances and in not considering others and was wrong to rule a hotel could be built on the site.

His suit was at first funded, then joined, by WATCH Inc., an area environmental watchdog organization.

At the urging of several community members, the four parties - some reluctantly - sat down with a mediator and in nine hours put together an agreement.

The confidentiality pact - backed by $25,000 fines for anyone who talked - began to unravel after a new suit was filed against the city seeking to compel disclosure.

It unwound further when Miles and WATCH began complaining an outdoor pool on a revised site plan violated the agreement. The city, at the same time, questioned a basement entryway but later resolved that issue.

After city council voted to release the agreement (something members thought they had done weeks earlier), Northern Michigan Realty Services president Don Berlage

Downtown panel's priorities, projects

After months of separately saying they haven't been communicating well with each other, the city council and Downtown Development Authority are getting together. Council members have been invited to attend the DDA's meeting at 5 p.m. Wednesday, May 11.

During the meeting, they are expected to tour the White house on Clinton, talk with a representative of Oleson Food Stores about parking problems and look over the DDA's list of goals.

Some council members have expressed dissatisfaction with the DDA, saying it should be concentrating its efforts on sidewalk replacement and parking. They say the panel is involved in too many other projects.

DDA members, meanwhile, have indicated their desire to re-do downtown sidewalks, but say budget restraints and prior commitments force them to spend elsewhere.

They are hoping to obtain bonding authority to secure money to get at the sidewalk project. A recent state Supreme Court decision supported the DDA concept but did not answer questions about where they could be used.

The DDA finances its projects by diverting tax dollars generated by new construction in a specified district from their normal recipients. The school district, intermediate schools and county agreed to the diversion, although the school district and intermediate district are not happy about the arrangement.

The relationship the DDA has with council was apparent at the Monday, April 26, council meeting. Before the meeting, council members took their own tour of the White property.

The lot and house were purchased with DDA funds with the council's blessing. Staff and officials have not decided whether to tear down the house or try to retain the front portion of it, while turning the back yard into parking lot.

The property abuts the Erber parking lot created last year and is surrounded to the rear by parking at the fire station, off Mason and behind the former Elizabeth's shop (soon to be Country Clutter).

The DDA has recommended retaining the building, but the majority on council are ready to bulldoze it.

Although a tour and discussion are scheduled for the joint meeting, four council members indicated their minds are made up. Only Bill Haggard, of five speaking about the house, suggested waiting until after the DDA has a chance to express its views.

There is $7,500 in the DDA portion of the city budget for demolition of the building and graveling of the lot to form a temporary parking area.

The final decision is up to council.

Comments, survey help decide next school tax move

by SARA GAY DAMMANN

Asking for public response to the defeat of the Charlevoix School's request for three mills, Superintendent Gordon VanWieren moderated a meeting of 60 persons Monday, April 25.

He asked his audience to discuss alternative solutions to school millage problems and fill out a questionnaire advising the school board how to set priorities.

VanWieren said three mills would allow the school to operate at the current level and account for inflation. With any reduction in the millage, the school board would have to look at what and where to cut.

A three-mill increase was defeated March 28 by voters. In his opening statement, VanWieren said three alternatives exist: "Do nothing, ask for no additional millage; ask again for the full three mills; or ask for something in between."

The hour and a half meeting was low key, as the superintendent and schools' business manager Vincent Olach, fielded questions dealing with the impact of possible passage of fewer mills, the reasons behind the defeat of the three-mill request, and suggestions for enlisting more public support for school millage before the June election.

VanWieren said the one-page questionnaire will be available at the superintendent's office and school offices, but should be returned by Friday, April 29, to help the board make a decision at its Monday, May 2, meeting.

"In my 11 years in Charlevoix, this is the first millage defeat," said VanWieren. "Why?" he asked the audience.

"Poor timing" — "too close to income tax time" — "this was the one tax we could vote against," people stated. Others questioned if the schools had done enough to get out the "yes" vote.

"Instead of selling millage, sell the school system," suggested another parent. "People are voting against taxes and not for the school."

One school board member noted that the majority of the audience were in some way connected with the school system, as teachers, administrators, school board members or members of their families. Only a handful of parents and other citizens attended.

Olach reviewed a pending Michigan joint Senate-House bill which would shift the burden of school support away from property taxes with limits on millage levels, a two percent increase in sales tax, and the earmarking of 100 percent of the net state lottery revenues for education.

Under the proposed legislation, which could become effective,

AROUND THE TOWN

When people fly in to Charlevoix, one of the first things they can see now is a videotape of the city.... The first of at least two planned tape machines is in operation at the airport, with continuous showings of a video designed to attract industries to the area....

Another tape player will be located in the marina office to catch the attention of boaters.... The idea behind the tape is to entice manufacturers vacationing in the area to consider putting factories here....

The tape, focusing on the city industrial park while extolling municipal and private services, was produced for a joint Chamber of Commerce-city industrial development committee.... It is also being sent to firms requesting information about the area and is being used by a Detroit area real estate company trying to sell lots in the industrial park.

They started lining up just after midnight and waited until 7 a.m. Saturday when tickets went on sale for the second concert of the summer at The Castle.... When Wharfside Market owner Mike Greeley pulled up to open his store, he was greeted with a cheer from the 50 or so people waiting for him....

All 350 tickets Wharfside had in stock for the May 29 AC-DC concert were gone by early afternoon.... The concert is the second of the season for Castle Farms Music Theater, which is getting an earlier start this year.... White Snake is scheduled May 21.... There are expected to be about seven or eight concerts this summer.

Who says government has no sense of humor?... A couple months ago, the Downtown Development Authority was talking about traveling to Lansing for an inspection of a sidewalk program similar to one to be undertaken here.... City council didn't see the justification in the expense and pooh-poohed the idea....

Last month, the city completed purchase of a house on Clinton Street from Betty White and has been debating whether to tear it down and put up a parking lot.... City staff set up a tour of the property, which is kitty-corner from the fire station end of City Hall, and the other night council looked through the building....

So the line going around City Hall was that the DDA couldn't go to Lansing, but it was OK for city council to tour the White house.

They're going to clean up this town.... Besides the change in spring clean-up that makes junk removal an every-week event, an effort is underway to get volunteer help in beautifying the cemetery before Memorial Day....

Mayor pro tem Shirley Roloff has been talking about getting a Saturday work bee organized with help from area churches.... And City Manager Mike Wiesner says anyone who wants to help on a daily basis can call Leonard Dubey at the street department.

Ed Heise, manager of Serenity House-Alano Club, stands beside the open kitchen from which thousands of cups of coffee are dispensed each year.

Alano Club serves up encouragement ... along with lots and lots of coffee

by PEG OHLE

When Serenity House-Alano Club opens its doors for a special public showing, many Charlevoix residents will learn for the first time what goes on in one of Charlevoix's century-old houses.

Serenity House-Alano Club is located on Mason Street across from the Post Office. An open house will be held noon to 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, April 30-May 1.

Alano Club is marking its second year as a clubhouse and as a meeting place for many self-help organizations: Alcoholics Anonymous, Alanon, Alateen, Narcotics Anonymous, and Adult Children of Alcoholics.

Ed Heise, member of a pioneer Charlevoix family who owned the house for many years, is now manager of Alano Club. He told the Courier about how the old family homestead became what it is today:

"A man who came here summers, an alcoholic, used to stop by and visit with me almost every day when I lived upstairs. One day he asked me if the house was for sale. I said it was and he bought it, updated it and donated it to Alano Club."

Today, Alano Club provides a light, airy meeting place and kitchen complete with coffee pot and a cheery greeting to all who enter. Also, an auxiliary building in the rear of the house has just been completed, providing more space for larger meetings, lectures and movies.

Alano Club is governed by a board of directors, one of whom is Frank North. North explained that the annual overhead of Alano Club is about $30,000 to cover the major expenses of heat, light, literature, soft drinks and coffee.

He believes Alano Club probably serves more coffee each day than many restaurants in town.

Alano Club is supported by donations, the Community Chest, Rainbow Shoppe, membership fees, and such fund raisers as yard sales and bowl-athons.

"We want people to know about us. That is why we are having an open house," North said. "We want to expand our services into a larger library of videotape equipment and provide more speakers. We want

Government not responsive to residents' beach feelings

Editor,

For several weeks the newspapers in this area have faithfully reported the continuing controversy concerning the Ferry Avenue Beach in which the Charlevoix City Council appears to be out of touch with the democratic form of government.

Ferry Avenue is the most popular beach in Charlevoix with the city residents. Formerly the Depot Beach received that honor until the city council arbitrarily changed swimming lessons from the Depot to Ferry Avenue, so that of necessity Charlevoix parents presently must take their children to Ferry Avenue Beach.

Now, the city council proposes to pass an ordinance reserving two-thirds of the parking spaces there for boaters, adding more boat launching ramps and building a fish cleaning station in the parking lot.

There have been several meetings devoted to this question. At all of them all the city wards have been generously represented by concerned parents who do not want a fish cleaning station on or near their children's swimming area and who do want ample parking space without making the picnic area smaller. All they want is a clean beach (air, water and sand) and a place to park beside it. Petitions have been presented and picketers have marched in freezing weather outside council chambers.

If a poll were taken of all the eligible voters in Charlevoix (whose taxes pay for this beach!) unquestionably the majority of those voters would direct council not to enact the ordinance.

How dare a group of men, having been vouchsafed a position of authority by their electorates, presume to tell a majority of the people, they govern, what those people want and what is good for them.

No wonder Americans resented and rebelled against George III and Adolf Hitler.

Lyla Arvilla

The ordinance, setting-up boat launch fees for out-of-towners and commercial users, has been approved by city council. The fish cleaning station, which was endorsed earlier by council, was not a part of that ordinance.

Tape helps shut door on summer troubles

But I'm not the only one in town who got clobbered by the IRS this year! And things don't look any better for 1988.

What can one do? Fortunately, I have a great idea that will help me recoup this unexpected financial blow from Uncle Sam. My idea will sell better than T-shirts! Not only will everyone in Charlevoix want to buy one of my tape cassettes, but all the summer visitors will want one too!

In fact, there's a huge market all over the country for this hot item. Wherever there is a family rusticated in a cottage in the woods, wherever there is a reunion on a mountain-top, wherever there is a family gathered together on the seashore — every mother or father will be freed from the monotony of repeating the same old litany.

Instead, he or she can turn on the tape and merrily go on his or her way to enjoy his or her private vacation just like everyone else!

My tape would go something like this, accompanied by appropriate soft background musical themes:

"Good morning. I hope you have a nice day! The cups are in the dishwasher. Please close the refrigerator. Don't let the dog out. The newspaper is on the living room floor. The beach towels are in the dryer. Please take the garbage when you go. We don't want any flies in the house. Please close the screen door. No, the pop's all gone. Take the marketing list. The car keys are on the hook in the front hall. Don't let the baby drink the cat's milk! CLOSE THE SCREEN DOOR! Please don't leave your shoes in the middle of the room. Your bathing suit is not dry. I don't know where your brother went. Turn the stereo off!"

Now this could be repeated until the tape goes into the noon-time mode:

"Please close the screen door. Don't let the dog in, he's wet! Hose off your muddy shoes. The bread is in the frig. Use a plate! Wipe your fingers on a towel.

CLOCKWISE

BOB CLOCK

The year with no summer

A couple of hundred miles due east of Charlevoix on the rock-ribbed shores of Georgian Bay, old timers still talk about a peculiar year in the first quarter of the century when everyone eagerly awaited summer.

But it never arrived. Instead, the inhabitants endured a cold, wet spring which turned into an early fall and that was that.

Sorry, folks. No feature attraction this year. I forget just which year it was, because my Canadian kinfolk never refer to it by its proper number. Instead it is called "Nineteen-Hundred-and-Froze-to-Death."

It was a year when ice in the bay long overstayed its welcome and the water never had a chance to warm up.

It was a year of long, gray, rainy days that kept the sun from warming the earth.

It was a year when the prevailing winds were from the north, chilled by arctic permafrost.

It was a year when sluggish bees failed to pollinate fruit trees and seeds would rot in the clammy soil before they could germinate.

"Nineteen-Hundred-and-Froze-to-Death."

I am beginning to wonder if two such years can happen in the same century?

Few people in Charlevoix can recall a spring as dismal as the one presently in progress.

Swimmers are beginning to wonder if the lakes will ever warm up enough for skinny-dipping in July and August.

But the weather's odd. Monday evening something akin to a warm spell crept into town. The wind died and the temperature rose. The Rev. Bob Reid of Dixon Avenue stepped onto his front porch, sampled the unexpected warmth with outstretched arms and wondered aloud how long it would last.

Seconds after he went back inside, a cold blast of air blew in from Lake Michigan dropping the temperature a good 10 degrees in a matter of minutes. Tuesday morning dawned raw and cold, with a hint of snow in the air.

I read an article in National Geographic magazine a few days ago about Anchorage, Alaska. The author said that cold, snowy weather after the middle of April has a profoundly depressing effect on the population, characterized by increased domestic violence and other forms of anti-social behavior.

Winters in Anchorage, of course, are longer and darker than they are in Charlevoix, but I sense the same desperation among Charlevoixans as spring, like a shy kitten, refuses to leave the wood box.

CRITICS TELL me I missed one important landmark in my war on abbreviations, declared a couple of weeks ago.

Some people, I am told, have the audacity to whittle Charlevoix the Beautiful down to "Cv," "Chr," or "Cvx."

In fact, Sandy Beaudoin says letters addressed to "Cvx, MI," actually have been delivered to Charlevoix by the U.S. Postal Service.

Anne Carey Stanley writes that she misses Charlevoix (underscoring) "terribly" since she moved away, even though she and her husband have made their home in places with such attractive names as Vernon, Connecticut, (underscoring) and Jackson, Mississippi, (underscoring) in recent years.

"Someday, we hope to move to Charlevoix (underscoring) and enjoy the wonderful world I grew up in. It'll be nice for Grandpa and Grandma Carey, too!"

Ah, Charlevoix the Beautiful. Char-le-vwa la Belle. It does have a way of getting to you, doesn't it, frigid weather and all?

Cassette aids with summer chores

We're all out of suntan lotion. I don't know where your sister went. Please answer the phone. The baby is ringing the doorbell. CLOSE THE SCREEN DOOR! This room is full of flies. Please wrap the fish in paper. Wipe the floor, it's slippery. The mail isn't in yet."

Now this could be repeated until the tape goes into the late afternoon mode:

"Please rinse the sand off your feet OUTSIDE. Don't bring that sick bird in here, my child. Sorry, we're out of ice. There's enough hot water for one more shower. The calamine lotion is left from last summer. That's a darling picture. CLOSE THE SCREEN DOOR! Who wants to set the table? You're ordering pizza? Please don't videotape us NOW! I'm not dressed. Who used all the shampoo? This book is all wet. What's the weather prediction for tomorrow? Sorry, we only have one TV set."

Now this could be repeated until the tape goes into the bedtime mode:

"Please don't slam the door! The baby is sleeping. Oh, Oh. Wash the Petoskey stones in the laundry room. Matches are in the kitchen. At THIS time of night? DON'T SLAM THE DOOR! Look in the medicine chest. Yes, that is a beautiful sky! No, there's no more pie. I smell skunk. Where's the dog? Who has an alarm clock? Good night and sleep well!"

If someone is interested in marketing this helpful tape, just get in touch with me. With luck we could even plan a sequel slanted at Florida golfers and yachtsmen.

Merchant marine status altered

Merchant Marines who served on oceangoing vessels during World War II now qualify for veterans benefits, says Ronald G. Geer, Charlevoix County veterans counselor.

Merchant seaman who served in active oceangoing service from Dec. 7, 1941 to Aug. 15, 1945 are now considered veterans and are eligible for all veterans benefits. Also eligible are civil service crew members aboard Army Transport Service and Naval Transportation Service vessels in oceangoing service.

40 trees for State Street

The first of 40 young trees is planted along State Street as part of a city project guided by the shade tree commission. Charlevoix was designated a Tree City U.S.A. by the National Arbor Day Foundation this year. Presiding over the planting are mayor pro tem Shirley Roloff (holding plaque), along with (from left) city council members Butch Russell, Bill Haggard and Norm Probert and shade tree commission member Barbara MacArthur.

Dick Pilon nails a form along the south revetment on Pine River Channel as Bernie Craige holds the wood in place. In 200-foot sections, a contractor hired by the Army Corps of Engineers is pouring a concrete walkway from the fish hatchery parking lot area to Memorial Bridge. The project is scheduled for completion before June.

Alano Club

people to see our facilities; to know what our meeting place looks like."

Of course, many people do know what Alano Club looks like: North estimates that between 5,000 and 6,000 people attend closed Alcoholics Anonymous meetings there annually, and many more attend related group meetings.

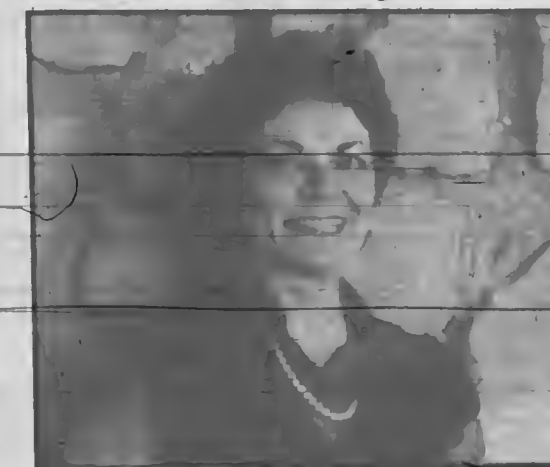

Then there are those who just drop into Alano Club for a cup of coffee or a chat during the 12 hours it is open every day, from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

While Alano Club simply provides a meeting place for organized self-help groups, it does much on its own to assist those with alcohol-related problems, sometimes just by providing a place for those people to go and visit and drink coffee or a soft drink, according to North.

Even phone calls to Alano, of which there are many, can help. Counseling agencies, such as CHIP—Counseling Center and Harbor House, and physicians often provide Alano with names of those needing guidance.

Except for the closed meetings of Alcoholics Anonymous, Alano Club is open to the general public, North stresses.

Century 21 Welcomes Mona Doyle

After a four-year hiatus, Mona Doyle has returned to work at Century 21, Thomas Associates, in Charlevoix.

A Charlevoix native and a graduate of Charlevoix High School, Doyle has a diverse background of education and experience. She attended Central Michigan University and Davenport College in Michigan and San Jose State University, California. Formerly a professional entertainer, Doyle travelled as far as Japan and Vietnam with the International Queens of Harmony, a women's barbershop quartet. Subsequently she managed an office which assisted families of prisoners of war and more recently, a California ad agency.

Glad to be back in Charlevoix, Ms. Doyle said she is looking forward to serving the Charlevoix and Antrim county communities.

CHURCH

One-man 'Prince of Peace' show coming

Professional actor Rich Gibson from Thunder Bay Theatre in Alpena will give a performance of "Prince of Peace" at First Congregational Church in Charlevoix at 7 p.m. Sunday, May 1.

The public is invited. There is no admission charge; a free-will offering will be received.

"Prince of Peace" is a one-man show in which the Apostle Paul recalls his days as Saul of Tarsus while portraying the life of Christ. Dramatic characterizations of Mary, John the Baptist, Pilate, Judas and many others are included.

Keith S. Titus wrote "Prince of Peace" over six years. He premiered the work at Thunder Bay Theatre in December 1986.

Gibson reprised the production in November 1987 in preparation for touring.

Area Catholic women invited to conference

Father John Castellet, professor of Sacred Scripture, will be the guest speaker at the 16th annual DCCW convention on Wednesday, May 4, at the K.C. Hall in Gaylord.

The convention will begin at 9 a.m. Bishop Robert J. Rose will be the main celebrant at the Eucharistic Liturgy.

Tickets at $8 per person may be purchased from Rita Orlowski, 547-5518, by Thursday, April 28. Women of St. Mary's Catholic Church are welcome.

something majestically beautiful about the King James Version and its record in Genesis of our creation. "And the Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul." You see it starts right there. A person doesn't have a soul. He or she is a soul.

It is an irrefutable link with our spiritual nature. It is a reminder that we came from God and are going back to God. It is a sign of the importance of salvation for it is not just the body that can die. The Bible reminds us "the soul that sinneth, it shall die."

Dear reader, have you ever given serious consideration to your soul? The relationship you can enjoy with God ought to be the most exciting part of your daily life. God loves you. He sent His Son to die on the cross for you out of His concern for the welfare of your soul. You can know that your sins are forgiven. You can know that your past is just that, in the past. True happiness in your soul comes from having your life anchored in Jesus Christ.

BEACONS OF BLESSINGS

by the Rev. Bruce E. Hamilton
Community Church of God

I am discovering that you can tell how fast your children are growing up by the questions that they ask you. I don't know if this is a sign of things to come or not, but my five-year-old son and I have been discussing theology a great deal lately.

"Daddy, did God really make Adam out of the dust of the ground?" Yes, I replied in my most preacherly tone. "So that means we're made out of dust, too, right?" And a few other things, too, I pointed out.

"Daddy, did God really make Eve out of Adam's ribs?" Uh-huh, waiting for what all this was leading up to. "So does that mean Mommy came from one of your ribs and my sister from one of mine?" Well...

You must admit he is thinking. My question is, are we? Do we really know who we are, where we come from, and what it is that makes us up? To me, the problem is that most of us think only of our physical side and hardly ever consider our spiritual side.

I always thought there was

4 school teams head for OM state finals

Charlevoix schools will be represented by four teams at the state finals of the Odyssey of the Mind competition at Central Michigan University on Saturday, April 30.

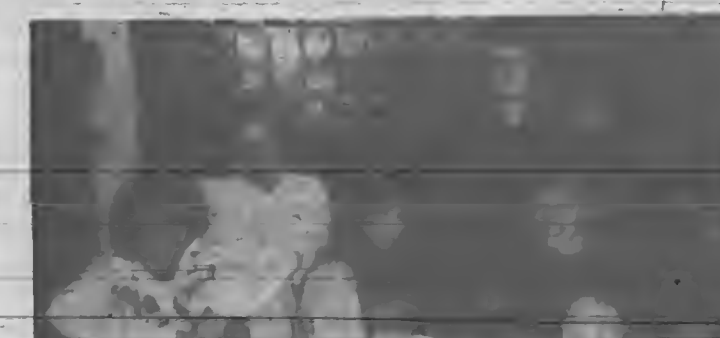

Three teams are from the middle school and one from the elementary school.

The four teams qualified at the regional competition in East Jordan in February.

Odyssey of the Mind (OM), sponsored by the Char-Em and other intermediate school districts, is an exercise in creative problem solving.

Performers earn 22 spots in state finals for speeches

Charlevoix High School qualified 22 students at the regional speech competition to move into the state championship.

Competing as individuals and small groups, the performing arts students presented a variety of speech, prose, poetry and dramatic short pieces. To qualify for the state championship, they had to place in the top three in their category.

The winners were:

Multiples (ensemble readings): 1st place - Jennifer Bonar, Betsy Haggard, Barb Haggard, Barb McClanaghan, Christi Coolman, Marci Wynkoop, Michelle Jacobs; 3rd place - Bob Sell, Jason Wiser, George Scholey, Lori Maue, Kerry Hartnett, Stacey Ketchum, Chris Felton.

Serious Prose-Poetry: 1st place - F.L. Dammann, with straight 1-100's in his final round.

Dramatic Interpretation: 3rd place - Marvin Witthoef.

Open Duo: 1st place - Trina Wiser and Shelley Swegles. 9-10 duo: alternate - Jennifer Hisey and Amy Tunison. Humorous: alternate - David Salmonson.

The state event will be held Saturday, May 7, in Ann Arbor.

Preserve North Point is a fund-raising effort, coordinated by Little Traverse Conservancy, aimed at raising $700,000 by October 1989 to purchase a 29-acre Lake Michigan shoreline dunes area for public use.

Oil drill rig operators retract a pipe section from under Hoffmann Park as they redirect a computer-guided digger. Bell is making a second attempt at inserting seven communications cables under the channel using state-of-the-art techniques. A faulty harness failed last fall, and only one of seven cables was usable.

Fish station questions continue

Placement of a fish-cleaning station at Ferry Avenue Beach continues to bring protests from some area residents.

City council has accepted the donation of a temporary facility at the west end of the boat launching area parking lot.

Of primary concern to complaining residents is a perceived sanitation problem with seagulls congregating around the station.

City Manager Mike Wiesner says less of a problem than at present is anticipated because the facility will be enclosed and waste disposed of regularly.

He says fishermen now throw entrails in open trash receptacles, and council member Bill Haggard says gulls stay at the beach because people feed them.

Residents, though, warn of histoplasmosis, a disease blamed on prolonged breathing of minuscule particles of airborne bird wastes.

"We don't want to subject our little children to this," says Billie Smith, who was diagnosed last fall as having a spot caused this way on her lung.

Joan Wagner said, "People see a need for a fish cleaning station. What I'm opposed to is a fish cleaning station at Ferry Avenue Beach. I'm 100 percent in favor of a fish cleaning station but in another location."

Several others agreed, saying the facility is needed but should not be near the beach.

John Hess, chairman of the city recreation committee, said his board would see about getting covered trash containers for the beach to discourage gulls from congregating there.

SPORTS

Rayders fly high on new track

Charlevoix's boys took first place in 20 of 11 running events to defeat Petoskey and Sault Ste. Marie in track.

The Rayder girls, who were short-handed, finished third.

The Rayders piled up 92 points while Sault finished with 50 and Petoskey 40.

Triple winner Jason Whitley led the Rayders, taking the 110-meter high hurdles, 300-meter low hurdles and 200-meter run.

The girls' meet belonged to Sault Ste. Marie with 70 points while Petoskey had 53 and Charlevoix 30.

Laura Wilmut won the shotput, Sandy Fershee the high jump and Kathy Pease the 100-meter dash. The 400-meter relay team also took first.

Following are Charlevoix's boys' results for the first four places:

High jump: 3. Gehry Wiesner. Long jump: 2. Dave Miller, 3. Brian Livingston.

800-meter relay: 1. LaBlance, Witthoef, Livingston, Scott Miller. 1:39.43.

1600-meter run: 1. Scott Miller, 4. Burns, 4:40.75.

400-meter relay: 1. LaBlance, Witthoef, Livingston, Dave Miller. 47.58.

800-meter run: 1. Rajewski. 2:02.91.

300-meter hurdles: 1. Whitley. 2. Dave Miller. 24.06.

3200-meter run: 1. Rajewski. 10:25.31.

1600-meter relay: Henne, Scott Miller, Moore, LaBlance. 3:41.2.

Following are the girls results in the first four places:

Shotput: 1. Laura Wilmut. 30'10".

Discus: 4. Wilmut.

High jump: 1. Sandy Fershee, 2. Marci Wynkoop, 4'8".

100-meter hurdles: 2. Angela Walker.

100-meter dash: 1. Kathy Pease, 14.02.

400-meter dash: 2. Betsy Haggard.

Kathy Pease sprints across the finish line in a heat of the 800-meter relay. Pease won the 400-meter dash against Petoskey and Sault Ste. Marie.

Charlevoix wins 2 on diamond

Charlevoix travelled all the way to Beaverton for a baseball doubleheader and won both games, 4-0 and 12-2.

"We got real good pitching and played good defense with no errors," coach Brian Certa said.

In the first game, Shawn Putman started for Charlevoix on the mound but Mike Himebauch came on in the second inning, holding Beaverton off the board. Beaverton had just three hits.

Charlevoix broke a scoreless tie with a three-run fourth inning. The Rayders collected seven hits, including doubles by Putman and Steve Hopkins and singles by Chad Morrow, Himebauch, Pat Elliott, Dave Loder and Jason Corwin.

In game two, Charlevoix scored eight times in the first two innings and ended up with 13 hits.

Jim Tilton, Morrow and Loder did the pitching, combining on a three-hitter.

For Charlevoix, Chad Thorp had a triple among three hits, Himebauch doubled and singled, Hopkins and James Corwin had two hits with Putman, Tim Herriman, Loder and Morrow adding one each.

Softball team loses twinbill

Charlevoix lost a non-conference double header in softball to East Jordan, 11-0 and 3-1.

In game one, Jeanie Healey was the winning pitcher on a one-hitter and Stacy Gebotti the loser. Darsl Spencley had Charlevoix's only hit.

In game two Jill Burt was the winning hurler on a two-hitter while Spencley took the loss. Stacy Skeel and Spencley had the Charlevoix hits.

Yachting Notes

It's an exciting time of the year for the mouse to walk through the various boatyards watching people sanding and repainting hulls, tightening standing rigging, adjusting docklines, scrubbing teak rails and counting to see how many sail battens made it through the winter.

Each day, it seems, a few more hulls drop into the cold water of Lake Charlevoix in preparation of another boating season. One yacht that caught this mouse's eye was Norm and Elaine Tolman's Maureen, which will sport a new azure-blue awl-grip hull this year.

Kittiwake has been in the water two weeks already and has been around the course several times, just waiting for the others to show up.

To start off the racing season, the Charlevoix Yacht Club will host the first of a two-part program Saturday, April 30, at 7:30 p.m. with a spinnaker primer by Gary Gleason of Gleason Sailmakers.

The program is free, the bar will be open to members, and munchies will be on the counter. The following week, David Irish of Harbor-Charlevoix will conduct a program on mainsail-geosail trim.

Wednesday, May 4, race-committee Phil will fire his shotgun beginning the first of two weeks of tune-up racing with the first race of the Spring Series following on May 19.

The post brought the mouse an engraved notice last week that Grandpa Mouse travelled to the French Society Island of Bora Bora where he and Gloria tied that matrimonial knot in early April. CYC wishes many years of blissful, healthful sailing for them both.

See you Saturday night...

Till then, watching the western skies...

Netters perfect at Traverse

Charlevoix's tennis team opened on a strong note, taking a 7-0 decision from the Traverse City junior varsity.

Singles results: No. 1. Marty Joy won, 6-2, 6-3; 2. Ryan Holmes won 6-4, 6-1; 3. Dave Puhl won 4-6, 7-6, 7-6; and 4. Antonio Lopez won 6-4, 7-6.

Doubles results: No. 1. Scott DeYoung-Dan Bickersteth won 6-0, 6-0; 2. J.D. Boydston-Charlie Witthoef won 6-1, 6-1; and 3. Tim Jervis-John O'Brien won 7-3, 6-1.

Rayders third in 10-team event

The Rayders finished third in the 10-team Gladwin Invitational track meet.

Charlevoix ended up with 53 points behind Gladwin's 79 and Cadillac's 58.

Jason Whitley had three first-place finishes and was a member of a relay team that placed second by just a half step in weather conditions Coach Hall Evans called the nastiest he has experienced in 16 years.

Whitley placed first in the high hurdles in 15.4 seconds, low hurdles in 40.9 and 400-meter dash in 52.3.

In the one-mile relay Whitley made up a 20-yard deficit to lose by a half step to Gladwin. He competed with team members Bill Eaton, Sean Henne and Eric Moore.

Scott Miller captured two first places, 4:41 in the mile and 10:19 in the two-mile.

Other first-place finishers included 800-meters -- Sean Henne, 2:04, and the 3200-meter relay -- Bill Crook, Sean Henne, Eric Moore and Scott Miller, 8:40.2.

The 800-meter relay with Andy Wynkoop, David Miller, Mark LaBlance and Brian Livingston finished third.

Need a Doctor?

For most of us, the answer is yes.

We need a doctor who can help us stay well, one who can guide our care when we're ill. We need someone who is there for us and our family in an emergency.

Finding a doctor who meets your individual needs is not always easy. That's why it's important to find a doctor before you need one when you have the time and energy to make a careful choice. Now, there is a new, free service that can help you with this important decision -- HealthSource Physician Referral.

At HealthSource Physician Referral, trained staff will personally answer your call and give you the names of physicians whose location and hours are most convenient for you. Computerized files help the staff supply other information you may want about a physician's background, education and special interests.

Your call will be answered 24 hours a day.

Bank opens Boyne office

First State Bank of Charlevoix is opening a loan office at 120 N. Lake Street in Boyne City. "We will be offering all types of loans to the Boyne City area, including real estate mortgage loans, boat loans, personal loans, new and used car financing as well as loans to the business community, said Elaine Martin, loan officer. Grand opening for the facility will be at 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday, May 6.

Refreshments and bank memorabilia will be available. An experienced loan counselor will be available at the branch Mondays through Fridays.

Recycling firm seeks plastic

Floyd Stradling of Boyne Country Plastics in Advance is seeking collection points in Charlevoix, East Jordan and Boyne City for used plastic containers.

"We can use all kinds of plastic containers," he told the Courier. "Milk bottles, pill bottles, shampoo bottles, cottage cheese cartons, plastic bags, all of them, just as long as they are clean."

Stradling hopes civic-minded organizations will provide facilities for collection points. His company would then pick up the plastic containers and recycle them for further use.

Stradling said Gov. James Blanchard's recently announced solid waste disposal plan stressed recycling of plastics and other products.

Boyne Country Plastics is located at 1662 Lakeshore Drive, across from the Northern Michigan Cooperative coal pile in Advance, phone 582-6613.

The company will receive collections of plastic items at its plant after 10 a.m. each work day.

JACQUIE MERTA

Jacqui Merta is executive director of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce.

Recently I had the delightful opportunity to hear Ombudsman Valerie Johnson speak regarding the Office of Michigan Business Ombudsman.

You might be asking yourself, "what is an ombudsman?" An ombudsman is a person in an official capacity who investigates citizens' complaints against the government.

Valerie said that when the State of Michigan initiated this office four years ago, they prepared the office staff with sessions on negotiation, mediation and arbitration.

They thought that they'd need these skills when dealing with businessmen and, to their surprise, they found that in actuality they needed these skills to deal with other state offices.

It was refreshing to hear a government employee talk from the same vantage point as business and give examples of unfavorable regulations and interpretations of legislation.

She told about a man who wanted to put an addition on his bowling alley and he had to receive the building permit from the appropriate offices in Lansing because the community in which he lived had no building permit office.

When an application for a permit such as this is received in Lansing, the fee for the permit is based on a rate per day from the time the application was received until the time the permit is granted. That's right — the longer it took the state to issue the permit, the more dollars it would cost this businessman.

It ended up the owner of the bowling alley was going to have to pay more for the permit than the entire addition — until Ombudsman Valerie Johnson entered the scene. The ombudsman's office and building permit office reviewed the regulations and devised a new fee schedule.

The Business Ombudsman Office is for the benefit of all Michigan businesses. If you have a question regarding workers' compensation costs or about any state regulation call the ombudsman toll-free at 800-232-2727.

Residents give views on school millage defeat, next move

tive as early as next school year, Charlevoix would have $3,916 to spend per pupil as opposed to current spending of $4,188 per pupil, or a loss of $272 per student. Olach described it as "a regressive tax which would hurt the poor and people on fixed incomes."

Olach continued, "while this legislation will reduce property tax, it will also remove your property tax deduction from your federal income taxes, thus you will pay more federal tax. And the state will probably raise the property tax sometime in the future anyway."

VanWieren was asked to predict where cuts would be required if only 1.8 mills were passed. (A 1.8 mill increase would place the tax levy at least year's level.) He responded, "We would basically stick with the same program but we would have to make cuts when the budget is being prepared. If teachers leave, we already have a policy of staffing with existing staff."

"The board has a policy of keeping the educational program as intact as possible. If necessary we would make cuts in capital outlay and purchases of new buses, for example," the superintendent said.

Olach explained that the "school board has been dipping into our fund equity, deliberately, to help pay for what people wanted in building improvements," such as new insulation, which has resulted in decreasing fuel costs. Now the school district is faced with the problem of eliminating all asbestos in its three buildings. Olach predicted the cost over several years will be "between $2 and $3 million."

The school's cash equity balance was $1.2 million three years ago, according to Olach. Today equity is $745,000, but will be reduced to $240,000 by the end of this school year.

A suggestion was made to split the June millage vote between renewal and additional mills, followed by several more suggestions to better inform the public of the district's needs.

VanWieren ended the meeting stating, "If people can't see there's a definite relationship between the amount spent and the quality of education... we'll make adjustments, but it isn't going to be good for the boys and girls."

"If you start letting the educational system slip, it's going to keep slipping. You have to live with the products of the educational system for a long time."

Condo lawsuit disputes continue

became the last to sign a stipulation to unlock the accord.

While the pool issue remains unresolved, several new wrinkles have been added to the dispute in the past week:

—Berlage has said he has been the victim of "a pattern of continued harassment and attempted intimidation" by unspecified "politicians together with other parties." (Miles said a week earlier the city has given Berlage "privileged, preferential treatment.")

—Berlage further has said a "vocal minority" comprised of individuals with fixed income, guaranteed income or independent wealth is pushing a no-growth, anti-condo sentiment not shared by the majority of residents. (WATCH president Jerry Puhl says he received many calls from people he doesn't know who said "what WATCH is doing is best for the community.")

—Puhl has accused Berlage of violating the settlement by building a foundation beyond an agreed-to line. (City planner Gerry Harsch said the building itself will not pass the predetermined point above Pine River Channel; City Manager Mike Wiesner said Berlage volunteered the information the foundation was wrong and said a remedy was in the works.)

—Miles has written an 11-page letter to newspapers recounting errors and omissions on the part of city staff and boards, and continuing to insist the agreement called for an indoor-outdoor pool tucked up close to the building. (Mediator Lawrence Stockler and council member Bill Haggard, who attended the mediation, say an inground pool was discussed, not an indoor one.)

—Berlage has said WATCH violated its own articles of incorporation, which state the organization cannot "institute litigation... where a substantial purpose of such litigation would be to benefit a private party or interest." (Puhl says the organization files all required paperwork with the Internal Revenue Service, from which it has tax-exempt status, and "they give us a clean bill of health.")

Career days set

ORDINANCE No. 490

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND THE Code of the City of Charlevoix by adding a new chapter 148 of the Charlevoix City Code.

CITY OF CHARLEVOIX Ordains that the Charlevoix City Code shall be amended by adding a new Chapter 148:

Section 1. Short Title. This Ordinance shall be known and may be cited as the Ferry Beach Parking and Boat Control Ordinance.

Section 2. Definitions. For the purpose of this Ordinance the following terms, phrases, words, and their derivations shall have the meaning given herein. When not inconsistent with the context, words used in the present tense include the future, words in the plural number include the singular number, and words in the singular number include the plural number.

A. "Boat" is any watercraft, including sea planes when not airborne, in or upon, or docked or moored at any place in any waterway or upon trailers within the boundaries of the City.

B. "Ferry Beach Parking Lot" shall mean the contiguous or nearly contiguous area generally located between the limits of Ferry Avenue, Stover Road, the waters of Lake Charlevoix, and the City of Charlevoix Ferry Beach Park.

C. "Trailer" or "Boat Trailer" means any vehicle or device so designed and constructed in such a manner as to allow the transport of a boat.

Section 3. Limitation of Parking. It is the intent of this Ordinance to limit the use of a portion of the Ferry Beach Parking Lot exclusively to that of vehicles towing or attached to trailers or the parking of single trailers. It shall be unlawful for any person to park a vehicle, except as otherwise hereinafter provided within the Ferry Beach Parking Lot without being attached to a trailer used for the towing of a boat excepting the row of parking spaces on the Northernly area of the Ferry Beach Parking Lot.

Parking spaces designated for single vehicles without trailers shall be clearly marked.

Section 4. Permit Required. Any person launching a boat from the Ferry Beach Boat Launch; or parking a vehicle with or without trailer or parking a single trailer shall be required to obtain a permit from the City of Charlevoix and display the permit on their vehicle. Charges for the permit shall be as follows:

A. There shall be no charge for permit for non-commercial City residents or taxpayers.

B. Commercial users of the Ferry Beach parking lot or boat launch who are City residents or City Taxpayers shall be charged Fifty ($50.00) Dollars for a permit.

C. Non-City residents Non-City taxpayers shall be charged Two ($2.00) Dollars for a daily permit for a vehicle without trailer and Twelve ($12.00) Dollars for an annual permit for a vehicle without trailer; for vehicles with trailer the permit fee shall be Three ($3.00) per day and Twenty ($20.00) Dollars for an annual permit.

D. Non-City residents or non-City taxpayers shall pay One Hundred ($100.00) Dollars annually for a commercial permit.

SECTION 5. Term of Parking. There shall be no parking in the Ferry Beach Parking Lot of any vehicles or trailers between the hour of 2:00 a.m. and 4:00 a.m.

Section 6. Use of Ferry Beach City Boat Launching Ramps. It shall be unlawful for any person to moor or tie up at the Ferry Beach City Launching docks unless the moorage is associated with the launching of a boat and in no case shall said moorage exceed Fifteen (15) minutes in length. The Charlevoix City Manager, his designee, or a member of the Charlevoix City Police Department shall have the authority to board any boat moored in violation of this Ordinance, and move or cause it to be moved to another location and the Dockmaster or Police Officer shall have the right to hold such boat for the payment of costs incurred in the removal or storage.

Section 7. Boat Rental Prohibited. No person shall conduct any boat rental business on or at the Ferry Beach Parking Lot or Ferry Beach Launching Docks.

Section 8. Exemptions. Persons using the Ferry Beach parking lot for use of the Ferry Beach public beach shall not require a parking permit for their vehicle under Section 4. This exemption for parking permit contained in Section 8 shall not apply to persons launching a boat from the Ferry Beach boat launch. The requirement for parking permits to be obtained for the parking of vehicles within the Ferry Beach Parking Lot shall not apply to single attended vehicles parked in such a manner to allow the viewing of Lake Charlevoix. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary, no permit shall be required for usage of the Ferry Beach Parking Lot or Boat Launch for the time period of November 1 through May 1.

Section 9. Regulations. The Charlevoix City Police Chief or his designee is authorized to establish all written regulations and traffic control devices, including the placement of traffic control devices, necessary to implement and enforce the provision of this Ordinance.

Section 10. Prohibition for Commercial Usage of Fish Cleaning Station. No person shall use the fish cleaning station located or to be located at the Ferry Beach parking lot for the cleaning of fish for resale or commercial purposes.

Section 11. Penalty. Any person violating any provision of this Ordinance shall be guilty of a civil infraction and be fined the sum of Five ($5.00) Dollars providing payment is made within 48 hours of the date of ticketing and shall pay the sum of Ten ($10.00) if payment is made at any time after 48 hours. A second or subsequent violation within a period of one year shall result in a fine of Ten ($10.00) Dollars providing payment is made within 48 hours of the date of ticketing and shall pay the sum of Twenty ($20.00) Dollars if payment is made at any time after 48 hours.

Section 12. Separability. The provisions of this Ordinance are separable and if any provision, clause, sentence, subsection, word or part thereof is held illegal, invalid or unconstitutional, or inapplicable to any person or circumstance, such holding shall not affect or impair any of the remaining provisions, clauses, sentences, subsections, words, or parts of the regulation or their application to other persons or circumstances.

Section 13. Effective Date. This ordinance shall take effect thirty (30) days following enactment.

This Amendment to the Charlevoix City Code was adopted by the City Council of the City of Charlevoix at a regular meeting held on April 18, 1988 by the following yeas and nays vote:

YEAS: Councilmembers Roloff, Haggard, Bellows and Probert

Char-Em activity day events set

Students are preparing for the seventh annual Activity Day to be held on Friday, May 6, at the Charlevoix High School track.

Students from the trainable mentally impaired, severely impaired and preschool programs operated by the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District and clients from Antrim-Kalkaska Industries, Bergmann Center and Little Traverse Enterprises workshops will participate.

Opening ceremonies will be at 12:30 p.m. with the events from 1 to 4 p.m. The awards ceremony will begin at 4 p.m. with music by Peril, dinner will be served at 5 p.m. at Charlevoix High School, followed by a dance from 6 to 8 p.m. with music by Jasper and the Tagalongs.

Some of the activities will be relay races, wheelchair races, kickball contest, softball throw, 50-yard dash and a peanut hunt for preschoolers.

The competition is sponsored by the Knights of Columbus, the Masons and the Oddfellows of Charlevoix.

The public is welcome to attend.

Potter among women in arts exhibit

Charlevoix potter Barb Godwin is one of over 20 women artists featured as part of "Women's Work," an auction-exhibition.

The event, sponsored by the McCune Arts Center and the Women's Resource Center of Northern Michigan Inc., has opened at McCune Arts Center in Petoskey.

Godwin has branched out from her pottery work in white to do more with color and brush. Three of these new pieces are part of the exhibit, including a piece from her Michigan Mermaid series, which was exhibited in a special show called "Splash" at Bridge Street Gallery in Charlevoix last summer.

Highlighting "Women's Work" is a collection of paintings and collages by the late Marjorie Young.

"Women's Work" will hang in the Art Tree Sales Gallery of McCune Arts Center until Tuesday, May 3. At 7 p.m. that evening, submitted work will be auctioned, with artists receiving two-thirds of the proceeds and the Women's Resource Center one-third.

The public is invited to attend the auction. There is a $2 admission fee, which includes a bidding card. A reception will proceed the auction at 5:30 p.m.

Hosts sought

Host families are sought in the Charlevoix area for international exchange students sponsored by the non-profit International Education Forum of California.

For more information, contact Gary Hiltner at 547-2768 or write PO Box 354, Bay Shore, 49711.

VFW Auxiliary elects officers

Dorothy Gilding has been re-elected president of the Ladies Auxiliary of Charlevoix Post No. 1153, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Other officers are: Angela Bortis, senior vice president; Lynn Marquardt, junior vice president; Beverly Plum, treasurer; Marguerite Doty, chaplain; Arlene Staley, conductress; Gertrude Holt, guard; Marilyn Flinck, three-year trustee; Helen Phillips, two-year trustee; and Betty White, one-year trustee.

Betty Hodgkinson was appointed secretary. Committee chairmen, color bearers and other appointive officers will be named by the president.

Veterans are being invited to attend a 1 p.m. Sunday, May 1 potluck in observance of National American Loyalty Day. Those attending are asked to take a dish to pass.

As part of the observance, Helen Phillips, Americanism chairman, will distribute coloring books depicting American loyalty to lower grade elementary students, at the children's ward at Charlevoix Area Hospital and at Sunday schools.

REFLECTIONS

Bridge approaches birthday

Fran Martin is recuperating from surgery. Her Reflections column should resume soon. In her absence, Peg Ohle this week takes a nostalgic look at the famous—or infamous—bascule bridge.

by PEG OHLE

The Charlevoix Memorial Bridge has been called many things by motorists.

The ups and downs of the bridge seem more frequent during the summer months, and the waits are certainly longer as vacationers head north and south along U.S. 31 to enjoy the natural beauties of northern Michigan.

Yes, the bridge does cause some delays, but what would we do without it?

Since a large part of the travel on U.S. 31 in this area is between Charlevoix and Petoskey and Charlevoix and Charlevoix, consider these facts:

By way of the Charlevoix Memorial Bridge, the distance is 17 miles; by way of Boyne City it is 36 miles using the ferry; and by way of East Jordan, the distance is 44 miles.

Motorists using the Boyne City route would probably use the Ironon Ferry, which charges $1.50 for passage, and where certainly there would be some kind of a wait.

Construction of the bridge was begun 41 years ago this coming May and completed two years later, with a formal dedication on July 30, 1949.

While the bridge was being built, a temporary bridge was placed to the east of the permanent location and traffic was routed up the north bank of Round Lake to Nichols Street and Petoskey Avenue (U.S. 31).

This bridge is the fifth one built to span the Pine River Channel, considered one of the shortest, if not the shortest, rivers in the world.

The first crude bridge was built in 1869, a foot bridge about four feet wide and two feet above the water.

This bridge was replaced in 1873 by a highway pile bridge 16 feet above the water, with a draw or lift section, at a cost of $400.

The third bridge was an iron structure that was swung by hand. As the harbor was developed, a fourth bridge was built in 1901, at a cost of $30,000. It was a Charlevoix landmark for almost half a century, serving the area well until the present bridge was opened for use in 1949.

The Charlevoix Memorial Bridge was so named to honor the Charlevoix area men who gave their lives during World War II:

Robert W. Belfy, Vern M. Bissell, Sidney L. Clarke, George O. Cline, Isaac W. Denemy, Leonard R. Evers, Bernard J. Foster, William J. Foster, Fred R. Hardy, Lee C. Miller, Frederick Klaus, Leith S. Kerr, Edwin E. McCann, Herbert McDagin, F. Albert McMillan, Charles O. Richardson, Anthony W. Speigl, Peter Tapovic, Benjamin J. Walker, L. Dale Warner, and Edward Wojan.

Dedication of the bridge was a solemn yet gala occasion on that Saturday morning in 1949. Ralph S. Hamilton, who still maintains an interest in Charlevoix happenings, was chairman of the event.

Charles M. Ziegler, state highway commissioner, made the main speech, saying in part, "This strong, useful creation of engineer skill will stand for generations to testify to the bravery and heroism of the stout-hearted boys of the community who went forth to answer their country's call to duty, and paid the supreme sacrifice for our great republic."

Other local officials were on hand to play a part in the ceremony. James T. Whitley, veteran of World War II, who conceived the idea of dedicating the bridge to the fallen soldiers, presented flowers to their families, assisted by Mrs. Gerald Chambers, Charlevoix High School class of 1942, whose members contributed to the bridge fund. Mayor Ray S. Hamilton presented the key to the city to the state road commissioners.

Members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion comprised a firing squad. Getchell W. Campbell and Frank Pool played. Taps and raised the flag. Director C. A. Odmark led the Charlevoix High School Band in "The Star Spangled Banner."

Charlevoix City officials, besides Mayor Hamilton, on hand were Hugh W. Mayne, city clerk; Nellie A. Hammond, city treasurer; W. E. Goss, Carl F. Kohler, William M. Heering, John Knight, Clayd L. Davy, and Drew E. Young, councilmen; Angus G. Leith, city superintendent; and Norman D. Ance, city attorney.

Charlevoix High Symphonic Band

Symphonic band's No. 1

The Charlevoix High School Symphonic Band captured its third consecutive first division (I) rating from the State High School Band and Orchestra Festival, which was held at Ottawa Hills High School, Grand Rapids.

The band received ones from all three judges and the sightreading judge. In written comments to the band, one of the judges indicated that "the variety presented in the three different numbers that were played showed that the band could play both traditional and contemporary music very well."

Band director Terry Isenbarger was pleased with the band's performance and said that "the band not only performed well but represented themselves well both at the festival and on the trip."

The band stayed over Friday night in Grand Rapids.

Charlevoix school to seek 1.8 mills

School district voters will be asked to approve an additional 1.8 mill levy for school operation when they go to the polls in the annual school election, Monday, June 13.

The Charlevoix Board of Education Monday agreed to put the 1.8 mill proposal on the ballot after voters rejected a request for 3 additional mills in a special election March 28. The proposal was defeated by a vote of 754 to 466.

On the same ballot but in a separate proposal, voters will be asked to renew 15.25 mills for operation.

Superintendent Gordon Van Wieren said the district will be able to live with the 1.8-mill levy, although some capital expenditures, including the purchase of new school buses for its aging fleet, will have to be deferred.

Nor will the district have new money to rebuild its rapidly dwindling fund equity, he said.

However, he added that the basic school program will remain pretty much intact if the new millage is approved.

The additional levy will mean that school district residents will pay the same rate for schools as they have in past years, with the retirement of two capital improvement bonding levies in December.

The board also adopted a proposal by board member Ron Moore calling for a freeze at allocated amounts in the various building budgets. Business manager Vince Olach said he would have no trouble working within the proposal.

IN OTHER BUSINESS, the board:

— Approved a trip to Chicago by senior band members. The trip will be paid for by the Band Boosters.

— Approved a trip to the Pictured Rocks National Lakeshore by science teacher Pete Spieles' biology students.

— Heard a report by Spanish teacher Theresa Dean and two of her students, Dan Newman and Stacy Gebott, who visited Spain during the spring break. Dean said the effects of the trip already are apparent in her students' increased ability to speak and understand Spanish.

— Learned that a Charlevoix High School graduate, Robert Carey, will speak at commencement at 2 p.m. Sunday, June 5.

— Discussed "senior skip day" with high school principal David Smith. Smith said members of the class would like to take a day-trip to Bob Lo Island in the Detroit River either May 13 or May 26.

Lakeshore zoning changes ready for review

The first proposed changes stemming from last year's lakeshore multiple-housing dispute are ready for city council consideration.

Nearly a year after the controversy began with the mayor's call for a "condo ban" along waterways, the planning commission has finalized wording of 13 amendments.

Missing from this batch of zoning ordinance changes are those which have brought the greatest disagreement — calls for viewing corridors and special use permits along Belvedere Avenue on Round Lake.

City planner Gerry Harsch says the proposals are not being dropped, he just has not completed work on changes suggested by the planning commission following public hearings.

Included, though, are two amendments which affect an area next to the site of an 11-unit condominium being built on Pine River Channel.

One of the original proposals has been dropped because it was considered unnecessary, Harsch said. The amendment would have allowed boathouses as accessory buildings in residential districts.

The bulk of the proposed changes were drawn up by a citizen-government panel appointed at the height of the lakeshore dispute.

Others were developed by the planning commission and planner, including ones dealing with building height measurement and jurisdiction into Round Lake.

Key issues in the lakeshore controversy eventually boiled down to retention of views, building height and density, and distances from the waterways.

Several of the proposals are technical or definitions, such as those determining linear dock space or establishing a constant water mark for measurement.

Those affecting the marine-commercial south shore of Round Lake — which will be acted on later by the planning commission — would set up mandatory view retention and require special use permits.

The permits give council discretionary powers over use of property beyond items specifically spelled out in the zoning ordinance.

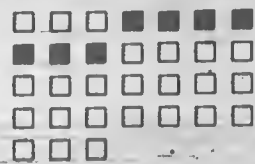

Those affecting the one lot remaining in the commercial-scenic area along the south shore of Pine River Channel require special use permits and set distances from the water.

Changes in height regulations alter the way a building is measured. With the hopes of encouraging more pitched roofs on new construction.

While the maximum height is being reduced, the measuring point is being changed — with an intended result being peaked

Ahead-lines

Venetian Festival queen pageant

The Venetian Festival Queen won't be chosen until Friday, July 22, but that's not very far off, according to Yvonne Engler, chairman and director of the queen contest.

Engler is busy lining up help to assist in building and painting scenery, manning the lighting system, setting up the sound tracks, selling tickets, helping the contestants with their hair and dress, and doing the many other jobs necessary to put on a first-class queen contest event.

"We want people of all ages who have talent enough to do a good job," she says, "and we want to have everything planned and ready and waiting for the big night."

The pageant theme this year is "Hawaiian Holidays," complete with palm trees, grass huts, leis and grass skirts.

To help carry out the theme, a group of senior citizens from East Jordan, dressed in Hawaiian attire, will present a program of Hawaiian music and song.

A special feature will be the appearance of the 1988 Miss Michigan, who will be selected between now and pageant-time.

One feature of past pageants has been dropped, according to Engler.

"We will not have a swimsuit contest this year, but instead the girls will be able to pose in whatever type of garment they feel good in," Engler says. "And the girls are happy about that."

As in the past, the talent contest, formal wear modeling, and personal interview will be part of the pageant.

Venetian Festival Queen contestants (there are nine to date) will be given some advance training in modeling, handling a microphone, and being interviewed, Engler said, so they can make the best of their personality, pose, carriage, speaking ability, and the many other attributes that go into a judge's decision. This year, the judges will be residents of Kalkaska.

Anyone wishing to help in some way with the pageant may call Yvonne Engler at 547-2627.

Katie Parsons and Steve Hopkins work on a mural at Charlevoix High School. The Student Art Fair will open Thursday, May 5, at the elementary school.

Fish station work under way

Work on the area's first enclosed fish cleaning station for public use is under way.

The project has not been without controversy, however, as several residents have expressed fears of health dangers to children.

The cleaning station is being built by volunteers and donated to the city by Charlevoix Area Trout Tournament Inc., which sponsors a fishing event each spring.

The station will be in the southwest corner of the Ferry Avenue Beach parking lot.

It will be a 16-foot square structure, with block and net sides and a shingled roof. It will be fully enclosed, accessible through a door.

Inside will be a stainless steel table with water drain and waste drains, running water, waste receptacles under the table and extra receptacles to the sides.

An attendant will be present or nearby, also controlling traffic at the boat launch. Boat launch fees, initiated this year for non-residents only, will help pay for the attendant.

Construction is being done by volunteers, including Dick Way Construction, Bill and Jeff Stevens and crew, Milan Plsek, Al Shindorf, Dick Kenney of Kit Carson Lumber Co., Jim Marsh Jr., Mark White Jr. and crew, tournament officials and others.

Jim Withers, president of the tournament, traveled with other tourney officials and city staff to facilities in other parts of the state.

"We feel the fish cleaning station will be a big plus to the community, not only for fishermen but for tourists and residents as observers," Withers says.

Several residents have told council the station could worsen a seagull problem at the beach and spread a gull-borne ailment.

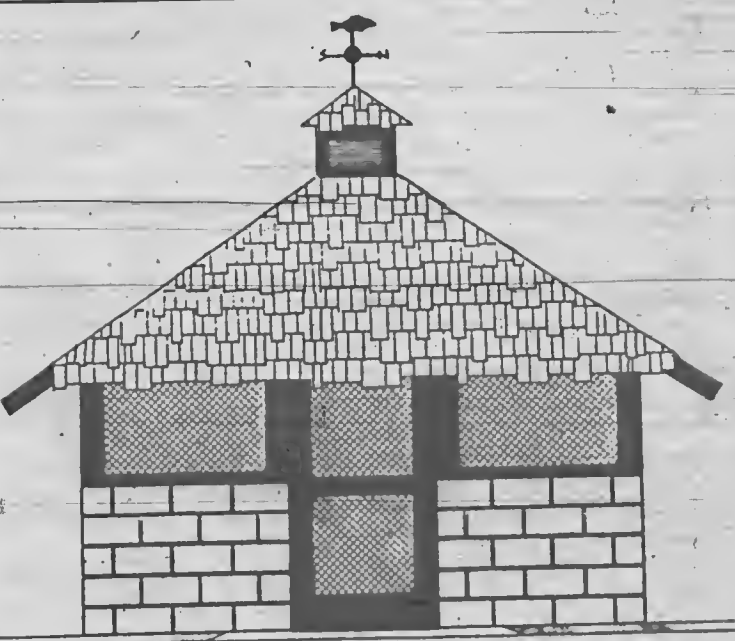

Withers says having an enclosed station may help keep gulls away because fishermen won't be throwing entrails in open trash baskets.

He also suggests the city enact an ordinance banning gull feeding at the beach and ordering all trash containers to be covered.

Recreation commission chairman John Hess has said his panel would work on the sanitation problem.

Withers expects the cleaning station to be completed by the end of May. The trout tournament this year will be held Friday-Sunday, June 10-12.

There will be no charge for using the fish cleaning station.

This drawing shows what the fish cleaning station being constructed at Ferry Avenue Beach will look like when completed. (Drawing by Mike Davis, county youth activities director)

Council debates paying for reappraisal

Expressing concern over the quality of a recent reappraisal of city residential properties, the city council debated making the final payment to the appraisal firm.

At Monday evening's council meeting, the council decided to defer payment. However, after board of review members Bob Timms, Shirley Roloff and Earl Muma met with city assessor Bob Potter this morning to discuss the reappraisal, which was done by Great Lakes Appraisal Service of Lansing, it was decided to make the final payment. The total bill for the appraisal is $27,930. The final payment is $5,586.

Muma and Roloff indicated Monday evening that they were not satisfied with the quality of the appraisal.

"After seeing the mistakes I saw, I don't think it was a good appraisal," Muma said. He questioned the way the appraisal firm defined economic values in some areas of town.

Roloff concurred. "I'd vote against it (making the final payment). I don't feel we got a real good appraisal." She cited large discrepancies between the value the appraisal firm gave homes and what those same homes were actually selling for.

Timms also expressed reservations. A certain amount of error is expected, he said. But he added he wasn't sure exactly where to draw the line between what is tolerable and what is not.

City manager Mike Wiesner recommended paying the bill. He said he'd talked with Potter who said he feels the city got a good product. Wiesner said the appraisal was a mass appraisal which used averages. He said the city now has a good set of records which "with a little local knowledge can be massaged" into what the city desires.

Councilmen Bill Bellows and Bill Haggard both said if the city decides not to pay the final bill or only pay a percentage, there must be specific reasons.

City attorney Jeff VanTreese advised that before making a decision to not pay or pay only a percentage, the council should get their facts in order and contact the appraisal firm and attempt to reach a compromise.

In this morning's meeting, Timms, Roloff, Muma and Potter were expected to decide if the work was satisfactory and the bill should be paid or if the work was unsatisfactory and what it would take to make it satisfactory.

AROUND THE TOWN

Free water, free tilling and lots of open spaces....
That's what's once again being offered by the city for gardeners.... The city is again providing 24-foot by 24-foot garden plots by the airport to anyone who wants one — or more....

For $10 any resident can have a garden — regardless of whether home is a condominium, cottage or a house with lots of shade trees or lots of little kids.... The city tills the lots each spring and plenty of water is available during dry spells.... The lots will be ready for planting by May 15.

The city's having a sale, a sale of found items that have not been reported lost and city items not longer needed.... The city calls this "surplus property," but it could be a "good deal" for someone else....

The nearly 90 items will be on display in the City Street Garage on Stover Road from 7 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Friday, May 13.... Sealed bids will then be taken until 3 p.m. Monday, May 16, at the treasurer's office in City Hall.... That's where official bid sheets must be obtained, too....

Among the items being auctioned off are a 1964 dump truck, 11 bicycles, nine fishing rods, four radar detectors, two typewriters, six cameras and three skateboards.

OPINIONS

Tot has marrow transplant

Cody Louiselle, now six months old, underwent a bone marrow transplant two months ago to combat a rare and life-threatening bone disorder. His mother Susan has been keeping Charlevoix up to date on his condition through letters to the community. This is her first update since Dody's bone marrow transplant at the University of Iowa Medical Center in Iowa City.

Dear Charlevoix,

I'm sorry I've lost touch over the last couple of months. As you can imagine, we've been quite busy. Actually, I've been waiting for some kind of definite news so I could tell you all whether everything was good or not good. (If I've learned nothing else from this experience, I've learned how to wait - but not necessarily patiently!)

After all the waiting, it's still not definite whether there's good news or bad news. Cody is approximately 66 days post-transplant and is showing very good growth of osteoclasts, which are what he was born without, indicating almost certainly that they are the donor's. However, Cody is also showing growth of some of his own white cells that evidently survived all the chemotherapy. Cody's doctors call him the "Atom-bomb-proof Kid" because this happens very seldom.

Letters to the editor:

Because the field of bone marrow transplantation is relatively new and because Cody's disorder isn't very common, Dr. Trigg can't say whether growing both marrows is good or bad. He thinks that Cody took the osteoclasts that he needed from the donor's marrow and could be growing back his own bone marrow that didn't have room before. Dr. Trigg has seen this happen several times and the patients have done well for several years. There are no long term statistics because this was just a few years ago. He can't tell us whether or not Cody will go 90 days or 90 years with both marrows, we'll just have to wait! In the meantime, the fact remains that his bones are being healed and allowing room for somebody's marrow to grow!

Meanwhile, Cody is growing well and doing fine clinically. He has been discharged to the immediate area with three to four clinic visits a week. (That keeps him in touch with the nurses that have absolutely spoiled him!) They say when he's down to one visit or less a week, then we can think about coming home.

Thanks again to all of you who have sent letters of support, love and even some hometown gossip! It always seemed that on a day when I had passed my "can't-take-it-any-more" point that I would receive a letter from someone and have a good laugh or a good cry while I read it. (I usually needed one or the other anyway!) Thanks to you all.

I'm getting quite anxious to come home. I miss everybody and everything and I swear I'll never complain again about our one lonely spotlight downtown after waiting as long as six minutes at a red light so I could go one-tenth of a mile to wait for another one! And I'll never again wonder why so many peo-

Balancing act: Progress, preservation

Editor,

Now that we've heard from both sides, on the status of the city of Charlevoix, I'd like to add my two cents worth, as I have felt strangely caught in the middle between these two points of view.

I, too, saw Charlevoix for the first time in the '70s, and will be forever grateful to the dear friends who introduced me to it. I fell immediately and irrevocably in love with the area. Never had I seen such a clean, almost pristine natural beauty, nor had I met such genuinely kind and friendly people. I knew that this was where I wanted to spend the rest of my life.

As time went by, however, I, too, flinched as changes took place. The construction of condos frightened me, and I panicked along with many other people, thinking we would lose the beautiful views of Round Lake and the channel. Yet, we still have East Park and four beautiful beaches, which I pray will never be disturbed. Add to those the lovely nature trails and scenic beauty of Mt. McSaubia, and the somewhat claustrophobic feeling of the condos is a little easier to take.

My old economics textbook described economics as "the study of choosing." I feel that as long as the people of Charlevoix can maintain a balance between progress (necessary to life and growth); and preservation (maintaining a link to past and present beauty), there is nothing to fear. Making wise, well-thoughtout choices is the key to Charlevoix's future.

Reforming school funding

Every few years Michigan wrestles with the question of school finances: Is there any way to educate our kids without squeezing blood from property owners?

And every time the question comes up, someone suggests that we do away with the property tax as the principal means of supporting schools.

This time, the Michigan Legislature is considering cutting the property tax in half and making up the deficit by increasing the sales tax from four cents on the dollar to six cents.

Sounds good on paper, doesn't it? Can't you just see your old property assessment cut from 50 percent of true cash value to 25 percent. Hoo boy! Let's go out for dinner to celebrate.

But not so fast. Under such a scheme, the state will rake in a ton more money than it actually needs, some folks say $600 million more. You had better believe the lawmakers in Lansing will find some way to spend it and it won't be for schools.

Furthermore, if we ever have another recession—and we will, economics being cyclical like it is—and sales begin to slump, schools will be the first to suffer. During the last recession, the only thing that kept our schools afloat was the fact that they were supported by the property tax.

Vince Olach, business manager of Charlevoix Schools, also takes a jaundiced view of most of the new school financing schemes. He believes that if money becomes tight, the property tax will be begin to edge upward again and we'll be worse off than we are now.

I am against any increase in the sales tax because it hurts the poor more than it hurts the rich. Let's say Joe Sixpack earns $20,000 a year and spends it all keeping body and soul together. He is being taxed on his entire income. Now take Mr. Gotrocks, Joe's boss, who earns $100,000 a year, but, like Joe Sixpack, only spends $20,000 keeping body and soul together. Mr. Gotrocks invests the balance in time certificates and blue-chip stocks.

Poor Joe is being taxed on 100 percent of his income, while his boss is only being taxed on 20 percent of his.

People who know about such things call the sales tax "regressive," which is the polite, 50-cent word for "unfair."

However, 1988 is an election year and the politicians feel compelled to do something nice for the voters—and property tax relief has a nice ring to it, regardless of the chaos that lies down the road. And a two-cent increase in the sales tax sounds like peanuts, but it isn't.

So let's leave the property tax intact and if we need extra revenue let's look at a modest, temporary increase in the state income tax, which, at least, makes a stab at equality.

State Sen. Mitch Irwin, who is running for Congress, says he would like to see the federal government play a larger role in the education of our young, and I highly concur.

Irwin envisions school funding coming from three sources: The local school district, the state and the federal government. Certainly the feds should be in the picture, since they have more taxing clout than any of the others.

After a change of administrations next January, let's pressure Congress into diverting to education some of the zillions of dollars Washington now spends on redundant and often flea-brained defense systems, such as Star Wars, and other unnecessary military hardware.

Maybe we also should take a second look at our foreign aid budget. I suspect we are shipping money to many nations which no longer need our assistance.

In short, I believe there are funds available to provide us with the best schools in the history of the world without breaking the bank.

All we have to do is get our hands on them.

rooftops. Also, to retain views around the lakes, no building built within required "setbacks" between the water and main building could be higher than 18 feet.

Harsch, who is also the planner for other municipalities, says he has never seen as much concern over building heights as there is in Charlevoix.

Other changes would increase the setback from the water in commercial districts by another 10 feet to 35 and increase the maximum height of fences throughout town by two feet to six.

No date has been set for council consideration of the amendments. Council will be holding public hearings on the proposals before voting on them.

by

The Personal Representative

A decedent's estate must be managed by someone whether or not the decedent leaves a will. When the decedent leaves a will, he/she names the personal representative (manager) in the will. The personal representative must carry out all the responsibilities in the administration of an estate. In addition, he/she must scrupulously carry out the terms of the will. When the deceased does not leave a will, the estate is managed by an administrator. He/She may be the surviving spouse or another person appointed by the Court. An "administrator with the will annexed" is a person appointed by the court to administer an estate when the personal representative dies or fails to qualify.

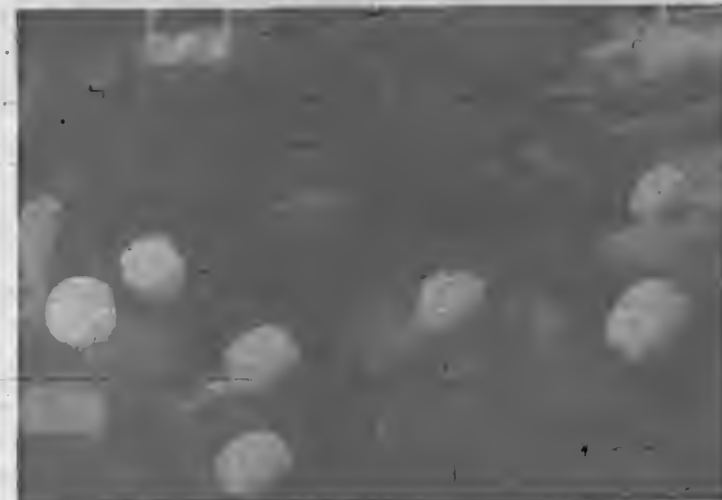

A will is an important document that provides for your wishes to be known and adhered to. Such a document is of vital importance in ensuring that your estate is dispersed as you desire and that your heirs are recognized in accordance with your wishes.

Solid waste group prepares for final meeting

by PEG OHLE

County Planner Larry Sullivan wants to be sure the Solid Waste Management Committee has covered all bases before it holds its last meeting.

So he cancelled a previously announced meeting of the committee, set for April 28, and has asked the committee to hold open May 12 and 26 as possible dates for the next and final meeting.

Before then, Sullivan will go over all the criteria for solid waste management in state Act 641 and meet with Department of Natural Resources people in Lansing to discuss the new County Solid Waste Management Plan prepared by the committee under his direction.

"The law says we must have a definite disposal area good for the next five years. That we have with the Charlevoix County Landfill," Sullivan said.

"We must also have a contingency backup plan in case something happens to our facility," he continued. "We are working with Manistee County for permission to use their landfill in case this happens."

"We must have some indication of how we will take care of our waste for the next 20 years. Given the service area of the Charlevoix County Landfill (Charlevoix and Emmet counties), we figure that landfill of 40 acres will last for seven to 10 years. Therefore, we must have some plan for the eight- to 10-year period remaining," he said.

"Among the ways we could handle this would be to specify another site in Charlevoix County for a new landfill; we could allow expansion of the existing Charlevoix County Landfill; we could designate a site in another county, but if we do this, the site would have to be part of both counties' Solid Waste Management Plan."

"Or, we could simply establish siting criteria, either simplistic or elaborate, such as 'a landfill could not be built in a wetland or flood plain,' or 'a landfill could not be located within 10,000 feet from an airport' (now part of Act 641), or we could set certain distances from wells, homes, businesses, Class A roads, ground water recharge areas, or heavily populated areas."

Hallmark store fund-raiser aids hospital

Barb's Hallmark Harbor is combining its 10th anniversary celebration with fund-raising for Charlevoix Area Hospital.

On Saturday, May 7, 10 percent of all proceeds will be donated to the hospital.

The hospital has initiated a fund-raising program. By contributing $100 or more annually, givers become members of the Lighthouse Club. Barb's Hallmark will contribute monies raised to the Lighthouse Club.

Lighthouse Club funds will be used to acquire new and replacement equipment. Members of the club are entitled to be billed for some hospital services which normally require payment at the time of the service and they will be invited to an annual reception.

Charlevoix County value up $12.2 million

by PEG OHLE

The value of real and personal property in the City of Charlevoix increased by $12,219,307 during the last year.

Information for each unit of government in Charlevoix County is contained in the 1988 Analysis for Equalization released by the county equalization department.

The report shows that the number of taxable units of real and personal property in the city increased by 68: 37 residences, six commercial units, and 25 personal property units.

The number of industrial units remained the same, at 14.

The greatest increase, $9,611,050, was in the value of residential units. The increase in commercial units was $1,787,037; the increase in personal property was $801,200; and the increase in industrial units was $20,020.

Nearby townships increased in value as follows: Charlevoix Township, from $70,641,477 to $78,008,794; Hayes Township, from $104,167,628 to $105,528,385; Eveline Township, from $94,798,284 to $106,273,940; Marion Township, from $30,575,575 to $32,190,264; South Arm Township, from $42,841,246 to $44,411,941; Norwood Township, from $21,061,782 to $22,066,475; Peaine Township, from $25,967,574 to $26,817,697; and St. James Township, from $18,497,572 to $19,812,479.

County-wide, property values increased from $930,762,569 to $992,238,051. That's an increase of $61,475,482 (over $61 million).

Property taxes are based on the property's equalized assessed valuation, which is approximately one-half of the true cash value of the property, and the total fixed and voted millage for each governmental unit.

If millage rates remain the same, next year's property taxes in Charlevoix County could increase an average of over six percent.

However, the increase will differ widely, from about 0.37 percent in Hudson Township, 7.85 percent in the City of Charlevoix, 10.51 percent in Charlevoix Township and 15.28 percent in Boyne Falls.

Probate judge candidates to participate in forum

The five candidates for Probate Judge of Emmet and Charlevoix counties are scheduled to attend a forum in Charlevoix.

The Tuesday, May 10, event will be held at the Char-Em Intermediate School District building.

The five announced candidates are attorneys Robert Hoffman of Charlevoix and Seberon Litzemberger, Fred Mulhauser, E. Douglas Basel and James Linderman, all of Petoskey.

Soper-Batdorff wedding

Susan Lynne Soper and Dave Batdorff exchanged marriage vows Saturday, April 9, at the Liberty Center United Methodist Church in Liberty Center, Indiana.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Soper of Liberty Center, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Batdorff of Charlevoix.

The Rev. James Swan conducted the double ring rites, assisted by the Rev. Randal Magnus, brother-in-law of the bridegroom.

The bride was given in marriage by her father in the candlelight evening ceremony before approximately 200 guests.

For the occasion, the sanctuary was decorated with spring flowers and pink and white bows and streamers.

The bride's gown was fashioned of white satin and lace. The fitted bodice of lace was complemented with seed pearls, a sweetheart neckline, long, tapered sleeves, and a small peplum which fell over her satin A-line skirt. Venise lace edged the hemline of the skirt and chapel-length train.

The bride's headpiece was a white buckram hat trimmed with silk flowers and seed pearls and a bridal illusion veil which fell to fingertip length.

The bride carried a loose cascading bouquet of white tulips, lacy white wax flowers with accents of fresh heather, creamy lace carnations, and clusters of white pearls.

Sharon Cressman assisted the bride as maid of honor, and Lisa Marxson, Suzanne Goddard, and Becky Walters served as bridesmaids.

They wore identical dresses of daphne rose satin and lace. The skirts were gathered at the Basque waistline and fell to a tea-length hemline. The lace bodices were finished with round necklines, and three-quarter length sleeves edged in satin.

The attendants carried loose nosegays of pink tulips, blue iris, yellow miniature carnations, and fresh heather with accents of purpose static.

Dan Jensen served as best man, and Todd Fetters, Dan Batdorff, and Tyler Bates were groomsmen. Dennis Batdorff, Darrin Batdorff, and Terry Cressman were ushers.

Music for the ceremony was provided by vocalist Lisa Carnahan, organist Arleen Smith, and pianist Jocelyn Foster.

The bride's parents hosted a reception at the Liberty Center Conservation Club, assisted by Tammy Garwood, Marg Woodason, Vicky Sullivan, Beth Oliphant, Janell Brunner, and the Rev. Mr. Magnus. Deb Magnus, sister of the bridegroom, was in charge of the guest book.

The bridegroom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner at the Rustic Cove in Bluffton, Indiana.

The newlyweds are at home in Indianapolis, where the bridegroom is employed as a chemist at the Allison Gas Turbine Division of General Motors. He graduated last year from Huntington College. The bride is a May graduate of Huntington College with a degree in math education.

McLelland-Martinsen wedding

Tara Lee McLelland and Lane G. Martinsen exchanged marriage vows Thursday, April 21, at the Salt Lake City Temple of Latter Day Saints.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis McLelland, former Charlevoix residents who now live in Sandy, Utah. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Martinsen of Murray, Utah.

Paul M. Dunn, a General Authority of Latter Day Saints, conducted the service at which the bride was given in marriage by her father.

Noni Pace of Charlevoix assisted the bride as maid of honor, and Kristen and Amy McLelland, Shellie Hagmann, and Lynette and LaDawn Martinsen served as bridesmaids. The bride's parents hosted a reception at the Seven Oaks Reception Center following the ceremony.

The ceremony was a double wedding ceremony in which the bride's brother, Shawn McLelland, and his bride also participated.

The bride is a substitute teacher in the Jordan School District and her husband is a financial planner for Greystone Marketing.

Frances Martin and Kevin Shutler

Martin-Shutler engagement

Frances M. Martin and Kevin Shutler, both of Traverse City, will be married June 4.

The bride is the daughter of Sue LaBlanc of Petoskey, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Shutler of Traverse City.

The bride-to-be is a graduate of Alanson High School and is employed by the Baird Law Office as a legal secretary. Her fiancé is a graduate of Traverse City High School and is employed by J.P. Manufacturing.

Obituaries

Jean E. Edmonds

Lavina (Jean) Ellen Edmonds, 68, of Charlevoix, died April 27, 1988, at Little Traverse Division, Northern Michigan Hospitals.

Funeral was held Friday, April 29, at Winchester Funeral Home, Charlevoix. The Rev. James K. Gardiner of St. Marys Church officiated and burial was in Mt. Olivet Cemetery, Saginaw.

The former Lavina E. Lintz was born Feb. 4, 1920, in Saginaw, the daughter of Oliver and Marie (DePlooy) Lintz.

She grew up in Saginaw and spent most of her life in the Saginaw area. At one time she owned and operated a beauty salon in Erie, Pa. She moved to Charlevoix in 1978 from Saginaw.

Mrs. Edmonds attended St. Marys Church in Charlevoix and was active in social activities at Pine River Place.

She is survived by her mother Marie Lintz of Saginaw; one daughter Patricia Ann Pence of Charlevoix; two sons, Charles Alden of Ripley, N.Y. and Gary Lee Alden of Lansing; one sister Betty Abney of Saginaw; two brothers, Dwayne Lintz and Lloyd Lintz both of Howell; 13 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

The family suggests memorials to the American diabetes Association.

Ruth Dyer

A requiem eucharist was held Thursday, April 28, for Ruth Dyer of Charlevoix, who died April 26, 1988 at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

The eucharist was held at Christ Episcopal Church in Charlevoix. The Rev. John R. Schaffer of Petoskey officiated.

Eugene, Mary Margaret Renkiewicz

Graveside service for Eugene and Mary Margaret Renkiewicz of Charlevoix, will be 10 a.m. Saturday, May 7, at St. Marys Cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Renkiewicz died Dec. 15, 1987, in a Hayes Township accident in Charlevoix County.

Local arrangements are being handled by Winchester Funeral Home.

"We are being changed"
"The Lord is the Spirit and where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is freedom. And we all, with unveiled face, beholding the glory of the Lord, are being changed into his likeness - for this comes from the Lord who is the Spirit." - 2 Corinthians 3

Sometimes we wait for a change to come - a new job, a new school, new clothes or hair style. This is not easy, but there is something more difficult. It is more difficult to look within and reflect on "what it is" that I must and can change. But how? Stop - go back to where we began and follow the map more closely. Turning around takes us from the comfortable places. We might move into unknown places. And in the unknown places, God places himself. And we say, "I'm turning, Lord." Knowing God is with us, helps us turn, change directions. Prayer: O God, I'm traveling a new path. I've been called by you, to turn and move in your direction. Thank you for nudging me toward wholeness.

SPORTS

Rayders give Chiefs run for the money

Charlevoix may be winless in the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference baseball derby, but the Rayders have shown they can play with the best.

Charlevoix dropped two heartbreakers to Cheboygan Saturday, 13-12 and 5-4, as the Chiefs scored winning runs in both games in the bottom of the seventh inning.

"We played well," said Coach Brian Certa as his team fell to 0-3-1 in conference and 3-4-1 overall.

Helped by five walks, Cheboygan scored six times in the first inning and led 10-4 after two innings. The Rayders cut the margin to 10-9 and then, heading into the bottom of the seventh inning, the contest was tied 12-12. With two outs in the seventh, the Chiefs got a single, double and another single to win. Mike Himebauch, Jim Tilton and Scott Denny all took a turn on the mound for Charlevoix, allowing 10 hits. Brian Baller was the winning pitcher, allowing nine hits.

Rayders strong against Soo in 2-game series last week

Charlevoix's baseball team didn't win but turned in a strong second game performance against Michigan-Huron Shores Conference power Sault Ste. Marie.

After Sault rolled to a five-inning 10-2 victory in the first game, the Rayders fought back in the second contest to gain a 2-2 tie. The game, called at the end of the seventh inning, will be completed at a later date if it has a bearing on final league standings.

In the second contest Steve Hopkins pitched a four-hitter

For Charlevoix, Jason Corwin had three hits including a home run; Denny had two hits; Chad Thorp and Nick Mellios doubled; and Steve Hopkins, Himebauch and Pat Elliott singled.

In the second game, the Rayders almost handed Cheboygan ace Chris Hardin his first defeat of the season.

Down 3-0, Charlevoix came up with three runs in the fifth inning to pull even on a two-run home run by Corey Battle and Dan Drury then followed with a solo home run.

In the top of the seventh inning, Drury hit another homer to put the Rayders ahead 4-3 but in the bottom of the seventh a lead-off single for Cheboygan was followed by a Woodgate home run that ended the game.

Hardin got the win on a seven-hitter with nine strikeouts while Hopkins took the loss granting seven hits.

"He (Hopkins) pitched a good game and we had real good defense," Certa said.

while sophomore Jason Corwin hit a two-run home run.

In the sixth inning Chad Morrow singled and Corwin followed with his home run.

Charlevoix's other two hits were by Mike Himebauch and Dave Loder.

In the first game Sault built an 8-1 lead and then scored eight times in the top of the fifth inning. Shawn Putman took the loss.

Hopkins had two hits with Putman and Chad Thorp adding one.

Wes Cumberland follows through after making a shot during a tennis doubles match against Boyne City. Cumberland was teamed with Scott DeYoung in the match.

Rayder runners take three-way home meet

Charlevoix took both boys and girls of a three-school meet. Among boys, Charlevoix won easily with 103½ points followed by Onaway with 53½ and Boyne City with 30.

Among girls, the Rayders recorded 81 points followed by Boyne City with 56 and Onaway with 40.

Rayders tie for 1st in T.C.

The Charlevoix boys tied for first in the Class C division Monday in the 18-school Traverse City Relays.

Charlevoix took a second place in the final event to pull even with Houghton Lake and Kingsley for first place with 32 points. Mason County Central finished with 31.

Charlevoix had one first-place finish as Sean Henne, Jason Whitley, Pat Rajewski and Scott Miller took the middle distance relay.

Other Rayder results:

4 x 1600 relay: 5th — Dylan Stewart, Bill Crook, Bill Burns, Paul Wakulat.

4 x 800 relay: 2nd — Scott Miller, Sean Henne, Eric Moore, Pat Rajewski.

Rayders lose double-header to Petoskey

The Rayders lost a double-header to Petoskey, 12-2 and 30-5 in softball.

The 30-5 decision in the second contest was called by mutual agreement after three innings.

Only the first game of a double-header counts in Michigan-Huron Shores Conference standings.

In the opener a leadoff single to Darsi Spencely was the Rayders' only hit.

She was also the losing pitcher.

In game two, Petoskey scored 19 times in the first inning and got 11 more runs in the third.

Spencely and Melissa Boss had the Charlevoix hits.

JVs take 2nd game

The Charlevoix junior varsity baseball team won the second game of a double-header with Boyne Falls 6-5 after losing 9-0.

In the opener, 12 Charlevoix batters struck out and they collected only a single by Cory Ostrum. Losing pitcher was Dan Terryberry on a three-hitter.

In game two, Charlevoix used a three-run third inning to key the victory. Jason Parrish and Eric McElroy had RBI singles. Guy Genge was the winning hurler allowing five hits, six walks and five strikeouts.

Genge led the Charlevoix attack with two hits.

Taylor qualifies for nationals

For the second straight year, Charlevoix's Billy Taylor has qualified for the NCAA Division I National finals in track.

Competing in the Penn Relays at Philadelphia, the Central Michigan University junior finished third in the 10,000-meter run to earn a trip to the nationals at Eugene, Ore., in June.

Taylor was recovering from a knee injury and this was only his second competitive run this spring.

Taylor's time was 28:58. First place finisher John Scherer of the University of Michigan ran a 28:55.

Fastpitch league meeting May 17

A meeting to decide if fastpitch leagues for men and women will be formed for Sunday play will be held in the community room of Charlevoix City Hall at 7 p.m. Tuesday, May 17.

Recreation director Dwight Boss said eight men's teams are being organized.

Three women's teams have signed up and others are invited to join the league. Out-of-town women's teams will be accepted.

Boss may be reached at his office in the city hall 4-5 p.m. Monday through Friday or at his home evenings.

Need a Doctor?

For most of us, the answer is yes.

We need a doctor who can help us stay well, one who can guide our care when we're ill. We need someone who is there for us and our family in an emergency.

Finding a doctor who meets your individual needs is not always easy. That's why it's important to find a doctor before you need one when you have the time and energy to make a careful choice. Now, there is a new, free service that can help you with this important decision — HealthSource Physician Referral.

At HealthSource Physician Referral, trained staff will personally answer your call and give you the names of physicians whose location and hours are most convenient for you. Computerized files help the staff supply other information you may want about a physician's background, education and special interests.

Your call will be answered 24 hours a day.

BUSINESS

Hospital gets marketing director from Munson

by PEG OHLE

Nancy M. Ellison, who lives south of Eastport, now drives north to her job instead of south, as she did for 14 years.

Ellison is the new director of marketing and public relations at Charlevoix Area Hospital, coming from Munson Medical Center in Traverse City.

In her new job, Ellison says she will "help" the hospital develop programs and services, promote hospital activities, and act as liaison between the community and the hospital.

While at Munson, Ellison also worked with smaller hospitals in Kalkaska and Frankfort.

"I am familiar with the problems of small hospitals," she told the Courier. "They have lots of problems, but we need them. Their communities need them."

Ellison is a graduate of the University of Michigan with a degree in journalism. She and her husband, Richard, "retired" to northern Michigan from Ann Arbor in 1972 after spending many summers near Eastport. He is presently engaged in the excavating business.

Ellison is not only a journalist, but a playwright. One of her plays, "A Mother's Love," was recently produced by the Old Town Playhouse in Traverse City.

Ellison replaces Dave Knight, who left the hospital for a magazine editing position in Boyne City.

REAL ESTATE

Gregory Smith is president of the Antrim-Charlevoix Board of Realtors.

Now that mortgage interest rates are affordable, home ownership once again will be high on the list of opportunities for many families.

Owning a home means many things to many people: a place where family members can get together, the reality of the American Dream, a symbol of independence, and a comfortable retreat at the end of the day.

Following are a few of the many advantages of home ownership.

— A home is an investment—a substantial one—and a safe way to invest. Home ownership pays attractive rewards almost immediately through income tax deductions on mortgage interest and real estate taxes.

There are also many long-range benefits available through income deferments and exemptions in the event you sell your home and have capital gains.

— You can live better for less.

While you're investing you also are providing for the largest single item in your budget: shelter. But, since payments remain virtually the same throughout the period of the mortgage, the percentage allotted for shelter continues to decrease.

In addition to the home itself, the land on which the home is built also has appreciated in value — at an even more rapid pace.

— Owning a home makes the owner a solid part of the community. It gives the owner a feeling of solidarity with the community of belonging. The owner now has a substantial stake in how the community grows and prospers.

SCRAPBOOK

REFLECTIONS

Horton Bay store honored

Fran Martin is recuperating from surgery. Her Reflections column should resume soon. In her absence, Peg Ohle this week tells about a business that has been operating in Horton Bay for over 100 years.

by PEG OHLE

The Horton Bay General Store deserves some recognition.

During all its long life, it has been the center of activity in that crossroads hamlet between Charlevoix and Boyne City.

In the latter part of the last century, it was the source of almost all the necessities of everyday life for the farmers and loggers who lived and worked in the Horton Bay area.

It provided flour and sugar, beans and rice, and salt and spices for their hearty meals. It sold the rudiments of clothing for their outdoor lives—long Johns, overalls, heavy shirts, boots, and canvas gloves.

It enticed their women with yards of patterned calico, silk ribbons, bits of lace, and, more importantly, flannel diaper material for the ever-arriving young'uns.

But it was as a social gathering place that the Horton Bay General Store most memorably served the community. Around the pot-bellied stove in winter and on the long front porch in summer, immigrant Bohemian settlers joined the homesteaders from Ohio and New York to discuss the day's news, the weather, Republican politics, sporting events, and their plans for the future.

Today, 110 years after the Horton Bay General Store first opened its doors, in 1878, a similar group gathers daily to sit on stools along the long formica-topped counter. There are no loggers now, but there are farmers and artisans of all kinds, writers, retirees, salespeople, and many others who don't have to spend their mornings in an office or plant.

Now, finally, the Horton Bay General Store is about to be recognized for the part it has played in the lives of those it serves. On July 4, preceding the annual Fourth of July parade, the store will receive a plaque from the State of Michigan Department of Commerce designating it as a Centennial Business. It is believed to be only the third business in Charlevoix County so recognized. The East Jordan Iron Works, which was founded in 1833, received a plaque 100 years later, in 1933. The Charlevoix County State Bank in Charlevoix, which celebrated its centennial in 1984, received a plaque that year.

The Horton Bay General Store is probably the oldest business in Charlevoix County and it would have received Centennial Business recognition several years ago but it took a lot of digging to trace its history through 33 owners.

The store building was built in 1878 by William H. Ohle, a resident carpenter, apparently for Sam Horton, who had arrived in the area in 1856 from Toledo, Ohio. The property on which it was built was then owned by another pioneer resident, James Dilworth, a Canadian who came to Charlevoix County by way of Cleveland. In its early days, the store also served as a Post Office.

The first store operators were Charles Hinds and John Carroll, whose background has been lost in history. They were followed by other pioneers—Alanzo Stroud (the first Postmaster), Conrad Schneider, Merton and Frank Fox, Charles Friend, Ben Belknap, and Don Fox.

In more recent times, Harriett Housel and her father and mother moved back to northern Michigan from California to operate the Horton Bay General Store for 13 years. They sold it to Ray and Jan Eggers, who turned it over to Wyatt and Lenora Gordon, who sold it last fall to Jon and Karen Cooper.

Jon is an Englishman, an artist at heart, who is bringing the store back to its early appearance. He has refinished the maple floors to their original beauty, collected antique tools and household items for display, and assembled material relating to Ernest Hemingway.

Charlevoix Yesterday

The Horton Bay General Store, with the exception of the center steps, looks much the same today as it did when this picture taken, in the early part of the century.

Corps going ahead with pier repairs

Despite continuing objections, replacement of the south pier into Lake Michigan is expected to begin this summer.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has decided to begin construction of a U-shaped pier -- retaining the present lighthouse -- even though the city and state Department of Natural Resources oppose the design.

City council decided Monday, May 9, to again write the corps, expressing the need for a fisherman's catwalk across the open end of the U.

The catwalk would eliminate the loss of pier fishing space caused by reconstruction. Rock rubble would slope from the edge of the pier into the channel, as it does along the north pier, cutting down fishing space.

City Manager Mike Wiesner agreed with council's decision to write the corps, but said he didn't think it would matter.

Wiesner said he spoke to DNR officials Monday and they were changing from their previous hard-line position to one of silent acquiescence.

The corps says it will open bids May 28 whether or not it has a water quality certificate from the DNR.

The DNR said it still plans to set up a meeting with city and corps officials, Wiesner said.

U.S. Rep. Robert Davis' office has been looking for alternate sources of funding for a catwalk -- which the corps says it cannot fund because all its work must be navigational, not recreational.

One possibility might involve 50 percent city or DNR funding of a $125,000 project, Wiesner said, but the DNR says it would not participate.

Wiesner asked city council if it were willing to commit to 50 percent of the cost of a catwalk. That question was not answered during discussion that followed.

Trash pickup fee hike hearing set by city

A public hearing on higher trash pickup rates is scheduled for 7 p.m. Monday, May 23, at City Hall.

City council will conduct the hearing at the request of Waste Management of Northern Michigan, which wants to increase rates by $2 a month.

The new rate of $9 would help offset a 71 percent rate hike at Charlevoix County Landfill, which is owned by the same company as the garbage hauler.

Blamed for the cost hike are installation of safety measures and new state requirements for monitoring and care of the facility after it is closed.

The present facility has a life of about 10 more years, according to the county Solid Waste Management Committee, which is updating the county's waste disposal plan.

Waste Management has asked for permission to expand the 40-acre site to 100 acres but has been turned down by the committee.

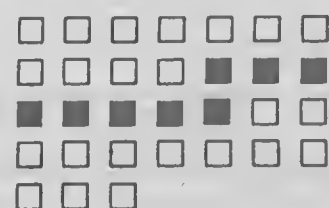

The committee's decision "not to allow these costs to be spread out over a greater volume of air space" is another reason for increasing the rates, according to site manager Barney Way.

Preparing for petunias

Jim Boss checks the work of a specially made plow as he digs a new petunia bed along U.S. 31. Boss, followed by Dale Boss in the petunia watering truck, is among those preparing the 4 1/2-mile, 45,000-flower bed for the hundreds of volunteers who will gather Thursday, May 26, for the annual event. ## Ahead-lines

Plenty to do before petunia planting

There's a lot of work going on before 600 or 700 petunia planters line up along U.S. 31 to plant 45,000 flowers.

This year's Operation Petunia will be held Thursday, May 26, with planting beginning at 5 p.m.

As usual, hundreds of community-minded volunteers will take less than an hour to do the planting. But, as usual, there's a lot being done by a small group of people beforehand.

The first chore this year was a new one — poking thousands of holes in a petroleum-based "weed blanket."

The blanket, which will be laid along the entire route this year, is intended to eliminate summer-long weeding, which last year cost more than the weed blanket.

Trustees at the Charlevoix County jail cut the holes in nearly five miles of the material. Sidewalks and curbs were brushed clear of sand by Jessie King, using a rented power broom, before plowing began.

A special plow manufactured by David Arnold was mounted on a tractor donated by Jerry and Joan Balch.

With Jim Boss at the controls, the tractor dug an 18-inch-wide trench from one end of the city to the other, and back.

Dale Boss, who dreamed up Operation Petunia in 1981, followed the tractor in the watering truck — providing traffic control and publicity.

The beds were dug deeper this year to aid water drainage and remove sand accumulated in recent years.

Hand shovel work hasn't been eliminated, though, and an inmate and a Green Thumb program retiree working through the city are working this week on beds.

Then there's roto-tilling and fertilization. And laying the weed blanket.

When block captains gather for a rehearsal, they will plant a block or two to see if the weed blanket provides an special difficulties not encountered by planters in previous years.

Planters should take trowels, shovels or other implements to the planting. Keep Charlevoix Beautiful president Bruce MacArthur says, because holes will have to be made in the dirt through the weed blanket.

Classy Bickerteth is again block captain coordinator and Frenchie Novotny is chairman of the picnic to follow the planting.

As in past years, planters will receive tickets for free hot dog, drink, ice cream and Tom's Mom's cookie.

Paver bricks are being installed in strips along the front of the Chamber of Commerce building to try to cut down on petunia trampling in high-traffic areas.

Petunias will be planted between where car doors open in the demonstration project. The treatment may be repeated in future years along the side of Points North Inn and in other heavy-walking areas.

City Council meets, City Hall, 7 p.m.
Barnard Women Family Potluck at the grange, 6 p.m.
Charlevoix Board of Education meets in high school study hall, 7:30 p.m.

The Otis family makes itself at home in the Charlevoix area after living in a West German castle. The potters will soon be opening a studio in the century-old farmhouse.

Their home was a castle

Potters move family from Europe to Charlevoix

by SARA GAY DAMMANN

David and June Otis lived in a castle in Kassel, West Germany, with their three children, happily making ceramics, until...

No, this isn't a fairy tale. It is the true story of how an American potter and painter moved from a castle to a century-old farmhouse between Charlevoix and East Jordan.

David and June — he's the potter, she's the painter — had lived in Germany since 1969. They'd lived in cities and villages, on U.S. military bases and finally in a castle, all in the line of work.

But, after 19 years, as their children — Andrew, Erin and Amy — became increasingly involved in school, David and June decided it was time to return to the States.

"So, I was thumbing through the October edition of Ceramics Monthly, which arrived a month late," recalls David, "when I saw an ad in the classified section, describing a 1900's farm house with studio and pottery. The ad said the area was great for art fairs, and it gave the phone number."

Chuck and Nancy Koucky were more than a little surprised when they answered the phone last November to hear David Otis explained from where he was calling.

"I couldn't believe it," Nancy Koucky remembers. "But we sent a package of pictures and plans."

In January, the Otises came to Charlevoix for four days. They agreed to purchase the Kouckys' former home and studio, and returned with children, cat and crates of pottery.

Rural Charlevoix is well suited to their needs, they agree. They want to live in the country. Amy hopes to have a horse. Andrew and Erin love wandering in the woods, discovering local snakes, lizards, toads and such.

For the success of their pottery business, they say then needed to be in an area which attracts tourists and is near art fairs.

David's travels began when he left his native Lexington, Ky., for Berkeley, Calif., to get his master's degree in art at the University of California.

After graduating in 1969, he took off to wander Europe for nine months. Then he returned to tell June, whom he'd met in grad school, "of the wonders of Europe."

June, who was teaching junior high school art, found a job teaching American children on a U.S. Army Base in Giessen, West Germany. David lived in Berne, Switzerland, where he taught English and studied flute.

Two years later he moved to Giessen, found a job teaching art history through the University of Maryland's program for the military, and married June.

They moved off the base to the small village of Eberstadt, "a typical German farm community."

In 1971, they moved from Eberstadt to an old mill where they set up a pottery studio and "became more intensely involved in our art work," David says.

"We also became very involved in Christianity. I had been asking questions, inner questions. I got to the point that the Christianity I had rejected earlier made sense," David says.

A commitment to art and religion and a concern about the growing drug scene around and on the Giessen base spurred the Otises to open an informal coffee house "KerygmaKeller" for GIs and German youths.

David traveled to England to study at major pottery studios. There he was introduced to high-fired stoneware and began exploring wood firing.

June Otis became more involved in the coffee house and assisting David in his pottery. Six years after opening "KerygmaKeller," the Otises were asked to teach pottery in a drug rehabilitation center near Kassel. They were given an apartment in a renovated castle.

"It became the turning point in my ceramics. I had no other responsibility but to make pots," David says. "We built a wood kiln and I began to broaden as a potter."

Police will salute slain law officers

A ceremony will be held in East Park on Tuesday, May 17, as part of a Police Memorial Week observance.

The ceremony, involving seven law enforcement agencies, will begin at 10 a.m. at the Submariners Memorial in East Park.

Participating are Charlevoix, Boyne City and East Jordan police, the county sheriff department, State Police, Department of Natural Resources and Coast Guard.

An American Legion color guard and a trumpet player from the high school will also participate.

The ceremony is part of a nation-wide Police Memorial Week observance, saluting law officers who have died in the line of duty.

Charlevoix police chief Dennis Halverson said 72 officers were killed in the United States last year including one in the Gaylord area.

AROUND THE TOWN

Charlevoix's post office could still end up at the top of the State and Huribut hill.... The site is presently that of a car wash and is owned by Oleson Food Stores....

The U.S. Postal Service talked a couple years ago about moving into larger quarters and looked at several sites around town.... The city's Downtown Development Authority purchased the post office building for (what it thought at the time would be) fire hall expansion.... The fire hall was moved onto State Street....

Postal Service plans got bogged down in post office deficits which resulted in an edict that no construction was forthcoming.... The possibility of the Postal Service leasing a larger facility from someone willing to build and rent was left open, though.... And an Oleson's official says the food chain might be interested in such a deal.... Oleson's is trying to decide how to expand its downtown Charlevoix store.

New "welcome" signs for the city would look like this drawing.

The welcome sign is out or, at least, soon will be.... Three new wood welcome signs are being ordered to greet visitors this summer.... The order was placed by city council after several members of Keep Charlevoix Beautiful made a plea for replacement of two old ones....

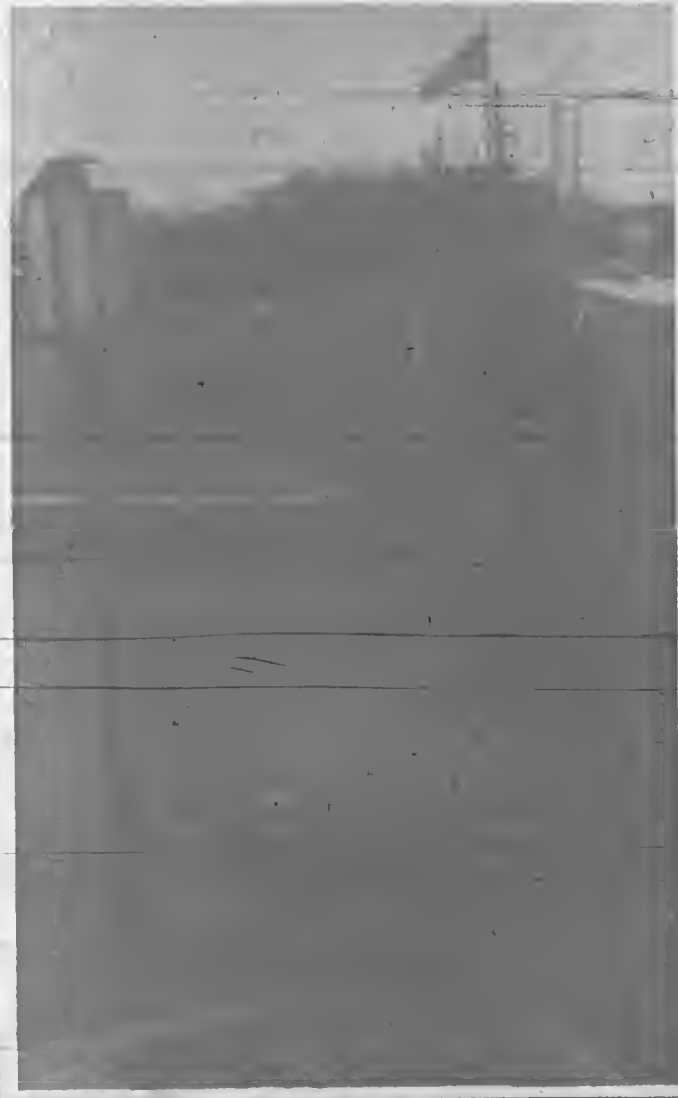

The northern entrance to the city doesn't have a welcome sign because it was taken down several years ago to satisfy a business owner who thought it was detracting from his enterprise, says Dale Boss.... Boss says the present signs are an embarrassment, particularly one on M-66....

The community makes significant efforts to attract visitors, Boss says, then "here's an old rag at the end of town that's worn out.... The three new signs will be made by The Homestead in East Jordan for $4,500 and Keep Charlevoix Beautiful will pay for landscaping.... The city is checking to make sure the structures are welcomed by the city sign ordinance.

Houses need clear numbering

Editor,

If Charlevoix merchants had to rely exclusively on street addresses for their business, they might not make as many sales. Local businesses need to clearly mark their addresses on their business for convenience and safety. Residences throughout Charlevoix county also have address numbers in places that are hard for friends or emergency personnel to find.

Petoskey has organized a "building address program" set up by the city planner and a fire prevention officer. The city's sign ordinance is clear. A violation is punishable by a fine of $30 to $100.

If you are unclear about how to display your address, here are some guidelines:

— A person looking for a street

Letters to the editor:

address is usually about 50 feet away.

— Preferably put numbers on the house and near the front door.

— Put number near a porch light for night visibility.

— Put number at a height high enough to be above the snow in winter.

— Use numerical display not script.

— Make sure colors of numbers and background wall are contrasting.

— Commercial addresses can be incorporated into building signage, window display or awnings.

I would like to have Charlevoix organize this common-sense project. In the mean time, those of us who do not have the proper addressing of our home or business should feel inclined to spend a few minutes to display our address. It could mean life or death, a package we might have missed, an on-time repair person, a visit from a relative or friend, or even a hot pizza.

Home design featured in magazine, tour

Featured in the June issue of Detroit Monthly Magazine is a house decorated by Charlevoix's Linda Mason, ASID.

For those of you who are unfamiliar with the designation, ASID, you'll be interested to know that one needs to pass a stiff exam to be admitted into this prestigious group of American Society of Interior Designers.

The house is located on the Birchwood Farm Estate near Harbor Springs and is used as a resort home by a downstate corporation. Linda is proud of an 8 foot by 8 foot-framed antique quilt, a dining room with all black walls, an antique French hall tree loaded with a collection of antique hats, among other unique things.

Suzi Farberman, who writes regularly on interior design for Detroit Monthly penned the Birchwood house article. What you may not know is that Suzi Farberman and her handsome husband, Burton, are frequent visitors in Charlevoix. They have a place in town and also a farm where they enjoy horseback riding, through the woods and fields.

When the Kappa Sigma sorority was looking for homes for its annual House Tour for the benefit of the Charlevoix Area Hospital, someone suggested the Farberman home on Belvedere Avenue.

Chairman Barbara Evanish was delighted when she got an immediate and enthusiastic "yes" to her request.

Suzi told me she enjoys going to house tours herself so much that this was the least she could do in return. It will be a great treat to view the home of the regional director of the Fashion Group of Detroit as well as someone who has a delightful collection of folk art.

The date for the house tour is Wednesday, July 13, so be sure to mark your calendar. Evanish promises this will be one of their best.

Other outstanding showplaces this year include, the "Big House" belonging to the Richard Lepmans on the Loeb Estate.

Signs of a red-hot summer

What kind of a summer is it going to be?

That's a question Charlevoix-ans are starting to ask each other now that warm weather has arrived.

No one knows for sure, of course, except astrologers and folks who read tea leaves.

But if weekend crowds downtown this May are any indication, the season will be another barn-burner.

And Charlevoix merchants are getting ready for the onslaught, with lots of remodeling and redecorating under way.

One welcome addition to the old town will be a new deli at the rear of the Wharf Side Market on Round Lake. What a natural location for a deli, with a fleet of pleasure craft docked outside the door!

Chef Dave Phillips will be the proprietor.

I can hardly wait to walk into the Wharf Side and smell something good cooking in the back room.

When the store was owned by Gordon and Bob Neff, the aromas were always tantalizing. Bob, the meat cutter, doubled as house chef and always had a pot of soup or a roast cooking behind the meat counter.

Bob didn't exactly run a restaurant on the premises, but if you looked hungry enough, he'd give you a sample.

Bob also was generous with the rat cheese he shaved from a gigantic wheel. The cheese was so big that it occupied its own butcher block under a huge cake-keeper. One taste meant a sure sale.

I won't even mention Bob's potato sausage, since all good things must come to an end, and potato sausage is one of them.

I ALSO HEAR that the Hugo's Restaurant next to the Charlevoix IGA on Petoskey Road has been sold, although the "for sale" sign is still in place. The restaurant reportedly will specialize in whitefish and barbecued ribs — both sit-down and take-out.

The little restaurant has had its ups and downs over the years. Twenty years ago it was called The Chicken Roost, if memory serves, and prepared the best fried chicken in the North. Then the owner moved his business downtown — to the site of the highly successful Great Lakes Whitefish restaurant — and didn't do too well.

Customers are a tickle lot.

What Charlevoix needs, since Joe Ricciardi left the Weather-vane, is a good Italian restaurant. Sure, we have lots of pizza palaces — but no real Italian restaurant where you can buy manicotti, lasagne, linguine, spaghetti and other Italian specialties, accompanied by baskets of warm garlic bread and monumental antipastos laced with anchovies.

We also could use a good Chinese restaurant.

WHY ARE THE first spring flowers always yellow?

Mother Nature probably has an explanation, but she's not talking.

Of course, little crocuses come in assorted colors, but they usually are covered by snow and they don't last long.

But then come the butter-yellow daffodils — which are as common in Charlevoix in May as petunias in August — and the lemon yellow forsythia, which are sure signs that spring is at hand.

Forsythia, incidentally, was named for William Forsyth, a botanist who lived in Great Britain during the American Revolution. It is a member of the olive family.

This week, the flowering trees should show their pink-tinged blossoms — including apples, cherries, and flowering crab, in company with multi-hued tulips. Then, by the end of the month, lilacs should be in bloom with their many shades of lavender and white.

After that, the town should be an explosion of color with peonies, glads and other summer-blooming plants of every description.

It's a terrible season to be color blind.

was well as the newly redecorated cottage belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas May in the Chicago Club; Dr. and Mrs. Donald Kelly's authentic and charming small cottage on the Belvedere Club; and Mr. and Mrs. Michael Roth's contemporary condo in the Harbor Club, which also was decorated by Linda Mason.

Two weeks before the Charlevoix House Tour, on Monday, June 20, Crooked Tree Arts Council is offering a Harbor Springs House Tour of seven unusual homes. I've seen them all, and if I could rub a magic lamp I would like to have the 360-degree view from the MacCready townhouse of the harbor and the bluff; the living room of the Quinlan's spacious Tudor home with apricot bisque walls; the dining room of the de Fries home that Tom Borman, ASID, designed with the wallpaper from the Victoria and Albert Collection; the sunroom of the Davis's 100-year-old Italianate Victorian; the sugar-coated, whipped cream, white lace bedroom with fireplace of the Serva cottage; the Neff kitchen and breakfast nook; and the old-fashioned porch of the Smith cottage on the harbor.

Discussion group focuses on solid waste disposal

FOCUS will discuss the burgeoning waste problem at its next public forum, at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, May 18, in the Charlevoix High School study hall.

FOCUS has invited a panel of state and county people to present solid waste-management alternatives for this area.

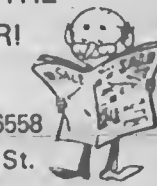

The panel includes Marta Fisher, Department of Natural Resources; Charles Cabbage of the Toxic Substance Control

ing about landfilling; and Larry Levensgood, Charlevoix County Department of Health and member of the county solid waste committee, who will talk about Public Act 641, which requires plans be revised every five years.

Arts dinner winners picked

Five winners of Crooked Tree Arts Council "$5 Million Dinners" have been selected.

Two Charlevoix participants were selected as alternates in case winners cannot attend. They are Paul Drewanz and Dr. and Mrs. Jerome Pace.

Winners are Mr. and Mrs. William Schubert and Mr. and Mrs. Mel Kauffman of Harbor Springs, Mr. and Mrs. James Gillespie of Good Hart, and Mr. and Mrs. Laverne Hall and Dr. and Mrs. Gary Melton of Boyne City.

County Democrats back Irwin

Charlevoix County Democrats will hold a brunch for congressional candidate Mitch Irwin from 1 to 2 p.m. Sunday, June 5, at One Water Street, Boyne City. The organization endorsed the state senator's congressional campaign at its April meeting.

In a unanimous vote, Lance Johnson remained as chairman, Ellen Addington as vice chairwoman and Phyllis Marchinkiewicz as treasurer.

A new secretary, Lois Simons from Charlevoix, was elected.

Seniors attend tea

Among those attending the annual Charlevoix Women's Club tea for graduating Charlevoix High girls and their mothers were (front row) Sally Buckner, Ruth Geech and Gloria Schaefer and (back row) exchange students Andrea Lopez and Marta Sanjuan, Kim Buckner, Rikki Geech and Sheri Schaefer.

Bus system offers special rides

Special events are planned by Charlevoix Transit during National Transportation and State Transportation Week.

On Monday, May 16, adult foster home clients will ride free to area senior centers for lunch. The next day, all commuters with a pass may ride free one-way 6-9 a.m. and 3-6 p.m.

Senior citizens can ride for 10 cents on Wednesday, May 18, and non-seniors may ride up to five miles in the county free from 9 a.m. to noon Thursday, May 19.

On Friday, May 20, non-seniors may ride free up to five miles anywhere in the county between noon and 3 p.m.

There will also be drawings for free commuter passes. One will be one by the person guessing the total ridership from Jan. 1, 1987, to May 21, 1988, without going over. Each day the name of a rider filling out an entry form will be selected. And poster contests in three age groups are being held with savings bonds as prizes.

Jesse Beatty, Dan Jackson and Matt Smith will represent Charlevoix Middle School in the state math competition May 21 at Central Michigan University.

Math students prepare for state competition

by PEG OHLE

Three students at Charlevoix Middle School are spending time after school preparing for a state contest in mathematics.

The event, sponsored by the Michigan Council of Teachers of Mathematics, will be held May 21 at Central Michigan University.

Seventh grader Matt Smith and sixth graders Jesse Beatty and Dan Jackson survived regional competition to earn their way to the state contest.

Smith placed fourth in the MCTM regional contest in Cheboygan. Beatty placed fifth, and Jackson placed seventh.

Smith also placed first in the regional Masters Round in the "Math Counts" competition and first in the seventh grade state Michigan Mathematics League competition.

Beatty also placed first in the region and 10th in the state among sixth graders in the Michigan Mathematics League competition.

While these students received individual honors, several other students received recognition as members of teams which did well in competition, according to Kay Fiedorek, middle school math teacher who has been working with them.

A team of four students competed in the "Math Counts" contest. Matt Smith, Mindy Noirot, Anne Schairbaum and Jamie Pfluecke spent a day in Boyne City for the contest and worked together solving math problems.

They finished second in the competition, which Fiedorek considers especially good because it was the first time Charlevoix competed in this event.

Middle school math teacher Tori Fisher coached the team.

The Michigan Mathematics League competition was a mail-in contest, with local teachers giving the tests to their teams and sending in team scores.

Three Charlevoix Middle School teams participated in this event, one representing each of the three grades.

The sixth grade team, which finished third in the region, was made up of Jesse Beatty, Jessie Wheat, Dan Jackson, Carrie Wakulat, Jeff Joy, David Dobulski and Bert Elliott.

The seventh grade team, which finished 12th in the state, was made up of Matt Smith, Anne Schairbaum, Nancy Dammann, Mindy Noirot and Megan Friedly.

The eighth grade team was made up of Jason Pajtas, Mariah Brown, Luke Porath, Joe Ferroll and Jackie Brewster.

Three teams also participated in the MCTM regional competition.

Students on the sixth grade team were Dan Jackson, Bert Elliott, Elizabeth Browe and Jesse Beatty.

Those on the seventh grade team were Matt Smith, Nancy Dammann, Janel Campbell and Denny Jinsky.

Those on the eighth grade team were Travis Blissett, Dan Boss, Luke Porath and Dan Avery.

Fiedorek said all three middle school math teachers work with the teams in competition.

Her regular duties are teaching algebra, advanced eighth grade math and advanced sixth grade math. Fisher teaches seventh grade advanced math, and Richard McLenon teaches seventh grade regular math.

Law officers compete in shooting contest

Sharpshooting law officers and nuclear plant security personnel will compete Saturday, May 14, at Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club in The Big Rock Point Invitational Turkey Shoot.

Competing will be members of the Charlevoix Police Department, Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department, Boyne City Police Department, East Jordan Police Department, Potoskey post of the Michigan State Police, U.S. Coast Guard Lifeboat Station in Charlevoix, Michigan Department of Natural Resources and Burns International security force at Big Rock Point.

The event is co-sponsored by the Charlevoix Police Department and Big Rock Point with support from the Coast Guard and DNR.

Each agency will field a three-member team equipped with standard sidearms. Each team member will be required to fire 62 rounds on a standard competition course specified by the Michigan Law Enforcement Officers Training Council.

The course tests a shooter's accuracy from various distances and positions, at various speeds and using either hand. Trophies will be awarded to the top individual and team scorers.

Practice firing will begin at 1 p.m. The competition will start at 2 p.m.

Need a Doctor?

For most of us, the answer is yes.

We need a doctor who can help us stay well, one who can guide our care when we're ill. We need someone who is there for us and our family in an emergency.

Finding a doctor who meets your individual needs is not always easy. That's why it's important to find a doctor before you need one when you have the time and energy to make a careful choice. Now, there is a new, free service that can help you with this important decision—HealthSource Physician Referral.

At HealthSource Physician Referral, trained staff will personally answer your call and give you the names of physicians whose location and hours are most convenient for you. Computerized files help the staff supply other information you may want about a physician's background, education and special interests.

Your call will be answered 24 hours a day.

Witthoefs renew vows

Ivan Joel Witthoef and the former Lucille Elaine Malama renewed their marriage vows on March 21 at Immaculate Conception Catholic Church on Ewa, Hawaii.

The Rev. Bernard Eikmier, who married the couple at Sacred Heart Catholic Church on May 19, 1962, officiated at the ceremony.

An anniversary party hosted by their attendants Ramon and Helen Quizon and by Mrs. Witthoef's brother and sister-in-law, Steven and Dinah Gardenas, was held at Paradise Cove, Waianae, Hawaii.

Mr. and Mrs. Witthoef have been residents of Charlevoix for 14 years. Mr. Witthoef owns and operates the Charlevoix Electrical Service.

The Witthoef children are: Tom and Rebecca Wanek of Silverdale, Wash., A.J. and Michelle Witthoef of Marquette, Marvin and Ember Witthoef and Charles F. Witthoef of Charlevoix.

BEACONS

OF BLESSINGS

Prepared weekly by the members of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.

by the Rev. Philip Schairbaum
First Congregational Church

"Earth is instinct with spirit everywhere."

—Thomas Landels

What a wonderful season spring is! The longer days; the warmer nights, the greener landscape—all these add to our sense of spring's arrival.

For me, however, nothing announces spring more than the sound of roto-tillers preparing gardens (and curbsides) for this year's plantings.

That's happening all over Charlevoix these days and give me reason to reflect a bit about the meaning of spring.

Some would see spring simply as an astronomical event, part of the endless cycle of life in which all things simply exist as they are, and "there is nothing new under the sun" (Ecclesiastes 1:9).

Such a perspective considers the earth to be stagnant, without any possibility of changing. It offers no hope that life will ever be any different from what is right now.

Sadly, those who take this position are destined to live a life just like that—stagnant and without hope.

In contrast, people who view the world through the eyes of faith see new things being created all the time, "in heaven and on earth and under the earth" (Philippians 2:10).

Springtime for them is simply a visible reminder that new life can spring up in most any place, even where we least expect it. It is no mere coincidence that we celebrate spring at the same time we celebrate Easter, that season when new life arose even out of the bonds of death.

Yes, the whole earth is filled with "instinct," as Landels put it—the instinct of God, whose Spirit always and everywhere "works for good for those who love and trust him" (Romans 8:28).

The other day I came across a clever springtime piece which talks about planting the garden of the Lord. As you read it perhaps you will get some new ideas for cultivating springtime happiness.

First plant five rows of peas!

Prayer
Perseverance Politeness Purity
Promptness

Next plant three rows of squash:

Squash Gossip
Squash Doubt Squash Indifference.

Then five rows of lettuce:

Let us be Faithful to Duty
Let us be Unselfish
Let us be Gentle
Let us follow Wisdom
Let us Love Life

No garden is complete without turnips:

Turn up for Church
Turn up with a Smile
Turn up with New Ideas
Turn up with determination to make everything count for something good and worthwhile.
—Borrowed

Obituaries

Steve Faculak

Steve L. Faculak, Sr., 71, died Saturday, May 7 at Flint Osteopathic Hospital. Services were held Tuesday, May 10 at Swartz Funeral Home, Flint. The Rev. Wayne Ferrigan officiated and interment was in Crestwood Cemetery in Grand Blanc.

Born in Chicago on Aug. 16, 1916, Mr. Faculak was a resident of Flint for 15 years moving from Charlevoix. He was a veteran of WWII.

Surviving are his wife Bertha; two sons, Steve of Flint and John of Diamondale, 3 grandchildren and a brother, Tony of Charlevoix.

CHURCH

Family footsteps followed

by PEG OHLE

Pastor James D. Green has a family history of participation in the ministry.

Green came to Bible Baptist Church last fall to replace Pastor Jim Lugibihl, who retired.

Green grew up in Lansing, the son of a Baptist minister. His four older brothers had joined the ministry earlier and his sister had married a minister.

Green told the Courier he is also the grandson of a Baptist minister with local connections.

His maternal grandfather was minister of Parr Memorial Baptist Church in Petoskey. It was there that his mother and father were married 39 years ago, after which they drove to Charlevoix to spend their wedding night at the Charlevoix Hotel.

"Coming to the Charlevoix church was like coming home for my family," he said.

Green graduated from Massillon Baptist College in Ohio and returned to Lansing to serve for seven years as youth director in his father's church. Charlevoix is his first pastorate.

While in Lansing, Green served the state department of corrections as a chaplain and now is on the rotating list of chaplains serving the Charlevoix County jail.

Green and his wife, Terri, have three children, Philip, 4, Seth, 2, and Bethany, almost a year old.

Pat Rajewski, shown in an earlier meet, helped Charlevoix to victory in the Warren Converse invitational in Kalkaska with his first place finish in the 800-meter run and second place in the 1600 meter.

Doubles wins aid netters' victories

Charlevoix won two of three tennis matches, beating Northport 4-3 and Elk Rapids 5-2 while losing to Petoskey 5-2.

In singles matches against Northport, Marty Joy won 7-5, 3-6, 7-6; Ryan Holmes lost 7-5, 6-4; J.D. Boydston lost 6-1, 6-1 and David Puhl lost 7-5, 6-1.

In doubles Scott DeYoung and Wes Cumberland won 1-6, 6-3, 6-3; Charlie Witthoef and Dan Bickersteth won 6-0, 5-7, 6-2 and Tim Jervis and Scott Crain won 6-4, 6-3.

In the victory over Elk Rapids, the Elks and Rayders split in singles. Joy won 7-5, 6-1; Holmes lost 7-6, 6-1; Boydston won 6-4, 4-6, 6-4 and Puhl lost 3-6, 6-3, 7-5.

In doubles DeYoung and Cumberland won 6-0, 6-2; Witthoef and Bickersteth won 6-1, 6-3 and Jervis and Crain won 6-0,

Charlevoix's string of doubles victories ended against Petoskey.

In singles Joy lost 6-2, 6-3; Holmes won 6-1, 6-1; Witthoef lost 6-0, 6-1 and Puhl lost 6-3, 6-2.

In doubles DeYoung and Cumberland won 4-6, 6-4, 7-5 but Boydston and Bickersteth lost 6-4, 6-4 and Jervis and Crain lost 6-1, 6-1.

Softball team beaten twice by Petoskey

Petoskey took a pair of five inning softball victories over Charlevoix, 18-2 and 23-1.

Charlevoix remains winless for the season.

Jill Brecheisen threw her third one-hitter of the season in game one, allowing only a second-inning single to Stacey Skeel.

Petoskey led 4-0 through three innings before breaking the game open with nine runs on no hits in the fourth.

In the second game, Petoskey started with a nine-run first frame and added another nine in the fourth.

Skeel started on the mound for Charlevoix with Spencley coming on in the second inning. The Rayder hits were by Brenda Sutton, Anne Hogan and Anna D'Angelo.

Rayders suffer close losses on diamond

Walks spell defeat in loss to Gaylord

Charlevoix suffered two losses to Gaylord, 11-9 and 8-7, in Michigan-Huron Shores Conference action.

In the nightcap, three pitchers gave up six walks and a batsman was hit in the bottom of the seventh inning, enabling the Blue Devils to rally from a 7-4 deficit.

Coach Brian Certa's Rayders amassed 25 hits in two games. Dan Drury singled and doubled, Mike Himebauch had a two-run homer, Scott Denny and Steve Hopkins both had two singles while Jason Corwin, Nick Mellios and Chad Morrow all singles in the second game.

Denny absorbed the loss after relieving Hopkins in the seventh inning. Cory Battle pitched to the final batter. The threesome combined for three strikeouts and allowed two hits and 13 walks.

In the first game, Charlevoix led briefly before Gaylord scored six runs in the second inning to take a 9-4 lead.

Shawn Putman pitched the full seven innings for Charlevoix as he fanned eight and allowed three walks and 10 hits.

For the Rayders, Corwin had a solo homer, Hopkins and Morrow both had three singles while Drury, Himebauch, Denny and Battle added two singles each.

Rally falls short against Petoskey

Petoskey swept a twin-bill with Charlevoix in baseball, 15-1 and 7-6.

A lead-off home run by Jason Corwin provided Charlevoix its only run in the first game.

Mike Himebauch absorbed the loss as he fanned six and walked five through five innings. Shawn Putman and Cory Battle pitched short relief.

In the nightcap a Charlevoix rally in the seventh inning fell short. The Rayders scored two runs - one off a double by Himebauch - before a ground-out ended the game.

Scott Denny went 4-for-4 to lead Charlevoix while Nick Mellios, Chad Thorp and Corey Battle had two hits and Himebauch one.

Jim Tilton was losing pitcher, allowing five earned runs in four innings. Shawn Putman hurled the final two innings as he struck out three and walked one.

Yachting Notes

The Charlevoix Yacht Club has changed the weekend of the Pine River Regatta, previously scheduled for June 11-12.

The race has been moved forward one week to June 4-5 so that we would not conflict with the numerous fishing vessels expected for the Lake Charlevoix Area Trout Tournament.

The George LaBlance Memorial Cup is fast approaching, July 9-10. The only offshore race of CYC is in its third year. An application for the race will be mailed with the June Binnacle and will be available at local marine businesses prior to the mailing. CYC is pleased to announce the return of the Friday Nite Social Hour, each Friday from 6-8 p.m. In the past, this hour has served as a nice forum for all mariners to gather and discuss lake levels, jib sheets and diesel engines.

On Saturday night, May 14, Ed Crook is hosting a program entitled Cruise Planning and Plotting. So if you still haven't figured out how to work those dividers your wife gave you at Christmas, or don't know the difference between a bearing and a running fix, join the rest of us at about 7:30 p.m.

Till then, watching the western skies...

Youth choir travels to 'Blunderland'

"Alice in Blunderland" — a one-act musical — will be performed by area youth choirs.

In a turn on the well-known story, the musical includes the antics of Tweedledum and Tweedledumber as they try to outwit each other. And Alice pursues the truth about fairy dust and its effect on Blunderland.

"Alice in Blunderland" will be performed Sunday, May 22, at First Congregational Church, Charlevoix, at 7 p.m.

There is no admission charge; however, donations at the door will help cover production costs.

Students set to 'graduate' in drug class

One hundred and ten seventh grade students in Charlevoix Middle School will "graduate" from the Drug Abuse Resistance Education (DARE) program on June 3.

Deputy Sheriff Sherry Martin has been conducting the classes for several weeks, trying to strengthen the students' life skills that will make it possible for them to combat pressures for drug abuse.

"We are teaching assertiveness techniques, self esteem, confidence, and myths about drugs," Martin said.

She has also been holding classes for seventh grade students in Boyne Falls School as part of the Charlevoix County pilot program.

State legislators, as well as family members and friends will be invited to the graduation ceremony so the program and its effectiveness can become better known, according to Martin.

Hospital laments funding inequities

As the nation's hospitals are celebrating National Hospital Week this week, Charlevoix Area Hospital is worried about the future of health care in the state and nation.

Richard L. Krueger, administrator at Charlevoix Area Hospital, says, "Cuts in reimbursement from Blue Cross-Blue Shield, Medicare and Medicaid, have put the smaller hospitals in precarious financial positions."

Currently reimbursed for services by Medicare at about 30 percent less than the larger hospitals, Krueger says, "and, it looks as if the state will be reducing the Medicaid funds available to hospitals even further."

The governor and the state House of Representatives' appropriations subcommittee have recommended a budget that will cut Medicaid appropriations, most of it to come from hospitals, by 11.23 percent.

Charlevoix Area Hospitals board of directors, medical staff and administration have written letters of protest to the state and federal legislators. The cut would mean a loss of $38,000 to Charlevoix Area Hospital.

"We pride ourselves on the fact that we have been able to offer quality health care services close to home for the residents of the Charlevoix area, in spite of cutbacks, but we need to be able to continue to offer competitive wage scales in order to attract skilled staff," Krueger said. "Our costs to deliver services are comparable to the larger hospitals and we (the smaller hospitals) keep getting further cuts."

Hospitals are reimbursed by Medicare differently. Urban hospitals and regional referral hospitals such as Munson Medical Center and Northern Michigan Hospitals, are compensated for patient services at a higher payment schedule than the rural hospitals.

This is forcing smaller hospitals to affiliate with larger hospitals, or convert to long term care beds only, or even close their doors entirely, Krueger says.

Krueger is asking residents to write Cong. Bob Davis in support of smaller hospitals.

SHOPTALK

JACQUE MERTA

Jacquie Merta is executive director of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce.

This year marks the 58th Annual Venetian Festival.

As far as I know, the first "Venetian Night" was originated by the chamber here in Charlevoix.

"Venetian Night" features a spectacular boat parade with boaters using candles and lanterns to dazzle spectators.

As the years went on, "Venetian Night" turned into a full-fledged festival, incorporating a street parade, queen contest, recreational contests such as the foot race and baseball tournaments, and lots of entertainment.

For the past several years the chamber has sold shirts with a logo that commemorates this event. We are presently sponsoring a contest to obtain creative designs for this year's shirt.

So if you're an artist or have a friend with artistic abilities, we urge your participation in our contest. It could mean extra $$ for you.

The contest winner will receive a $100 cash prize and this year's shirt will carry the official winning logo. Entry forms are available at the Chamber of Commerce office.

Deadline for submitting entry forms is June 1. Call 547-2101 for further information.

Mark your calendars! "July 22 and 23 - Venetian Festival" to celebrate this community event... for the 58th time.

County clerk position sought

Kimberly R. Simpson of Norwood Township has announced her candidacy for Charlevoix County Clerk.

She is the first announced candidate for the post held by Jane Brannon. Filing deadline for local, county and state candidates is 4 p.m. Tuesday, May 31.

Kimberly Simpson

Simpson graduated from Grand Valley State University in 1973 with a bachelor of art degree in English. She has 21 years experience in secretarial, clerical and accounting fields, as well as in merchandising and sales. She began a career as a legal secretary and has worked for law firms in Bellaire, Midland and Charlevoix.

Since 1983 she has worked in court administration for Charlevoix and Emmet counties. She also had experience in the duties of the circuit court clerk in Emmet County.

She presently is a partner in a desktop publishing and consulting service and aids her husband's electrical contracting business.

Simpson and husband, Doug, have two children.

Candidate for Hayes treasurer

Wilma L. (Robbin) Kraft is seeking the office of treasurer of Hayes Township in the Aug. 2 primary election. She will be running on the Democratic ticket.

Kraft is employed as an insurance billing clerk at Charlevoix Area Hospital. Her experience includes six years as a savings bookkeeper at a Detroit bank as well as high school and college bookkeeping and accounting courses.

The deadline for candidates for township and other area elective posts to file petitions to gain a place on the ballot is 4 p.m. Tuesday, May 31.

Potters: Their home was their castle

They took the job for eight months. Nine years later they decided it was time to bring the children home.

David brought several crates of pottery to Charlevoix. They sit in the studio, waiting to be unloaded while the family finishes renovating their new house.

He would like to have the studio operating within the next month. Friends from Europe and the States are coming to help build a wood kiln.

The Ottises will open their studio in early June.

Official Notice

CITY OF CHARLEVOIX PUBLIC NOTICE

Spring Clean-up is now a weekly event.

Put your clean-up items out on your normal garbage day, along with normal pick-up items. Bagged leaves and grass clippings will be picked up, (maximum 6 bags per week) as well as brush bundled in 4 foot lengths or less. In addition City crews will still provide brush pickup as in the past.

Materials not collected include earth, sod, rocks, concrete refuse from construction or remodeling, automobile or truck parts, (with the exception of tires), or any container weighing more than fifty (50) pounds, except large household appliances and furniture.

Official Notice

Eveline Township Regular Meeting, April 9

The regular meeting of the Eveline Township Board was held on April 19, 1988 at 8:00 p.m. at the township hall. All board members were present and there were 15 guests.

The minutes of the March meeting were read and approved as read. The minutes of the budget meeting were also read and approved. There was discussion on the John DeGroot proposed piers at Iron-ton. There was a motion and support to write the District Corps of Engineers requesting a public hearing and stating our concerns.

In reviewing the proposed 1988-89 General Fund Budget, $1,500.00 was transferred from Contingency to Township Hall & Grounds for landscaping the yard. The budget was then adopted by activity center.

A resolution was adopted that Eveline Township will approve requests for "Children Playing" signs to the road commission, but the township will not bear the cost of such.

Local auditor, Ralph Gillett of Boyne City was hired to do the 1986, 1987, & 1988 audit.

Boyne City Fire and Ambulance contracts amounting to $8,459.26 were approved for payment.

A motion to approve all current bills for payment was made and supported - Check #1699 through Check #1999 amounting to $15,007.54.

The Eveline Township Planning Commission has spent much time in revising the Zoning Ordinance. Upon discussion of the recommendations from the County Planning Dept., the board approved and adopted all the Amendments with the exception of the change in Section 4:03 regarding extensions to nonconforming uses in buildings.

Adjournment was at 12:00 midnight.

Marsha Beishlag, Clerk

Hospital offers free cancer test

Charlevoix Area Hospital will offer free colorectal cancer screening kits during National Hospital Week, May 9-13.

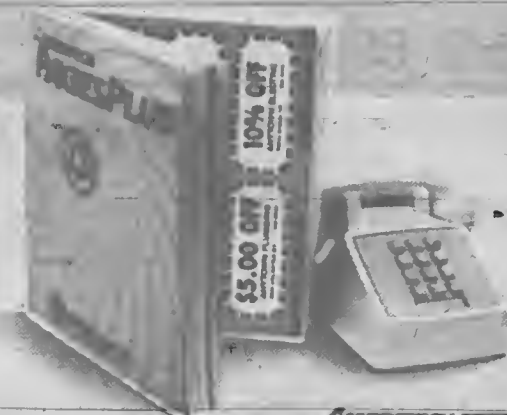

The kits may be picked up at the admitting office from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The at-home, do-it-yourself kit detects blood in the stool which is sometimes an indication of cancer of the colon. The test is recommended annually to those over 40.

Participants follow a diet outlined with the kit, take three stool samples and return the test kit by mail to the hospital for evaluation.

Oleson's: Nowhere to grow

Oleson's has a problem and would like the city to help. The city would like to help but has a problem.

The food store, the anchor of downtown businesses since 1960, is pinched in at its location while needing to expand to compete.

But the city government isn't sure Oleson's proposed solution is the proper one. And it's not in any financial condition to help out, anyway.

Oleson's has two problems, according to company official Jack Smith.

First, parking is inadequate—even in the supermarket's own parking lot. Second, the expansion of Glen's makes it important for Oleson's to rebuild, but there's nowhere to go.

Smith says the company has looked at other sites in the Charlevoix area, but "the existing location is far better than any other."

Convenience is paramount for grocery shoppers, Smith says,

Parking is not always a problem at the Oleson's Food Store this time of year, but summer-long headaches have prompted the chain to ask the city for help seeking a solution.

making the parking and space problems more acute.

To be competitive, Smith says, the present 17,000 square foot store would have to be expanded to 30,000 square feet.

A project of that magnitude would cost millions of dollars, he says, and involve ripping down some of the adjoining retail stores because they are at different elevations.

Compounding the problem is the bluff to the south of the store.

Although Oleson's owns property behind the store, there is an 18-foot elevation difference, he

Hundreds poised for petunia planting

Orange is in and purple is out at this year's colorful planting of 45,000 petunias.

No, none of the petunias are orange — but none of them are purple, either. Because they have overpowered pink and white flowers in previous years, purple blossoms have been weeded out of this year's crop.

Another thing weeded out is weeds. A flower bed liner with 45,000 holes punched in it is being spread along the entire 1/4-mile route of Operation Petunia.

This weed blanket is designed to allow the petunias to flourish, while keeping out weeds. Last year, Keop Charlevoix Beautiful spent more than the cost of the black blanket on weed pullers.

But about that touch of orange being added this year. It's day-glow orange — the color of vests block captains will wear.

The vests will provide added safety for block captains as they preside over planting and will make them easier to pick out for the 600 or so volunteers expected to turn out.

As in the past six years, the planting is expected to take only an hour or so. Planting begins at 5 p.m. Thursday, May 26, along U.S. 31.

Because of the weed blanket, holes will not be prestarted in the soil, so volunteers are being reminded to take a small shovel or trowel to the locations they choose to plant.

The petunias will be delivered all along the route, and block captains will supervise the planting.

They will also issue and validate tickets for the picnic that follows in East Park.

To be held under a tent donated by Davis Chevrolet, the free picnic will be similar to past ones, with hot dogs, chips and Cokes from Oleson's.

Ice cream and Tom's Mom's cookies will be given out, too. And new this year is a ticket portion which can be redeemed later by students at Dairy Queen for ice cream or a drink.

The middle school band will play during the picnic, and there will be a parade.

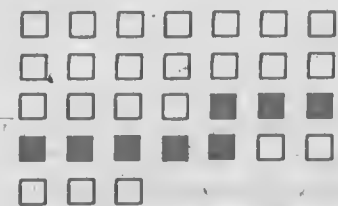

An Early Bird Special picnic will be held from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. for those who bought tickets before May 24, the Labor Day fund-raiser.

Displaying the bright orange safety vests block captains will wear at this year's Operation Petunia planting are (from left) Scott Campbell, Marty Joy and Cynthia Boydston, representatives of high school classes which again are participating in the event.

Ahead-lines

Election candidate filing time nears

This is a big election year — and not just because of the presidential race. Local, county and some state posts are also being contested. The filing deadlines for people interested in running for public office are approaching.

First to file will be delegates to county conventions to be elected at August primaries. They must file with the county clerk by 4 p.m. Tuesday, May 4.

Candidates for county positions must file their petitions with the county clerk's office by 4 p.m. Tuesday, May 31.

Up for election this year are all county elected officials including sheriff, prosecutor, clerk, register of deeds and treasurer, along with all six county board of commissioners' posts.

The probate court position is being contested. Candidates must file by 4 p.m. Tuesday, May 31, for the court post, too.

The only candidates with more time to gather petition signatures are those for City of Charlevoix positions.

The city charter gives them until 4 p.m. Tuesday, June 7, to file.

Up for election this year in the city are First Ward council member Bill Haggard, Second Ward council member Bill Bellows and Third Ward council member Shirley Roloff.

Also up for election is the mayor's position, held by Ralph McRae.

At least 25 but not more than 40 petition signatures are required to file for the city council and mayoral positions.

Council candidates must collect the signatures within their wards; mayoral candidates may collect signatures from anywhere within the city.

Candidates who change their mind about running have until 4 p.m. Friday, June 3, to withdraw.

The primary election will be held Tuesday, Aug. 2. The general election will be held Tuesday, Nov. 8.

The county election (except for the judgeship) is partisan, with candidates filing by party. In the primary, candidates will be narrowed to one per party, with those candidates squaring off in November.

The city election is non-partisan, with the field for each ward council seat and for mayor being narrowed to two in the primary.

State posts to be elected this year include one U.S. Senator, all 18 congressmen, all 110 state representatives, two Supreme Court justices and two members of the boards of the University of Michigan, Michigan State University and Wayne State University.

Lions Club meets at Edgewater Inn for a luncheon meeting.
City Council committee of the whole meets, City Hall, 7 p.m.

24 TUESDAY

Tourism conference boosts city economy

An upcoming conference on developing tourism in waterfront communities is helping to do just that.

The Michigan Municipal League and state Department of Commerce are sponsoring "The Last Resort: A Conference on Waterfront Development and Tourism" in Charlevoix.

And the conference, arranged by resident and professional planner Carol Sullivan, is bringing an economic boost to the city.

The two-day sessions -- scheduled for Thursday and Friday, May 26-27, at Edgewater Inn's conference center -- are helping fill what the tourism industry calls a "shoulder season," that time just beyond the normal limits of the tourism season.

The conference could mean up to $30,000 to $40,000 for the city's economy, says Harold Krutsch, president of the Charlevoix Convention and Visitors Bureau.

who plan to remain for the weekend.

Krutsch computes that the 75 or so people coming to town will be spending two nights in area hotels, attending two cocktail parties and two luncheons at the conference and eating dinner twice in restaurants.

What they may spend while shopping or if they stay for the weekend is not included in his estimate. And Sullivan says she knows of several participants who plan to remain for the weekend.

"For the time of year it's coming, that's great," said Krutsch of the economic boost. Krutsch is manager of the Weatherlane Terrace.

About 50 participants are expected for the conference, says Joan Hutchison of the Michigan Municipal League. And Sullivan says about 25 other people are involved.

Among those are Walt Hufford and Jeff VanTreese, who will lead a session using Charlevoix as one of its case histories.

The session, titled "Managing Our Waterfront Resource," will concentrate on what VanTreese describes as "the struggle between public interests and private interests in waterfront development."

Hufford is former chairman of the city planning commission, and VanTreese is city attorney.

Dock renovation heads work list for Star's return

Efforts begun in the cool of autumn for return of the Star of Charlevoix are heating up as summer approaches.

While the new paddlewheel boat churns at 7 mph through the New York Barge Canal and Great Lakes, much remains to be done in Charlevoix.

The ship's first cruises are scheduled for Friday, June 17 -- after an absence of an entire season because the vessel was not completed last year.

The Star's new dock at the foot of Clinton Street is not complete -- in fact, just getting started.

And documentation to tie a local investor group with the Star Line Corp. remains in flux. Originally, there was a Jan. 1 deadline for a 20-share local investment in the endeavor.

And the Star has not yet moved out of its temporary offices into a food preparation and office facility.

A week ago the city approved bids for construction of the Star dock and extension of city piers to replace docking space lost to the ship.

Because the project is mostly for the private Star operation, the bulk of the cost is the ship line's. But because the local investor group is not in place, there was no corporation to deal with.

So the city asked Star Line Corp. -- which would be partial owner -- to issue a letter of credit covering the Star's $90,000 share of the construction costs.

Star Line agreed, but met with a technical problem at the bank. So the corporation wrote a check to the city for the $90,000, which was received earlier this week.

The entire pier project will cost about $119,000.

The centerpiece will be a 15-by 36-foot loading platform with canopy and railing extending into Round Lake.

To replace docking space lost to the loading area and the ship, the 157 removed lineal feet of dock are being replaced with 240 feet of new dock.

The new dock will be extensions of current city docks in the city marina to the south of the Star. North of the Star will be only the Coast Guard Cutter Mesquite and the Beaver Islander.

"We're reaching the point in the 45-day construction period where a day or two means a lot," City Manager Mike Wiesner said more than a week ago -- before the problem with obtaining the letter of credit.

The city's $28,000 share of the dock work is $4,000 less than budgeted.

Since the ship is different than the previous Stars of Charlevoix (and Bay Queen before them), food must be prepared elsewhere and loaded at the dock.

The Star is planning to use the food facilities at the former 218 Bridge Street restaurant, which is just across the parking lot from the loading platform.

In the meantime, the cruise line is operating out of a hotel room.

Reservations are coming in steadily, general manager Phil Lutz says, having passed the 3,000 mark early this month.

And, Lutz says, that is without the bulk of the ship's advertising, which is yet to be distributed.

In 1986, the last year the cruise ship was in Charlevoix, about 35,000 people took rides, with an estimated 20,000 traveling here because of the ship's presence.

Saluting slain officers

Father James Gardner of St. Mary Catholic Church, a police chaplain, speaks (center) during a Tuesday, May 17, memorial service honoring slain law enforcement officers from around the nation. The local ceremony, held in East Park, included an honor guard from the Coast Guard (front) and representatives from area police agencies (back row). A gun salute and playing of Taps were included in the ceremony.

City charter review question may go on November ballot

City residents may be asked whether they want to form a commission to review and possibly revise the city charter.

They will be asked to approve a charter amendment giving the mayor a vote in all decisions. Presently, the mayor only votes to break ties.

A resolution to put the second question on the Tuesday, Nov. 8, ballot was approved by city council Monday, May 16.

A resolution to put the charter revision question on the same ballot was submitted, then withdrawn.

Council member Earl Muma, who has been raising the possibility of a charter review commission for several months, initiated both actions.

He withdrew the commission resolution to allow city attorney

Jeff VanTreese time to review procedures.

"The city's growing, the charter needs to grow," Muma said. He said there are several areas that could be looked at, but was not specific.

Putting the charter review question on the ballot would be the first step in what can be a long process toward revision.

Muma said putting the question on the ballot would let the council "see if the people want it."

Muma was backed in his effort by Butch Russell, who seconded both motions: calling for resolutions.

Some others were not so sure, however.

"What do you want to change?" asked Bill Haggard.

Shirley Roloff said changes could probably be made by resolution, as was being proposed with the mayoral vote question.

She said she did not see the need for a charter review commission.

Planning commissioners and city council members are better equipped to point out areas in need of change, she said, than a committee of residents not familiar with the day-to-day functions of city government.

Bill Bellows said it would be cheaper to make amendments by council resolution and resident vote than to appoint a commission.

The present charter became effective June 5, 1978, after a three-year process.

Keeping Charlevoix Beautiful

Next week hundreds of Charlevoix residents will take time out to join in sprucing up Bridge Street with 45,000 petunias.

Mayor Ralph McRae would like us all to take a few minutes to make the rest of the town more attractive, too.

On his recent trip to Europe, the mayor was impressed by the cleanliness and friendliness of the areas he saw in Holland.

Every Dutch family has flowers in the front yard, he says, and he thinks it would be nice if Charlevoixans followed their example.

"For less than $15 every homeowner in Charlevoix could have a small patch of bright colorful flowers," says the mayor.

McRae has declared next week as Charlevoix Beautification Week—and the seventh annual Operation Petunia is a great first step.

With "spring clean-up" trash pickup service now an every-week happening, it's easy to get rid of that unwanted junk in your yard.

And a few minutes spent with rake, lawnmower or trowel will help keep Charlevoix beautiful.

Singers invited to join right in

Editor,
Approximately four years ago, a Sweet Adelines chapter was in the process of formation in Charlevoix. At the same time, our chapter here in Elk Rapids was also just beginning.

The Charlevoix chapter, unfortunately, disbanded due to lack of a director, but the Elk Rapids Chapter continued. We received our official Sweet Adelines Charter in November of 1986, and continue to grow musically.

We do not, unfortunately, have the names or address of those who so loved their singing in the Charlevoix area. We would very much like to have some of them contact us, so that perhaps we might have them join us in song. We still meet on Tuesday evenings at Lakeland Elementary School in Elk Rapids and would dearly love to hear from some of the former Charlevoix group. We would, of course, also welcome visits from any others who love to sing and grow in music.

Letters to the editor:

Interested parties may gain more information about our group by calling 264-8554—we would like to renew old friendships and acquaintances, and build some new ones.

Tracking on the trails

The next sunny day that comes down the pike, I suggest you investigate the hiking trails in the vicinity of Mt. McSaubia and North Point.

There probably are few places in the world more beautiful, particularly in spring with the forest floor tufted with trillium.

The past few days I have been dog-sitting for J.D., a friendly little female hound owned by the vacationing Dale Glass family at North Point.

It could be that J.D. owns the Glass family. With dogs, you never can tell.

On our first outing, we went up a trail just west of the main ski run. The early going was easy because the slope was gentle. Then, when the pitch became more pronounced, we started traversing the hill. After all, J.D. is a small dog with short legs and she can't climb up a steep hill like a grown man, now can she?

Although the view from the top is spectacular—a sweeping panorama of the Charlevoix Harbor, Lake Michigan, Little Traverse Bay and Lake Charlevoix—the quiet woodlands along the way have a charm all their own. You get the distinct impression that much of the area has never felt the tread of a human foot.

On our second outing, we approached the hill from the west after tramping through the North Point dunes, which were practically deserted except for a young family on a Sunday afternoon outing.

Before long we encountered one of Mt. McSaubia's hiking trails, a twisting path covered with wood chips that wound its way up and around the wooded hillside. J.D. kept tugging on her tether, turning the leash into sort of a tow-rope for his less agile companion.

Eventually, the path opened onto a broad alp covered with long, lush Kelly-green grass. We were on the backside of Mt. McSaubia, but still well below the control booth at the top of the mountain.

Once again we began traversing the hillside and before long found ourselves at the summit admiring the view on all sides. A few power boats were out, skimming the Lake Michigan like tiny water bugs.

Although a faint breeze ruffled the lake surface, some areas were completely smooth, like scars.

I mentioned the fact to J.D., speculating that the odd patterns may have resulted from water currents running counter to the wind.

J.D., who had discovered a mysterious hole in the ground under the control booth, thought they might have been caused by raccoons. I knew she wasn't paying strict attention.

The trip down the hill is always fun. I like to pretend I'm on skis, making a series of parallel jump turns. Once I caught and edge and almost missed a gate. J.D. thought I had gone crazy.

When we reached the flatland, I put J.D. back in her kennel and gave her a drink of cold water, which she said was very refreshing. I also filled up her bowl with dog kibbles. The Glasses keep J.D.'s dog food in a drum in the shed next to an identical drum of bird seed. Dale is always afraid that I am going to give J.D. sunflower seeds and the poor dog will sprout feathers before he returns. But so far I have managed to keep the two apart.

In a way, I am grateful Dale lets me take care of J.D. occasionally. After living with dogs all my life, I now belong to a cat family and have signed a solemn pledge never to own another dog, since dogs have an insidious way of worming their way into your affections.

Although J.D. and I have developed a warm rapport over the years based on a mutual admiration for Mt. McSaubia, our relationship must remain strictly platonic—or my three cats would have her for lunch.

Petunia participants poised for planting

At least two major gifts will be given to the Little Traverse Conservancy for the Preserve North Point project, which is an attempt to raise $700,000 to buy a 20-acre Lake Michigan shoreline site and preserve it as a park.

A resort condominium use timeshare donated by Dick Georgi will be auctioned with the proceeds going to Preserve North Point.

Tickets for the Labor Day auction, which provides Keep Charlevoix Beautiful with a major portion of its funding, go on public sale the day of the planting.

Tickets, which include a chance at the grand prize, sell for $125 each.

Tickets may be obtained from KCB members, from KCB at P.O. Box 1, Charlevoix, or at the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce office.

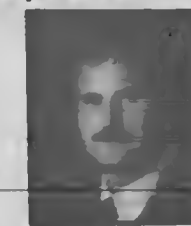

When volunteers arrive at the petunia planting site they have selected, they will find block captains wearing bright orange vests. Volunteer planters may go to any section of the route they choose.

PROBATE PROS AND CONS

Due to its time-consuming procedures and expense, probate is often thought of as something to be avoided. However, probate does have its advantages. For one, this court proceeding assures estate beneficiaries that the will is valid, it protects them against fraudulent claims. It seems to it that an executor or administrator is properly appointed, and that all the decedent's property is accounted for. The probate process addresses the payment of inheritance taxes and validates the claims of creditors. In short, the probate process protects the integrity of the will and the rights of heirs. It also provides a forum for any challenges. Avoiding or embracing probate is an individual decision that is best made after consulting with an attorney.

Proper documentation by means of a properly prepared will will help insure that your final wishes are carried out. For assistance in the preparation of such vital and far reaching documents, we urge you to seek the professional assistance and guidance available when you visit an experienced attorney of your choice. Your peace of mind and the security of your heirs will be better protected in this fashion. Knowledgeable-Experienced-Concerned.

Fire fighters plan to buy rescue truck

The city may soon be getting another gift fire truck.

The Volunteer Fire Department is beginning a fund-raising campaign to purchase a rescue truck.

The truck would cost $70,000—half of which the volunteers already have. They plan to raise the rest and give the truck to the city.

This would be the second truck donated by the fire department. A truck costing $151,000 was purchased for the city in a two-year campaign begun in 1981.

Jim Elliott of the fire department says the truck's greater mobility could cut the time needed to get aid to an accident or emergency victim.

The truck would carry the Jaws of Life extrication device, air-inflation lifting bags, cutting torches, generator and auxiliary water tank, he says.

The truck would be about one-half the size of a regular fire truck, he says.

Elliott would not guess how long it may take to raise the money, but says it is "not an insurmountable task."

Memorial Day alters deadlines

Because of the upcoming Memorial Day holiday, Courier contributors and advertisers are asked to observe early deadlines.

Deadlines for the Wednesday, June 1, edition will be 10 a.m. Friday, May 27, for display advertising and 5 p.m. that day for classified advertising and news items.

Garden Club holding sale

The Charlevoix Area Garden Club will hold its annual garage sale on Saturday, May 30, at the home of Carolyn Christiansen, 206 Cherry.

Members are being asked to divide and donate plant material from their gardens for the sale. Pots, tools and other garden-related items will be on sale.

Proceeds will be used to maintain the Father Charlevoix Park plantings and other club projects.

Industrial art students honored

Several Charlevoix High students received awards at the state Craftsmanship Project Fair.

In woodworking—Tina Kraft, 9th place; Josh Strzywiski, honorable mention.

In mechanical drawing—David Puhl, 8th, 9th and two honorable mentions; Katie Parsons, honorable mention.

In metal working—Robert McClanaghan, 10th; Don O'Brien, honorable mention; Hugh Lambert, honorable mention.

Lock-up aids cancer group

The annual Great American Lock-up for the American Cancer Society will be held Tuesday, May 24.

In the fund-raising event, participants are "arrested" and sentenced to raise "bail" by calling friends or colleagues to make pledges to the Charlevoix County unit of the Cancer Society.

Nanny's Restaurant will be the site of the jail.

People who donated $25 may have someone arrested by volunteer law enforcement officers at the office or at home, or the prisoner may arrange to appear before the judge at an appointed time.

While behind bars, the "jailer" will be issued pledge cards and a telephone to call for bail. The jailbird is given one hour to raise the required bail.

Breast cancer detection class set at hospital

Charlevoix Area Hospital is sponsoring a lecture and demonstration of breast care and self-examination on Wednesday, May 25, at 7 p.m. in the hospital classroom.

Participants will learn how to do proper breast self-examination and will view mammography equipment. Mammograms will be available at a reduced rate to those who have never had a mammogram upon presentation of a physician's order.

Attendance at the lecture is a pre-requisite of having the mammogram for a special reduced cost of $50. The mammograms will be scheduled at a different day and time.

For further information call Charlevoix Area Hospital's public relations department.

Fingerprints

Sheriff's deputy Rex Behling supervised fingerprinting of 125 elementary and 40 St. Mary students in a Bernard Grange-sponsored project.

Bloodmobile visiting city

Thursday, May 26, is the day the Red Cross Bloodmobile is coming to town.

The bloodmobile will be at the American Legion Hall on Garfield Avenue from 1 to 7 p.m. No appointment is necessary, but it helps if one is made. Phone 547-8314.

All blood donated in this part of Michigan is given by volunteers, which the Red Cross says makes it less likely that hepatitis or another disease will be transmitted to recipients when it is transfused in local medical facilities.

The bloodmobile visit is a coordinated community volunteer effort.

Dispute over lake pilings sent back to local court

The state court of appeals has sent a city argument with a marina back to circuit court.

The city's attorney sees widespread implications for municipalities in the circuit judge's ultimate decision.

But the marina's lawyer sees it simply as a case of the city not understanding riparian rights.

The case grew out of the construction of two clusters of log pilings in Lake Charlevoix by Lundy Heck Co. at Northwest Marine.

The pilings trespassed on the extension of the city's right-of-way at the end of Eaton Street, according to the city.

The city, Lundy Heck countered, only had an easement and not ownership, so it had no riparian rights in the water.

Circuit Judge Richard Pajtas ruled the city failed to prove the pilings "unreasonably" interfered with access to the water. The city appealed that ruling.

The appeals court decided the judge applied the wrong standard of law to the case and ordered the case back to his courtroom.

Pajtas must now determine whether the city has the same status as a normal private owner or if it merely should have reasonable access to the lake because the road runs to the water.

If the municipality has rights of ownership, the pilings could be ordered removed. If not, they could remain.

City attorney Jeff VanTreese says Pajtas' decision would apparently be the first in Michigan on this issue.

Many townships and cities, particularly in northern Michigan, have developed parks or access sites at the ends of roads, he said, and they could be affected by the ruling.

VanTreese said the dispute boils down to whether a municipality has the right to stop a neighbor from building in the water in front of the city's property.

Gordon Boydston, attorney for Lundy Heck Co., agrees there is not much case history on the question, but says, "maybe it's not litigated, but the answer is clear."

Because the city has an easement, it does not own the bottomland as a property owner would, Boydston said.

"This is a very misunderstood concept of riparian rights," he said.

VanTreese said he expects to matter to return to Pajtas' court in the next 30 to 60 days.

100th class celebrates seek photos

Old photos from earlier graduating classes are being sought for a pictorial display saluting the 100th graduation from Charlevoix High School.

The display will be in the high school lobby on graduation day, Sunday, June 5.

Contributors are asked to submit photos with name, address, and phone number clearly marked on the reverse side. It would also be helpful to include a typed or printed brief identification on an index card accompanying each print.

Selected photos will be carefully mounted for the centennial display. Organizers ask that a self-addressed, stamped envelope be enclosed for safe return.

Photos may be mailed to Anne Kelly, 203 Nettleton, Charlevoix, or given to committee members Toni DeVries, Joannie Balch and Kelly by Wednesday, May 25.

Annual golf tournament aids March of Dimes campaign

The ninth annual Kentucky Fried Chicken - March of Dimes Golf Tournament will be held Sunday, May 29, at Belvedere Golf Club.

This year the tournament has been changed somewhat and will be a three-man best shot golf tournament.

Also new this year is a cash prize of $10,000 for the first person making a hole-in-one on the 17th hole. In previous years the prize has been a car.

There will be shotgun start at 8:30 a.m. Participants are to check in at the clubhouse by 8 a.m. to register, get complimentary prizes courtesy of Kentucky Fried Chicken, and purchase a Mulligan if they desire.

In case of rain, the tournament will be held Monday, May 30.

Both men and women golfers are welcome. The teams are flighted according to the total handicap of the three golfers with approximately 10 teams per flight.

In addition to the main tournament competition, there are several other special events such as $1 for a free Mulligan (with the exception of the 17th hole), a putting contest and a prize for each hole.

The entry fee is $45 per person, or $135 per three-man team. This fee includes greens' fees, beverages, buffet dinner, prizes and special awards.

Dinner will be at the clubhouse at 1:30 p.m. with presentations of awards to follow. Guests of players are welcome for a charge of $5.

Sponsors of the event are Belvedere Golf Club and Kentucky Fried Chicken.

Entry forms are available at Kentucky Fried Chicken in Charlevoix and Petoskey, at Belvedere Golf Club or at Charlevoix City Golf Club.

Registration deadline is Thursday, May 26, and entries are limited to the first 36 teams.

For additional information call Joe Etienne at 547-4071.

BEACONS

OF BLESSINGS

Prepared weekly by the members of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.

by the Rev. Bruce E. Hamilton
Community Church of God

If you've ever been to a big city airport, like Chicago or Detroit, think about a jet parked at its departure gate.

At its nose is a gigantic tractor. It does more than push the plane away from the gate. It is its source of power while the jet sits on the ground.

Along side of one wing, you will see a pumper fueling the jet. On the other side, there will be baggage conveyors loading suitcases. There is the food service truck and the jetway through which you will board.

When the time comes for your departure, one by one the different items sever their connections with your plane.

The big tractor is the last link you have with the ground before your flight to your destination begins. Once it pushes you out into the middle of the ramp and assists in the starting of your engines, even it withdraws as you set out on your journey.

In II Timothy 4:6, Paul writes, "For I am already being poured out like a drink offering, and the time has come for my departure." Paul is saying that he has done about everything he can do for God now and he's ready for the next stop in his journey of faith, the journey that will bring him home to God. What about you?

Your life is like that jet poised at its departure gate. You have the help of God's Word, the fellowship of His family, the wisdom of His Spirit, the example of saints who have gone on before and so much more to prepare you.

The key is have you been pouring out your life for God? Have you been sharing the hope He places in your heart with others? Do you really believe in God?

I wouldn't hurry, anyone's life along but the day is coming for each one of us. It will be the day of our departure if you will. On that day, nothing or no one that we hold dear will be able to make the journey with us.

It is a flight that each of us will make on our own. You can be ready for that flight. You can have everything you need in your heart to assure that it will be a joyful journey.

The secret is knowing Jesus Christ. He has already marked out the course to heaven. He has passed on the path to the faithful.

While you have the resources and help around you, make sure you really believe. Talk to your pastor. Talk to a Christian friend. Just make sure you are ready to go.

SPORTS

Rayders go on six-game victory run

Charlevoix's winning streak reached six games as the Rayders took two Michigan-Huron Shores Conference baseball victories from Onaway.

The 16-12, 8-6 sweep pushed Charlevoix above the .500 mark over-all with a 9-8-1 record and 6-7-1 in the league.

The first game featured four home runs, three by the Rayders, with two of those coming off the bat of Dan Drury.

Trailing 7-3, Charlevoix scored five times in the third inning and six times in the fourth to take charge.

Shawn Putman pitched five innings for the Rayders with relief help from Jim Tilton and Mike Himebauch.

The Rayders pounded out 15 hits, including three by Drury and home runs by Putman and Chad Thorp.

Steve Hopkins doubled and singled, Scott Denny and Jason Corwin had two hits each, Himebauch and Tom Herriman doubled and James Corwin and Cory Battle added singles.

In the second game, Charlevoix took an 8-2 lead into the top of the seventh inning with Onaway scoring four times before the contest ended.

Hopkins was the winning pitcher with David Loder working the final two-thirds inning.

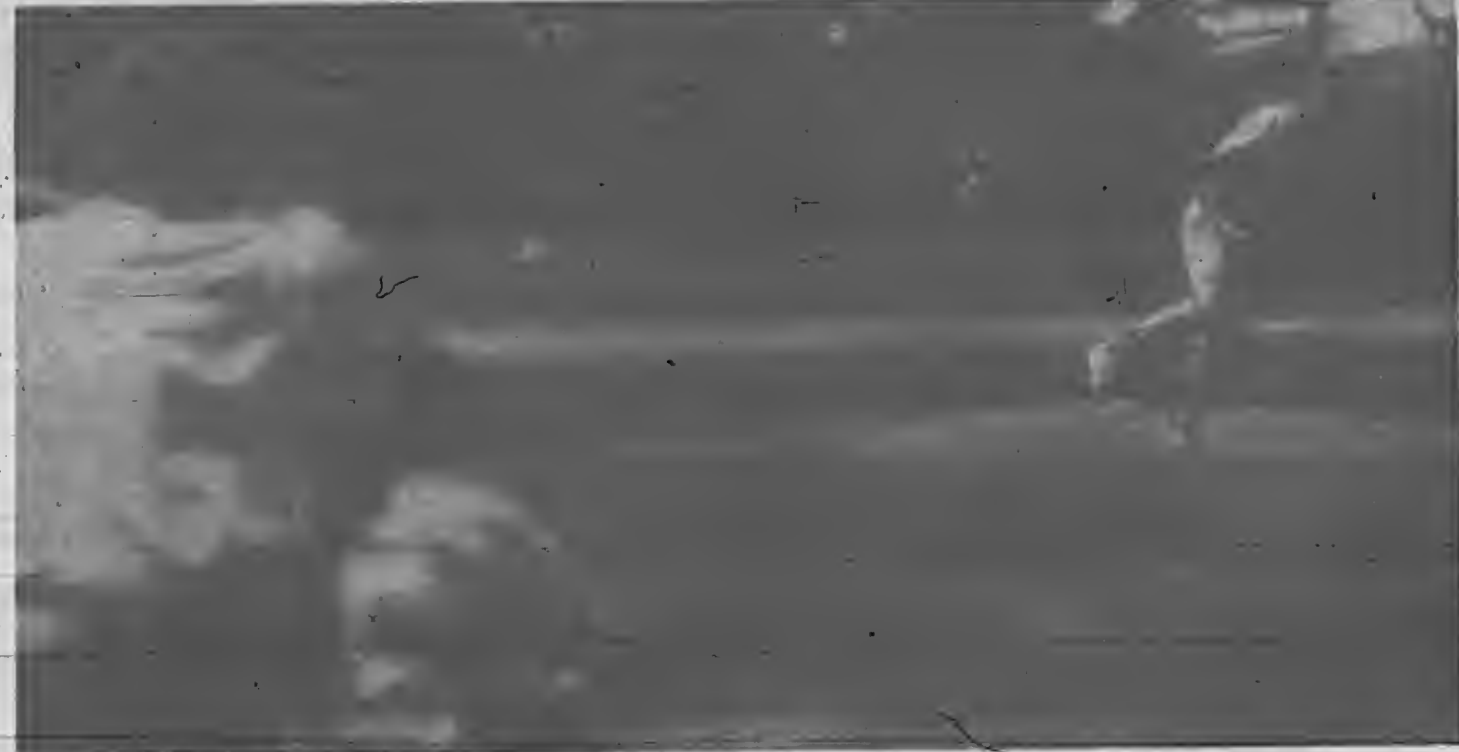

Charlevoix had eight hits, two by Jason Corwin, including a double.

Thorp hit his second home run of the day. Putman, Hopkins and Drury doubled and Himebauch and Chad Morrow singled.

Runner excels

Lee Allard of Charlevoix closed out his Great Lakes Inter-collegiate Athletic Conference track career by placing second for Ferris State College in the men's 5,000-meter run.

Allard, a senior, was clocked at 15:21.2 at the Conference's Outdoor Championships held at Saginaw Valley State College.

Charlevoix pitcher Steve Hopkins follows through and watches as a pitch nears an Onaway batter during the second game of a high school doubleheader.

Charlevoix sweeps Boyne doubleheader

Charlevoix ran its Michigan-Huron Shores Conference baseball victory streak to four by sweeping Boyne City 10-0 in five innings and 4-2.

In the first game, Charlevoix built a 5-0 lead through four innings and then scored five times in the bottom of the fifth.

Winning hurler was Mike Himebauch on a two-hitter with four strikeouts and no walks.

Charlevoix collected 10 hits as Jason Corwin and Pat Elliott had two each, Chad Thorp and Cory Battle doubled and Shawn Putman, Steve Hopkins, Himebauch and Nick Mellios added singles.

In game two, the Rayders took a 4-1 lead into the top of the seventh inning before Boyne City scored once and had the tying run on base when the game ended.

Jim Tilton was the winning hurler on a eight-hitter, working six and two-thirds innings before Dave Loder came on to get the last out.

Battle had two hits, Thorp and Scott Denny collected doubles and Chad Morrow and Dan Drury singled.

First wins of year come at expense of Grayling

Charlevoix won its first two Michigan-Huron Shores Conference baseball games of the season with a sweep of Grayling, 6-0 and 5-4.

In the first game, Shawn Putman hurled a seven-inning shutout as he struck out 16 and allowed one hit and two walks.

The Rayders scored four runs in the second inning.

Steve Hopkins hit a solo home run, Putman doubled and Cory Battle and Jason Corwin both singled.

In the nightcap, Mike Himebauch relieved Hopkins in the top of the seventh inning with the score tied, 4-4.

With two runners aboard and no outs, Himebauch retired the Vikings in order as he struck out the first and third batters.

With two outs and the bases loaded in the seventh, Chad Morrow's single up the middle scored Chad Thorp to win the game. Himebauch recorded the win after Hopkins struck out six and allowed three hits and five walks through six innings.

The Rayders had five hits as Corwin singled twice and Thorp, Hopkins and Morrow each singled.

Cast ready for trip to Blunderland

"Alice in Blunderland," a one-act musical will be staged by members of the Charlevoix community children's choirs and youth choir at 7 p.m. Sunday, May 22 at First Congregational Church.

Ellie Frey plays Alice, who enters Blunderland to find the truth about the dangers of "fairytale dust."

In her quest she meets the Cheshire Cat (Mindy Noirot), the Rabbit (Anne Schairbaum) and Tweedledum and Tweedledee (Megan and Anneke Rader).

Other characters Alice meets are the Prime Minister (Mark Schairbaum), Biggie Rat (Jeff Joy), Mad Hatter (Paul Sheets), Walrus (Travis Levengood), scientist Dr. Carpenter (Jesse Beatty) and caterpillar (Alison Sandow).

A short dance for the three flowers has been choreographed by Amy Parrish whose partners are Ellen McKinney and Amy Phillips.

Other choir members fill the roles of gnomes and oysters.

Fran Tallas, Beth Strawbridge and Rev. Phil Schairbaum are directing the music and drama. Karen Joy is in charge of costumes and Trina Wiser is makeup supervisor.

The musical begins at 7 p.m. in the sanctuary and is open to the public without charge. Those attending a potluck supper in the church hall at 5:30 p.m. should take a dish to pass and their own table service.

Artist saluted

before moving

Stephen Kendall, a member of the original Bridge Street Artists group in Charlevoix, will be the guest of honor at a reception from 5 to 6 p.m. Friday, May 20, at McCune Arts Center in Petoskey.

The reception marks the center point of an exhibition of Kendall's work in the Art Tree Sales Gallery. The artist is moving to Atlanta, GA. in June.

Kendall's exhibition showcases his acrylics on canvas and his watercolors and prints on paper.

The exhibition will be open until Sunday, May 22. Gallery hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

During the summer, the gallery will also be open Sunday from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. The gallery is in the McCune Arts Center, at Mitchell and Division in downtown Petoskey.

Low bid gets lower for sidewalk repair project

The city's sidewalk replacement program for this year is going to cost even less than expected.

The low bid for the program was lowered even more by the bidder because of a hang-up in obtaining a performance bond.

The bid accepted by the city came from Bo Boss of Charlevoix County Construction. Boss bid $111,077.50, more than $16,000 less than the second lowest bidder.

Because it could take 30 days or more to obtain a performance bond, Boss offered to reduce the cost of the project by the $7,000 cost of the bond and to give the city a $5,553 cashier's check to hold.

City Manager Mike Wiesner said the city felt comfortable with the arrangement because of the Boss family's reputation and long-standing relationship with the city.

City council unanimously approved the resulting $104,228.54 bid — which was altered slightly by recomputation of square foot proportions.

Boss said work would begin by Monday, May 23.

The work encompasses streets in the valley, generally between the Pine River Channel and Newman Street.

Priority areas such as State Street will be completed first, based on a list provided by the city, in order to have them done before high-traffic tourism periods begin.

The city received six bids for the sidewalk work, which will continue in future years if city council continues its five-year road, sidewalk and sewer reconstruction program.

Oleson's seeks solutions

says.

Also, that area is residential in nature. The shopping center side of the block is in the business district.

City council a couple years ago approved a 4,000 square foot expansion, which called for squaring off the building in front of where Little Red Shoe House and Radio Shack are.

Smith says there were a number of reasons why that plan proved deficient. But the main one is size.

"We need a bigger addition to be competitive," he says. "If we can't get a square footage size that would allow us to do that, then it's not feasible."

The proposal also subtracted parking spaces, while the store needs additional parking, he says.

To regain a customer count equal to what it was before Glen's expanded, he says, double the present parking would be needed.

The Oleson's lot has long been used by people not going into the store because of its location near downtown activities.

Suggestions that barricades, gates and tokens or other means be used to limit access to the lot have been rejected, he says, because "obstructions to your customers aren't going to increase your business."

Oleson's has previously asked about closing Antrim Street from Bridge to State and adding to the parking area. And it has raised the question again.

The company has also talked about the city purchasing the Kusina Motors building and converting that space into parking lot.

That's a possibility the Downtown Development Authority has kicked around before, but says is out of its financial ballpark at this time.

City officials are sympathetic to Oleson's problems, but don't see any immediate solutions.

Council member Norm Probert points to the year-round payroll the store generates and says something must be done about the parking problem.

But Downtown Development Authority chairman Gene Steele says he's not sure the public is ready to shut down the street.

And City Manager Mike Wiesner says he's not sure much parking can be gained by closing the street because of the width of the road and the present configuration of the parking lot.

The city has asked Oleson's to hire some land use experts — particularly in parking — to work up alternatives officials could consider.

Need a Doctor?

For most of us, the answer is yes.

We need a doctor who can help us stay well, one who can guide our care when we're ill. We need someone who is there for us and our family in an emergency.

Finding a doctor who meets your individual needs is not always easy. That's why it's important to find a doctor before you need one when you have the time and energy to make a careful choice. Now, there is a new, free service that can help you with this important decision — HealthSource Physician Referral.

At HealthSource Physician Referral, trained staff will personally answer your call and give you the names of physicians whose location and hours are most convenient for you. Computerized files help the staff supply other information you may want about a physician's background, education and special interests.

Your call will be answered 24 hours a day.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE
TO: KENNETH B. DOTY and JANE A. DOTY of 2404 Center, Boyne Falls, Michigan 49713, and all persons claiming title through and under them

A default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage, made the 21st day of August, 1986, by Kenneth B. Doty and Jane A. Doty, husband and wife, as Mortgagor, to Old Kent Bank of Petoskey, a Michigan banking corporation, as Mortgagee. Said mortgage was recorded on August 28, 1986, in Liber 187 of Mortgages, Pages 488 through 493, in the Office of the Charlevoix County Register of Deeds. There is due and owing on such mortgage as of May 13, 1988, the sum of Nineteen Thousand Three Hundred Fifty-eight and 82-100 ($19,358.82) Dollars, principal; and Eighty Hundred Sixty and 62-100 ($80.62) Dollars, interest. No suit or proceedings at law or in equity have been instituted to recover the debt or any part of the debt secured by said mortgage, and the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative by reason of such default.

NOTICE is hereby given that on June 14, 1988, at 10:00 o'clock a.m., at the street entrance of the Courthouse for Charlevoix County, Michigan, there will be offered for sale and sold to the highest bidder at public sale for the purpose of satisfying the amounts due and unpaid upon said mortgage, the lands and premises mentioned in said mortgage and described as follows, to-wit:

In the Township of Boyne Falls, Charlevoix County, Michigan;

North Point gets big boost at petunia picnic

The Preserve North Point project should receive a large boost during the Operation Petunia picnic following the annual flower planting on Thursday, May 26.

Consumers Power Co. will donate $5,000 to the Little Traverse Conservancy's effort and a vacation timeshare will be auctioned by the conservancy.

A $3,000 gift and several $1,000 donations are also expected to be presented during the picnic, according to Keep Charlevoix Beautiful president Bruce MacArthur.

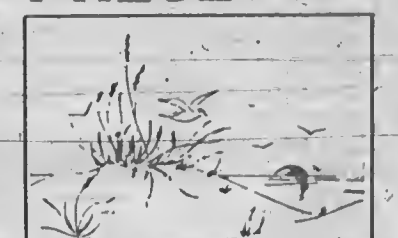

Keep Charlevoix Beautiful, one of the main boosters of the North Point dunes area preservation effort, is the sponsor of the petunia planting.

More than $700,000 must be raised by October 1989 if the conservancy is to purchase the 23-acre lakeshore site. With a $400,000 state grant approved, more than $550,000 has been pledged so far.

"The Little Traverse Conservancy has challenged the community to support an exciting project that will pay dividends for decades," said Thomas W. Elward, plant manager of Consumers Big Rock Point nuclear plant. "Our company is responding to this challenge wholeheartedly."

"Preservation of undeveloped lands like North Point is a concept I believe in very much. Our own property surrounding the nuclear plant is a prime example of land being kept in its natural state to the benefit of the community."

Big Rock Point is situated on approximately 600 acres of land, only a small portion of which is devoted to power plant use. The property is just a short distance from North Point.

The timeshare unit being auctioned is one of four units donated to the project by Charlevoix Realtor Richard Georgi.

"We've never been involved in an auction-style fundraiser," said Conservancy Executive Director Tom Bailey said. "But we're looking forward to this one to benefit North Point."

The units have a value of $3,000, but the minimum bid is $1,000.

Persons interested in bidding may pick up an information

Day care at county building

A family of killdeer has moved in at the Charlevoix County building, setting up housekeeping in the middle of the roof over the first floor. The father killdeer aggressively keeps infrequent visitors away from four eggs (center rear of photo) by chirping and trying to lead interlopers away from the nest.

Memorial Day: Parade, ceremonies pay tribute to military

Charlevoix's traditional Memorial Day parade and ceremonies will take place beginning at 10 a.m. Monday, May 30.

The event is sponsored by the American Legion post and the Veterans of Foreign Wars post. Also participating in the parade are Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, the high school marching band and high school students.

The parade will form at 9:30 a.m. at Park and State and kick off at 10 a.m., traveling down Bridge toward M-66 and Brookside Cemetery.

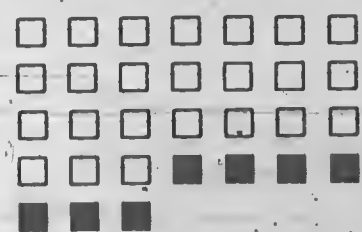

Master of ceremonies will be Tom Olach, with Elmer Gault representing World War I, Albert Russell representing World War II and veterans.

tatives of the Korean and Vietnam wars as parade marshals.

At the Brookside Memorial in Brook Park, the auxiliaries will throw a wreath in Grand Lake and a wreath will be laid on the cemetery.

There will also be a 40-gun salute. (Continued on page 7)

Public hearing on lakeshore zoning

Another hearing on the first batch of zoning ordinance amendments to grow out of last year's lakeshore condominium development dispute will be held by city council on Monday, June 6.

The hearing will begin at 7 p.m. in City Hall. Also included in the proposed amendments endorsed by the planning commission are changes relating to building roof appendages and to fence heights.

Not all the amendments recommended by a seven-member resident-government panel are included in the proposals.

Those still awaiting planning commission recommendation are a pair dealing with the marine-commercial district along the south shore of Round Lake.

Several of the proposals now before city council deal with technical matters such as definitions or standards of measurement.

One proposal gives the city jurisdiction over construction to the center of Round Lake and Pine River Channel. The city's zoning jurisdiction now ends at the water's edge.

Another allows six-foot fences in back yards. The current height limit is four feet.

Still another effectively eliminates using boathouses along the north shore of Round Lake as residences, as has been proposed recently.

Two deal with the commercial-scenic district next to the new Park Place condominiums on Pine River Channel. They set the distance a building can be from the water at about 55 feet and require a special use permit, rather than normal zoning and site plan OK, for development.

Another proposal requires anything built in the future along the north side of the channel to be 35 feet from the water, instead of the present 25 feet.

Two other amendments concern parking space requirements and sizes.

[29] SUNDAY

The Kiwanis Club urges you to attend the church of your choice.

Letters link Soviet kids, 6th graders

by SARA GAY DAMMANN

The sixth grade students at Moscow Special School No. 23 are indeed special, as Charlevoix sixth graders are quickly learning from 15 personal letters sent by the Russian students to Charlevoix via Mayor Ralph McRae.

Charlevoix 6th graders gathered around the mayor, their social studies teachers and Russian translator Gail Gerrie-Huskey, of Boyne City, as the batch of letters were handed out.

While only 15 of the some 100 Charlevoix sixth graders received answers to the letters McRae had hand-delivered to Moscow, everyone was interested as the lucky few read their responses.

The delivery of the first 15 letters was another step in McRae's dream of establishing a communication link between Charlevoix and Soviet students.

The dream began in early April as McRae planned a trip to the Soviet Union. He suggested that Charlevoix students give him letters to take to Soviet students.

Then he set out to arrange a visit to a Moscow school. After a circuitous series of efforts through embassies, cultural offices and the U.S. State Department, McRae departed for the Soviet Union, not entirely sure he would have anyone to receive the letters from Charlevoix.

Fortunately, McRae found himself attached to a group of high school students and their parents from Danbury, Conn., as he left Finland for Moscow. The Danbury group had already arranged to visit Special School No. 23.

McRae simply went along, explaining to Soviet teachers what he wanted to accomplish. Because all the students in Special School No. 23 learn English from an early age, cooperation was easy to obtain.

The mayor visited classrooms, spoke with students, watched musical recitals and took rolls of slides.

He gave the letters from Charlevoix students to the Soviet teachers and soon after he returned to Charlevoix the first packet of answering letters arrived.

As Jason VanLoo opened the letter addressed to him, four colorful stamps fell out on his desk. His classmates leaned closer. Like all who received letters, VanLoo read his to his class.

It was from Maxim Bosov, a sixth grade student in Moscow who is a member of the "Pioneers" and an international friendship club at his school.

Maxim has been speaking, reading and writing English since second grade. With the

Two streams will be studied for erosion, pollution controls

by PEG OHLE

At least two of the streams flowing into Lake Charlevoix will be studied this summer in an effort to detect and control erosion and possible animal waste problem sites along the streams.

The study will be made by the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council under contract to the Lake Charlevoix Association and assisted financially by WATCH Inc. and Keep Charlevoix Beautiful.

The study will basically be a follow-up of a study made in 1977 by the Department of Natural Resources, according to Rob McLennan, water resources specialist for the Watershed Council.

In that study, it was determined that one-third of all phosphorus entering Lake

Charlevoix came from nine tributaries, although the exact sources were not identified.

This summer's study will focus on the two largest tributaries, the Jordan and Boyne Rivers, McLennan said.

Among the tools to be used will be aerial pictures of the river banks and adjacent lands, which could reveal pollution sources.

When pollution sources are identified, the Watershed Council will work with the Charlevoix County Soil Conservation District to help solve the problems.

Possible solutions might be erosion control systems, improvement of agricultural practices, or control of discharges to the streams, according to the Watershed Council.

The 1977 report revealed that the U.S. Fisheries Station on the Jordan River was responsible for much of the pollution of that river.

Since then, through changes in feeding habits and other controls, the pollution has been considerably reduced, according to McLennan.

In addition to the Jordan and Boyne rivers, the Lake Charlevoix tributaries which will be studied in the next year or two are:

Stover Creek, just south of Charlevoix; Loeb Creek, between Charlevoix and Ironton; Monroe Creek, on the South Arm between Ironton and East Jordan; Deer Creek and Brown Creek, which enter Lake Charlevoix near East Jordan; Porter Creek at Advance; and Horton Creek at Horton Bay.

Doug Fuller, water quality technician for the Watershed Council, will conduct the studies.

AROUND THE TOWN

When the state tourism chief talks to people attending a state-wide tourism and development conference this week in Charlevoix, he is bringing some good news.... Charlevoix County ranked 15th among the state's 83 counties in a travel-related expenditures in a national survey....

In 1986, the year surveyed by the U.S. Travel Data Center in Washington, D.C., total travel expenditures in the county were a staggering $33,364,000.... Northern tourist targets ahead of Charlevoix were Mackinac, Grand Traverse and Emmet counties....

The top counties were, of course, the most populous ones - Wayne, Oakland, Kent, Washtenaw.

Charlevoix's municipal dock received 20 of a possible 25 points in a Chicago Tribune ranking of marinas circling Lake Michigan.... In five categories, the Round Lake Marina earned a perfect score in one area and next-to-perfect in three others....

Round Lake scored a 5 for its proximity to food, drink and "a lively atmosphere.... Ratings of 4 came for proximity to service stores for boaters, such as groceries, coin laundries and drug stores, for safe, well-maintained slips and the protected harbor and for availability of fuel, repairs, water and electricity.... The only area receiving a 3 was the bathroom-shower room facilities.

Schools need accountability

Editor,

Soon the public school system will be asking the taxpayers another time for an increase for operational cost.

Wouldn't it be better for all if taxpayers had some accounting for where the dollar comes and goes. After all, it is public monies.

A balance sheet could be printed in the school paper each time it comes out to each home. Then if people had questions, they could go to board meetings and ask questions. Instead the people must depend on the town gossip, which usually is turned around several times from the truth.

There are such questions as a trophy showcase built for $3,000. The school has an excellent shop class. Let students make the case, place plaque on it stating: "Made by class of ??." All taxpayers would be out in material and the kids would have pride in helping support the sports.

Then there are trips for principals-teachers going to Florida for meetings at taxpayer's expense. Why not educational trips in the state paid by tax dollars, out of state their own pockets—with accountability that they have been to the meetings.

Breakfast? Why does the administration's office staff cook breakfast each morning in the office? Who buys the food? Is this company time? Utilities?

Of course, there is the subject of sports. We seem to have high expectations for a new track fields, bleachers (donated, yet school maintenance men worked on school time to fix, right?), shower house, trips, which benefits a few students. Yet "no new buses for our already ageing fleet."

Come on board, a few smelly kids after a game is far less important than kids riding in old buses that need to be replaced!

Then there is the question of a new garage at the K-5 school. Why not remove the superintendent's and business manager's boats and things from the old auto shop and use that for storage of school things? Or are they paying enough storage to build a new garage?

Why cut teachers' aides that

O-M students, coaches congratulated

Editor,

The people of Charlevoix can again be proud of the Charlevoix students who participated in the Odyssey of the Mind program.

This nationwide after-school program is designed to encourage creative problem solving. This year 10 teams involving 70 students and 20 volunteer coaches started in November to prepare solutions for regional competition in East Jordan on March 6.

All three middle school teams received medals (two second place and one third). Of the elementary teams, one placed third and two placed fourth. Four teams represented Charlevoix at state competition on April 30 in Mount Pleasant.

Congratulations to all the team members for their fine performances and exemplary behavior.

A special thank you to the coaches. We also wish to thank the building principals and teachers for their continued support of the OM program.

Many Charlevoix businesses provided souvenirs for the trading sessions at the competitions. A special thank you to Oleson's for providing refreshments for the trip to state competition.

Special education day sponsors thanked

Editor,

We would like to thank the following Charlevoix service organizations for sponsoring the 7th Annual Activity Day (May 6, 1988) for the special education students of Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District and clients of the Little Traverse Enterprises, Bergmann Center and Antrim-Kalkaska Industries: the Knights of Columbus, the Odd Fellows and the Masons. Once again, it was a fun-filled and exciting day for our students.

We would also like to thank the Charlevoix eighth grade band for playing at the opening ceremonies and the bands Peril and Jasper and the Tag-Alongs, who were the entertainment for after the awards ceremony and at the evening dance.

Our thanks also goes to the many volunteers who helped throughout the day.

CLOCKWISE

BOB CLOCK

Lake Michigan's icebox effect

If you need proof that Lake Michigan acts as a gigantic refrigerator for Charlevoix and other coastal towns, travel a few miles inland.

We had an opportunity to visit Central Lake over the weekend and were surprised that the lilacs are in full bloom, while in Charlevoix they have barely started.

Of course, Central Lake is well removed from the Big Lake and you get the distinct impression that it has been summer in those parts for some time now.

Most of Central Lake's lilacs are of the deep purple variety, several shades darker than the lavender specimens so common in Charlevoix.

Although inland communities are warmer, they'll get their comeuppance in the fall, when Lake Michigan will help keep the shoreline warm long after Central Lake has had its first frost.

WE ALSO WERE astounded at the number of tent caterpillar cocoons visible in trees and shrubs along the highway.

It looks like many areas are going to suffer defoliated trees this summer, unless the caterpillar larvae are destroyed.

Experts say occasional defoliation doesn't really hurt trees, but it makes them unsightly. And it certainly can't help the tree.

DESPITE THE cool weather, Charlevoixians were out in force over the weekend getting their gardens planted.

I am always surprised after a session in the backyard how many of my muscles ache the next morning—muscles I didn't even know I had.

I thought I had kept in pretty good shape over the winter by swimming once or twice a week in the East Jordan pool.

But I was wrong. Monday morning I felt like I had been run over by a rototiller.

AMERICANS, generally, are pretty outdoors-minded, what with all of our participation sports: baseball, softball, football, soccer, tennis, skiing, skating, water-skiing, swimming, boating, golfing—the list is endless.

But despite all the competition for our time, gardening remains the nation's No. 1 outdoor pastime, according to folks who keep track of such things.

So if you've planted a few beefsteak tomatoes and a packet of radish seeds in the backyard, you're in good company.

NEIL CROSS, son of Jack and June Cross and grandson of Hulda Cross, was in town over the weekend—between jobs, so to speak.

Cross, who operated his own brokerage on Wall Street in New York City for a number of years, recently wound up his work as a member of the presidential commission rewriting the rule book for the Securities Exchange Commission.

This week, Cross is expected to be named chief executive officer of one of London's most prestigious brokerage houses.

I reminded Cross of the night many years ago when he and Larry Hutchinson, then callow teenagers, speared a pickup truck full of suckers in McGeath Creek.

Cross groaned. "After all the things I've done over the years—even serving on a presidential commission—I'm afraid that's all you're going to remember me for, those suckers."

I told him that in Charlevoix, we tend to keep our priorities in order. And those suckers are right at the top of the list.

Kidding aside, I feel so good that a kid from Charlevoix—a graduate of Charlevoix High School—can make such big waves, nationally and internationally.

We must be doing something right.

School district needs accountability

help educate all our children but keep right on transporting sports, field trips, etc. It would make more sense to teach children to read, write and speak properly than to be able to kick or throw a ball.

Sports are great, but should be considered a luxury. One pays their rent before buying a boat. We need to educate before playing ball. We need accountability of our tax dollars before you expect us to give more.

Ron & Sally Gates
Superintendent Gordon VanWieren and Business Manager Vince Olach were asked by the Courier to respond to the questions raised by the letter writers. Here are their responses:

Accountability — VanWieren said a financial report is published annually in the Courier and all financial records of the district are open to the public at any time. He puts his home and office phone numbers on the school newsletter, he said, so people can ask questions and not "depend on the town gossip."

Trophy case — Olach said the district got a better quality, wood case by having it made by a local individual than by ordering a less expensive metal model. VanWieren said students work on projects for themselves and for their families in industrial arts classes.

Trips — VanWieren said the only out-of-state trip taken by a principal in the past 11 years was by middle school principal Dennis VanGuilder, who passed up several in-state conferences to accumulate enough budgeted money to go to a national middle school conference in Florida. He was well within his travel budget, VanWieren said, "It was money well spent."

Breakfast — Both said they knew of no breakfasts prepared or eaten at the administration building. Some employees bring their own lunches, VanWieren said.

Bleachers — Olach said the donated bleachers were erected by volunteers on a Saturday. VanWieren said maintenance of the athletic facilities is part of routine work by the maintenance crew.

Track field and shower rooms — Olach said the old track was in such poor shape it could not be used without risk of injury. The shower facilities, he said, ease a dressing room crunch which has existed since girls sports have increased. With two teams using in-school locker rooms during games, he said, teams practicing for other sports can use the shower facilities at the track. VanWieren said money voted by taxpayers to build the athletic facilities cannot legally be used for general school operations.

Buses — Olach said some buses may be old but all are in top condition and annually pass state police safety inspections.

Garage at Elementary school — Olach said the building constructed at the school is a storage shed where flammables and mowing equipment are being kept to get them out of the school building. Although the room they were kept in was considered safe and fire-resistant, he said, it is better to remove the flammables from the school.

VanWieren said he, Olach and a teacher stored their boats on trailers in the unused auto shop for 3-4 months two winters ago, until a question about the practice was raised. He said he purchased a snowplow and personally kept the area plowed so the boats could be removed if the building was needed or emergency vehicles needed to get to the site. Olach said the district is required to keep the building for use only as a vocational education auto shop under federal law. Once the district's commitment to provide the program expires this year, he said, the building will probably be sold.

Teachers' aides — VanWieren said aides were added to classrooms when class sizes were larger. As class sizes shrink, he said, it is "educationally hard to justify" their continued use at the same level.

THE FORMS OF ABUSE

in the mind of the public, child abuse is frequently related to the infliction of physical injury. However, child abuse takes other forms from which children are entitled to protection. For instance, a child should not even be subjected to an environment which poses the risk of physical injury. Any parent or guardian who subjects the child to an injurious environment or otherwise fails to support the child is considered to be neglectful. In addition to the physical aspects of child abuse, a child should not be subjected to emotional neglect or psychological abuse. Failure to remove a child from such threats to emotional well-being is also considered to be neglectful. Anyone can report a case of child abuse to the proper authorities in an effort to protect a child's rights.

ROBERT HOFFMAN
103 Belvedere, Charlevoix

Neglectful parental behavior includes leaving a child at home without proper supervision in the parent's absence.

Contest looks for sign design

A contest will be held to find the most appropriate design for new signs marking the entryways to Charlevoix.

After city council approved buying three new signs a couple weeks ago, questions arose about the image the signs projected.

Questioned was the rustic look of the signs, which were to cost the city $4,500.

Now, Keep Charlevoix Beautiful and the city are sponsoring a contest with a $200 prize for the best design.

Entries can be for any size signs, must have the words Charlevoix the Beautiful on them in the script type used around the city, and can be wood, painted, carved or etched.

Designs must be submitted by the city manager's office by Wednesday, June 8.

The contest is open to anyone.

Bruce MacArthur (left), president of Keep Charlevoix Beautiful, and Don May of the Green Thumb volunteer retirees' program plant petunias in front of the Chamber of Commerce office. The flowers are being planted through holes in a special weed blanket, which will be covered with wood chips.

Earlier start set for planters at annual Operation Petunia

This year's Operation Petunia planting is beginning a half-hour earlier than usual.

Because a weed blanket is being used on the entire 4 1/2-mile, 45,000-petunia route for the first time, organizers want to allow more time for planting.

Volunteers are being asked to assemble at 4:30 p.m. Thursday, May 26, on blocks of their choice. Planting is expected to last until 6:30 — a half-hour later than usual, too.

More volunteers are being sought, too, to ensure the planting is completed as quickly as possible.

A free picnic lunch in East Park awaits the first 600 planters. They will be given validated meal tickets by block captains.

Operation Petunia, sponsored by Keep Charlevoix Beautiful, is in its seventh year.

Hospital board election set

Nominations for the Charlevoix Area Hospital board of directors will be accepted until Saturday, June 4.

Three terms expire in July. Those presently holding the positions are eligible for re-election at the annual meeting Tuesday, July 19.

Other nominations can be made up to 45 days before the meeting by any Charlevoix Area Hospital member. Members are those whose dues are paid by July 1.

Membership dues are $3 a year or $15 for lifetime.

Members also include anyone who has made a monetary contribution to the hospital, over the past year.

All members are eligible to vote at the annual meeting.

Members of the board of directors who are running for re-election are:

— Thomas Carey, current president of the board, who has been a member of the board since 1973. He is retired from the oil business.

— Alvin Ranger, secretary-treasurer of the board, is owner of Ranger Engineering of Charlevoix. He was elected to the board in 1985.

— Norman Perkins, a Central Lake resident, is a learning disability specialist at Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District. Perkins became a board member in 1985.

Nominating committee chairperson is Jeannine Wallace. Nominations may be sent to the administrator's office, Charlevoix Area Hospital, Lake Shore Drive.

Masonic Lodge honors past masters

Charlevoix Masonic Lodge No. 282 honored past masters with a dinner, prepared by the Order of Eastern Star.

Garbage panel near end of job

Early last year, the Charlevoix County Waste Management Committee sat down for its first meeting in what looked like a short process to bring the state-required plan up to date.

However, as the committee appears ready to wrap up its work, the process has been a long and slow — and often heated — one.

Since that first meeting:

— Charlevoix County Landfill's local owners sold to a world-wide waste management company.

— The new landfill owners were denied permission to increase its size from 40 to 100 acres.

— The committee decided to limit to two counties, Charlevoix and Emmet, the area from which waste could be hauled to the private landfill. (For many years, the landfill has accepted waste from all over northern Michigan).

— The landfill owner is raising dumping fees, saying this was necessary partly because of the small area from which they could take waste.

— Waste collectors (primarily part of another division of the same firm) are raising rates to householders because of the dumping fee hike.

The county committee is putting the final touches on the updated management plan and will hold what is expected to be its final meeting Thursday, May 26.

By that time, county planner Larry Sullivan, who has been coordinating the committee's work, will have met with a representative of the DNR to make sure the committee has covered all required facets in the plan.

Waste Management Inc., owner of the landfill requested that a representative be heard at this final committee meeting in the hope of changing the committee members' minds about permitting expansion of the landfill and opening it up to a larger service area.

However, Sullivan said the committee could permit only a written communication, which will be read at the meeting.

Changes made in changes to Ferry Beach

Changes in Ferry Beach are being changed.

During a dispute last month over parking plans and launch fees at the beach, city council decided to pave a strip of grass to add a row of parking spaces.

Now, though, the council has backed off on that decision and will have cars park on the grass so the area may someday become park again.

At the same time, they are transferring the $4,000 budgeted for parking lot expansion to beach extension work.

Led by Norm Probert, the council members want the new north end of the beach area cleaned up and made into a usable park area.

The north area was purchased partly with a state grant and is included in future beach expansion plans.

The area is partially wetlands and a Department of Natural Resources permit will be needed before any dirt removal or filling can be done.

City Manager Mike Wiesner said the city can apply for a permit to do a total fill and see what the DNR allows.

"Some people are going to be yelling and saying, 'Hey, you promised us more parking,'" said council member Shirley Roloff.

Roloff was a member of a citizen-council committee that recommended the parking lot addition, but agreed with the change in plans.

The parking lot dispute arose when Wiesner proposed limiting beach parking in the lot, while expanding it along Ferry Avenue.

The alteration was part of a plan to implement controls around the boat launching ramps.

Many residents complained, saying they did not want young children crossing Ferry Avenue to get to the beach.

Future plans call for moving Ferry Avenue back to the railroad right-of-way and expanding the beach to the new road and into the north area.

Once everything is in place, the beach and park area would be about 300 feet longer than it is now.

The added portion of beach is sandy, but residents say the lake bottom is mucky only a few feet from shore.

The city has reapplied for a state grant for more than $300,000 to fix up the beach area. A similar grant request was not funded last year.

Dick Way and his crew work on the fish cleaning station being installed at Ferry Beach by Charlevoix Area Trout Tournament Inc. The donated facility is being put up with volunteer help. From left are Way, Herb Boss, Bob Jones and Gary Way (on ladder). The cleaning station may be completed early next week. The tournament begins June 10.

East Jordan arts council forming

The foundation for a new arts organization in the East Jordan area is being laid.

Officers elected to lead the as-yet-unnamed group are Fran Pletz, president; Jerry Aydlott, vice-president; Rita La Victorie, secretary; and Sharon Jackson, treasurer.

Pletz, a retired executive director of the Michigan Library Association, is a member of the Crooked Tree Arts Council board. Crooked Tree serves Charlevoix and Emmet counties.

Before moving to this area five years ago, Pletz helped launch a similar project that developed into an established East Lansing arts workshop.

The new organization will be headquartered in the Jordan Valley District Library building at 301 Main Street, East Jordan, in late autumn after the library moves to a new building.

The officers and 12-member board are seeking community input on a name for the organization before a May 31 board meeting when a name will be selected, incorporation proceedings will be pursued and by-laws will be begun.

Board members are Linda Beers Aydlott, Barbara J. Bassett, Richard Bassett, Lenore Bechtel, Franny Bluhm, Nancy Carey, Patti Hodge, Maggie Matthews, Jana Middaugh, Lorna Peebles, John W. Richter and Pat Tinney.

A general meeting to which the public is invited will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, June 28, in the East Jordan High School library.

Eastern Star hosts breakfast

Charlevoix Chapter No. 72 of the Order of the Eastern Star will serve its first breakfast of the summer on Sunday, May 29, at the Masonic Temple.

There is a chair-lift available for anyone unable to climb stairs.

The menu will consist of juice, scrambled eggs, sausage, hash brown potatoes and home-made coffee cake. The cost is $3 and breakfast will be served from 8 a.m. until noon.

Breakfasts will also be served June 26, July 24 and Aug. 26.

Flower sale

Lorna Miles (left) and Mary Helen Riggie water perennials donated to the Charlevoix Area Garden Club's sale on 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, May 28 at 206 Cherry St. Proceeds will be used for beauty spots and Preserve North Point.

City cuts trash pickup hike in half

Charlevoix's city council has sliced a rate increase request from the area garbage hauler in half.

Waste Management of Northern Michigan requested an increase from the present $7 monthly charge to $9.

City council approved a 15 percent raise, instead of the 29 percent hike. The increase is due to go in effect June 1.

The new rate would be about $8, as approved by the council.

Because of a city ordinance, the company had to seek permission to raise prices. In most communities, the increase went into effect automatically, said general manager Donald Pizzurro.

Council members were not sure whether they could legally halt the increase, but voted to try.

A public hearing on the increase brought little audience comment.

The trash hauler and the only licensed landfill in the area are owned by separate divisions of Waste Management Inc., the largest waste company in the nation.

Waste Management raised rates at Charlevoix County Landfill Inc., citing increased costs in meeting state regulatory provisions and the failure of the county Solid Waste Management Committee to approve expansion.

Soviets

friendship club, Maxim is now learning French and Japanese.

Gerrie-Huskey, whose Russian expertise comes from two years of intensive study in language and culture through the U.S. Air Force, said that Moscow Special School No. 23 was clearly dominated by children of Communist Party members: a school for the elite. The "Pioneers," she confirmed, is a Boy Scout-type organization grooming the youngsters for party membership.

When another student read that her penpal lived in a three-bedroom flat, Gerrie-Huskey said "That family must be very important."

And when another Soviet sixth grader revealed his father was the director of the Leo Tolstoy Museum in Moscow and his mother was an editor on a magazine, Gerrie-Huskey's eyebrows soared. "Good Heavens," she said.

The Soviet students told their new Charlevoix friends about their hobbies, sports, favorite writers and rock groups.

Maxim explained to Jason how his family celebrates New Year's instead of Christmas, with a fur tree, a Santa Claus and gifts for the family, and that he is an Ozzie Osborne fan.

Lindsey Tallberg grinned broadly as she opened her letter. "I am going to write back and tell my penpal more about us and ask her about her school and what she likes to do after school," she said.

In each Charlevoix sixth grade classroom, students gathered around photographs, postcards, letters and stamps from Moscow.

McRae hurried through each room, as excited as any student as letters were read and shared.

Later he said, "Maybe this is just the beginning. I want the school to keep on working."

Coast Guard rehearsal

A Coast Guard helicopter from the Traverse City air station has been practicing rescue maneuvers in Lake Michigan and Lake Charlevoix. Aided by a boat from the Charlevoix rescue station, the helicopter conducted night drills over Lake Charlevoix off North Point and daytime drills in Lake Charlevoix off Ferry Beach.

by Marybeth Wallick

New at the Charlevoix Public Library for spring are some of the all-time popular authors with their latest offerings.

Heading off the list is Danielle Steel with her newest best-seller, Zoya. Steel has now written 22 best-sellers, while raising nine kids. She is 40 years old.

Zoya, the heroine of her latest novel is a cousin to the czar and lives the life of titled aristocracy in Russia until the revolution occurs. Zoya loses everything - her family, her position, her country.

She flees to war-torn Paris where she struggles to make her own way. Dancing in the ballet to survive, she meets a man whose love changes her life. With her newfound wealth, she moved to New York, but her world is again destroyed by the stock market crash of 1929.

Again, she survives and emerges to find a new love and create a business empire that cannot be lost or taken away.

Another all-time favorite, Belva Plain has a new hit with Tapestry. Paul Werner, scion of a great banking family, must face the stillborn birth of his child and resultant barren state of his gentle wife.

Although Paul respects and loves his wife, he has never gotten over his passionate love for the forbidden, elusive Anna, who some of you may remember from her last novel, Evergreen.

He is a divided man; publicly Paul is sure and decisive, helping German Jews flee impending horror in Europe, but privately, he chases a fantasy, a woman-who-might-have-been.

Plain took up writing late in life when she could not find good "nice" books and has been imminently successful.

Elmore Leonard has been pounding the keys with a new book called Freaky Deaky. When Robin Abbott and Skip Gibbs, former bomb-throwing '60s radicals, meet again in the '80s, they've both joined the establishment - sort of.

Robin's got a plan to use Skip's talent with dynamite to even an old score and make a lot of money.

Soon Chris Mankowski, an ex-bomb squad cop stumbles onto the scene and starts a game of wits that winds up as a lethal war of explosives.

And last, but certainly not least, as any of his ardent fans will tell you, is the latest from Eric Van Lustbader, Zero.

Set in the island of Maui, Washington D.C., Japan and Russia, Lustbader's novel tells the story of American Michael Does who starts out to discover the secrets of his father's life - and death.

In his quest, Michael becomes involved with a sinister Japanese organization formed during World War II for the purpose of destroying the United States through global economic manipulation.

Drawn into a web of international intrigue, Michael enlists the aid of a mysterious Japanese woman and together they face the assassin Zero.

New magistrate begins job

David Kurchinski, a native of Boyne City, has been appointed magistrate in the office of Charlevoix District Court.

He replaces Wayne Barnett, who resigned to accept a job with Bendix-Courier in Boyne City.

The magistrate (formerly called justice of the peace) is assigned several duties which lighten the load of the district judge.

These include conducting informal hearings, handling civil infractions, performing marriages, issuing search warrants and making bonding arrangements.

The new magistrate graduated from Boyne City High School in 1965 and later attended the Police Academy of St. Petersburg College in Florida.

He served several years as a police officer in Dunedin, Fla., before returning to Charlevoix County in 1981.

Since that time, he has served on the staff of the Charlevoix County Sheriff Department, reaching the rank of sergeant in 1985.

Among other assignments, Kurchinski has been in charge of

BEACONS

by the Rev. Thomas Black
First Baptist Church

We have all heard that silence is golden. There are times, however, when it is just plain yellow. It is not wisdom to remain silent when sin is open.

It is not commonsense to keep still when our nation or community is being sold down the river. It is not prudence to avoid speaking up rather than "get involved." This is, as far as I am concerned, just plain cowardice.

In the area of our witness, we all know that we are to be constantly a silent witness. There are times when we must testify with our lips as well as with our lives.

People must know that the reason why we strive to live clean lives is because Christ has saved us. The only way they can know this is for us to tell them.

The devil has sold too many Christians a bill of goods. He has told them that there is nothing wrong with being silent so long as they don't do anything wrong themselves.

But, as far as I am concerned, to remain silent can be a sin. How do you think?

'Kidnap' aids resale shop, church teens

The Charlevoix Church of the Nazarene is holding a fundraising event for the Rainbow Shoppe and the Food Pantry project.

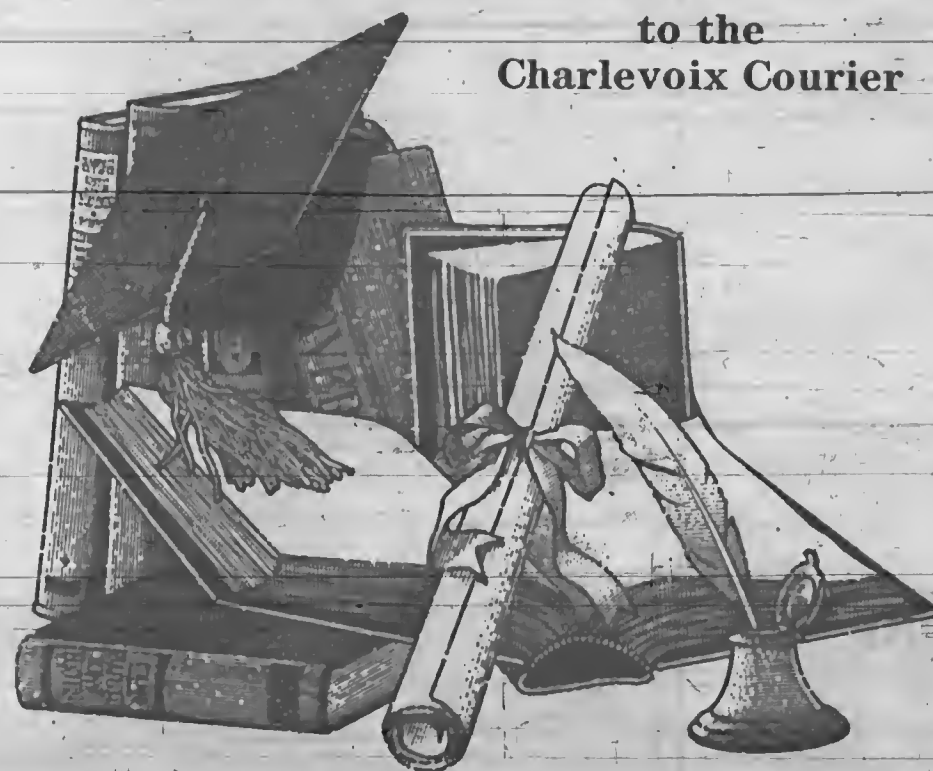

The Rev. Duane Nelson will be "kidnapped" on Thursday-Saturday, May 26-28, with ransom paid to the church in the form of clothing and food.

Seventy-five percent of the proceeds will go to the Food Pantry and Rainbow Shoppe and the rest will be used for a Charlevoix Teen Mission trip to Chicago.

Regional champs Tennis team wins 3rd straight title

Charlevoix has won its third straight Class C-D regional tennis title.

The Rayders tied for first with Northport.

The Rayders' only early exit came from senior Marty Joy in No. 1 singles. Joy was pitted in the first round against the eventual champion and lost, 6-4, 7-6.

In No. 2 singles, Charlevoix's Ryan Holmes drew a first-round bye and the won 6-4, 6-1, before falling to the second-seeded player.

The Rayders' J.D. Boydston won 6-0, 6-0 in the second round before winning 7-6, 4-6, 6-4.

Boydston then lost in the finals 6-3, 6-2.

David Puhl won 6-7, 6-1, 6-4 and 7-6, 7-6 before losing 6-2, 6-2 in the finals.

All three Charlevoix doubles teams reached the finals, with the No. 1 team of senior Scott DeYoung and junior Wes Cumberland taking it all.

Relays lead Rayders to track victory

The Charlevoix boys defended their regional title behind senior Pat Rajewski, who finished first in both the 1600- and 800-meter run and ran in the winning 1600-meter relay team.

And for the second straight year, Charlevoix will send all four of its relay team to the Class C state meet thanks to the ability to adapt.

"We rearranged a few of the runners," Coach Hal Evans explained. "Jason Whitley was an addition to the 800 relay. He had been ill so we took him out of the 100 high (hurdles) and the pole vault. It was almost an afterthought to put him in that relay just to see how he was feeling."

"He ended up running a 22-flat split, which is a very fast 200 (meters)."

Evans also added Mary Wit-thoef to that relay.

Whitley and Witthoef teamed with Dave Miller and Mark LaBlance to place second in the 800-meter relay in 1:33.2.

Also placing second were the 3200-meter relay team of Scott Miller, Sean Henne, Dylan Stewart and Rajewski with a school record of 8:09; and the 400 team of Miller, Brian Livingston, LaBlance and Witthoef in 45.7.

Teaming up with Rajewski in the 1600 relay were Eric Moore, Henne and Whitley.

Rajewski, suffering from a strained chest cartilage, won the 1600 run in 4:26 and the 800 run in 1:59 and set two school records in the process.

Whitley, a junior, won the 400-meter run in 51.1 and the 300-meter low hurdles in 40.3.

Junior varsity pitcher throws no-hitter

Dan Terryberry threw a no-hitter as the Charlevoix junior varsity beat Grayling 11-0 in six innings. Game two ended in a 6-6 tie.

In the opener, Terryberry struck out four and walked one in going the distance.

Charlevoix broke the game open in the third inning with six runs, four on two-run home runs by Terryberry and Jeff Ballard. Terryberry had three hits in the game and three RBI.

In game two, Guy Gengle singled in Brandon Jess with two out in the bottom of the fifth inning to give Charlevoix the 6-6 tie.

Erich McElroy, Jordan Spencer, Chris Dobrowski and Scott Kehrler also had hits for Charlevoix.

DeYoung and Cumberland won 6-0, 6-1; 6-0, 6-1; and 6-1, 7-6, 6-1.

Charlie Witthoef and Dan Bickersteth won 6-0, 6-1; 6-1, 6-0; and lost 6-3, 7-6.

Tim Jervis and Scott Crain won 6-0, 6-0; 6-3, 6-2; and lost 6-3, 7-6, 6-1.

Charlevoix and Northport advance to the Class C-D state meet Friday and Saturday, June 3-4, at Holland.

Fowler

Fowler gets MVP honor at college

Meg Fowler of Charlevoix, catcher on Alma College's softball team, was honored at the end of the season by being named both captain of the team and most valuable player.

She was also an All-Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association (MIAA) second team selection.

During the 1988 season, she had a .220 batting average and .961 fielding average, and she stole three bases. Alma finished second in the MIAA, one game out of first place.

A junior at Alma and graduate of Charlevoix High School is the daughter of David and Nancy Fowler of Charlevoix.

Diamond string hits 8

Charlevoix ran its victory streak to eight with a twin-bill sweep of Harbor Springs, 11-3 and 8-1, in non-league baseball.

In the first game, winning pitcher Shawn Putman held the Rams scoreless through five innings before Harbor Springs scored three runs in the sixth.

The Rayders had 13 hits as Jason Corwin and Steve Hopkins

Rayders 2nd in middle school meet

Charlevoix finished second in a four-school middle school track meet.

Among boys, Gaylord won with 86½ points followed by Charlevoix with 46 and Petoskey with 34.

Among girls, Gaylord won with 101 points followed by Charlevoix with 56, Petoskey with 53 and Grayling with 18.

Taking first for the Charlevoix boys were David Hunter, pole vault, 8'6"; Luke LaBlance, long jump, 17'3½"; Brian Coolman, 400-meter dash, 59.91; and the 800-meter relay team, 1:48.84.

Winners for the Charlevoix girls were: Jenna McElroy, 55-meter hurdles, 10.67; the 800-meter relay team 2:00.84; and 400-meter relay teams, 57.55.

Second places for Charlevoix were: Lori Darrah, 55-meter hurdles; the girls' 1600-meter relay team; Will Wildman, high jump; Josh Martin, 1600-meter run; LaBlance, 100-meter dash; and the 1600- and 400-meter relays.

Third places for Charlevoix were: Gina Webster, 800-meter run; Michelle Keem, 100-meter dash; Katherine Campbell, 100-meter dash; Katherine Campbell, 100-meter hurdles; Laura Kelly, 70-meter dash; Jodi Allison, 200-meter dash; Dan Hoadley, 55-meter hurdles; Pajtas, pole vault; and Martin, 200-meter dash.

had solo home runs, Scott Denny and Mike Himebauch both singled and doubled, Putman singled twice and Cory Battle, Dave Loder, Chad Morrow, Chad Thorp and Pat Elliott each added singles.

In the nightcap, Charlevoix overcame a 1-0 deficit by erupting for six runs in the fifth inning.

JACQUIE MERTA

Jacquie Merta is executive director of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce.

Right now the federal government is reviewing enactment of the Minimum Wage Restoration Act, which would raise the federal minimum wage from the present $3.35 per hour to $5.05 by 1992.

In addition, if this act becomes law it would mean that the small business exemption for retailers would be increased from $362,000 to $500,000 in annual revenues and the employer's tip credit allowance would be raised 40 to 45 percent in 1989 and 50 percent in 1990.

Raising the minimum wage would have a dramatic negative impact on Charlevoix area businesses. Many Charlevoix jobs are filled by young people, either still in school or just out of school.

It is a fact that 60 percent of minimum wage workers are under 25 years of age. Two-thirds of them are part-time workers. Most minimum wage workers are teenagers who live in a household with an employed adult and an average income above the poverty line. These minimum wage jobs provide experience and additional learning so that in time they may move on to higher paying jobs.

If the minimum wage increases, we all will pay. We'll pay more for products and services, contributing to inflation, and we'll notice a decline in the number of jobs available, and a lot of our youth will be without jobs.

If you agree that in increase in the federal minimum wage would have an adverse impact on businesses and the economy, then contact U.S. Congressman Robert Davis and U.S. Senators Donald W. Riegle and Carl Levin and urge them to oppose any increase in the federal minimum wage.

LEGAL NOTICE 210

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE TO: KENNETH B. DOTY and JANE A. DOTY of 2404 Center, Boyne Falls, Michigan 49713, and all persons claiming title through and under them.

A default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage, made the 21st day of August, 1986, by Kenneth B. Doty and Jane A. Doty, husband and wife, as Mortgagor, to Old Kent Bank of Potoskey, a Michigan banking corporation, of Potoskey, Michigan, as Mortgagee.

Said mortgage was recorded on August 28, 1986, in Liber 187 of Mortgages, Pages 488 through 493, in the Office of the Charlevoix County Register of Deeds. There is due and owing on such mortgage as of May 13, 1988, the sum of Nineteen Thousand Three Hundred Fifty-eight and 82/100 ($19,358.82) Dollars, principal; and Eighty Hundred Sixty and 62/100 ($80,620.62) Dollars, interest. No suit or proceedings at law or in equity have been instituted to recover the debt or any part of the debt secured by said mortgage, and the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative by reason of such default.

NOTICE is hereby given that on June 14, 1988, at 10:00 o'clock a.m., at the street entrance of the Courthouse for Charlevoix County, Michigan, there will be offered for sale and sold to the highest bidder at public sale for the purpose of satisfying the amounts due and unpaid upon said mortgage, the lands and premises mentioned in said mortgage and described as follows, to-wit:

In the Township of Boyne Falls, Charlevoix County, Michigan; Lots 9 and 10, Block 12, Second Addition to the Village of Boyne Falls, according to the plat recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for Charlevoix County, Michigan. (15 41 412 009 00)

The redemption period will be six (6) months from the time of such sale. The property may be redeemed by paying the amount bid at sale, plus the adjustable rate of interest borne by the mortgage note currently at 9.61 percent, together with any additional advancements made on the property from the date of sale. Dated: May 13, 1988

Ice cream event set in Horton Bay

The first event of the summer season in Horton Bay will be an ice cream social at the Bay Township Hall 1-5 p.m. Saturday, May 28.

Sundaes with homemade fudge and strawberry toppings, ice cream cones and original Windigo cookies will be served.

A videotape of last year's Fourth of July parade will be played continuously, and a black and white quilt designed and made by Horton Bay resident Moe Skop will be on display.

The quilt will later be the prize in a drawing to benefit the 1988 Horton Bay parade.

Proceeds from the ice cream social will also go into the parade fund.

Republicans meeting with candidates

All Republicans running for county office in the August primary are being invited to the Thursday, June 16, meeting of the Charlevoix County Republican party to introduce themselves and make a statement about their candidacy, according to Barbara Timms, party chairman.

Traditionally, the party provides financial support for Republican winners of the primary election who have competition from Democrats in November.

The group is also inviting Republican candidates for state and national offices to the county GOP picnic Sunday, July 10, at Whiting Park.

Holiday brings early deadline

Because of the Memorial Day holiday, deadlines for next week's Courier have been moved forward slightly.

The deadline for display advertising is 10 a.m. Friday, May 27. The deadline for classified advertising and news items is 5 p.m. that day.

Normal deadlines will resume the following week.

Charlevoix's 100th class graduating

The 100th class to graduate from Charlevoix High School will pick up its diplomas during Sunday, June 5, commencement ceremonies.

The graduation will be held at 2 p.m. at the high school. The centennial class has 124 members — 11 of which are adult education graduates and five of which are exchange students from European countries.

Valedictorian of the 100th class is Eric Richardson, while Sean Henne is salutatorian.

Giving the main address to the graduates will be Dr. Gordon VanWieren, superintendent of schools.

A baccalaureate service is scheduled for 7 p.m. tonight at First Congregational Church.

The service is sponsored by the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.

Clergymen participating in the service include the Rev. Phillip Schairbaum, the Rev. Bruce Hamilton, the Rev. Duane Nelson, the Rev. Larry Grooters, Father James Gardner and the Rev. David Yingling.

Complete schedules for the graduation and baccalaureate as well as profiles of the top 10 percent of the graduating class and of the community education graduates, and senior award and honors recipients are included in a special pull-out souvenir section of today's Courier.

Sixty-one percent of this year's seniors will be going on to institutions of higher learning, according to a survey by counselor Charlie Bentley. (This figure does not include adult education or exchange students.)

This is slightly below the percentage of college-bound graduates from the previous three years and the fifth highest percentage in the past 10 years.

This graduating class is the second smallest in the decade, Bentley's figures show.

Besides the 66 students planning to attend college, the class contains 11 who will enter the armed services.

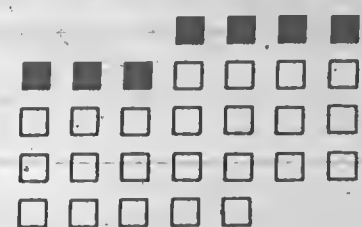

The most popular college of this year's class is Michigan State University, which 10 students will attend. Next is Northwestern Michigan College in Traverse City.

In previous years, North Central Michigan College in Petoskey has been the most popular school for Charlevoix graduates.

Anne Plucke removes petunias from their container as she joins with about 800 area residents in the annual Operation Petunia planting. The record turnout apparently had little trouble with the new weed blanket. Story and more photos on page 3.

Ahead-lines

Lake Charlevoix trout tournament

About 800 participants are expected for this year's Charlevoix Area Trout Tournament — which will be held in June for the first time this year.

The tournament has been moved from May to Friday-Sunday, June 10-12, for the fourth year of the event.

The date change and a number of rule changes grew out of responses to a participant survey.

The organizers are expecting warmer weather than in previous years, increasing participation by both fishermen and fish.

Last year, 658 entrants fished the tourney. A sold-out kick-off dinner in April was the first event linked to the tournament.

Events during the tourney weekend include a fish boil in East Park on Saturday, a kids' fish pond where live trout can be caught all weekend, a fund-raiser featuring a boat-trailer package plus other prizes, and an awards presentation Sunday.

The survey the date change and a number of other changes including more cash awards ($80 this year; last year there were 48).

Prizes will be awarded in four divisions — brown trout, lake trout, steelhead and salmon. Twenty fish in each category will win cash prizes.

There are a number of bonus prizes including those for bagging a tagged fish released in Lake Charlevoix and one for the heaviest fish caught Friday, June 10.

Registration is taking place at the Chamber of Commerce office. Registrants will receive a free hat and a Stinger lure.

The tournament is operated by a non-profit organization run by a volunteer group of directors. Area sponsors include Si's Marine & Johnson Outboards, Stinger/Advance Tackle, Walstrom Marine, Fairport Marine Electronics, Grand Bay Marine & Brokerage, Dilworth Boat Shop, Charlevoix Convention and Visitors Bureau, and Thompson Boats.

8 WEDNESDAY

Savich was in town earlier in the day and did not participate in the planting. Above, Ariene Staley plants in the downtown area. Below, a large group plants along Petoskey Avenue between Michigan and Auld.

The annual planting of petunias along U.S. 31 attracted a record volunteer turnout... despite drenching rains earlier in the day... despite anticipated slowdowns because of the first-time use of a manufactured 4½-mile-long blanket designed to keep weeds to a minimum.

Over 800 people took part in the planting, according to Bruce MacArthur, president of Keep Charlevoix Beautiful.

He bases his estimate on the amount of food handed out at the picnic following the planting — 1,000 drinks, 850 hot dogs and 600 cookies.

At one point, Rotarians manning the grills ran out of hot dogs and picnickers were being served until past 7:30.

Another thing that ran out was petunias — and Operation Petunia organizers aren't quite sure why.

In each of the past years, MacArthur said, about 45,000 petunias were planted.

KCB annually sells some of its extra petunias to area florists so residents can buy petunias that match those along the roadway.

This year, Charlevoix Florist sold back 10 flats of flowers.

KCB had asked for more volunteers than usual to help out because of predictions the weed blanket would slow planting.

The call for help was answered, as was the group's plea for improved weather.

Even as late as 1:30 p.m. — with planting pegged to start at 4:30 — the Charlevoix area was being drenched with a much-needed but ill-timed rain storm.

And, as MacArthur joked at the time, "there is no Plan B."

MacArthur was shown what he was up against on WKHQ radio's weather radar — a cluster of clouds sitting right over town and nowhere else.

News director Bob White promised him the storm would move out in an hour, MacArthur said, and by 2:30 the sky was clearing.

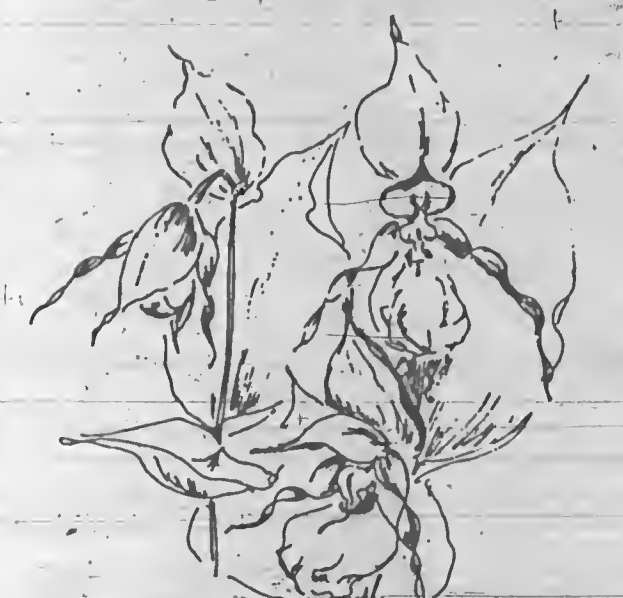

By planting time, it was sunny and warm.

Kids' show has powerful message

Editor,
The children who performed recently in Alice in Blunderland did more than simply entertain.

This fantasy had music, laughter, clever costumes and most important of all — a powerful message.

These children did something very special, they gave us hope for the future.

Letters to the editor:

At the play's end, as Alice is about to depart from Blunderland, she is reminded by the Cheshire Cat to carry on the legacy of saving the world for the children.

This after all is what it is about — saving the world for the children.

KHQ thanked for aiding Cystic Fibrosis

Editor,
On behalf of the 30,000 children with cystic fibrosis, I wish to thank Bill Vogel, "The Captain" of WKHQ morning show, and WKHQ radio for hosting a breakfast to raise funds for the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation.

Bill Vogel's efforts raised some $600 for the foundation at a breakfast hosted by WKHQ in their Charlevoix studio. Such notables as Miss Grand Traverse were in attendance. Bill was disappointed that Cher could not attend...maybe next time. I can't imagine anyone missing an opportunity to enjoy Charlevoix beauty...and Bill Vogel's humor.

We appreciate the support of WKHQ in our endeavors to eliminate the No. 1 genetic killer of young people in the United States. There are over 1,200 CF young people in Michigan and some 500,000 unknown carriers of the CF gene — 1 in 20 people are carriers. The CF families are serviced through our 8 CF Care Centers and numerous CF units in local hospitals throughout the state.

We are grateful for the support of the Life Underwriters

Association of Northwestern Michigan for introducing WKHQ to our cause. Geoff Harris, public service chairman for the Life Underwriters, is receiving the donation on behalf of the foundation.

We appreciate the support of the media in informing the public about cystic fibrosis since early diagnosis results in quality care — giving our children a longer and healthier life.

Charlevoix's a big hit in Big Apple

It was an ideal trip!
Some of you saw me being interviewed on WKBD-TV Channel 50 in Detroit.

The new station headquarters, located in Southfield, is as secure as any FBI building — every hall door has a combination lock and guests are personally escorted from the foyer down long corridors to a waiting room and finally to a studio.

(This precaution is taken to prevent cranks from holding newspeople hostage, I was told.)

By the time one steps on stage under the lights with two cameramen pointing their gear at you and a director signalling with his arms and the interviewer shooting tricky questions at you — it's a pretty intimidating situation, let me tell you!

In retrospect, it's a wonder they let the wedding cake I brought along through security, without testing it for a bomb.

The beautiful cake was the visual aid I used to demonstrate the correct and incorrect way to cut and serve a wedding cake. After the taping, so many people came out of the dark asking for a piece of cake this it was all gone in five minutes.

Now, let me tell you what happened to me on Friday the 13th! Going from Washington D.C. to New York via Amtrak, I found myself standing elbow to elbow next to Muhammad Ali in the dinette.

He was busy signing autographs, so I asked, "Would you be kind enough to give me your autograph?" at which point he pulled out the facsimile of a

Packing 'em in

What's happening?

Memorial Day, 1988, is history, and veteran observers of the tourist front are still shaking their heads in disbelief. Certainly Charlevoix had more visitors this Memorial Day weekend than ever before. And not all of them were concert-goers.

Bridge street was jammed from morning until night each day and every parking lot was filled.

A lot of folks likened the weekend to the Venetian Festival or the Waterfront Art Fair.

And local merchants reported a booming business. Big Olaf's ice cream cone emporium near the bridge had intended to close at 10 p.m. Sunday, but there was still a line at the door. So the ice cream staff stayed on the job until almost 11, when customers finally began to thin out.

The Parkside ran out of food and closed early Monday.

The weather, of course, had a lot to do with the massive influx of visitors. In fact, it is hard to imagine more perfect weather the last weekend in May, which is traditionally cold and wet.

But not this year. The temperature hovered in the 70s and 80s all weekend, and although the lakes really weren't warm enough for swimming, a number of intrepid youngsters gave it a try.

If Memorial Day is a harbinger of what is to come, Charlevoix can look forward to a summer like no other in its long history as a tourist mecca.

Although the AC-DC concert Sunday night was a resounding success, law enforcement officials reportedly had their hands full with rowdy concert-goers.

We wish, of course, that Castle Farms concerts would attract a more sedate crowd, but we know that we are not going to change human nature. The audience is out for a good time, and that usually involves imbibing alcoholic beverages and possibly partaking of other narcotics.

Most of the rock fans are young and haven't yet learned that the night before is never worth the morning after.

However, I heard one report after the concert that disturbed me no end.

It seems that some of the concert crowd wisely decided they were in no shape to drive home to Grand Rapids, Sault Ste. Marie, or wherever. Instead they drove to the Ferry Avenue Beach parking lot, and other areas around town, where they curled up for forty-winks.

Which was the right thing to do. We certainly don't want tired drivers on our highways, endangering their lives and the lives of others.

Of course, the city prohibits overnight parking, mainly to get cars off the streets in winter so that snow plows can work their magic. But there really is no reason to ban parking in spring summer or fall.

However, early Monday morning I understand some law enforcement officers were busy rousing sleeping drivers, notifying them that they were breaking the law and sending them packing.

I, for one, would hate to see Ferry Avenue Beach turn turned into an overnight campground. But when it comes down to letting drowsy drivers sleep it off or sending them out on the highway, I'll take the first alternative every time.

I think some of our law enforcement officers were a little too eager to enforce the parking ban under post-concert conditions.

Selective law enforcement? You bet!

To repeat, human nature is as unchangeable as the Rock of Gibraltar. All we can hope for is to protect our young people from themselves until they learn better.

End of sermon.

From Detroit to New York - Charlevoix's big hit

$100 bill and wrote "to Edith, Muhammad Ali, 5-13-88." Muhammad was traveling alone and looked very handsome, though I am told he is not well and on medication. Such a pity—palatable.

Bumped into my Charlevoix neighbors, the Mason Rosen-thals, during intermission of "Anything Goes" at Lincoln Center. They can't wait to return to their Michigan Avenue home this August.

Joanne Cummings (whose former husband, the late Nathan Cummings, donated much painting and sculpture to Charlevoix) invited me to lunch. Thank heaven I hadn't forgotten how to handle three silver knives and forks for this little tete-a-tete! Her gorgeous apartment overlooks Central Park and was featured a couple years ago in Vogue. She looks younger than springtime, and made me promise to take pictures of Charlevoix for her.

Then on to a cocktail party in the Dakota Apartments. Does that have a familiar ring? It's where John Lennon was shot!

The next day I attended a wedding reception in a Vanderbilt Mansion which was rented for the occasion. Hundreds of people were dancing to a seven-piece band and, just as I was thinking, "Here I am and I don't know a soul," a young man surprised me by asking, "Are you from Charlevoix?"

He was Greta Well's escort. The Well family has summered in Charlevoix forever, and Greta is now an architect in New York.

Greta looks wonderful and we had a warm reunion. But that's not all. During the evening, several other young men came up to me. They all said they used to summer in Charlevoix and asked a million questions. "How's the fishing?" "Is the park still there?" "Is the restaurant on the channel."

Being from Charlevoix made me quite a celebrity in New York. Isn't that a switch?

YOUR CHILD'S 'GUARDIAN'

Quite possibly, the most difficult task in planning an estate and drafting a will is the selection of a guardian for the children. Before undertaking this task, be aware that there are really two categories of guardians. One is a "trustee." The trustee takes care of the child's property which has been left in trust. He manages and invests his assets and withdraws income for his support. The trust itself can last as long as the parents designate. The true "guardian," on the other hand, is charged with taking care of the child's person and providing him with a home. A guardianship lasts only until the child reaches the age of majority, usually eighteen.

No law states that a person cannot be both trustee and guardian.

Waste panel work goes beyond planned cut-off

by PEG OHLE

What was to have been the final meeting of the Charlevoix County Solid Waste Management Committee adjourned without the panel completing its job.

According to Larry Levengood, secretary of the group, much time was spent going over addenda to the plan recently prepared by County Planner Larry Sullivan, and discussing a request of Waste Management Inc., operator of Charlevoix County Landfill, that it be permitted to expand the landfill by 20 acres and accept waste from any hauling company operated by Waste Management.

The committee recently turned down the company's request for a 60-acre expansion of the landfill and permission to accept waste from a larger area than the presently-permitted Charlevoix and Emmet counties.

No action was taken on Waste Management's latest request.

The addenda to the Solid Waste Management Plan included recommendations for recycling, solid waste collection and solid waste processing and disposal facilities.

The recycling recommendations call for a recycling center in one of the three cities in the county which would accept newsprint, corrugated paper, computer paper, office paper, glass, aluminum, ferrous metal and mixed plastics.

The center would be located in a building and have a baler and conveyors.

In addition to the recycling center, all transfer stations in the county would have separate green boxes to handle newsprint, plastics and white goods.

Also, each city would operate a composting site using a wood chipper, leaf vacuum and equipment to turn the compost piles.

Recommendations for residential solid waste collection include curbside collection with provisions made for door-to-door service for those unable to take their waste to the curb.

Also recommended is a plan whereby collection routes would be established so as to assure collection and removal of waste from the curb before one o'clock on the day of collection.

Each city, township and village would be asked to establish franchise agreements for the collection of residential solid waste within its boundary.

Such a franchise agreement would stipulate that collection rates would be based on the volume generated rather than a flat fee.

Present plans call for another (and last) meeting of the committee on Thursday, June 9.

Memorial Garden growing

Plantings of six varieties were added to Memorial Garden in the past year because of contributions made to the Charlevoix Area Garden Club.

The garden was established in 1977 and has been maintained by the club since. It is located on one of two islands at the end of East Dixon Avenue and was included in the city park system by city council.

Added last year were weeping mulberry, purple-leaf plum, variegated dogwood, burning bush, junipers and tamarix.

Contributors do not need to be a member of the Garden Club to remember a loved one with a living memorial.

Anyone interested in contributing may write Nancy Fowler at 409 East Dixon Avenue or call 547-9314.

Those for whom memorials have been given are:

Frank Webb, Daniel Schoelberger, Harley and Mildred Ochs, Hubert Olach, Doris Ochs, Irene Young, Marian Purdy, Edward Golden, Mable Cromwell, Floye Martin and Jerine Durni.

Petunia day aids North Point drive

The amount of money raised locally for the Preserve North Point campaign has reached $164,000.

And the organizer of the effort is predicting the total will be accumulated by the end of summer.

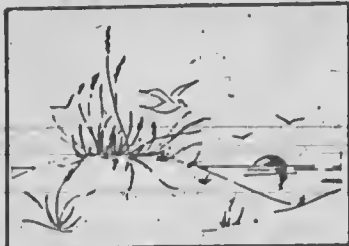

The total raised so far is about two-thirds of the amount needed to purchase the 28-acre Lake Michigan dunes area and turn it into a township park.

The project's coffers grew by more than $9,000 during the annual Operation Petunia picnic, as three pledges were made and two vacation condo timeshares were auctioned off.

Making the largest pledge was Consumers Power, owner of Big Rock Point nuclear power plant, which presented a check for $5,000.

Big Rock is located on the shoreline, just beyond North Point.

Davis Chevrolet made the first installment on a pledge made earlier in the year with a check for $1,000. And Ron and Mary Pair of Midwest International pledged $1,000.

Two timeshares donated by Dick Georgi were purchased during an auction. One went for $1,300 and the other for $1,150.

Little Traverse Conservancy is spearheading the effort to retain the 2,800-foot lakeshore parcel as a natural parksite.

With a $400,000 state Land Trust Fund grant already approved, the conservancy and local groups are raising the remainder locally.

At the forefront of the effort are such groups as Keep Charlevoix Beautiful, sponsor of the petunia planting, and WATCH Inc., an area environmental group.

The conservancy has an option to purchase the land, which was once pegged as the site for a condominium development.

The option expires in October 1989 if the $700,000 purchase price has not been met.

Picnic set as tribute to supervisor

Oscar Stroud, who has been supervisor of Charlevoix Township since 1969, will be honored with an "appreciation picnic" Saturday, June 4, from noon to 2 p.m. at the Township Hall on Waller Avenue.

A member of a pioneer Charlevoix County family, Stroud served the township as a trustee for three years before becoming supervisor.

Since that time, he has guided the township through the establishment of a fire department, installation of water and sewer systems, development of recreation facilities, improvement of roads, construction of a new Township Hall, and many other projects.

Oscar Stroud

Stroud's friends, constituents and coffee shop cronies are invited to the picnic. Anyone wishing to contribute a salad or dessert may call 547-2125 or 547-9077.

Salvation Army band concert set

The Salvation Army's Western Michigan-Northern Indiana Divisional Band will present a concert in East Park.

The concert will be held at the bandshell starting between 2:30 and 3 p.m. Sunday, June 12, following the wrap-up of the Lake Charlevoix Area Trout Tournament.

The band is made up of 35 Salvation Army musicians from Salvation Army churches throughout western Michigan and northern Indiana.

The concert will last 1 to 1½ hours and will contain a wide variety of classical and sacred music.

If you are into cars at all, especially new ones, you know that automakers have gone to great lengths to try to convince you whose car is best.

One of the ways they do that is with a warranty. It used to be that 12 months was standard. Now, some last as long as seven years.

A warranty means that if you have any problems with your car during the specified length of time, you can bring your car in and they will fix it at the dealership for free.

But there are some things you must do for the warranty to be valid. You have to change the oil regularly and do other necessary general maintenance items.

Have you ever considered the Bible as God's warranty on life?

Within its pages, you will find a trouble-shooting guide when you face problems.

There are reminders for regular maintenance you need to do to keep your faith up.

There are lessons on how to deepen your prayer life.

There are suggestions for finding God's will when you need a sense of direction. They all center around knowing Jesus Christ.

You see, the salvation that Jesus paid for on the cross is our lifetime unlimited mileage warranty.

No one can guide us through life's ups and downs quite like the one who is the author of life itself. He has been through every possible circumstance you can imagine and more.

When we live up to our responsibilities by acknowledging Jesus as our Lord and Savior, through daily prayer and Bible study (How are you going to find the answers if you don't know how to use the book?), through regular involvement in a church, and all the other things we know God expects, we can count on Him backing us up forever!

Baseball win string hits 10

Charlevoix extended its winning streak to 10 games by beating Elk Rapids 11-2 and 8-7.

In the six-inning opener, Mike Himebauch earned the pitching win in relief as he struck out four and allowed two hits and one walk in two innings.

Steve Hopkins started and Shawn Putman finished up on the mound for Charlevoix.

The Rayders built a 9-0 lead after three innings.

Chad Morrow had two singles and a double, Hopkins singled and doubled, Dan Drury had two singles while Himebauch, Putman, Jason Corwin, Scott Denny, Chad Thorp and Pat Elliott added singles in Charlevoix's 15-hit attack.

In the five-inning nightcap, Charlevoix rallied from a 7-2 deficit after two innings.

The Rayders plated the winning run in the fifth as Hopkins hit a lead-off double and advanced to third on a sacrifice bunt by Putman.

With one out Hopkins then scored on Corwin's fly ball to deep left field.

Hopkins earned the win in holding the Elks scoreless through the final innings.

JVs win 3 in one day to end season

The Charlevoix junior varsity baseball team ended its season with three victories over Harbor Springs in one day.

The day started with completion of a game called earlier in the season with Charlevoix at bat in the bottom of the last inning, trailing 14-10.

The Rayders started off with a hit batsman and a walk and Jordan Spencer followed with an RBI single.

Dave Ballard then singled to knock in two more runs and Cory Ostrum tied the game with another single.

After two were out and Ostrum on third, Brandon Jess doubled in the winning run of a contest that was started in Charlevoix and finished in Harbor Springs.

In the first of the two regularly scheduled games, Charlevoix won 18-6, as Ballard threw a four hitter, striking out six and walking five.

Charlevoix had 14 hits as Dan Terryberry had three hits in four trips, one RBI and scored three runs, Scott Campbell went three-for-three with three RBI and three runs, Jess had three RBI and Spencer scored three times.

In the second game, Charlevoix won 10-0 as Terryberry threw a five-hitter, walking one and striking out one.

Charlevoix had a five-run fourth inning, the big blow a three-run double by parrish. Spencer had three hits and four RBI in the game.

Charlevoix ended the season with a 7-10 record.

Charlevoix tied with Gaylord for the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference boys' track championship.

Gaylord won the final event — the 1600 meter relay — in which the Rayders fielded a team that had not run together before.

Injury and illness kept Pat Rajewski and Jason Whitley out of the race.

Gaylord finished the race second and Charlevoix fourth to create a 104-104 tie.

Charlevoix's winning relay teams consisted of: Scott Miller, Dylan Stewart, Bill Crook and Sean Henne in the 3200-meter; Dave Miller, Mark LaBlance, Andy Wynkoop and Marv Witthoef in the 1600-meter; and Dave Miller, LaBlance, Brian Livingston and Witthoef in the 400-meter.

Charlevoix girls finished last, but freshman Sandy Fershee won the high jump.

Here are Charlevoix's finishes in boys' events:

Long jump: 5-Brian Livingston, 6-Matt Gibbons.

Pole vault: 2-Jason Whitley.

3200 relay: 1-Scott Miller, Dylan Stewart, Bill Crook, Sean Henne.

BUSINESS

Boat firms exhibit wares in park show

Boats and accessories from northwest Michigan dealers will be on display in downtown Charlevoix this weekend.

Nine boat dealers and several other vendors will participate in the second annual event organized by Grand Bay Marine and Brokerage.

Other dealers include Harborage of Boyne City, Dewitt of Bellaire, Torch River Marine, Hobart's of Mullett Lake, Lelanau, Walstrom of Harbor Springs, Bay Marine of Boyne City and Bradley Jones.

Boats will be on display both in the water and on land, in Round Lake and in the parking lot at the foot of Clinton Street.

Hours vary by dealer with the show beginning at noon Friday, June 3, and ending at 5 p.m. Sunday, June 5.

Acreage use reports sought from non-program farms

The Emmet-Charlevoix County Agricultural Stabilization Service suggests all farmers file an acreage report, whether they participate in the 1988 commodity programs or not, to protect their crop acreage history.

"By certifying crop acres, producers establish documentation for future crop acreage bases as well as eligibility for different benefits if they decide to participate in farm programs," said Elaine Richardson, county executive director.

The report is used to determine the level at which producers are eligible for price support loans, deficiency payments and other program payments. Without certification, no benefits will be available.

Final certification date for program crops in Emmet and Charlevoix counties is July 1. The Charlevoix county office is at 319D N. Lake St. Boyne City.

REAL ESTATE

Gregory Smith is the president of the Antrim-Charlevoix Board of Realtors.

Statistics indicated that one in five American families move every five years. And most out-of-town moves require a good deal more than selling and buying of homes.

Expert help in finding a new home in another community is available from a Realtor in this area—and can involve everything from providing the community's "vital statistics" to helping find employment opportunities.

The decision to purchase a new home, under even the best of circumstances, is difficult. But making the decision in an unfamiliar community, often within a short period of time, can be traumatic.

Therefore most local Realtors are attuned to the transferee's feelings and can provide the time and support they need in finding a home as well as selling the present home.

In addition, the Realtor provides facts regarding the community, school systems, taxes, closing costs, transportation, climate, area history and other pertinent information.

City-to-city relocation agencies provide direct information through the Realtor on homes in target cities, thus helping to reduce the transferee's feelings of anxiety.

In addition, local Realtors can contact those in the new community who will assist incoming transferees by making hotel reservations, arranging appointments to view homes and other things designed to reduce anxiety over the prospect of wasted hours.

Their class motto: It's never too late

by PEG OHLE

Five area community education students will receive diplomas at graduation ceremonies of Charlevoix High School on Sunday, June 5.

Wearing the same caps and gowns as their teen-age counterparts, the group of three senior citizens and two younger adults will be recognized for completing the schooling they started several years ago.

Ed Bishaw of Charlevoix, the only man and oldest member of the group, was in the 11th grade of East Jordan High School when he "walked out in April of 1934 and signed up for the Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC)."

He worked for the CCC for 22 months near Rapid River in the Upper Peninsula, "got hitched," and later worked in the engine rooms of freighters on the Great Lakes and in a defense plant in Bay City during World War II.

Following a stint in California, he retired in 1962 and returned to Charlevoix.

Five of his six children live in the area. He is also the grandfather of 15 and great-grandfather of six. They will all receive graduation announcements, he says.

Bishaw told the Courier he especially liked studying American history and current events and may even return to class next year to study American government.

Leona Habel, the former Leona Warner, is a member of a long-established Charlevoix County family.

She left high school in 1949, while in the 11th grade, to be married.

"I promised my mother I would finish school some day, but I didn't say when," explained the one-time member of the class of 1950 at Charlevoix High School.

In the 38 years between her first enrolled graduating class and this year's actual graduating class, Habel and her husband have raised four children. They are now also grandparents of nine.

She admits that when the Lori Miller, Leona Habel, Sylvia Haselhuhn, Ed Bishaw and Betty Gilbert are members of the 1988 graduating class of the community education program.

snows began to fall last November, she wondered if she would make it to class five days a week all winter and spring.

"But my husband drove me in when the weather was bad," she says, "and here I am graduating."

When asked her favorite subjects in school, Habel had trouble deciding, indicating she really liked them all - history, English, current events, math and communications.

"I should have graduated from Mount Clemens High School in 1974, but, with three months to go, I became ill and had another problems, too, that forced me to quit," said Lori Miller, who has lived in Charlevoix six years.

In the years in between, Lori has worked in a nursing home, a factory and other places. She is now married and the mother of an eight-year-old daughter.

"She leaves for school when I do and we help each other with our homework," Miller said, laughing.

While quick to say that math was not her favorite subject in school, Miller said she thought psychology and business communications had helped her most, and she is looking forward to studying typing to help her in a secretarial job.

Sylvia Haselhuhn grew up in Austria and attended school there through the equivalent of our ninth grade.

She came to the United States with her parents and eventually married and raised two children, one of whom, a son, is still at home.

She moved from Sterling Heights to Atwood with her family in 1957. She has been taking adult education courses for three years and says this year she most enjoyed American history and American literature.

Her plans for next year are to take a computer course, "but it will have to be a real beginner's class," she warns.

Betty Gilbert moved to Charlevoix from Lewiston last November.

She left high school in 1969 to get married. At that time, she needed only one and a half credits to graduate, which she has acquired in the last few months.

Gilbert is a mother of five children, including a freshman in college and a freshman in high school. With the exception of the youngest, they are all high school graduates.

All five community education graduates agree that the best thing about getting a diploma is the satisfaction of completing something they started a long time ago.

It has been fun, too, they say, with the companionship afforded by the lunches and activities at the VFW Hall, where they have been meeting.

Sherry Black, coordinator of the community education program, was assisted in teaching duties this year by Jim Sturdevant and Debbie Puroil.

There were four other students in community education this year. They will return next year to work toward their diplomas.

City council race draws crowded field

Unlike past years, this year's city election will not be a sleeper.

Every council race will be contested as will the mayor's seat. Voters will elect one council member from each of the three wards as well as choosing a mayor.

In 1986, only the mayor's race was contested. In 1987, only one council race drew more than one candidate.

All races are nonpartisan. Winners serve two-year terms.

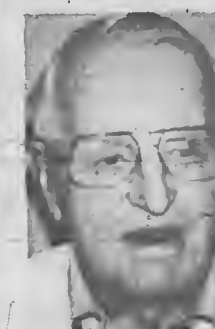

The mayoral race will be a three-way contest. Incumbent Ralph McRae will face opposition from veteran councilwoman Shirley Roloff and newcomer Gary N. Probert.

The two top mayoral voters in the Tuesday, Aug. 2, primary will square off in the general election Tuesday, Nov. 8.

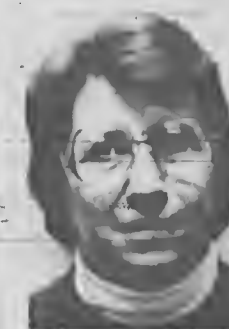

McRae, 82, is a former contractor now retired. He is completing his first term in office, and has pushed to control waterfront development.

Roloff, 52, has been on council 10 years. She is a housewife and also works at the Flight Deck and is salesperson for Charlevoix Canvas.

Probert, 29, is an independent building contractor and is the son of First Ward councilman Norman Probert.

Ralph McRae

A similar three-way battle will occur in the Third Ward council race where political newcomers Janice McKay, James E. Potter and John A. Yaroch will battle for the seat vacated by Roloff in her run for mayor. The two top primary vote-getters meet in November.

McKay, 41, is employed at Rainbow Shop and Charlevoix Elementary School. Potter, 31, is the owner of Potter's Appliance in Charlevoix. Yaroch, 36, works in advertising sales and real estate marketing.

In wards one and two, only two candidates have filed, so the primary will have no effect on those races, but both incumbents will face a challenge in November.

In the First Ward, incumbent William Haggard is completing his first term on council. He is 51 and is a partner in Haggard's Plumbing and Heating.

Challenging Haggard for the first ward seat is Jerry Left, 54. Left is a former teacher now working for the county with the Ironton Ferry.

Incumbent Second Ward councilman William Bellows, 54, has been on council four years. He is an electrical contractor.

Running against Bellows is Kenneth Whitley, owner of Whitley's Floor Covering. Whitley is 48.

The city clerk's seat, the only other elected office in the city, is not up for election this year. Clerk Arlene Staley was elected without opposition in 1987.

Senior celebration

Senior percussionist George Scholey performs for the last time as a Charlevoix High School band member during commencement. Story and photos about the 100th commencement celebration appear on page 3.

Two millage proposals on Charlevoix school election ballot

Two millage proposals will appear on the ballot for the annual school election Monday, June 13.

The Charlevoix Board of Education has cut its request for additional operating millage almost in half. The ballot request will be for 1.8 mills, down from the 3 mills requested — and defeated — in the March 28 special election.

A second issue — the renewal of 15.25 mills for one year also will appear on the ballot.

With the expiration of 1.25 mills for facility improvements and .55 mills for debt retirement, the entire millage levy would be exactly the same as the current year.

Dr. Gordon VanWieren, school superintendent, and Vince Olach, school business manager, said the new millage, if approved, will mean that taxpayers will pay about the same in school taxes as they did last year. Two previous levies — 1.25 and .55 of a mill for debt retirement — both expired in December.

Olach said even with the 1.8 mills, the district will have to scale back its budget, particularly in capital outlay expenditures.

The belt-tightening could involve delaying the purchase of new school buses, typewriters and other pieces of furniture and equipment. He also foresees reductions in the amount of money spent for conferences, travel and teaching supplies.

Both administrators say that such cuts won't have a direct effect on the school curriculum.

However, the positions of two teacher aides in the kindergarten are in jeopardy, since kindergarten enrollment is expected to drop sharply to about 90 pupils in September.

Olach also said some adjustments also may be made in transportation, meaning that some youngsters may have to walk farther to catch a bus. He said Charlevoix school buses travel 900 miles a day and that the district pays $1.30 per mile to operate each bus, exclusive of driver salaries.

He said any reduction in miles traveled would result in a big savings.

But he added that no routes will be altered if the change would have an adverse effect on student safety.

The 1.8 mills also will be insufficient to allow the district to begin rebuilding its fund equity, which has sunk to what Olach calls "a dangerously low" level of about $240,000.

Addressing the Parents Advisory Committee May 31, VanWieren said rebuilding the fund was in the district's long-range planning.

"We wanted to build up our fund equity so that we could eliminate borrowing and make

Anchors aweigh - dates set for 2 races

Sailors take note — the dates of two popular weekend races have been set.

The third annual George LaBlance Memorial Cup race, which honors George LaBlance, the first commodore of the Charlevoix Yacht Club, will be held Saturday-Sunday, July 9-10, and the 1988 Irish Cup race is set Saturday, July 16.

The LaBlance Memorial Cup race course will originate from a starting line established west of the Lake Michigan pierhead in Charlevoix between North and South ("Medusa") points, with the halfway mark being the "N2" and "C1" buoys marking the entrance to St. James Harbor. All yachts will dock and raft July 9 in St. James, with the return leg of the race July 10. Both legs of the race will begin at 10 a.m., with 15 minute intervals between the four fleets.

A mandatory Skipper's Meeting will be held at the Charlevoix Yacht Club at 7:30 a.m. July 9.

The registration fee is $20 if received by Thursday, June 30. Late registrants may join the race at $25 until Thursday, July 7.

The LaBlance Trophy and fleet flags will be awarded at the Charlevoix Yacht Club Sunday afternoon/evening, approximately two hours after the conclusion of the race. Winners will be decided on corrected time of the combined two legs of the race.

An entry form must be completed and returned to Dr. F. James Stewart, 09158 Mercer Blvd., Charlevoix, Mich. 49720, by July 7. Please include a copy of your 1988 LMPHRF certificate.

Fourteen Charlevoix Yacht Club yachts took part in last year's storm-shortened LaBlance Memorial Cup. Invitations are being sent to all local yacht clubs to spark an even larger turnout this year.

The Irish Cup race, which includes three divisions, Spinnaker, Main and Jib, and Peak Performance Fun Fleet, benefits the Lake Charlevoix Mariners, a non-profit organization teaching sailing and seamanship on Lake Charlevoix.

Along with topnotch competition in the spinnaker and main and jib fleets which race according to established racing rules, the Irish Cup traditionally offers live music, refreshments, perpetual trophies, awards, flags and fun. The Lions Club also will sponsor a barbeque dinner after the race.

The Peak Performance fleet will have a special emphasis on fun, seamanship, games and sail handling. It is a great fleet to "play in," according to organizers, for those who don't often race and for those who want less serious competition.

The race fee is $25 for boats entered by Sunday, July 10, and $40 until Thursday, July 14.

A skippers meeting will be held 9 a.m. July 16 in the display building at Irish Boat Shop for course selection and race details. The race starts at 11 a.m. For more details contact Michelle Biddick, c/o Irish Cup, 13000 Stover Road, Charlevoix, Mich., 49720 or call 547-9967.

Pier catwalk may win state, federal help

Efforts to restore pier fishing have moved to the state and federal fronts.

Charlevoix fishermen upset with the loss of pier fishing due to the reconstruction have taken their case to Michigan Attorney General Frank Kelley, asking him to pursue court action to halt the project.

On the federal level, Rep. Robert Davis, R-Gaylord, has introduced legislation that would require the corps to maintain existing recreational facilities, such as pier fishing, during corps reconstruction projects.

The corps plan calls for replacement of the existing pier with a U-shaped configuration built on a rubble mound structure. The configuration is designed to curb waves surging up the channel into Round Lake, but will diminish fishing opportunities off the south pier.

LOCAL fisherman, city council and the state Department of Natural Resources (DNR) want the corps to construct a catwalk across the U to preserve fishing over deeper water. The corps said it did not have the authority for such recreational type projects, but said it would put in a catwalk if other funding could be found.

Neither the city nor DNR came up with money for the catwalk.

The DNR tried to stop the work by refusing to issue the corps a water quality certificate for the project, but the corps recently announced it would proceed without it, which it has authority to do.

Efforts by Davis to obtain funding or persuade the corps to construct the catwalk were not successful. Now the congressman has decided to go the legislative route.

"There's no reason why the corps can't pay for this kind of thing," Davis said in a prepared statement. "It's one thing when a community wants to expand a new project to include recreational facilities that weren't there before, but when a community has a recreational area in place, the corps shouldn't be allowed to simply remove it."

THE BILL, H.R. 4609, would force the corps to include and pay for recreational uses in projects where the recreational uses already are in existence at construction sites. The bill is co-sponsored by Rep. Fred Upton, R-St. Joseph, who has a similar problem at Holland, Mich.; and Rep. Arlan Stangeland, R-Minn., ranking minority member of the Water Resources Subcommittee which authorizes corps projects.

"It's one thing when a community wants to expand a new project to include recreational facilities that weren't there before, but when a community has a recreational area in place the corps shouldn't be allowed to simply remove it."

Denise Fee, press secretary to Davis, said the congressman is optimistic the bill will pass, especially if he succeeds in attaching it to a water resources bill whose passage is virtually certain.

The bill would affect projects on which construction started after May 1, Fee said. Since reconstruction on the south pier has not started, the bill in effect would require the corps to construct a catwalk across the U portion of the south pier.

Neal Gehring, chief of the corps structural design section, said reconstruction work on the pier is slated to start in July. The contract for the work has been awarded to a Frankfort, Mich., firm owned by Karl Luedtke. Amount of the contract is $1.6 million.

The catwalk, if added, would be a separate project requiring a separate bid process, Gehring said. Cost would be about $100,000. He said the corps could add it if required.

"THERE'S a lot of things we can do once Congress tells us," Gehring said.

At the state level, assistant attorney general Tom Emery said the attorney general's office is studying the matter to see if there is any basis for legal action.

"We haven't taken any formal legal action at this point," he said.

Emery also is asking the DNR for a report before moving forward.

Fishermen, headed by Charlevoix Trout Tournament Inc., asked the attorney general's office to seek a court order halting the project until the corps modifies its plans.

Emery called corps action telling the city and DNR it had to come up with money for the catwalk "a typical federal response."

Charlevoix's 100th commencement finds different world awaiting grads

Commencement was quite a bit different this year from the first ceremony held 100 years ago, but the meaning of graduation appears to be timeless.

With the strains of the soft-rock and pop-rock music they have listened to since elementary school still echoing in their ears, members of Charlevoix High School's centennial graduation class received diplomas and centennial medals Sunday afternoon in exercises at the high school gymnasium.

The rock music was incorporated into a commencement address delivered by Dr. Gordon W. VanWieren, school superintendent, who punctuated his talk with tapes of the music that has helped shape the graduates' philosophy of life through the years.

The selections started with the theme from "Rocky," which was popular while the graduates were still in elementary school, and concluded with Michael Jackson's "Man in the Mirror." The superintendent entitled his speech "Listen to the Music."

The centennial medals were presented by Paul Martin, a personal representative of Gov. James J. Blanchard, who also sent a congratulatory message to the class.

A similar message was read from President Ronald Reagan in recognition of the school's 100th commencement.

The 124 graduates included 11 adult education graduates and five foreign exchange students. The two oldest graduates, senior citizens Ed Blshaw and Leona Habel, received a standing ovation from their classmates.

In his message, VanWieren commented that Charlevoix High School's first graduating class in June 1888, was comprised of six students — all girls.

He noted that the many material changes and inventions of the past century have been accompanied by equally important changes in rights and opportunities.

"Those first six graduates had only two career choices — teaching or nursing," he said.

"Today," he added, "opportunities for girls are limitless."

He also said that young people today have learned that they can effect change by working within the system. He recalled an incident a few weeks ago when a dozen senior boys showed up in his office wearing mini-skirts, their way of protesting a long-standing ban on the wearing of shorts by boys in school.

The good-natured protest was effective, because the ban was subsequently lifted.

In conclusion, VanWieren reminded the graduates that Sunday's ceremony would probably be the last time they would all be together. But he urged them to cherish the friendships they had made in high school and not to lose touch with one another.

He also indicated that it is not necessary for them to leave home to make their mark in the world. He cited three CHS graduates of 60 years ago who are still making important contributions to their community — school board President C. Max Novak, Charlevoix Township Supervisor Oscar Stroud and News-Review reporter Fran Martin.

Before VanWieren's address, the graduates received messages from salutatorian Sean William Henne, who, as a member of the track team, stressed the importance of teamwork in achieving goals, and valedictorian Eric W. Richardson who urged his classmates to give world peace a high priority among their goals.

The class was presented by Betty Henne and Yvonne Wendt, senior class advisors, and degrees were conferred by Board President Novak, trustees Doris Pearl and Ronald Moose and elementary principal Vane H. Smith.

Also taking part in the ceremony were the Rev. Lowell Anderson who offered the invocation and the Rev. Thom Black who offered the benediction.

Junior class escorts were Shawn Putman and Shelly Ferguson; Mike Himebauch and Barb Haggard; Dan Bickersteth and Kerry McKeown; Mike Stargardt and Lori Maue; and Eric Moore and Elka Thomas.

Directed by Terry Isenberger, the Charlevoix High School Symphonic Band played "Pomp and Circumstance" as the graduates entered the gymnasium and performed "The Lion of Lucerne" as the senior class selection.

It's time to support schools

OK, Charlevoix. You've had your say.

You've had a chance to vent your frustration about the new assessments.

You've had a chance to protest the continuous upward spiral of property taxes.

You've had a chance to criticize an easy target, the public schools.

But now it's time to think about kids—kids and their education—kids and this country's future.

Nothing comes cheap these days and that includes operating a quality school system. Just like everyone else, school systems have been hit with higher insurance premiums, higher utility costs, higher food costs, higher everything.

But unlike everyone else, schools also have been faced with the cost of removing asbestos from school buildings and meeting other governmental regulations. The cost of removing the asbestos alone could soar to thousands of dollars.

In addition, state and federal support for schools has dwindled.

The school district has responded by not replacing four to six teachers in the last 10 years as well as two custodians and two culinary department workers.

The millage the district is seeking will be the same levied currently due to the expiration of the 1.25 mills for facility improvements and .55 mills for debt retirement. Cuts still will be necessary because costs are going up and revenue is not.

The school district has responded to taxpayers concerns. Now it is time for taxpayers to support schools.

KCB thanks petunia supporters

Editor,
Many cheerful dedicated workers deserve thanks for making Charlevoix's seventh annual Operation Petunia again a success.

The big job of feeding 800 petunia planters at East Park was coordinated by Frenchy Novotny and Evelyn Noirod with food and prizes donated by Oleson's Food Store, Coca-Cola Bottling Co., Burger King, Dairy Queen, McDonald's and Wharfside Market.

Petunia prince and princess Jodi McClinch and Sheila Swiegart greeted people against the backdrop of music played by the Middle School eighth grade band led by Terry Isenbarger.

Supplies and materials came from Kirby Dipert, Dennis VanGuilder, The Clothing Co., Charlevoix High School, Greenleaf Gardens and Charlevoix Floral, First Congregational Church, Jerry Balch and Charles Bergmann.

Picnic helpers included Boy Scouts led by Louis Edwards and Dave Novotny, and members of the Kiwanis, Lions and Rotary clubs. Others were Jeanne and Ken Heininger, Joann and Don Dannecker, Dave Campbell, Bob Baker, Toni DeVries, Joan Balch,

Letters to the editor:

Parents support school millage

Editor,
We're writing to support passage of the upcoming school millage in the election of June 13, 1988. This letter is prompted by the publication of some very negative comments about the Charlevoix School system. As residents of the community and parents of children in the school system, we are proud of what the Board of Education and the current administration have accomplished.

In our estimation the school system is one of the best in the area. The programs offered, as well as the quality of instruction, are excellent and ought to be supported by every caring member of the community. This excellent quality of education has been accomplished with a millage rate that is approximately eight mills below the state average. More to the point, our operating millage is significantly below that of Petoskey, Boyne City, East Jordan, and Ellsworth. The high quality of education, when pictured against the reasonable operating millage on which it is being achieved, speaks well again for the teachers, administration, and school board efforts.

Let us say that the passage of 1.8 mills for operations on June 13th will keep the total tax rate the same as last year's. This ought not concern some of our citizens that are on a low, fixed income because of the "circuit breaker" in the Homestead Property Tax Act that will give them relief from the property tax.

Finally, let us urge all of our citizens to turn out to support the operating millage being proposed and support the continued excellence of the Charlevoix School system.

Scott and Kaye Beatty

Superintendent explains millage

Editor,
I am proud to serve as Superintendent of Schools in the Charlevoix school system. We are fortunate to have support of parents and a fine student body. We feel we have an excellent educational program for the children of the district and it is our desire, for the benefit of the children to maintain these programs. Our board of education is dedicated to offering a variety of educational experiences, both academically and in the non-curricular areas for all children.

Because of Fran Martin's recent health problem, there will not be a newsletter sent out from the school to all households in our school district this spring. I would like to have you consider this letter as a substitute for the information from my office, which would ordinarily be placed in the newsletter.

As you know, we do have a millage election coming up on the 13th of June. Passage of the requested 1.8 mills for operating would keep the total tax rate the same as last year.

Our millage rate is about .8 mills below the state average and considerably lower than most of the schools in our area. Our cost per student is slightly higher than the state average because of our higher state equalized valuation per student and varied curriculum offerings.

Salaries for teachers in our school system are in line with other school districts. The percentage of increase for our teachers was much in line with other schools.

With the information given by the business manager and teacher representatives, at the time of the contract settlement, the board of education would have been in a position of paying more than what was settled for if the issue had been taken to arbitration or if the teachers had taken a strike. A strike or arbitration was avoided and the contact was settled for less than would have been if the issue had been pursued. If it was a reasonable settlement for both sides.

The DDA and TIFA do receive funds from taxes voted for the schools by all voters in the school district. The funds diverted to DDA must be made up in the form of taxes from all taxpayers in the school district.

Previously voted millage for specific purposes, such as the athletic facilities, cannot be used for general fund operating.

Unlike other taxes that are taken out of paychecks, the school tax bills are very noticeable. Considering federal income tax, state income tax, social security, and sales tax, local property tax is about .06 cents out of every tax dollar. Unlike the other taxes, practically all the money spent on local property taxes come back into the local economy. Unfortunately, school taxes are about the only place the voters can say "no."

Even with the passage of the 1.8 mills, a certain amount of cuts will be made. The possible cuts could be in the area of capital outlay, administration, supplies and materials, and non-certificated personnel. Also, if possible, teachers who leave the school system will not be replaced. This has been done in the past and our total teaching staff has been reduced.

Unfortunately, if the millage fails, it will be necessary to reduce the teaching staff. By law, the most recently hired teachers must be the first ones to be laid off. We would be losing some excellent young teachers, who have joined our staff in the past few years.

Accountability. The school budget, the annual audit, and each and every bill paid by the board of education is public information and available upon request. Interested citizens are welcome to become involved in the budget process. They are also welcome to visit any of the educational programs. As mentioned on the front page of every newsletter, my home phone number is 547-2195 and my office number is 547-3200. If you have any questions, comments or suggestions regarding the school operations, you are encouraged to call me personally. I appreciate the number of people who take advantage of this offer and I have found it is an excellent way to eliminate much mis-information.

All of us, involved in the school community, are proud to be with the Charlevoix Public Schools. We do appreciate your support.

Gordon VanWieren

Raise voice in support of kids

Editor,
Earlier this spring our community voted down a school millage proposal by a rather sizable margin. Many concerns were expressed at that time regarding the school budget, teacher contracts, administrative priorities, changing tax laws, and other issues related to school operations. Rarely was a voice raised in behalf of the children and youth of our community, who are, after all, the most important parties in this whole matter.

This past week I heard this year's graduating class described as "understanding," "teachable," "winners," "a happy group." Clearly, these terms describe the qualities that are present in the overall student body, including the elementary, middle, and senior high schools. We in Charlevoix have some of the best young people there are anywhere. We have every reason to be proud of them. At the same time, we have the responsibility to offer them every kind of opportunity available for learning and growing into mature adult individuals.

Recently, I received a packet in the mail about pending legislation in Congress. It asked a pointed question: "Who will speak for the children?" That is a question each of us must ask ourselves as we approach the school millage vote on June 13. Are we simply voting against certain policies or people within our school system, or are we voting in support of the children and young people whose future depends on maintaining and strengthening the quality of education we have in Charlevoix?

Finally, regardless of how you wish to vote on June 13, it is important that as many as are able do vote, so that the result will truly reflect the will of the people of Charlevoix. I am glad to announce my vote ahead of time, based on my concern for the well-being of all the children and young people in Charlevoix. I will vote in support of them. I will vote "yes."

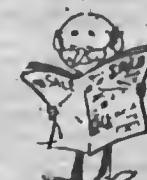

If one wants to express disagreement with certain decisions of the current school board or the general direction it has taken our system, there are a number of school board candidates running this year who represent new points of view. Express your opinion by working to elect the candidate of your choice. This is the way creative change takes place, not by defeating another millage request, especially since this time it's simply to sustain what we already have. Let's use the right means to achieve the right ends.

from the D.A.R.E. program. Each graduate received a red T-shirt with the phrase "DARE to say NO" on the back.

Charlevoix middle schoolers graduate from drug awareness class

One hundred seventh grade students from the Charlevoix Middle School recently "graduated" from the D.A.R.E. (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) class which they had attended for two months.

The D.A.R.E. program originated in California, and only recently came to Michigan. Charlevoix was one of the first counties to put the program in local schools. Besides the Charlevoix Middle School, classes were also held in the Boyne Falls School.

The class was taught by Deputy Sheriff Sherry Martin, who was specially trained for the program. Wearing her brown sheriff's uniform, Martin followed the lesson plan which included teaching life skills such as self confidence, self esteem, stress management, and assertive resistance skills as they relate to drugs.

All graduates received red T-shirts with the D.A.R.E. insignia on the front and the slogan, "DARE to say NO" on the back. Funds to buy the shirts were donated by Boyne USA Resorts and CPI Industries, and they were imprinted by Roger Nesberg of Charlevoix Screenmaster.

Graduation ceremonies included a welcoming talk by school principal Dennis VanGuilder, a short discussion about drugs and the law by assistant prosecutor Karen Neumeyer, rendition of the D.A.R.E. song by a choral group under the direction of Marina LaBlance, greetings from Rep. Ralph Ostling's office, remarks by Sheriff George T. Lasater, recognition of four high school students who had talked to the graduates about how to say "No" in high school, and a reception featuring punch donated by McDonald's of Charlevoix and a decorated cake donated by The Bread Box of Boyne City.

interest on investments. We built our fund equity up to $1.2 million," VanWieren said.

"Then, for a variety of reasons, we started spending more than we were taking in and depleted the fund equity," he added. "We wanted to build that back up so we asked for the 3 mills, but the voters indicated they don't want us to do that."

VanWieren said that in discussing the March millage failure around the district, he has learned that this year's contract providing a 7 percent increase in teacher salaries for the next three years did not sit well with some voters.

"People were saying, 'We didn't get 7 percent so the teachers shouldn't either,'" VanWieren said.

However he pointed out that Charlevoix settled in the same range as Boyne City, Harbor Springs, Petoskey and Traverse City.

"Our teachers traditionally are not at the top or the bottom (of the wage scale) but in the middle, the same as with other professionals in the community," he said. "We felt 7 percent was fair and comparable to other schools."

The superintendent said that in order to compete with other districts in attracting good teachers, Charlevoix must offer attractive salaries and fringe benefits.

VanWieren said the district's state equalized valuation (SEV) didn't increase as much this year as anticipated, meaning a reduction in anticipated tax dollars.

Olach said even if the 1.8 mills is approved, and if the proposed cuts are made, he still will have to find another $100,000 to balance his 1988-89 budget.

One of the big expenses the district will have to meet next fall is $25,000 for a study mandated by the federal Environmental Protection Agency to identify sources of asbestos in school buildings. The investigation is being made by BDN Industrial Hygiene Consultants of Portage.

But the study is only the tip of the iceberg. If the district is ordered to remove asbestos-containing materials, such as carpeting, terrazzo floors, ceiling tile and wall paneling, the cost will be astronomical.

He added that the district also has had an increase of 12.5 percent this year in its insurance premiums.

"That's not good, but it's not all that bad," he said. "Last year's increase was 22 percent."

THE MATTER OF PROBATE

Probate refers to the legal procedure that ensures the payment of the deceased's debts to his creditors and taxes due to the federal and state governments. The probate court oversees the proper allocation of the estate to its rightful beneficiaries. It also attends to the many peripheral matters involving the distribution of the estate. In fact, many matters often insinuate themselves into probate administration which needlessly prolong it, as well as frustrate those involved. That is why it makes proper sense to have a will drawn and an estate constructed in such a way as to avoid needless delay. A knowledgeable lawyer can suggest an arrangement of assets that will ensure that probate will be a less complex matter for the survivors.

Because the probate process is a matter of public record, it may encourage illegitimate claims.

School board candidates tell views on millage

Six candidates are seeking election to two open seats on the board of education.

Incumbent Ron Moore is running for his second four-year term on the board against challengers William Gengle, Phyllis Hess, Larry Levengood, Jon Myers and Janet Rathke.

Incumbent Ken Boss decided not to seek re-election.

A questionnaire asked biographical information about the candidates and why they are running for school board, their views on current funding of K-12 public school education, and to list the strong and weak points and most pressing issues confronting the school board.

In separate interviews the candidates were asked to explain how they stand on the 1.8 mill request which also will appear on the ballot Monday, June 13, and any concerns they might have about school facilities.

Some comments on these topics also were taken from a May 31 candidates' forum sponsored by the Charlevoix Elementary School Parents Advisory Committee.

The only incumbent seeking office, Ron Moore said he wants to serve a second term so that he can continue the programs started during his first term. He also enjoys serving the community and helping to provide the best education for children possible given the district's resources.

Moore said he believes he has compiled a good track record while serving on the board for the past four years. During that time he:

- Helped put in a sidewalk along Division Avenue for elementary school students.
- Helped start the citizens walk at the elementary school.
- Helped set up the Sunshine Club. Moore has served as a director of the latchkey program which operates out of the Community Reformed Church taking care of children after school until their parents can pick them up after work.
- Helped set up the educational foundation. The foundation allows people to contribute funds to the school district for the purchase of special items.
- Hired an elementary school counselor.

Moore said he supports the 1.8 mill request and the renewal request and he understands the public's concern about expenses.

"People have a right to expect that their monies are used wisely," he said.

He pointed out that even if the millage proposals pass, some cuts will have to be made in programs.

"I hope that would be done in a fashion that affects the quality of programs the least," he said. "The administration will make recommendations and the board will review them."

Moore said that some bus runs may have to be changed and the hot lunch program revamped, among other things.

The 18-year Charlevoix resident said the present system of funding schools is inequitable between various school systems and a burden to many taxpayers.

"I would like to see some changes at the state level such as moving to an income tax and lottery," he said.

Moore and his wife, Linda, have a daughter who has graduated from Charlevoix High School and a son who is attending high school.

Moore has served in various capacities with Chip Counseling Center, the Michigan Association of School Psychologists and the Petoskey Jaycees. He also was the marine deputy for the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department.

He holds bachelors, masters and educational specialist degrees from Western Michigan University.

Board candidates explain reasons for running

Challenger William Gengle is a Charlevoix native and a 1967 graduate of Charlevoix High School. He received an associate degree in business from North Central Michigan College.

William Gengle

His three children, who all attend Charlevoix schools, will be the third generation to graduate in Charlevoix.

Gengle said he is not running for school board to grind an axe or to make drastic changes in the system.

"We have a good system here," he said. "You can't just sit there and say to yourself, 'We have a super school system and I hope that continues' you have to do something about it."

Gengle said the district has made tremendous strides.

"I want to make sure, with what expertise I've got, that it continues to get better," he said. "I do not want to see programs that the administration, school board and teachers have worked on, lost."

Gengle said he supports the millage requests the board is making. He said he was pleased that the board reduced the amount it was seeking.

"I think the board would have lost credibility if it had come right back with the same thing," he said. "I think if they had gone any lower it would have hurt some program or another."

"We have to make sure we don't cut kids," he said. "Things are different now from when I was in school. Kids today compete for jobs on an international basis. If they're going to compete they're going to have to get more involved, have a broader education."

The owner of an insurance agency said the current system of school financing is a problem but he doesn't see anything better being proposed.

"The changes they're (state) talking about are suicide for communities such as ours," Gengle said of the sales tax proposals. "I know people hate property taxes, but that's the only area of control that we have."

Gengle said he was concerned that even if property taxes were lowered and sales taxes were raised that eventually property taxes would come back up and the local districts would have even less control of its finances.

He labeled the school district's strong foundation as its greatest strength.

"We have a heck of a foundation," he said. "We have good, caring teachers who are community oriented. We have fine administrators and coaching staff and a super performing arts program."

"Academically we're getting stronger every day."

The greatest weakness in the district is the lack of knowledge people have about school operations.

"People need to know how the school gets its funding and what it pays for," he said. "The board needs to educate them. I think the most pressing problem is educating people about the schools."

Gengle said he thinks the school board has gotten complacent about keeping people informed.

"We've passed millages here without working up a sweat," he said. "We haven't been in a situation where we've had teacher strikes."

"And I don't want to see the problems that we're having with all the factions in Charlevoix spill over into the schools."

Gengle said he would work to get the parents of children more involved in order to make sure the school system stays top of the line.

The candidate also responded to some criticism of his campaign.

"People say I'm too pro sports," he explained. "I am pro sports. I've spent 13 years coaching Little League. I've coached flag football and I coached basketball at the junior high."

"I love sports and this is what the community gets out of the school system other than education," he said.

Gengle said he believes that extracurricular programs which include band and performing arts as well as sports are an important part of school.

"The kids are coming out more well-rounded," he said of the extracurricular program.

"I know not everybody's going to be a basketball player," he said. "But the avenue is there for everyone to find their talents."

Extracurricular activities give students a chance to excel at something and encourage them to challenge themselves to do better or to try something else, Gengle contends.

"Kids become more well rounded. They say 'Hey I can do

Six candidates seek seats on school board

this. What else can I do?" he said.

Gengle said that extracurricular activities cost the district about $250 a student, which he believes is cheap. If the school wasn't providing the activities, the community would have to, he pointed out.

In addition to the education and skills students develop from extracurricular activities, Gengle points to the enjoyment the community gets when it goes to a performing arts presentation or a sports event.

"No one puts a dollar value on the enjoyment and pride the community feels when the kids are putting on some sort of performance," he said. "In the long run we're going to pay somewhere. If we don't support the school we'll have to pay somewhere else."

Phyllis Hess is seeking election to the school board because she has a desire to be part of the team helping children.

"Basically I care about kids and want to be part of the team that will help guide them into the future," Hess said.

A support services specialist with Head Start, Hess has been in a lot of different area schools and sees how Charlevoix compares. In addition, she and her husband recently considered moving to Traverse City because of a job change but after visiting the schools decided to remain in Charlevoix.

"They did not offer the curriculum that Charlevoix has and the concern and caring of the staff that Charlevoix offered," Hess said.

Hess, who holds a bachelors degree in early elementary education and is currently enrolled in Central Michigan University's graduate program with a major in reading, has substituted in every building of the Charlevoix system. She also has three children attending Charlevoix schools and is familiar with the programs offered.

She believes her educational background, her wide range of experience in the education field and her involvement in the system make her uniquely qualified to be a board member.

"I think we need to ensure that kids get the best quality education they can," she said. "We need to make sure they're ready to face whatever tomorrow brings for them."

In addition to her work experience with students, Hess also has been involved with youths through a variety of community activities including as a T-ball coach, Chip Counseling Center board member, Odyssey of the Mind coach, Parents Advisory Committee member at the elementary school, youth advisor and Christian Board of Education member through the Congregational Church and nursery school board member. She also was instrumental in getting a sidewalk constructed from the elementary school along Division Avenue and helped feed the more than 100 volunteers who built the sidewalk.

Hess supports the millage issues.

"It's a compromise in order to keep the services we have now," Hess said referring to the decrease in the request for additional millage from 3 mills to 1.8 mills. "Now we need to pass it."

"I don't want to see any major cuts. Unfortunately there will have to be some cuts because of increased costs."

Hess thinks the state system for financing schools needs to be overhauled to help schools like Charlevoix that are out of formula and don't receive any state aid based on the number of students enrolled in the school.

She pointed out that some textbooks used in the school system are 17 years old and need to be updated.

"I have no magic answers," she said.

She believes the emphasis of the school district should be on services to kids.

"I work with a lot of people who have had bad experiences in school," Hess said. "I think we have to make sure to give our students a positive experience in school from kindergarten on."

One thing Hess would like to see the school district add is a full-time gifted and talented program kindergarten through 12th grade.

"I'm not on a crusade for that," she explained. "I just think it's a need. I know the problem is budgetary."

Hess said she also would like to see a school pool and an auditorium.

"But I don't think that can come from a school that's worried about maintaining what it has," she said.

She said she wasn't making any promises about what she could do as a school board member but she is offering the perspective of a parent with children in the system and the time needed to study the issues.

She said her employer, Northwest Michigan Community Services Agency, encourages staff members to become in-involved in community activities.

A parent of three children in the school system, Larry Levengood said he is seeking election because he is interested in working with children.

"I feel that we need some representation on the school board from parents of present students," Levengood wrote. "I also am interested in maintaining our school system as a positive force in the community and providing the best possible education for our children."

Levengood said he isn't a one issue candidate except that he is concerned about kids.

An environmental health county coordinator with District Health Department No. 3-Charlevoix County, Levengood grew up around schools. His father was a school administrator in Hastings and his sister is a teacher. Levengood also helped pay his way through college working in a school bus garage and doing school maintenance in the summer.

"I've always had an interest in education," he said. "It's always been very important to me."

In addition, he has worked with children as a coach in Little League, the youth soccer program and the recreational softball program. He is a member of the band boosters and sports boosters.

He believes he can offer a different perspective on the board as the parent of children currently in the school system. The father of three children will have one child in each school building for the next three years.

Levengood said he supports the millage requests and has spent much of his campaign time urging people to support the requests. He said he supported the 3 mill request and attended public meetings after its defeat to suggest the board seek a reduced request.

"I felt going back for 3 mills would be damaging," Levengood said. "I think you can justify the 1.8 mill request because it leaves the voter at the same millage he currently is paying."

He believes any cuts that may have to be made should occur in the capital outlay areas and not in programs for students. He said he would be reluctant to endorse any cutting measures in educational programs.

"I want the kids to have every opportunity possible to get a good education," he said.

Levengood said he has reviewed the school budget and he didn't see any places where there was obvious fat.

He said he was concerned about class size and that he believes there is a relationship between class size and quality of education, adding that he didn't think the answer to budget problems was to eliminate teachers and have bigger class sizes.

One of the most critical issues facing schools today is financing, Levengood said. The second most critical issue is local control.

He said he was concerned about current state proposals to change the way schools are financed because he believes it would take control away at the local level. He also believes that the proposals being discussed probably would result in even less state funds coming to the district.

"At this time I do not prefer a change until a better method is devised that will be equitable and that will allow all local school districts to control and maintain the quality of their education system," he wrote. "We can't afford to short change our education system or we will pay for it in the future."

Levengood said the strong points of the district are the quality of education it provides and the wide range of extracurricular activities available to the students.

He believes there are some weaknesses in promoting the girls athletic programs which he would like to see improved.

Another issue facing schools is family and societal problems, Levengood said.

"It seems like the school is faced with handling more of those types of problems — divorce, alcohol and drug abuse," Levengood said. "And there is increasing expectation from the public for the school to provide social services in these areas. As life gets more complicated, we look to government for more services."

Levengood said he sees the school as having to be constantly aware and ready to provide the additional services. "The school still is the primary focus of a young child's day-to-day activities," he said. "Students spend seven hours a day in school. If there's a problem, school may be the only place where it can be identified."

Still, the primary focus of school should be education, he said. "We can't afford not to provide a good education," he said. "In the long run it's going to cost us" if poorly educated students end up in the welfare or corrections systems.

He also believes education should focus on broadening horizons and perspectives and improving thought processes and problem solving.

Levengood has been active in numerous county and state organizations and currently is serving on the Charlevoix County Planning Commission, the Lake Charlevoix Management Advisory Committee, the Charlevoix County Solid Waste Committee and is chairman of the Environmental Quality Advisory Committee of the Northwest Michigan Council of Governments.

Jon Myers, a maintenance planner for Medusa Cement Co., said he decided to run for his first elected office because he was afraid no one else would. He also is concerned about the financial management of the school system.

He pointed out that private industry has had to cut 20 percent in the last three to five years. He believes the school district can do the same thing without jeopardizing anyone's job or any student's education.

He said he favored maintaining the current level of spending in the district, but he does not want to see it increased. He said he supports renewal of millage but did not support any additional millage. The proposals on the ballot would renew the current level of spending.

"I feel we can have quality education without increasing spending," he said. "We still have an increase in taxes from increasing SEV (property values). The number of students is not going up."

He also would like to see more things put out for bids like some of the benefit programs for school staff. A few of the benefits currently are bid, according to school officials.

Myers also is concerned about the image projected by current programs at the school. He said he is very concerned about the use of a breathalyzer type device at the high school because he believes it projects a negative image. He also opposes the barbed wire on the fence around the

Margery and Lawrence Elzinga

Elzingas mark 50th anniversary

Lawrence and Margery Elzinga of Eveline Township will be guests of honor at a 50th wedding anniversary open house hosted by their family on Sunday, June 12, from 1 to 6 p.m. at Whiting Park.

Lawrence Elzinga and the former Margery Scott were married June 18, 1938 in Charlevoix, and have made their home in Eveline Township ever since.

The Elzingas have one son and three daughters, all of whom are married and live in the area. They are John and Patricia Elzinga, Jim and Yvonne Karlskin, Jerry and Geneva Clark, and Gene and Gail Farley. There are also seven grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

All friends and relatives of the couple are invited to attend the open house.

City band rehearsals start

The first rehearsal of the season for the Charlevoix City Band will be held at 7 p.m. Wednesday, June 15, in the Charlevoix High School band room.

The Charlevoix city band is made up of musicians from Charlevoix and surrounding communities. Membership is open to anyone in the area who plays a band instrument.

Rehearsals are held weekly on Wednesday evenings. The band presents weekly concerts in East Park on Wednesday nights during July.

For further information contact band director Terry Isenbarger at the high school band room (547-3234) or at home (533-4382).

Garden club plans hike

A nature hike for members and guests of the Charlevoix Area Garden Club will be led by ranger-naturalist Christine Harrington through the Thorne Swift Nature Preserve starting at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday, June 14. The preserve is located at 6696 Lower Shore Drive, Harbor Springs. Refreshments will be served following the hike by co-hostesses Lorna Miles and Sally Ochs. Members riding in a carpool will meet at 11:30 a.m. at the Division Street entrance of Duffy's Restaurant.

Workshops in preparation for the club's July 30 flower show will continue at the home of Anna Belle Webb at 1 p.m. June 21, 28 and July 5.

Wellman-Lownsberry

Valerie K. Wellman and Michael Rae Lownsberry exchanged marriage vows Saturday afternoon, May 28, at Zion Lutheran Church in Petoskey.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon R. Wellman of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Gail Lownsberry of Lehigh Acres, Florida.

The Rev. Robert D. Boerwold officiated at the double ring rites in which the bride was given in marriage by her father and mother.

Approximately 200 guests witnessed the ceremony, which was held before an altar decorated with pink gladiolus, white football chrysanthemums, pink carnations, and white candelabra. Each pew was marked with two shades of mauve and silver lace bows.

The bride wore a gown of crystal organza, silk European lace, pearls, and sequins, fashioned with a scoop neckline, wire-ruffled sleeves, full cathedral train, bodice trimmed with lace, sequins and pearls, and skirt and back of the train trimmed with lace. The bottom of the skirt, as well as the back of the train, featured feathered rows of wired ruffles.

The bride's headpiece was a tiara of lace and seed pearls from which fell a chapel-length veil of bridal illusion. Her bouquet was made up of mauve roses, pink carnations, mauve statice, and baby's breath.

Mrs. David Hume of Petoskey served the bride as matron of honor, and Kathie Demerly of Wolverine was bridesmaid. They wore gowns of Daphne rose satin styled with shirred bodices, puffed sleeves, and intermezzo-length skirts. Their headpieces were silk floral wreaths with satin ribbons, and they carried bouquets of mauve roses, pink carnations, statice, and baby's breath. Jessica Lownsberry, as flower girl, wore a floor-length dress and headpiece similar to those worn by the other attendants.

Christopher Lownsberry served as ringbearer, LaMont Lownsberry was best man, and Jeff A. Wellman, brother of the bride, was groomsmen and usher. Steve West also served as an usher.

Music for the ceremony was provided by Mrs. Shirley Pratt, vocalist, and Mrs. Joan Reyner, organist.

The bride's grandmother, Mrs. Stella Mazurek of Lansing, was a special guest at the wedding.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Holiday Inn in Petoskey, with the "Happy Wanderers", a dance band from Rogers City, playing music throughout the evening. The rehearsal dinner was also held at the Holiday Inn.

Following a wedding trip to Toronto and Niagara Falls, the newlyweds will make their home in Wolverine. The bride is employed by Old Kent Bank in Petoskey, and her husband is employed by William Dunstan Supply in Petoskey as a sales representative.

Ivy B. Woodcock

Ivy B. Woodcock, 86, of Charlevoix, died June 2, 1988, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Funeral services were held Saturday, June 4, at Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. David W. Yingling of United Methodist Church officiated and burial was in Brookside Cemetery.

The former Ivy B. Jefferies was born Aug. 12, 1901, in Frome, England, the daughter of Mark and Florence (Curley) Jefferies.

She moved to Ontario, Canada, with her parents and on July 6, 1921, she married Percy Woodcock in Kincardine, Ont.

They resided in Detroit until 30 years ago when they moved to Charlevoix. Mr. Woodcock preceded her in death on Feb. 9, 1975. Mrs. Woodcock was a member of Charlevoix United Methodist Church, Charlevoix Area Hospital Guild and VFW Post 153 Auxiliary. She was also an honorary member of Charlevoix Rotary Club and sang with the United Methodist Church Senior Saints.

For 13 years, Mrs. Woodcock did volunteer work with the Department of Social Services in adult foster care.

She was a musician and played the organ. For a period of time, she and other 80-year-olds taught quilting to fifth grade students. She also gave them organ lessons.

Several years ago, Mrs. Woodcock won first prize at the Michigan State Fair for a diabetic dessert recipe.

She is survived by: one daughter, Eleanor Beckner of Bloomfield Hills; one son, Ralph Woodcock of Highland; three grandchildren, Nancy Love, Pam Borman and Craig Woodcock; four great-grandchildren; one great-great-grandchild; one niece, Vivian Thompson of Fennell Falls, Ont.

The family suggests memorials to United Methodist Church or to VFW Post 1153 Auxiliary. Envelopes are available at Winchester Funeral Home.

Dorcas S. Bassett

Dorcas S. Bassett, 76, of Charlevoix, died May 31, 1988, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Funeral services were held Friday, June 3, at the Community Church of God. Pastor Bruce E. Hamilton officiated and burial was in Brookside Cemetery.

The former Dorcas S. Haskell was born Sept. 15, 1911, in Newaygo, the daughter of William Malcolm and Bessie B. (Cochran) Haskell.

As an infant, she moved to Northern Michigan with her parents. She grew up in Petoskey and attended Petoskey schools.

Following her marriage to Daniel Bassett on Oct. 28, 1929, the couple moved to Bay Shore, Mr. Bassett preceded her in death on Sept. 21, 1967, and Mrs. Bassett moved to Charlevoix in 1969.

She was a member of the Community Church of God in Charlevoix.

Survivors include: two stepdaughters, Eva Rundle of Hesperia and Ilo Holland of Pontiac Lake; five sisters, Helen Phillips of Burlington, Wis., Pansy Daniels of Charlevoix, Alice Lewis of Toledo, Ohio, Penny Wiscup of Pompano, Fla. and Margaret Struble of Grass Lake.

The family suggests memorials to Charlevoix Area Hospital or Community Church of God. Envelopes are available at Winchester Funeral Home.

Community Church of God

How would you like to have this verse as a part of your job description? "Guard yourselves and all the flock of which the Holy Spirit has made you overseers. Be shepherds of the church of God which He bought with His own blood." I hope you are not one of those who takes the job of pastor as an easy one.

It certainly is more than the proverbial "one hour, one day a week" that people kid about.

I mention all this because if you haven't done it lately, I think you ought to talk to your own pastor and tell him you appreciate him. He has a challenging calling and what's more, he welcomes your knowing just what it is he does.

As the scripture says, he is a shepherd. He looks after the needs and concerns of people of all ages. Just as a real shepherd would herd a flock of sheep, your pastor must guide his flock along paths he prayerfully feels would provide you the most spiritual nourishment and growth.

A doctor is not the only one on call twenty-four hours a day, seven days a week. Hurts and heartaches in family life don't always occur during normal working hours. When you are in pain, be it physical or emotional, if your pastor knows about it, you can expect to see him there. The Bible is the most exciting and uplifting textbook you could ever ask for. Your pastor puts in many hours of study and prayer to "rightfully divide the word of truth" before you to teach and encourage you to explore your faith in deeper, more meaningful ways.

Your pastor is also a family man. In many ways, you are his family. He enjoys sharing in your accomplishments. He takes pride in seeing you reach new milestones not only in your careers but in your walk of faith as well. He tries his best to set an atmosphere in worship that gives the Holy Spirit freedom and you freedom to experience beyond doubt what it means to be a part of the family of God.

If Hallmark can create a holiday, why can't I? I declare this Sunday "Encourage Your Pastor Day." If your pastor is Dave, bless him. If your wife is Bob P., lift him up. If Phil touches your heart, tell him so. Larry is special. Tell him so. If you were at Baccalaureate, you know that Father Jim has a God given message. And if ever Irish eyes smiled, they smile like Thom. Whoever your pastor is, tell him you're thankful that he is willing to give his all for the Lord and for you.

Whitley defends hurdles title

ALMA — Jason Whitley retained his 300-meter low hurdles title Saturday in leading Charlevoix at the Class C state meet.

Officials at the meet used an Accutrack—a photo-finish camera—to separate Whitley's winning time of 39.0 seconds from runner-up Brian Koester of Blissfield. The two runners competed in separate heats.

"In fact, the whole meet was over when they made a final decision," Charlevoix Coach Hal Evans said. "It was a great year for the young man."

It was the third of four events Whitley, a junior, competed in Saturday. He had anchored Charlevoix's 800-meter relay team, which ran its fastest time of the year but failed to place, and had taken ninth in the 400-meter dash.

"He ran out of steam a little bit because he was running real well, and let two guys catch him (in the 400 dash)," Evans said. "He came back with a vengeance in the 300. He just attacked those hurdles."

Whitley ran the low hurdles in 38.8 at the 1987 state meet, but the height of the hurdles was raised from 33 inches to 36 inches for '88.

Whitley finished the day with a strong leg in the 1600-meter relay.

Charlevoix had a runner-up finish from its 3200-meter relay of Sean Henne, Scott Miller, Dylan Stewart and Pat Rajewski.

Men's slowpitch league play begins

Charlevoix Men's Slowpitch League play has begun.

Wharfedale Market took Harbor Industries 30-1. Wharfedale had 21 hits including home runs by Bruce Bohri and Shane Light. Nanny's Restaurant bested Town House 9-4, collecting 16

Jason Whitley of Charlevoix repeated as class C state champ in the 300 meter low hurdles Saturday.

They combined for a school-record time of 8:05. Rajewski later placed in the 1600-meter run in 4:20.

Evans noted both his sprint relays recorded their fastest time of the year — 1:33.1 in the 800-meter (ninth place) and 45.3 in the 400. The Rayders' 1600-meter relay team finished 10th in 3:31.1.

Rajewski finished 10th in the 800-meter run in 2:01.0 and Whitley placed in the 400 dash in 50.6. Miller didn't finish the 3200-meter run after twisting his ankle on a turn in the sixth lap, Evans said.

Sandy Fershee failed to clear an opening height of 4'10" in the high jump as the lone female qualifier for Charlevoix.

On a related note, Shelby's Aaron Gowell, the nephew of Charlevoix assistant coach Roger Gowell, won the Class C shot put and discus titles for the third straight year.

hits. Steve Leazier was winning pitcher.

Paul Bunyan Lanes took CPI 15-3 on 18 hits. Brad Behrendt was the winning pitcher.

Cinema III downed Nanny's Restaurant 13-5 with Dave Novotny the winning pitcher.

CPI took Wharfedale Market 15-5 with Ed Green the winning pitcher.

Town House shut out Harbor Industries 15-0 as winning pitcher Jim Werner had a three-hitter.

Rayders head for districts

ROSCOMMON — Charlevoix's late season baseball success carried right over into the district tournament Friday as the Rayders claimed their first Class C title since 1982.

At one time this season, Charlevoix was 3-8-1 but turned things around by winning 14 of the next 15 games.

The two latest victories came on Friday in impressive style as the Rayders first eliminated Kingsley 5-2 then took out Rogers City in the title game 12-3. In both games Charlevoix was behind during the early going.

"We started off slow in both games," Coach Brian Certa said. "But, we hit the ball solid. Just great rallies kept things alive."

PITCHING STANDOUT for the day was junior Shawn Putman who went the distance in the first game and then pitched the first three innings of the title game. He allowed just five hits over the 10 innings.

"We had real good defense and outstanding pitching from Putman and Mike Himebauch," Certa said. "Himebauch caught nearly 13 innings then pitched in relief."

In game one Kingsley (19-7-1) took an early 1-0 lead but Charlevoix pulled even in the fourth. Kingsley went ahead 2-1 in the fifth inning but in the top of the sixth the Rayders pulled even again without the benefit of a hit.

In the top of the seventh inning Charlevoix struck paydirt as Putman, Tom Herriman and Chad Thorp collected three consecutive singles to start the inning and all three eventually scored.

Putman pitched the distance, allowing just three hits, striking out seven and walking three. For Charlevoix, Thorp had three hits and Putman and Herriman two each.

IN THE TITLE against Rogers City, the Rayders were down 2-0 through four innings but then scored 12 times in the next three at-bats.

In the fifth inning, Charlevoix plated six runs on six hits and sent 11 batters to the plate. In the sixth inning, Charlevoix added two more runs and finished with four in the seventh on four more hits.

"In the final three innings we collected 14 hits," Certa said.

Putman pitched the first three innings allowing just two hits with two strikeouts. Steve Hopkins collected the pitching victory in relief, working two-plus innings. Himebauch then finished up with one and two-thirds innings of work. The trio combined on a five-hitter.

Charlevoix collected 16 hits as Putman and Hopkins doubled and singled, Thorp, Jason Corwin, Chad Morrow, Dan Drury and Himebauch had two hits, Herriman doubled and Scott Denny singled.

"It's all attitude," Certa said of the current victory run. "Attitude is so important. We started slow this season but the players believed in themselves."

The Rayders now advance to the Clare regional on Saturday, June 11, and will take on the district winner from Bad Axe in the second game of the day.

Rec department needs coaches for kids teams

The Charlevoix Recreation Department is seeking peanut, ponytail and T-ball coaches.

"Without volunteer coaches we cannot have a youth softball program," said Dwight Boss, recreation director. Boss's office can be reached at 547-3253.

Pitcher named to Midwest Allstars

Rhonda Buchanan of Charlevoix has been elected to the Midwest regional all-star second team by the National College Softball Coaches Association.

Buchanan is a senior pitcher at Hope College in Holland.

The Midwest region is comprised of NCAA Division III teams in Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin.

Hospital benefit

The third annual Charlevoix Area Hospital golf and dinner benefit is set for Sunday, Aug. 14, at Antrim Dells Golf Course in Atwood.

The four-person scramble will begin with a shotgun start at 2 p.m. Non-golfers are welcome for dinner at 6 p.m.

Golf (with cart) and dinner costs $50; dinner-only is $15.

There will be cash prizes and a new car for the first person to score a hole-in-one on hole 13.

Proceeds will be used to purchase a cardiac EKG monitor. Call Charlevoix Area Hospital at 547-4024 for tickets.

Charlevoix sets records at Meet of Champions

Pat Rajewski set a school record and Jason Whitley won two events at the Charlevoix Twilight Meet of Champions.

The meet was the first effort in an attempt to get state meet-bound track athletes together for a final tune-up with top competition.

Twelve schools participated in the meet.

Jason Whitley was one of two double-winners, taking both hurdles events.

Rajewski's record in the 800-meter run bested a school mark set by David Smith, who is now the school's principal. The effort earned him a top male individual award voted on by the coaches.

Tracee Smith bettered her own school record with her victory on the 400-meter dash.

Schools competing with Charlevoix were Boyne City, Cheboygan, East Jordan, Fairview, Gaylord, Harbor Springs, Inland Lakes, Onaway, Petoskey, Posen and Rogers City.

Training programs set for home care workers

Six community agencies are developing a training program for home health care workers beginning Monday, June 20.

The free career opportunities training is being offered to meet the trend for more outpatient surgery at hospitals and the emphasis on the advantages of home recuperation, according to program organizers.

Men and women of all ages are welcome to take the training.

The training has three levels:

- The first is a two-week course for home companions, offered 8 a.m. to noon Monday through Friday, beginning June 20. The basic course will cover how to assist a patient in and out of bed or a wheelchair, and how to effectively assist in activities of daily living, grooming and recreation. Persons completing the course can expect to earn up to $5 per hour for 24-40 hours per week. A register of graduates available for work assignments will be maintained by area hospitals, the Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESCC) and local health departments.

Candidates presently receive-ing public assistance payments can continue to receive the benefits during the training period and after training, as deemed appropriate. Assistance with child care and transportation is available.

At the second level, successful candidates from the first basic school would, in due course, be eligible for more advanced training as nurses' aides. At the conclusion of the three-week course, graduates can expect to make $7-8 per hour.

At the third level, promising candidates from level two will receive scholarship assistance to attend registered nurses courses at North Central Michigan College in Petoskey.

The schools for level one and two are held at Northern Michigan Hospitals in Petoskey. The training is free and sponsored by the Emmet County Department of Social Services, District Health Department No. 3, Women's Resource Center, Northern Michigan Hospitals, North Central Michigan College and the Friendship Centers of Petoskey and Emmet County.

Those interested should call 547-5012 for more information.

Care facility work to start

The much-anticipated Charlevoix Health Care Center is scheduled for groundbreaking late this summer and completion by the middle of next year.

Ralph McRae, local representative for Liberator Health Care, Inc., who will operate the Health Care Center, reports that the first phase of the facility will consist of 58 skilled nursing beds and two home-for-the-aged beds. The State Department of Health is now reviewing this mixed use of beds and is expected to reach a decision by July 1. It has already approved 49 skilled nursing beds and 11 home-for-the-aged beds.

The facility will be built on seven acres bounded by Garfield and Upright Streets, near the Charlevoix Area Hospital and offices of several local physicians.

McRae notes that he first filed a letter of intent in December, 1984 to build a nursing care facility in Charlevoix, and it has taken three and a half years to go through the governmental process.

What's News

Nancy C. Staley of Medusa Cement Co. received the "Woman of the Year" award from the National Holmes Safety Association. She has been secretary for the Great Lakes District Council since its formation in 1985. The Holmes Safety Association is a voluntary, nonprofit safety association.

Charlie Elzinga, Charlevoix, local agent for Farm Bureau Insurance Group, has been awarded the 1988 Seal of Excellence by the company. The Seal of Excellence is presented annually to agents in Michigan selected for the quality of their business and overall sales.

LEGAL NOTICE

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE
TO: KENNETH B. DOTY and JANE A. DOTY of 2404 Center, Boyne Falls, Michigan 49713, and all persons claiming title through and under them

A default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage, made the 21st day of August, 1986, by Kenneth B. Doty and Jane A. Doty, husband and wife, as Mortgagor, to Old Kent Bank of Potoskey, a Michigan banking corporation, of Potoskey, Michigan, as Mortgagee.

Said mortgage was recorded on August 28, 1986, in Liber 187 of Mortgages, Pages 488 through 493, in the Office of the Charlevoix County Register of Deeds. There is due and owing on such mortgage as of May 13, 1988, the sum of Nineteen Thousand Three Hundred Fifty-eight and 82/100 ($19,358.82) Dollars, principal; and Eighty Hundred Sixty and 62/100 ($80.62) Dollars, interest. No suit or proceedings at law or in equity have been instituted to recover the debt or any part of the debt secured by said mortgage, and the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative by reason of such default.

NOTICE is hereby given that on June 14, 1988, at 10:00 o'clock a.m., at the street entrance of the Courthouse for Charlevoix County, Michigan, there will be offered for sale and sold to the highest bidder at public sale for the purpose of satisfying the amounts due and unpaid upon said mortgage, the lands and premises mentioned in said mortgage and described as follows, to-wit:

In the Township of Boyne Falls, Charlevoix County, Michigan;
Lots 9 and 10, Block 12, Second Ad-

new track and the fact that the facility requires special shoes. "I think we need to come up with a more positive attitude," Myers said. He also mentioned concerns about preparation of students for college. He said that in a survey of students he had conducted among those working at Medusa this summer, he found that several had to take some sort of remedial or preparatory class in English and math.

Myers said he believes the Charlevoix system is an excellent system and he has no real complaints except in financial management.

In terms of changes in state financing of schools, Myers does not favor any changes. He is concerned that if the sales tax is raised and property taxes are lowered that eventually property taxes will come back up. He also believes that if schools are not careful, they will lose local control and the state will take over operations.

Myers and his wife, Rebecca, have a daughter in the school system. Their son is a 1987 Charlevoix graduate. Myers holds a bachelor's degree from Michigan Tech University and recently earned an MBA from Lake Superior State University.

He is the treasurer of the Charlevoix United Way and has coached in Little League and volunteered in Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts. He and his family attend the Charlevoix Congregational Church.

A desire to ensure a positive future for Charlevoix schools and a commitment to education were the reasons Janet Rathke decided to seek public office.

"The educational system is facing some critical challenges in the future and I feel I am able to knowledgeably and rationally look at alternatives and consequences," wrote Rathke, a home economist with the Charlevoix County Cooperative Extension Service. "I am running because I care."

Rathke, the mother of a graduating senior, said she would definitely vote to pass the millage.

"I vote to pass every millage," she said. "Children need to be educated not just with facts and figures but in problem solving, in learning to live with change."

She said that she doesn't believe school funding is equitable across the state, but she doesn't believe an increase in sales tax would generate more funds for the Charlevoix schools.

"I am not sure that property tax is the best way to fund schools, but I am not sure the other alternatives are any better," she wrote. "We need money to run schools and we need people to support education."

She believes providing a quality education at a fair price is a key issue facing the school.

"We really need creativity right now," Rathke said. "Just because we've done it this way for 20 years doesn't mean we have to continue that way."

She believes the board needs to look at the whole picture — what's being spent, what gets thrown out — and evaluate expenditures.

Rathke, who earned a bachelor's degree in home economics education and a masters in guidance and counseling, said the strength of the school system is the dedication of the staff in helping young people grow into educated, knowledgeable, responsible citizens.

She said the district does a good job with education programs and keeping them current. She said that in her job she could have lived anywhere in Antrim and Charlevoix counties but after she and her husband looked at all the school systems, they chose Charlevoix because of the programs it offered.

She is concerned that the district residents are not as proud of the school system as they should be. She is concerned there is a lack of positive attitude toward education, such as was reflected during the last millage election.

"People don't always vote for education," she said. "Sometimes they vote against property tax. They don't do it to hurt education but because they don't want to pay taxes."

"They can spend it to support students or to support the welfare system," she pointed out.

Rathke said as a board member she would look closely at the budget. She said she wasn't sure where changes could be made, except that perhaps some extracurricular programs could be come more self-supporting.

Rathke currently is secretary of the American Legion Auxiliary Post 226. She is active in numerous community meetings and groups through the extension service.

SCRAPBOOK

Charlevoix Yesterday

This is the way Bridge Street looked several years ago. Notice that the Central Drug Store was in the same place it is now, but all the buildings on the lake side of the street have been demolished, with the exception of the Wharfside. Notice, also the traffic light hanging from a wire across the street and the device in the middle of the street which no one seems to remember. Do you?

New fish cleaning station built from tourney proceeds

Fishermen should be able to start using the new fish cleaning station at Ferry Avenue Beach this week.

Jim Withers, president of the Lake Charlevoix Area Trout Tournament Inc., which is donating the station to the city, said he expected the station to open today or Thursday.

Located in the southwest corner of the Ferry Avenue Beach parking lot, the 16-foot-square structure, was constructed out of block with net sides and a shingled roof entirely by volunteers.

It is the area's first fully enclosed fish cleaning station for public use.

Accessible through a door, the inside of the station will feature a stainless steel table with water drain and waste drains, running water, waste receptacles under the table and extra receptacles to the sides.

An attendant will be present or nearby, also controlling traffic at the boat launch.

Boat launch fees, initiated this year for non-residents only, will help pay the attendant's salary.

Withers traveled with other tourney officials and city staff to facilities in other parts of the state before designing the new Charlevoix station.

"We feel the fish cleaning station will be a big plus to the community, not only for fishermen but for tourists and residents as observers," Withers says.

Several residents initially complained to council the station could worsen a seagull problem at the beach and spread a gull-borne ailment.

Withers says having an enclosed station may help keep gulls away because fishermen won't be throwing entrails into open trash baskets near the beach.

He also suggests the city enact an ordinance banning gull feeding at the beach and ordering all trash containers to be covered.

Recreation commission chairman John Hess has said such rules will be considered by the commission.

No charge will be levied for using the fish cleaning station.

Numerous volunteers participated in the construction of the new fish cleaning station located at Ferry Avenue Beach including:

Bill Stevens, Dudley Stevens, Gregg Stevens, Rod Stevens, Al

Shindorf, Milan Plsek, Jim Marsh Jr., Charlie Wilmet, Mark White Jr., Bob Withers, Dick Way, Gary Way, Bob Jones, Herb Boss.

Withers said a special thanks also goes to Leonard Dubey and the City of Charlevoix for their help; Dick Kenney of Kit Carson Lumber; John Hess, Charlevoix Recreation Commission; Pat Mitchell, Sports Fisherman; John Murray; and the trout tournament directors, Dave Juilleret, Bill Tache, Gerald Rakoczy, Don Swartz, Gary Spencer and Sherry Withers, secretary/treasurer.

Dilworth Boat Shop Opens on Round Lake

Perhaps you've noticed a few changes to the building at the foot of Mason Street on Round Lake. For one, it has a new coat of paint, and a new business. Dilworth Boat Shop has renovated the lower level of the building that houses the Wharfside Market and is providing a number of services to mariners.

The Dilworth Boat Shop's services include marine electronic sales and service, a ship's store, yacht brokerage, and mobile yacht maintenance. Heading up the team at Charlevoix's newest boat shop is Frank North. Frank has several years of experience selling and installing marine electronics on both commercial and pleasure vessels in the Great Lakes. "My primary concern when selling someone electronics is to provide my customer's with the best value for their purpose." This philosophy is apparent in all aspects of the Dilworth Boat Shop.

Dave Patrie is a valued member of Dilworth Boat Shop. Dave has over 30 years of experience servicing radars and marine electronics. He manages electronic repair and installations. A respected expert on radar in the Great Lakes, Dave is often called upon to service electronic equipment on the ferry lines in Mackinaw. Sheplers, Arnold Lines, and Star Line are among the customers that rely on his expertise. One innovation that helps Dave get his work done is Dilworth Boat Shop's mobile repair van. This van enables him to take his workbench with him to the boat, he's working on. This allows greater flexibility and time savings for the customers.

Along with mobile electronic service, Dilworth Boat Shop provides mobile yacht maintenance. They have work crews that can do anything from painting the bottom of your boat, to a sparkling topside finish. A structured rate schedule allows the best value for work performed.

A complete ship's store and yacht brokerage round off the services provided by Dilworth Boat Shop. So if you've been wondering what is going on in that building on the waterfront in Charlevoix, stop in and see for yourself.

How the brookie became state's of-fish-al fish

by GORDON CHARLES
This is the tale of a trout. Or, how the brookie became Michigan's official (offishal?) fish after only 22 years of action by members of the Legislature.

It was 1965 when a cutthroat battle erupted between Sen. Terry Trout (who was backing any old trout) and Sen. Basil Brown (who insisted it should be the brown trout). Another now-forgotten lawmaker had the upper chamber reeling with laughter as he wore an old Mackinaw coat to show his support for the lake trout.

Hooked on the topic, the senate leader swiveled around in his chair and waded into the fray. Declaring he would brook no interference from a rainbow coalition threatening to form, he soon had the other legislators reeling. Unable to get their hooks into something better, the lawmakers finally decided they could no longer worm out of the issue and went along with the bill Trout was plugging.

By 1967, however, the Michigan Legislature realized it had erred. Artists were drawing state maps and showing the offishal fish, bird, flower and other symbols of Michigan but couldn't agree what a "trout" looked like. Trying to include the best feature of a brook, brown, rainbow and lake trout into one fish resulted in a drawing looking more like a salt water mackerel. That, quite obviously, would not do.

Setting aside less-important matters like balancing the state budget, the Senate again tackled the issue, this time vowing to keep the gaff to a minimum. The net result was a bill establishing the brook trout as Michigan's offishal fish.

Actually, clarification of this measure after only 22 years was fairly fast for our lawmakers. They started, back in 1897, to give legal status to various official state symbols. Thus, we are now delighted to see the robin as our state bird, the Potoskey as official stone, apple blossom as flower and white pine as the state tree.

Unlike the snag they hit in determining the offishal fish, the arguments were rather brief with some symbols. For example, in 1969 a proposal was made to name the cucumber as our official vegetable of Michigan. That, however, was voted down when somebody suggested it might look like our state was in something of a pickle. The Hubbard squash was likewise discarded as someone might decide the treasury was approaching the status of Old Mother Hubbard's cupboard or that private enterprise was being squashed by excessive taxation.

When the subject of an official state insect comes up in the Legislature I always hurriedly suggest it should be the black fly, rather than the grasshopper which makes some lawmakers hopping mad, or the firefly which always seems to make the fire fly in Lansing.

My black fly recommendation seems to be valid enough. Here is an insect that can really get your attention in a hurry. It is also perfect in that it quietly puts the bite on every taxpayer and can get blood out of everybody, right down to the last drop, if not watched closely and clobbered first.

New star rising Paddle-wheel Star makes debut on Lake Charlevoix Friday

The new paddle-wheel Star of Charlevoix will make its maiden voyage of Lake Charlevoix and Round Lake this Friday, June 17.

The Star is returning to the city after a one-year absence.

The dining/cruise boat arrived in the area about two weeks ago, and currently is putting the finishing touches on it in preparation for its first cruise.

"We're looking forward to a good season," said Phil Lutzi, Star general manager. "We are coming along quite well."

Reservations are rolling in for the Star's three daily cruises, he said.

The 105-foot long, split wheel paddlewheeler is decorated in turn-of-the-century style. It seats 140 passengers with both an enclosed lower deck and open upper deck. The upper deck can be enclosed in case of inclement weather.

Cruises will take passengers through Round Lake and the main arm of Lake Charlevoix, passing the Ironton Ferry and/or Oyster Bay depending on weather conditions — whatever makes for the smoothest cruise, Lutzi said. The Star does not go into Lake Michigan.

Captaining the ship temporarily will be John Boyle, who has been with the Star Line Corp. for two years plus, Lutzi said. Boyle is training a new captain who will take over after Boyle moves to Louisville.

The Star will have two lunch cruises and a dinner cruise daily. Lunch cruises are from 11 a.m. until 1:30 p.m. and 3-5:30 p.m., with a dinner cruise from 7-10 p.m. Prices range from $15.95 to $29.95 plus tax.

The boat features a full bar on board with a selection of wines and liquors. Guests will dine on a sit-down meal with a choice of beef, chicken and fish entrees. The Star will operate until Sunday, Oct. 16, Lutzi said, and will employ 70-75 people when operations reach full swing.

A special christening ceremony will be held in the near future, along with special preview cruises for area resort businesses, travel agencies and hotel sales personnel, and the

Millages pass; new faces on board

An additional 1.8 mill levy was approved by six votes Monday and two new members were elected to the board of education replacing incumbent Ron Moore.

A second renewal millage request also was approved.

As a result of the vote, Charlevoix schools will function with fewer budget reductions, officials said.

Voters overwhelmingly approved a millage renewal, but barely passed a request for additional operational millage. Among the six candidates seeking election, voters ousted incumbent board member Ron Moore, and elected two new members to the 4-year terms, Larry Levengood and Janet Rathke.

A request of 1.8 mills for two years passed by six votes — 525 yes to 519 no. The second proposal, to renew 15.25 mills for one year, passed 759 yes to 233 no.

"I think it tells us the people felt there was a need to renew the millage but the other was questionable," Superintendent Gordon VanWieren said today when asked to interpret the election results.

Despite passage of both millage proposals, VanWieren believes voters were sending a message. Even with the additional 1.8 mills — a reduction from the 3 mill request defeated in the March 28 special election — the district will have to scale back its budget, he said.

"We are going to be making some cuts but we had explained that even with the millage increase we are going to tighten up the budget a little bit, but not like it would have been without the millage (increase passing)," VanWieren said.

One of the first things newly elected board members Levengood and Rathke may have to do is decide where to tighten the belt.

Vote results from the crowded ballot for two seats were: Levengood, 526; Rathke, 358; incumbent Moore, 330; William Gengle, 248; Jon Myers, 222; and Phyllis Hess, 180.

Rathke, a home economist with the Charlevoix County Cooperative Extension Service, is on vacation out of the area and could not be reached for comment today on her goals for the post. She is the mother of a graduating senior.

Levengood said he doesn't have a particular agenda for his new post but thinks his election may be a way of getting parental representation on the board. Levengood is the coordinator of environmental health in Charlevoix County for District Health Department No. 3.

The parent of three children in the school system said he'll work to represent children "and to maintain the quality of education in the school."

Incumbent Moore, who was defeated, expressed surprise and disappointment in the election results.

"I enjoyed my time on the board and the people I worked with," said the school psychologist for Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District. Moore said he suspects the teachers' salary increases — 7 percent annually for the next three years — may have contributed to his election defeat.

"That was a decision that I did support and if there is a price to be paid, I paid it," he said.

Moore wished the new board members luck and expressed pleasure for the passage of both millage proposals.

Ahead-lines

Waterfront art fair marks 30th anniversary

The Waterfront Art Fair is celebrating its 30th anniversary Saturday, Aug. 13, with what organizers predict will be the finest of their annual art fairs to date.

The second oldest and, to many artists and collectors, the most prestigious in Michigan, Charlevoix's one-day art fair is a highly selective display of strictly juried fine art. Limited to 110 artists, juried from slides submitted by over 500 applicants, Charlevoix's art fair has developed a reputation in art circles which its governing committee has carefully cultivated.

For collectors and gallery buyers, Charlevoix sets the standard on which they base their major annual purchases. The competition, among artists, for acceptance to the Charlevoix fair is stiff, because of its attraction to buyers.

A core group of nationally known artists are "invited" to display at the show each year. Visitors return year after year specifically to see their new works, such as the water colors of Dee Knott; the ceramics of German-born Hannelore Fasciszewski; the unusual water-colors of Lou Rizzolo; or the batiks of Terri Schneider Haugen. Painters and ceramicists, Russ and Susan Bolt, who have shown at Charlevoix for nearly two decades, have a perpetual crowd of collectors around their booth. Similarly Norman Brumm's enameled birds draw collectors.

The Charlevoix show is a mix of well-known artists and newer "discoveries." Many artists who display at Charlevoix, limit their shows to galleries and museums. They continue coming to Charlevoix because of its unique reputation.

New artists are selected through a jurying process which begins in early spring and concludes in mid-May. This year jurors suggest watching for the works of Andy Striewski, a mixed media artist who creates whimsical houses out of glass, clay, paper and paint; Winslow Crannel, a graphics artist and professor in the art department at the University of North Georgia; Susan Surgill, a printmaker whose subjects include off-the-wall crazy animals and people; and John Byron, from Georgia, considered one of the top contemporary glass blowers in the country who creates brilliantly colored bowls and vessels.

The art fair committee announced that this year no photographically reproduced art will be displayed, while hand-pulled prints such as lithography, etchings and serigraphs will be accepted. "This is a way we can fine tune the fair's position as a show of only original works of fine art," says committee member Suzi Reis.

To celebrate the 30th anniversary, the Art Fair Committee is hosting a public reception at Charlevoix's Edgewater Inn, 4-7 p.m. Friday, Aug. 12. The works of 12 outstanding artists are to be displayed in the hotel lobby during the reception. Featured will be the white on white paper sculptures of Corinne Workmaster, of Dayton, Ohio, who has announced her retirement from the art fair after this year.

Charlevoix brothers capture top prizes in fish tourney

Two Charlevoix brothers captured half of the top prizes during the fourth annual Lake Charlevoix Area Trout Tournament Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

This year's tournament produced more of everything — more entrants, more fish and more fun.

A record 1,226 fish were caught by 807 anglers during the three-day event. Last year, 660 entrants brought in just 330 fish.

"Each year it seems to be growing," said Jim Withers, one of the tournament directors. "It seems to be getting better, better participation, more fish, just more interest."

Brothers triumphed in the steelhead (rainbow trout) and salmon divisions.

Winning the steelhead division was George Kleiber of Charlevoix with a 10-pound, 10-ounce fish. Second was Don Firman (8 pounds, 10 ounces); while Charles Mitchell was third (8 pounds).

The salmon division winner was Tony Kleiber of Charlevoix with a 14-pound catch. Kleiber also won the $500 Port Prize for the largest fish caught on Friday.

Doug Karakas took second in the salmon division (13 pounds, 15 ounces) with Curt Mikulski third (13 pounds, 5 ounces).

Taking first place in brown trout was Richard Greco of Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario. His 16-pound 1-ounce catch also was the largest of any fish caught during the tournament. It will be mounted by Jeff Lutz of Lasting Memories taxidermy in Charlevoix.

Second place in brown trout went to Richard Wolanin (10 pounds, 10 ounces) with Bob Withers third (10 pounds, 9 ounces).

First place in the lake trout division went to Dave Julleriet of Charlevoix with a 10-pound 4-ounce catch. Julleriet also won the Rex Blanchard Memorial Award for the largest lake trout. Herb Lash was second in the lake trout division (10 pounds, 2 ounces) with Nancy Kerttu third (9 pounds 13 ounces).

Prizes were awarded for up to 20 places in the four divisions — brown trout, lake trout, steelhead (rainbow trout) and salmon. First place winners took home $1,000 and a trophy, with second place taking $500 and third $250.

A boat raffle for a 220 Thompson boat and trailer worth more than $20,000 was won by Lowell Salasnek of Bloomfield, Mich.

Grand Marshall for the tournament was Otis Snyder of Great Lakes Fishermen magazine. The Charlevoix Jaycees sponsored a children's fish pond in East Park, while the Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club held a fish boat on Saturday. The Lions Club provided lunch Saturday at their hot dog stand.

Jean Rakoczy of Great Lakes Title Co. provided a computer and wrote a program that allowed for quick tabulation of tournament results.

Tournament sponsors included Stinger Lures/Advance Tackle of Boyne City, Dillworth Boat Shop of Charlevoix and Boyne City, Grand Bay Marine and Brokerage Inc. of Charlevoix, Fairport Marine Electronics of Charlevoix, Walstrom Marine Inc. of Harbor Springs, St's Marine of Walloon Lake, Thompson Boat Co., Johnson Outboard Motors and the Charlevoix Convention and Visitors Bureau.

"I was pleased with the way things went, with more people and more fish," said Sherry Withers, tournament secretary-treasurer. "I'd just like to thank everyone that volunteered their time to help."

She said there were many positive comments about moving the tournament to June. Previous tournaments had occurred earlier in the spring.

North Point trail to honor runner Jeff Drenth

Monies donated by friends and neighbors of the late Jeff Drenth to a memorial fund will be used to build a nature trail on North Point, family members have announced.

The announcement followed approval of the concept of the trail by Charlevoix Township and the North Point Finance Committee of the Little Traverse Conservancy which is working to purchase the property for dedication as a public preserve.

The trail will be known as the Jeff Drenth Memorial Nature Trail, and will stand as a tribute to the world class runner's love of the outdoors and his dedication to teaching people about plants, animals, and the ecological balance of nature.

The trail will also be wide enough to allow running.

His parents, Bob and Maxine Drenth of Charlevoix, said that Jeff, his brothers and their friends loved to run at North Point and so it seems appropriate that a trail be built there.

Specific plans for the trail will be developed over the next few months. Installation of the trail cannot proceed until the effort to purchase the property is complete, a process which conservancy representatives hope can be completed by the end of this year.

With over $165,000 already donated by local residents, businesses and industry, the effort needs approximately $135,000 more.

Once the property has been purchased and the trail installed, the Jeff Drenth Memorial Trail will be open to the public, allowing visitors to the area a look at the many different features of North Point ranging from lakeside sand dunes to deep forests and low wetlands.

Persons interested in making tax-deductible contributions to the North Point land acquisition fund or the Jeff Drenth Memorial Trail Fund may contact the Little Traverse Conservancy at 3204 Powell Road, Harbor Springs or phone 347-0991.

Ready for the summer Olympics in Korea? Well, if you can't fly over to Seoul on one of Scott Supremacy's Olson-Travelworld Tours, you can plan an Olympic party at home to cheer on the American teams! Pick a date sometime between Sept. 17 and Oct. 2.

I can see it all now — good friends, Olympic banners, American flags, lovely chrysanthemums and delicious Korean food.

If you need Korean recipes, I have in my hand a beautiful Korean cookbook, with color photos of every page. It's written by Tai Hee Kang's sister, Moon Ja Yoon. (You all know Dr. Kang, he's the director of the department of radiology at Charlevoix Area Hospital.)

Moon is currently employed by William Beaumont Hospital, in Royal Oak, as an education coordinator in the department of dietetics.

The book is written in English, kitchen tested and the recipes call for a variety of foods that are easily found in our supermarkets or oriental grocery stores.

She gives us the total preparation-cooking time, and the nutritional value as well as a photograph of the finished product.

I've tasted some of the Korean dishes prepared by the Kongs, and they are not only delicious, but served with great eye appeal.

You can order "Korean Cooking For You" by writing to Moon Ja Yoon, P.O. Box 160, Franklin, MI 48025. The book sells for $17.50 plus $1.95 postage and handling.

Start practicing making sea woo and ya chae tue kim — all that means is fried shrimp and vegetables (sweet potato, suchini, asparagus). It's similar to yet deliciously different than the fried shrimp we are used to at the Argonne!

And speaking of the Argonne, you've probably heard that Steve Ager has opened a very attractive restaurant in Traverse City on 8th and Union. It's called the Argonne Supper Club.

The only difference is that the Traverse City restaurant will be open seven days a week instead of six. Same time as Charlevoix, 5 to 10 p.m. The Charlevoix crew is training the Traverse City staff and the menu is exactly the same as in Charlevoix, thank goodness!

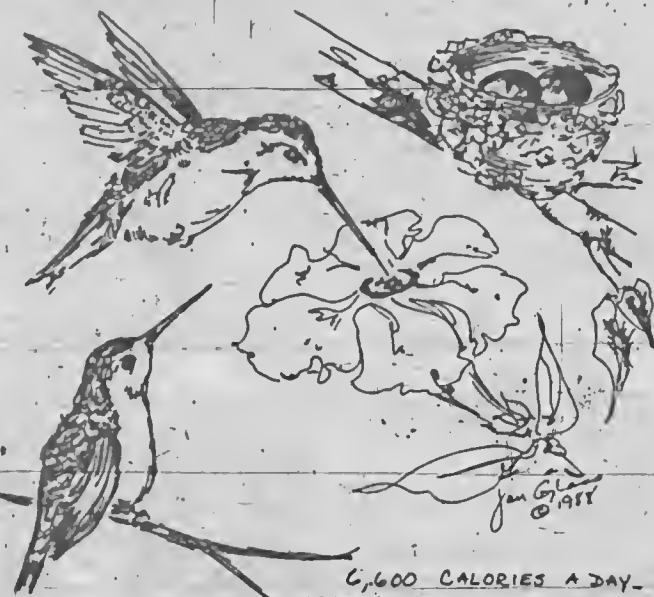

Chef Mike Moore proudly gave me a tour of the spotless, spacious kitchen, which is loaded with new stainless steel equipment. The Argonne has always been known for consistently good food and good service so it's predictable that the new location will be equally successful as the local historic Argonne.

More good restaurant news! For years I've been begging Stafford Smith to take over the Weatherlane again. (Yes, he did run it one season when it first opened.) Now, finally his son Rege Smith, a graduate of Cornell's Hotel & Restaurant program in '85, is taking charge. And not a minute too soon!

Let's hope we'll have superb food and service to match the superb location. Too bad they're stuck with an impossible parking situation now that all the property is built up around the Weatherlane.

Georgia Man looking for area relatives

Editor,
I am writing in hopes that you will publish my letter in your newspaper. I'm unable to pay printing fees because I am in prison.

I was born in Charlevoix County and at age 3 was placed in a foster home after my parents were divorced.

There's probably little chance, I know, but I'm hoping I might still have relatives living in or around Charlevoix. If my letter is published, then perhaps they or someone who knows of them will write to me. I am very lonely here and the care of a family member would help me a great deal.

If anyone knows of my family, then I ask that you please write to me. Don't send newspaper clippings, pages from a phone book or stamps as they are not allowed through the mail here.

Editor,
The following letter was sent to Dennis D. VanGuilder, Charlevoix Middle School principal:

The council and myself would like it be known that the Middle School has made an outstanding contribution to the "Charlevoix the Beautiful" theme.

The students should be commended and congratulated for their well-directed efforts to add beauty to our community. The colorful flowers and evergreen plantings should encourage others to follow your singular accomplishments.

CLOCKWISE

BOB CLOCK

I don't like to be bullied.
And I don't particularly care for folks who bully others.

The same goes for municipal corporations.

Something went wrong with my balance of payments this spring. I didn't even see one city utility bill which probably arrived in the mail with a welter of graduation announcements. When the next bill came I had overspent my checking account and didn't have enough money on hand to pay it immediately.

I was wrong, of course. As guilty as sin. I should have taken out a mortgage on the house.

But as I was writing a check for the total amount last Saturday morning, the postman arrived with a nasty little letter from the city saying I was $67 in arrears in my utility account and that if I didn't cough up the money post haste the city was going to shut off my utilities. And probably put a plug in my sewer line.

I suppose they figure down at city hall that since I have lived in Charlevoix only 23 years I am still a newcomer in town and not to be trusted. I also suppose that someone down there figures I am plotting to move to Ellsworth under cover of darkness and stick the city with my $67 utility bill.

Which is nonsense. Why the neighbors would hear my $40 upright piano thumping down the front steps and call the police.

But the shutoff notice wasn't bad enough.

The letter pointed out that if my service were discontinued, I would have to pay through the nose if I ever wanted to have it restored. The turn-on fee is $25 during normal working hours, and $60 after normal working hours.

Mind you, this same letter is going to folks who are having genuine financial problems with no solution in sight. If they can't afford to pay their utility bills, how are they ever going to afford to pay the penalty?

Furthermore, city utilities are supposed to be break-even businesses and I can't imagine what handsome salaries we are paying our city workers if it costs $25 to have some guy run up to the house to pull a switch or turn a valve.

Unless he is caught by the bridge, I bet he could do it in 10 minutes.

And the $60 overtime fee is equally ridiculous.

Sometimes I yearn for the good old days when a fellow didn't have to depend on bureaucrats and their little monopolies for the necessities of life.

I am thinking about the guy with a 20-acre spread back in the 1930s or '40s. He drew his own water from his own well. He cut his own firewood to cook and keep warm. What little illumination he needed was supplied by a few pennies worth of kerosene a month. And his sewage system was an outhouse in the backyard.

No one threatened him or his family with death by dehydration in the dark.

And if anyone did, he'd laugh his head off.

In fact, he probably spent a lot of time laughing because he didn't have to worry about such things as stress-induced heart ailments, stomach ulcers or high blood pressure.

But times, alas, have changed, and most of us now are at the mercy of mean-tempered governments which like nothing better than to see us cringe and cower.

When the shutoff notice from the city arrived I was tempted to tear up the check I was writing just to see what would happen.

But I am not made of the same stern stuff as my ancestors. I finished writing the check and deposited it in the drop box at city hall.

But I wasn't very happy about it.

I kept thinking about the tremendous utility bill run up by one of Charlevoix's first condominiums and how gracious and long-suffering the city was about deferring payments and even writing off part of the bill in the end, if memory serves.

There must be a double standard of some kind built into the city code.

Of course, the city has to collect its bills. But you'd think it could do so without resorting to threats.

Debris from concert appalls visitor

Editor,
We have been visiting and living near Charlevoix over the last 10 years because of the beauty of the lakes, Charlevoix and the surrounding environs.

We were recently extremely disturbed and appalled by the traffic and mess left behind by people attending the AC-DC concert at Castle Farms. This traffic, plus other high density development is destroying the charm and beauty of Charlevoix "the-not-so-beautiful." We have also heard others complain, and many are beginning to be "turned off" by the congestion.

Is there any way that traffic on 31 can be diverted away from the main street? The quality of the sidewalk-cafe atmosphere is destroyed by the noise and fumes of huge trucks rumbling through town.

We have every hope that Charlevoix will preserve its great potential as one of the most beautiful cities in Michigan!

CONCERN

It was concern that led Robert Hoffman to become a foster parent to ten young people, while raising four children of his own as well. It is the same sense of concern for youth, for the elderly, for the community and for justice that will make him an excellent Probate Court judge for Charlevoix and Emmet Counties.

City planner Gerry Harsch points out an element of the White house recently purchased by the city to Downtown Development Authority chairman Gene Steele and other members. The house is on Clinton across from the library.

City officials debate future of house on Clinton St.

Rehab or bulldoze — those are the choices hanging over a century-old house the city owns. Right now, city council is deadlocked on its decision. With the mayor favoring renovation, the council is tied 3-3 in informal voting on whether to tear down the house.

The house on Clinton Street across from the library was purchased with the intention of expanding parking areas.

But the Downtown Development Authority, concerned about the loss of several homes in the business district, has had second thoughts.

The advisory panel would like to see if someone could be found to restore the historic portion of the building, while converting the back yard into parking lot.

The building could be converted into retail shops or professional offices, some authority members say.

Gene Steele, chairman of the authority and real estate salesman, points to other rejuvenated houses as examples of what might be done.

Buildings now housing the Ski and Shore and the Kern real estate offices at Bridge and Hurlbut were remodeled into attractive structures, he says.

And the house that was converted into Elizabeth's gift shop on Mason "was ready for a bulldozer or match" before it was renovated, Steele says.

With main street business places filling up, Steele says, the city is running out of room "between the hills" for retail outlets or offices.

City planner Gerry Harsch estimates 10 old houses have been recently demolished or are scheduled to be torn down in the downtown area. Most are along or near State or Park.

The city should see if someone is willing to buy the building and fix it up before knocking it down, Steele and other authority members say.

City council member Bill Bellows disagrees. Bellows, an electric contractor, says the cost of renovation is too high.

He says it would cost $70,000 to $100,000 to rehabilitate the building — after paying the city about $30,000 for it.

The city is buying the entire lot — which Harsch says may hold 10 to 16 cars if the building remained — from Betty White for $70,000.

City Manager Mike Wiesner says the city can gravel the back yard and use the area for parking this summer if the house remains. The property is next to the Erber parking lot developed last year and adjacent to other city lots.

Jeannine Wallace of the downtown authority says it is worth the city's effort to try to find someone to fix up the building.

"Every city in the country is trying to preserve old buildings," she says, and Charlevoix should protect those it has left.

Favoring attempts to find an individual to purchase and renovate the building are council members Shirley Roloff, Bill Haggard and Norm Probert, along with Mayor Ralph McRae.

Endorsing demolition are council members Bellows, Butch Russell and Earl Muma.

The city will advertise for potential buyers after setting minimum requirements for preservation and use, Wiesner says.

Then, Steele says, "If we can't do anything with it, it will be gone."

Republican candidates to address meeting

Republican candidates for 12 county offices are expected to attend the meeting of the Charlevoix County Republican party Thursday evening, June 16, at 7:30 in the county building.

They will be asked to introduce themselves, to express their ideas about the office they are seeking, and to answer questions from the audience.

Republicans seeking office are:

County prosecutor, incumbent Kraag Lieberman; sheriff, incumbent George T. Lasater and Bill Cousineau; drain commissioner, incumbent Clayton Healey and Roger Lisk; surveyor, incumbent Mary Feindt and Arthur Ranger; register of deeds, incumbent Charlene Gaskin; county treasurer, incumbent Joan Balch and Oral Sutliff; and county clerk, incumbent Jane Brannon and Kimberly Simpson.

Community Bible school set Aug. 15-17

The theme for this year's Community Vacation Bible School is "Come Meet Jesus." Sessions will be held at the Assembly of God Church on M-66 from 9:30 to 12:30 Monday through Wednesday Aug. 15, 16, 17.

On Thursday Aug. 18 hours will be from 2:30 to 5:30 p.m. At 5:30 there will be a picnic and program for families.

Students will learn about five characters of the New Testament - Peter, Mary and Martha, the woman at the well, and Jesus. Activities will include meeting and learning about these people through drama, Bible verses, songs, crafts and recreation.

Children who will be four years old by September through those who have completed the 5th grade may register. The registration fees are $3 per child or $10 per family. Scholarships are available.

Registrations forms may be obtained at area churches or on posters located in several community businesses.

The forms need to be turned in by the first of July. For more information contact Jan Boss at 547-9482.

Hagen Manker

Another candidate enters race for mayor

CHARLEVOIX — Hagen Manker, 37, a carpenter with Charlevoix County Construction, apparently is running an independent write-in campaign for mayor.

"If nominated I will run. If elected I will serve," Manker told the News-Review when asked about his intentions.

"There seems to be a singular lack of qualified people running," he said.

Also seeking the mayor's post are incumbent Ralph McRae, councilwoman Shirley Roloff and independent contractor Gary Probert.

Manker said he is not openly seeking the post at this point, but "if it happened it would be all right." He said if support appears, he will seek the post more vigorously.

If not, he said he would wait until a later year and launch what he called a "legitimate" campaign.

Manker currently is an alternate on the city's zoning board of appeals.

Commissioners object to official's statements

by PEG OHLE

The Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners has taken exception to a recent remark made by Art Caden, environmental engineer for the Department of Natural Resources.

Caden was quoted in the May 25 issue of the Petoskey News-Review as saying Waste Management Inc., operator of the Charlevoix County Landfill, is doing a good job operating the landfill and "if they (Waste Management) shut down that landfill it's going to signal a chaotic situation in that area of the state. It would mean extremely high costs for everybody for solid waste disposal and the springing up of illegal dumps."

The remarks were made during the course of an interview concerning the landfill and the differences of opinion between Waste Management and the county, through its Solid Waste Management Committee.

The controversy between Waste Management and the county has been ongoing. The county has refused Waste Management permission to enlarge the landfill and has voted to limit to Charlevoix and Emmet counties the area from which waste can be accepted.

Mike Andrews, staff vice president of Waste Management, has said that these restrictions would cause the company to operate at a loss, in which case they would have "one of two choices, to close it or to go to court."

County Commissioner Don Smith, who serves on the Solid Waste Management Committee, has answered, "If you want to sue the county, go right ahead. If you want to close the landfill, go right ahead. We will then condemn it and take it over by eminent domain and we'll operate it as a county landfill."

The Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners answered Caden in a letter to his superior, John McGregor, deputy director of the Department of Natural Resources. The letter reads, in part:

"Mr. Caden does not make clear whether he is speaking on behalf of himself or as a representative of the Department of Natural Resources. As he is employed by the DNR, we presume that he is speaking on behalf of the department. The comments made on behalf of the department by this individual leave us with the impression that the DNR is more concerned with its job being easy than with allowing the county to plan for and insure that necessary facilities are available for the disposal of solid waste generated in this county, both now and into the future, as Public Act 641 of 1978 requires."

"We are further concerned that these comments have been made by an employee who is responsible for ensuring the proper operation of the landfill in question pursuant to state law and administrative rules."

"We are extremely concerned that Mr. Caden cannot be objective in his review, licensing and inspections due to his closely aligned relationship with this facility. We further object as we believe these comments are unacceptable for an employee of a public agency."

County board chairman Larry Matthew, commenting on Caden's remarks, said, "I don't understand why he says, he would like to see Waste Management sue the county. He's a public employee."

Smith said, "For a DNR employee to make such comments is outside the realm of authority," and added, "Caden probably thinks one large landfill would be easier for him to take care of."

The Solid Waste Management Committee held its regular monthly meeting the day following the county board's decision to object to the DNR official's remarks.

The only action at this committee meeting was a resolution to work toward a regional solution to solid waste management or, if this can't be done, to provide for shipping waste out of the county and siting a new landfill.

The Solid Waste Management Committee's task of writing a plan for disposing of the county's solid waste originally was scheduled for completion last October.

The next meeting of the committee is scheduled for Thursday, June 30.

Mock trial demonstrates courts to students

by PEG OHLE

A visitor happening into the courtroom of the Charlevoix County Building last Wednesday morning could have been surprised by what was going on.

Four persons were on "trial" as a result of an automobile accident in which one person was injured. The judge, the attorneys, the defendants, the officers of the law, the court personnel, and the witnesses, were all doing their best to bring out the story of what happened and how it happened so the jury could reach a fair decision.

Similar trials go on all the time in this courtroom, so why would a casual visitor be surprised?

Because of the age of the participants. They were all members of Barry Pierce's eighth grade social studies class in the Charlevoix Middle School. Study of certain aspects of the law is a segment of the class work, and for the last several years, students have conducted "trials" as part of their studies.

Jason Pajtas acted as judge during a civics lesson about operation of the courts recently.

However, they have always been held in the classroom, not in a real courtroom as was this year's "trial."

The case involved four persons who were in a car which became involved in a personal injury accident. The driver of the car, Seth Arnold, was charged with operating a vehicle while under the influence of alcohol, having an open container of alcoholic beverage in his vehicle, reckless driving (crossing the center line), failing to stop at a stop sign, and leaving the scene of a personal injury accident. He was found guilty of all charges.

The other three defendants, Dan Hoadley, Stacey Resch, and Kristin Ricks, were all found guilty of being in possession of an open container of alcoholic beverage in a motor vehicle.

The accused were defended in court by attorneys Troy Bonar and Maria Brown, while the prosecutors were Kristin Ranville and Dave Hunter. The judge (wearing a black robe) was Jason Pajtas, whose father is a real judge.

Members of the jury were Cheryl Gagnon, Corey Crain, Kathy Hisey, Tom Dixon, Dan Spang, Lisa Hooker, Trey Horst, Ruby Johnson, Becky Roloff, and Tammy Holm (foreperson).

Witnesses in the case were Becky Martin, Joe Ferroll, and Helen Hamlin.

Police officers (complete with uniforms) were Luke Porath and Fred Almonrode.

Henri Dhaseleer served as bailiff, Jessica Hisey was court recorder, and Cindy Herriman was court clerk. Josh Martin and Sam Belingham took pictures of the court proceedings and provided the facts for a news release which was written by Kristen Ranville.

Grand jury ups work for circuit court

Circuit court cases generated by operation of the grand jury investigating drug abuse cases in Charlevoix County could considerably increase the work of that court this year, according to the annual report presented by the county board of commissioners by 33rd Circuit Court Judge Richard M. Pajtas.

So far this year, 57 criminal cases have been filed in Charlevoix County, compared with 55 cases for the entire year of 1987.

However, in Emmet County, the other half of Pajtas' circuit, the number of criminal cases increased from 41 in 1986 to 81 in 1987.

Pajtas also noted that his court has one of the highest case disposition rates in the state. In 1986, the court disposed of 837 cases, and in 1987, the number was increased by 18 percent to 984 dispositions.

Commenting on the increase in his court's general caseload, Pajtas stated he believes it is due both to the increase in population of the area and the improved economic conditions that give rise to more litigation.

County to seek Grandvue millage

by PEG OHLE

Two Charlevoix County millage proposals will appear on the Tuesday, Aug. 2, primary ballot.

The first proposal calls for levying .25 (one-quarter) of a mill to help defray the expenses of operating the Charlevoix County transit system during the years 1989, 1990 and 1991.

If passed, this would be a continuation of the millage which has been levied since 1983. Based on the present county valuation, it would bring in about $123,000 a year.

The second proposal calls for levying up to .75 (three-quarters) of a mill for three years to pay off accumulated debts and supplement operating costs of Grandvue Medical Care Facility.

The last time millage was requested for Grandvue was in the years 1977, 1978 and 1979, to raise funds to construct the residential care wing of the facility.

Up to now, the county's share of Grandvue operating costs has come from the county's general fund. Other sources are the federal and state governments, including Medicare.

Medicare provides the greatest share of operating costs because 81 percent of Grandvue patients receive Medicare payments.

It was a cut in Medicare payments that helped put Grandvue in its present precarious financial situation.

The proposed millage would make about $369,000 available to Grandvue during each of the next three years.

5 students bound for France

Five Charlevoix High School students will travel to France this summer under the auspices of the Nacel Cultural Exchange Discovery Summer Program for American Teenagers.

The students, all of whom have studied French for at least three years, are Tonya Gruenwald, Eric Moore, Jon Terry, Phillip Muma, and Jessica Whitley.

Some of them will spend the month of June in France and others the month of July. While there, they will live with separate families, yet to be assigned, in southern or northern France, or along the west seacoast of the country. They will fly from Detroit to New York, where they will join with group leaders and fly on to Paris. In Paris, they will be met by Nacel representatives and sent on their way to their host families.

Yvonne Wendt, who teaches French at the high school, says this group of five is the largest number of students making the trip in the last seven years, and they have all earned their own money for the trip by waiting tables and working at other jobs for at least two years. Also, they each recently received a token donation of $25 from the Educational Foundation to help defray expenses.

When the students return to school as seniors next fall, they will be asked to relate their experiences to other students studying French. To help them remember incidents, Wendt has given each of them a journal.

The teacher has been taking groups of students to France during the spring vacation for several years. She is looking forward to a trip with about 40 next spring.

The education foundation checks were presented by Mary Lou Campbell, foundation president, who said the group was organized to "provide things the school millage does not provide."

The foundation also assists students attending a summer program called "College for Kids" on the campus of North Central Michigan College in Petoskey.

Campbell said such foundations are rare on the high school level and that most donations to date have come from members of the Charlevoix school faculty and staff.

However, she said tax-free donations and bequests would be welcome from other members of the community.

Checks should be made payable to the Charlevoix Schools Enrichment Foundation, Box 151, Charlevoix, Mich. 49720.

Other officers of the foundation are: John Frey, vice president; Scott Beatty, treasurer; and Celeste Bickerteth, secretary.

Stephanie Balch weds Richard Sutton in Charlevoix

Stephanie Ann Balch and Richard Allen Sutton were married May 21 at the Charlevoix Community Church of God. The church was decorated with baskets of peach and white silk flowers, peach candles and peach and white bows as the Rev. Bruce Hamilton performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald G. Balch and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Sutton, all of Charlevoix.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an ivory taffeta gown with Alencon lace accenting the beaded Victorian neckline. The bodice featured tapered puffed sleeves and a basque waistline. The circular semi-cathedral length train had a flounce at the hemline trimmed with chantilly lace. The bride wore an ivory derby style hat with satin flowers and an elbow-length veil. She carried a cascade style bridal bouquet.

Classical music was provided by Barbara Shupert at the organ and Steven Stargardt at the piano. During the piano solo, the bride and groom presented red roses to their grandparents.

Jill Wager attended the bride as matron of honor and bridesmaids were Bambi Balch, sister of the bride; Debbie Sutton, sister of the groom; and Tracie Taylor. They wore peach satin dresses with overlays of peach lace and carried white lace fans adorned with peach and white silk flowers.

Richard Wells Jr. was best man and groomsmen were Douglas Way Jr., Scott Cadwell and Robert Pardee, cousin of the groom. Ushers were Randy Balch, cousin of the bride, and Arthur Sutton, uncle of the groom.

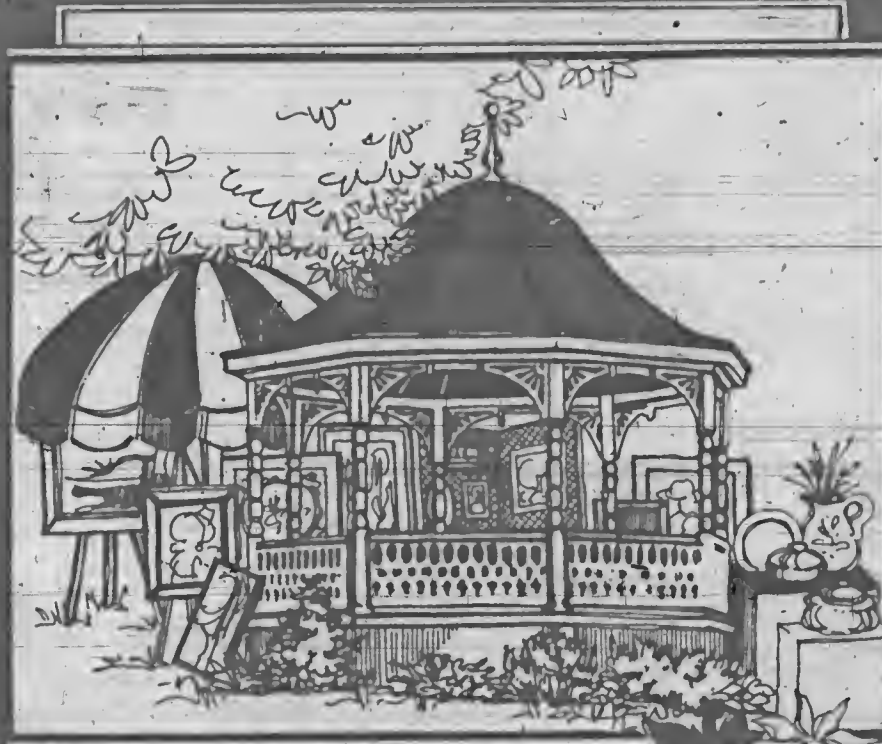

A reception given by the parents of the bride, was held at the Charlevoix American Legion Hall. The wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom that topped the wedding cakes of the bride's parents 27 years ago and her maternal grandparents' cake 46 years ago. The cake was served by Kendall Balch, cousin of the bride. Guest book was attended by Brenda Sutton, sister of the groom. Music for dancing was provided by Country Wine. Guests were greeted by Mrs.

Sidney Emery and Mrs. Howard Herriman.

The rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's parents at Nanny's Old Place.

Following a trip to Florida, the newlyweds are residing in Charlevoix. The bride is employed at Oleson's in Charlevoix and the groom is employed at Waste Management of Charlevoix.

Scharenbroch-Gibbons

Norbert and Alvina Scharenbroch of Charlevoix announce the engagement of their daughter, Kay Lynn, to Christopher M. Gibbons. He is the son of Marilyn Gibbons of Charlevoix and the late Michael A. Gibbons.

The bride-elect graduated from North Central Michigan College in 1986 and is employed by Micro Data in Charlevoix. Her fiancé graduated from Aquinas College this year and is self employed.

The wedding will take place Oct. 8 at St. Mary's Church in Charlevoix.

"Go for it" fashion show for teenagers, parents

by PEG OHLE

The author of a self-help book for teenagers will participate in a fashion show and lecture in Charlevoix.

Judy Zerafa of Traverse City is the author of "Go for It," a self-help book written for teenagers. She is a mother of six.

Zerafa will be in Charlevoix on Wednesday, June 29, to participate in a luncheon-fashion show for teenagers and parents in the conference room of Edgewater Inn.

Zerafa's message will be interwoven into the program that will include tips on developing a positive attitude and believing in oneself.

Nanci Burnside of Burnside Apparel is coordinating the program. She is a friend of Zerafa. In addition to Burnside's clothing from the Circus Shop and from Benetton of Petoskey will be modeled.

"This will be a fashion show like I see when I go to market," Burnside said. There will be a background set designed by Linda Mason, Charlevoix interior decorator, and background music provided by Jessie Blue, former disc jockey.

Burnside will comment about fashions as the show proceeds, and Zerafa will speak during the dessert course.

Tickets for the "Go for It" program and luncheon-fashion show are available at Burnside's and the Chamber of Commerce office in Charlevoix; and at the Circus Shop, Benellons and the Chamber of Commerce office in Petoskey.

Ticket deadline is Wednesday, June 22. For further information, call Nanci Burnside at 547-6751.

Hines - Hamlin

St. Mary's Catholic Church was the setting for the April 30 wedding of Mary Jo Hamlin and Ralph Edward Hines.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hamlin of Charlevoix are the parents of the bride. The groom is the son of Ann Hines of Central Lake.

The double ring ceremony was held before an altar graced with arrangements of white gladioli and pink carnations. The pews were decorated with pink bows, white carnations and baby's breath. The Father James Gardner performed the ceremony before 100 wedding guests.

Given in marriage by her father and mother, the bride wore a satin gown with a modified Queen Anne neckline. The gown featured a beaded basque bodice and leg-of-mutton sleeves. The skirt ended in a semi-cathedral length train accented with an embroidered hemline and cut-out details. The bride wore a beaded head band with satin flowers edged with beads and pearls. Her veil with nylon puff illusion was accented with seed pearls and pencil edging. The bride carried a bouquet of pink roses and miniature white carnations.

Music for the ceremony was provided by organist Will Moyer and soloist Marty Moore.

Theresa Hamlin, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and white carnations with baby's breath. Bridesmaids were Michelle Hamlin, sister of the bride, Donna Barlow and Jo Ann Rakis. They each carried a bouquet of white roses and pink carnations with baby's breath. The attendants wore identical balloon puff, tea-length gowns of pink taffeta. Their hairpieces were bows of maline and pearls.

Best man was Rich Carpenter and groomsmen were Van Dunson, Gary Prate and Bill Carey. Ushers were Bob Ristow and Jon Hamlin, brother of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Edward Hines

A wedding reception, given by the parents of the bride, was held at the American Legion Hall following the ceremony. The wedding cake was made by Betty White of Charlevoix. The rehearsal dinner was held at the home of Ann Hines, mother of the groom. The newlyweds are residing in Central Lake. The groom is employed at East Jordan Iron Works and the bride is employed at United Technologies in Boyne City. They plan a honeymoon at a later date.

OF BLESSINGS

Prepared weekly by the members of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.

by the Rev. David Yingling United Methodist Church

"Sent! But where?"
Before reading further I invite you, the reader, to spend 10 minutes of silence (not prayer). In this silent period, listen to the sounds around you—nature, the noisy world, your own heart beat, and to the voice of God.

Now, please take your Bible and read one or any number of the following passages on "being sent": John 17:1-19; Mark 1:12-20; Luke 24:44-49; 1st Peter 4:12-16.

Now spend some time reflecting on these passages.

Story: Being a Christian, we are called, sent, to be in the world. But what do we do? Being a witness is like one beggar telling another beggar where to get food.

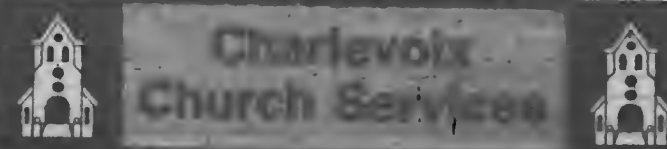

As a Christian, setting at the Lord's table, we call others to the table. We are therefore agents of our Lord's bountiful grace.

Prayer time: In all that you have done, thought about up to this point, offer all to God in prayer.

Write down your thoughts: Simply jot down some ideas on issues that have occurred to you. Now rest or recreate. You deserve it! May God bless you and keep you!

The 1988 Rayder Baseball Team

Rayders bow out 4-3 in semifinals

CLARE — Charlevoix left seven baserunners stranded Saturday in its 4-3 loss to Mayville in the Class C regional semifinals in baseball.

"At the start of the second inning, we had runners on second and third with nobody out and we didn't score, so we had our chances," Charlevoix Coach Brian Certa said. "I think we played as well as they did, if not better. We just didn't come up with the breaks."

Mayville then lost to Shepherd

15-5 in the final game.

Charlevoix took a 2-0 lead in the top of first inning as Chad Morrow, Steve Hopkins and Dan Drury had consecutive singles with two outs. But Mayville countered in the bottom of the inning with a two-run homer.

Mayville scored two runs in the third inning on four straight hits.

In the seventh inning, Charlevoix started its final rally with two outs. Chad Thorpe tripled and scored on a singled by Jason Corwin. But Morrow then hit a fly ball to the center fielder for the final out.

Shawn Putman went the distance for Charlevoix as he struck out four and allowed seven hits and one walk. Eric Frenzel was the winning pitcher.

The Rayders collected nine hits as Hopkins had two singles, Putman doubled and Mike Himelbauch and Scott Denny both added singles.

Certa noted Mayville made some key defensive plays. The center fielder made an over-the-shoulder catch of Himelbauch's fly ball and held onto the ball after crashing into the fence. And the left fielder threw Hopkins out at second base on his single down the third-base line in the sixth.

"We only made one error and it didn't cost us a run," Certa added. "We played well. We had a good season and it was a good experience for 'em."

Charlevoix finished its season at 17-10-1.

Foot Clinic takes 1st round

Charlevoix Foot Clinic wrapped up first round honors in the Petoskey Men's Softball (fast-pitch) League Monday night with a tight 4-2 eight-inning victory over Sports Peddler. Foot Clinic finished the round with a perfect 9-0 record.

In other games Monday, Poquette Leasing blanked Dairy Queen 3-0 and Strictly Business downed Ballard's Plumbing & Heating 6-3.

Today, Foot Clinic meets Dairy Queen while in game two Dave's Mobil takes on Strictly Business.

Foot Clinic rode the long-ball hitting of Mike Loper to the victory over Sports Peddler.

Loper, who had two home runs in the game, decided the contest with a two-run homer in the top of the eighth inning after two were out. Loper also hit a solo home run in the second inning. Peddler had tied the game at 2-2 in the bottom of the sixth inning on an RBI single by John Casteel.

Winning pitcher was Jim Potter, loser was Ron Shafer and both gave up just six hits. Roger Crain had two hits including a triple for Foot Clinic and Jim Potter doubled while the Peddler hits were singles by six different batters.

Foot Clinic 010.001.02-4
Sports Peddler 010.001.00-2
Poquette Leasing took a 2-0 lead in the first inning and then received a solo home run from Clark Hewitt in the sixth inning for the shutout win over Dairy Queen.

Winning pitcher was Steve Hamlin while Dave Siegrist took the loss with both giving up six hits. Hewitt also had a triple for Poquette while for Dairy Queen, Bob Kerton doubled and singled, Mark Thompson had two hits and Craig Colberg doubled.

The City's new boat launch top gate began operating this weekend, but it wasn't exactly smooth sailing. Some boaters refused to work and directed snide remarks and obscene gestures at attendants who tried to collect the fee, according to city councilman Earl Muma. City manager Mike Wiesner said the city will have to ease into the toll gate operation.

Stafford Smith joins team at Weathervane Inn

by SARA GAY DAMMANN
The Weathervane Restaurant will come under the management of restaurateur Stafford Smith as soon as liquor license transfers are finalized, according to owners Jon Hisey and Bill Martin.

Stafford Smith—owner of The Bay View Inn in Bay View, The Pier in Harbor Springs and One Water Street in Boyne City—said Stafford's Hospitality "is buying the restaurant management," while Hisey and Martin retain ownership of the property.

"I have always wanted to come back to the Weathervane," Smith said as he and Hisey finalized plans for the change of management. "I operated the Weathervane in the winter of 1984 for Earl Young, prior to opening Bay View in the winter."

"We couldn't think of a better person to take over this restaurant," Hisey said. "Stafford wants this to be what we always wanted it to be, Charlevoix's restaurant."

Smith says he anticipates few immediate changes to the restaurant. "We want to build on what Jon and Bill have established. It's a good menu and we like what we see here, the color, the ambience."

"We will introduce some of our signature dishes as specials," he continued, "and we will bring in some of our fresh baked goods and special soups, including chowders, from the Bay View Inn."

Smith said "corporate chef" Bob Stark will oversee the development of the Weathervane menu and that each of the four restaurants will continue to have distinct personalities and menus. "We are working on a special Charlevoix salad dressing for a start," Smith said.

Smith will keep the Weathervane open year-round for lunch and dinner. He has his eye on developing the lunch menu to serve the business community and he is exploring a menu to serve "the unique foot traffic that promenades through Charlevoix as late as 11 p.m. at night. We are thinking of a late afternoon and later night light menu. We want people on boats to know they can wander in at 9 or 10 p.m."

Hisey added, "We want a successful eatery north of the bridge to serve the people in the hotels, and draw people to the shops."

Hisey and Martin acquired the Weathervane in 1986 from Riccardo's of Eastport and Traverse City, which had operated the restaurant under the name Riccardo's of Charlevoix. Hisey and Martin renamed the restaurant The Weathervane.

The Weathervane Restaurant was founded in 1964 by Charlevoix developer Earl Young, who had cut the top two floors off the original four floor flour grist mill on Pine River Channel.

First named Charlevoix Roller Mill, then Argo Milling Co., the original building, built in the late 1800s, included a dock for grain-carrying schooners.

Smith fondly recalled his stint as manager and chef, the winter of 1964.

"Every day Earl Young would come up from his office downstairs through his little tunnel to light the fire in the big fire place."

"Reg" Smith, Smith's son, has been appointed restaurant manager. He had been serving as assistant manager at One Water Street in Boyne City.

Reg Smith, 25, is a graduate of Cornell University with a degree in hotel and restaurant administration. He has worked at hotels and restaurants throughout the midwest, in addition to the family enterprises.

Mary Kathryn Smith, his sister, will serve as hostess at the Weathervane until she returns to Michigan State University's hotel school in the fall.

Home tour tickets on sale

The seventh annual Charlevoix Home Tour Wednesday, July 13, will provide an opportunity to view some of the area's finest homes, according to tour co-chair Kathy Engle.

"It's going to be a very good tour this year, one of the best," Engle said. "We will appeal to different tastes. We have a variety of decor in architecture."

The tour sponsored by Kappa Sigma sorority is conducted annually for the benefit of Charlevoix Area Hospital, and is supported by local businesses and professionals.

"It's really been successful," Engle said. "Each year it just gets bigger, bigger and better." Last year Kappa Sigma ran out of tickets; the tour was so popular.

This year's tour features everything from a large summer estate to a quaint little cottage. Tourists may begin at any home they wish and visit any or all homes at their leisure between 1 and 5 p.m. on tour day.

Tickets for this year's tour are available at Tin Soldier in Harbor Springs, Shop of the Gulls and Apple Tree in Charlevoix, Antrim Dells golf course near Ellsworth, and the chambers of commerce in Boyne City, Charlevoix and Petoskey.

Tickets also can be purchased at homes on tour day. Tickets are $10 apiece. No children under 12 are permitted on the tour. Directions to the homes are on the tickets.

Official Notice

ORDINANCE NO. 493

CITY OF CHARLEVOIX ORDAINS that Section 5.5 of Chapter 51 of Title V of the Code of the City of Charlevoix be amended by adding the following definitional terms and by renumbering the subparagraphs of 5.5 accordingly:

(9) BOAT DOCKING SPACE: The space along a dock or similar structure of sufficient size to dock a recreational boat. Each twenty-six (26) lineal feet of dock space or fraction thereof of sufficient size to dock a recreational boat shall be considered a boat docking space provided that spaces of less than eighteen (18) lineal feet shall be excluded. Dock ends suitable for docking a recreational boat shall be considered a docking space.

(10) BOAT HOUSE: An accessory building used for the exclusive docking and/or storage of boats and other recreational marine equipment; however, excluding structures in the marine commercial district used for principal and accessory uses allowed in that district.

ORDINANCE NO. 494

CITY OF CHARLEVOIX ORDAINS that Section 5.7(7) of Chapter 51 of Title V of the Code of the City of Charlevoix designated "Height of Buildings" be amended to read as follows:

BUILDING ROOF: The term, "building roof" shall include all materials and appurtenances covering or above the roof deck of a building, including, but not limited to, air conditioners, antennas, satellite receiving dishes, heating units, elevator housings, skylights, chimneys, plumbing vents, turbines and other similar items. Provided, however when their extension above the roof deck is required to meet State and local building, plumbing and/or safety codes and there is no reasonable design alternative, including a rearrangement of floor plans for the building, which would allow for a height reduction of such appurtenances. Provided, further that turbines and similar architectural features not including mechanical equipment, chimneys, plumbing vents and similar appurtenances shall not be considered building roof for height calculating purposes when their area calculated from a plan view does not exceed two (2) percent of the total roof area calculated from a plan view and their height above the building roof does not exceed fifteen (15) percent of the building height. Any exterior surfaces of the building having an interior angle of seventy-five (75) degrees or greater with the ground floor plan of a building shall be considered a wall and not part of a roof.

ORDINANCE NO. 495

CITY OF CHARLEVOIX ORDAINS that Section 5.10(3) of Chapter 51 of Title V of the Code of the City of Charlevoix be amended to read as follows:

(3) PARKING SPACE: The area required for parking one automobile, which in this Chapter is held to be an area nine (9) feet wide and twenty (20) feet long, not including driveways as required in this Chapter.

ORDINANCE NO. 496

CITY OF CHARLEVOIX ORDAINS that Section 5.12 of Chapter 51 of Title V of the Code of the City of Charlevoix be amended to read as follows:

(1) WATER MARK: The water mark shall be at elevation 581.0 U.S.G.S. in the location it existed at the adoption date of this amendment.

(3) YARD REAR: The open space extending across the rear of a lot between a side lot line and being the required minimum horizontal distance between the rear lot line and the rear of the main building or any projections thereof. Along the Pine River Channel, Round Lake, Lake Michigan or Lake Charlevoix the rear lot line shall be the water mark of the Pine River Channel, Round Lake, Lake Michigan or Lake Charlevoix.

Existing subsection paragraphs 1 through 6 of Section 5.12 shall be renumbered as subparagraphs 2 through 7.

ORDINANCE NO. 497

CITY OF CHARLEVOIX ORDAINS that Section 5.17(4) of Chapter 51 of Title V of the Code of the City of Charlevoix be amended to read as follows:

(4) Where a Zoning District includes streams, lakes or other bodies of water the District boundary shall be deemed to extend to the thread of the stream or center of the lake or other body of water. It is the intent of this subsection to include within the Zoning District all submerged lands included within the Corporate Limits of the City of Charlevoix.

ORDINANCE NO. 498

CITY OF CHARLEVOIX ORDAINS that Section 5.32 of Chapter 51 of Title V of the Code of the City of Charlevoix be amended to add subsection 5.32(10) to read as follows:

(10) Recreational boat docks, boat launch ramps and piers are permitted as accessory structures subject to the regulations provided in this Chapter and subject to any applicable Federal and State regulations or laws, and providing further that for each one and one-half (1 1/2) boat docking spaces in excess of two spaces, there shall be provided one on-site parking space accessible to the user of the docking space.

ORDINANCE NO. 499

CITY OF CHARLEVOIX ORDAINS that Section 5.64(7) of Chapter 51 of Title V of the Code of the City of Charlevoix be amended to read as follows:

(7) PARKING: Parking spaces shall be provided in accord with Article VI Off-Street Parking and loading space requirements. Such parking area shall be so placed so as not to interfere with any recreation or service area, and shall not be less than twenty-five (25) feet from property lines or street right-of-way lines.

ORDINANCE NO. 500

CITY OF CHARLEVOIX ORDAINS that Section 5.84 of Chapter 51 of Title V of the Code of the City of Charlevoix be amended by changing Section 5.84(3) to read as follows:

(3) REAR YARD: There shall be a minimum rear yard of not less than twenty-five (25) feet, provided, however, that on lots adjacent to the Pine River Channel or Round Lake, the required rear yard setback shall be thirty-five (35) feet.

ORDINANCE NO. 501

CITY OF CHARLEVOIX ORDAINS that Section 5.182 of Chapter 51 of Title V of the Code of the City of Charlevoix be amended to read as follows:

5.182 USE REGULATIONS: The permitted uses authorized in this Zone District may be authorized providing that an application is submitted for a special use permit and approved in accordance with the procedures, provisions, and standards of Article IX of this Chapter and that the Site Plan meets with the requirements of the City of Charlevoix Fire Department. The permitted special use for land and/or buildings in the "C-S" zone district as follows:

Existing subparagraphs 1-11 of Charlevoix Code Section 5.182 remain unchanged.

ORDINANCE NO. 502

CITY OF CHARLEVOIX ORDAINS that Section 5.184 of Chapter 51 of Title V of the Code of the City of Charlevoix be amended by changing Section 164(3) to read as follows:

(3) REAR YARD: There shall be a minimum rear yard of not less than twenty-five (25) feet, provided further that on lots adjacent to the Pine River Channel or Round Lake the required rear yard setback shall be the available of rear yard set backs for a principal building on developed adjacent lots or a minimum of fifty-five (55) feet.

ORDINANCE NO. 503

CITY OF CHARLEVOIX ORDAINS that Section 5.191 of Chapter 51 of Title V of the Code of the City of Charlevoix be amended by changing Section 5.191(1) to read as follows and to delete Sections 5.191(5) and 5.191(6) in their entirety:

(1) Fences, walls or other similar objects in all districts except Industrial, shall not exceed six (6) feet in height above grade when located in any portion of the rear or side yard and shall not exceed three (3) feet above grade when located in a portion of the front yard, nor shall any such fence, wall or other similar object be maintained within fifteen (15) feet of the front lot line.

(5) Deleted in entirety.

(6) Deleted in entirety.

These amendments (Ordinances No. 493 through No. 503) to the Charlevoix City Code were adopted by the City Council of the City of Charlevoix at a regular meeting held on June 6, 1988 by the following yea and nay vote:

YEAS: Councilmembers Roloff, Haggard, Bellows, Probert, Muma & Russell

Park hours cut; alcohol ban eyed

Rowdy youths at Michigan Beach are forcing the city to set closing hours at parks and to consider alcohol limitations.

"It's too bad just a few people can make it tough on everybody, isn't it?" says council member Shirley Roloff.

The midnight-to-6 a.m. park closing will apply to all beaches and parks in the city except East Park.

Because of its proximity to the Round Lake Yacht Basin and the center of town, East Park must be dealt with separately, says Police Chief Dennis Halverson.

City council will hold a public hearing on a 9 p.m.-to-6 a.m. park alcohol ban at its Tuesday, July 5, meeting. Halverson says several area cities already have park closing hours in effect, including Traverse City, Harbor Springs and East Jordan.

Many have longer closings than Charlevoix now will, he says.

Without a law in place, Halverson says, police have little legal backing to combat problems at the beaches.

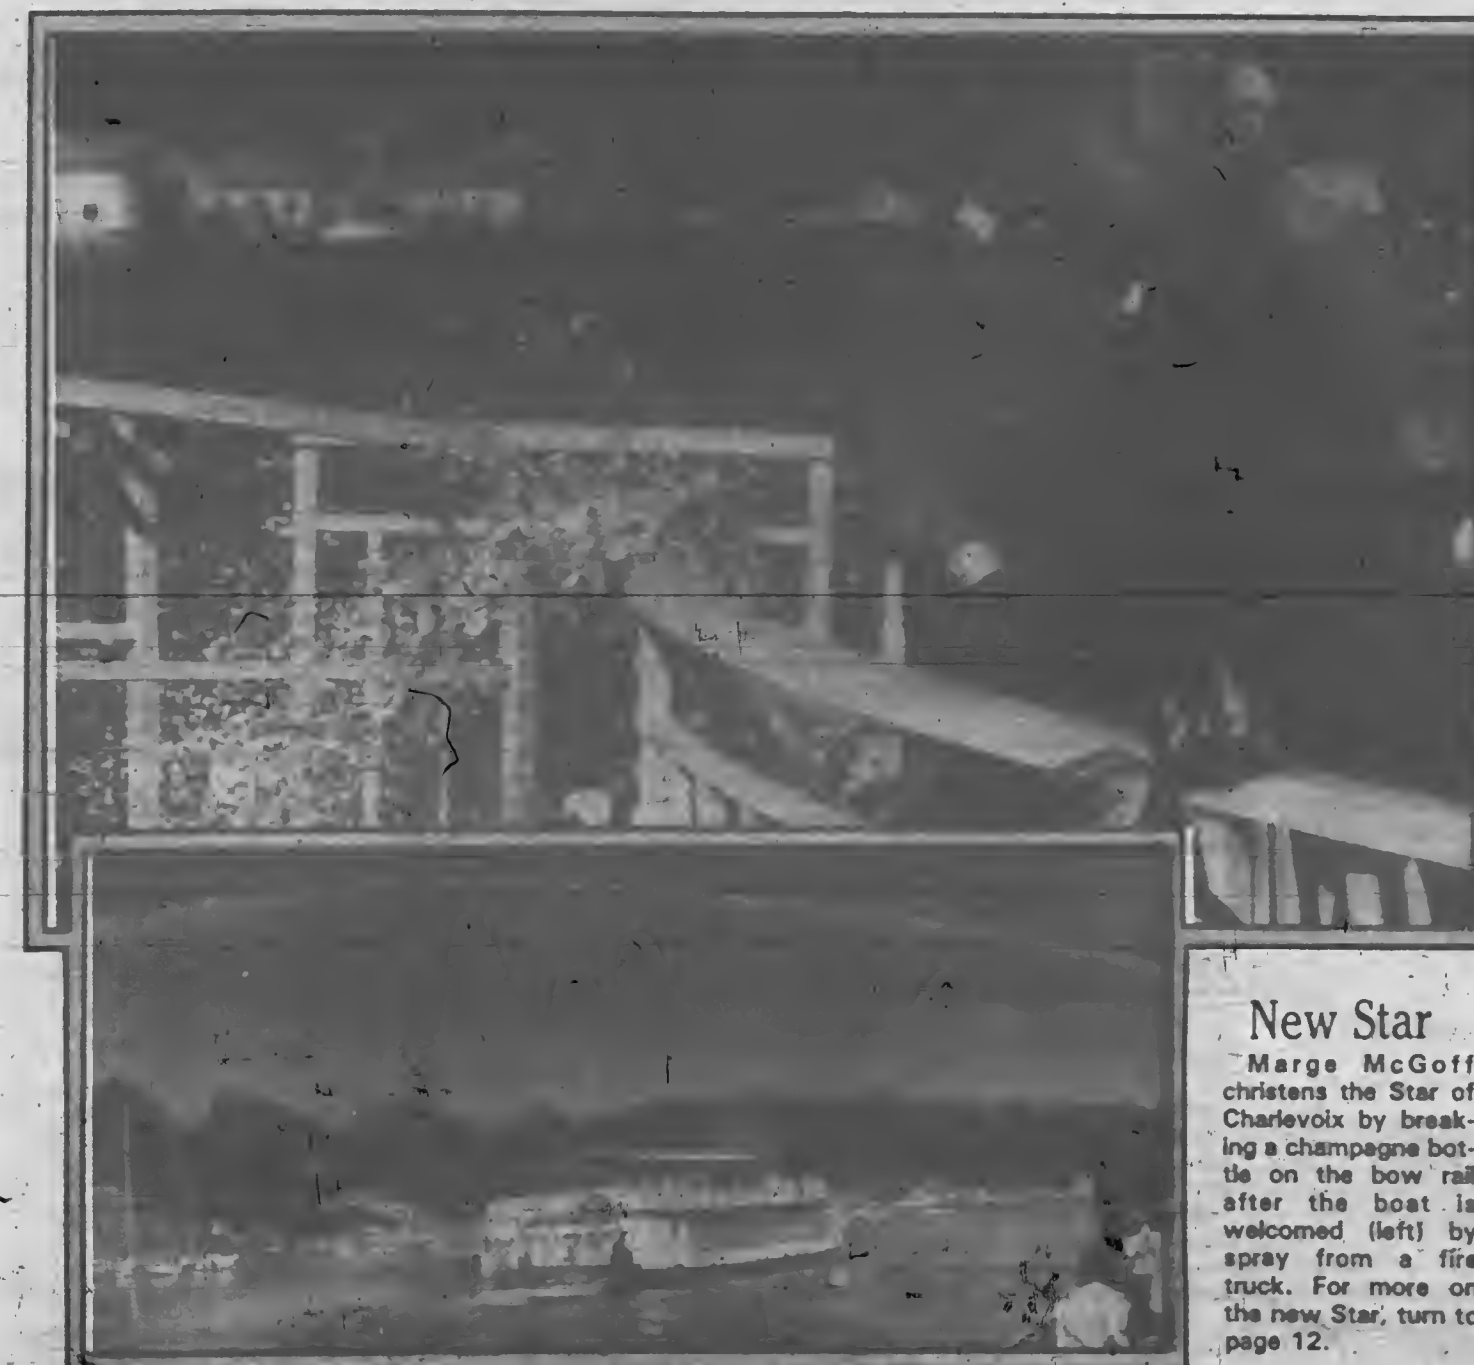

Police officers already have a difficult time pinpointing drinking minors when confronting crowds of 30 to 40 people who pass bottles around as officers close in.

Halverson says.

The problem with congregating, rowdy teens and young adults at Michigan Beach has gotten so bad, many families no longer go there to view the sunset, says Ike Boss, city recreation director.

Boss, Halverson and city attorney Jeff VanTresse drafted the resolution calling for up to $500 fines and 90-day imprisonment for violations.

It takes about two hours to clean up Michigan Beach in the morning because of littered wine and cooler bottles, Boss says.

City's attorney indicted

City attorney Jeffrey VanTresse has been indicted on felony drug charges by the county grand jury.

VanTresse, a lawyer in private practice who has a contract with the city, surrendered to sheriff's deputies Tuesday, June 21.

He was released on bond. VanTresse, 32, faces two counts of conspiracy to possess less than 50 grams of cocaine.

The grand jury recently ended its six-month term by issuing its third batch of indictments.

In all, 46 people have been charged with drug-related offenses and 25 have been arrested, according to a count kept by the Petoskey News-Review.

Ahead-lines

Sidewalk to shopping center

A sidewalk will be constructed along U.S. 31 and M-66 to Captain's Corner — but it's going to cost some people some money.

The city will use the special assessment powers contained in the city charter to charge property owners along the line of the sidewalk for construction.

The sidewalk will stretch along the east side of Bridge Street from Garfield to M-66 and then along the north side of M-66 to Stover.

There are three or four individual property owners — in this case, businesses — which already have installed sidewalks. They did so at the bequest of council in completing recent construction projects.

The six-foot-wide sidewalk will be built as close to the property line as possible in the street right-of-way, according to City Manager Mike Wiesner.

Sixty percent of the estimated $60,000 will be paid by the two dozen property owners with the city paying the rest.

The city recently altered its sidewalk replacement cost-sharing policy to remove the property owner share of work being done in a five-year, four-mill infrastructure program.

The thinking of council members was that taxpayers were being charged double by having to pay the extra millage and pay for the repairs.

And the city returned nearly $17,000 to property owners who paid for a 1984 sidewalk upgrading program.

The policy, however, does not apply to construction of new sidewalks.

Under the program, property owners along the route would pay about $12 per lineal foot of sidewalk.

The lots along the path range in width from 16 feet (one of two owned by chiropractor Jeffrey Ricks) to 334 feet (at Captain's Corner shopping center).

A public hearing on the special assessment district will be held Tuesday, July 5, as part of a city council meeting.

Top state golfers back for Amateur

For the 26th straight year — and the last for several to come — golfers from all over Michigan are at Belvedere Golf Club for the state amateur championship.

The top state amateur event began Tuesday with 168 golfers in preliminary rounds and continues until Saturday, when the final two players will square off.

The finals are expected to begin about 1 p.m. Saturday, June 25. The lone Charlevoix player in the tournament is Jeff Kirby.

Next year the Amateur begins playing at different courses, and it could be five years or more before the event returns to Belvedere.

Charter panel candidates have September deadline

City residents who are interested in serving on a charter review commission apparently have until Sept. 6 to get their names on the November ballot.

Voters will be deciding at the general election whether they want a charter revision panel and, if so, who they want on it.

The question is going on the ballot following a city council vote to ask if a charter review is necessary. The present charter is about 10 years old.

The leading proponent of charter review is council member Earl Mumá, who has said there are a number of areas that need to be looked at.

An attempt by council to give the mayor a vote in all matters was shortcircuited by city attorney Jeff VanTreese, who said amendment was not possible for a complex question.

There are about two dozen parts of the charter that would have to be addressed if the mayor were to get a vote except to break ties, he says.

VanTreese says that many changes would have to be dealt with by a charter revision commission.

If voters approve formation of the commission, it would consist of nine members who would function in much the same way the original charter commission did, VanTreese says.

The commission would have nine members elected at-large at the general election and, because of a court ruling, would be paid an amount set by council for up to 90 meetings.

Commission hopefuls would have to collect between 25 and 40 signatures of registered voters to have their names appear on the ballot.

City Clerk Ariane Staley says the filing deadline would be 60 days before the election, which would probably make it Sept. 6.

AROUND THE TOWN

An out-of-towner (we won't call him by that other word this early in the season) was looking over the Keep Charlevoix Beautiful drawing prize the other day.... The pickup truck is parked right outside the Chamber of Commerce building....

So he walked inside and asked if he could buy a ticket.... Sure, he was told. That will be $125, please.... His jaw dropped and stayed at half-staff as it was explained that he had a 1-in-10 chance of getting his money back, that only 200 tickets would be sold so he had good odds of winning, and that the ticket entitled him to attend a Labor Day event at Loeb Farms....

Thanks, anyway, he said as he left.... Then he turned to his wife, who was waiting on the sidewalk, and said, "I told you this town was expensive...."

It will come as no surprise to learn that the level of Lake Charlevoix and Lake Michigan is almost two feet below the record set just two summers ago.... And we recall the experts all warning in 1986 that high water would remain for years....

But the current level is still way above the all-time low — in fact, it's 30 inches above the May record low set in 1964.... And the Corps of Engineers' six-month forecast calls for levels above the long-term average.

Newest condo attractive but city headache remains

Editor,

It is with both surprise and pleasure that I note that the latest condominium on the channel is not as displeasing to the aesthetic eye as its predecessors on the bridge. As a matter of fact, it is reminiscent of the castles one sees along the Rhine River in Germany.

While we are grateful for this pleasant development, nevertheless, in support of all those people whom Mr. Berlage labeled "anti-growth," and to refute his accusation that to interfere with an individual's use of his own private property is communistic and socialistic, I remind this paper's readers that using one's private property in a manner that is contrary to the law is neither communistic nor capitalistic; it is purely anarchistic.

An acceptable definition of anarchy is the belief that any form of government that interferes with individual liberty is undesirable. Would you, then, label it anarchy to apply for a variance to build a garage on your property, to have the variance be denied, and to go ahead and build the garage any way?

Letters to the editor:

Almost all forms of government are preferable to anarchy. Our founding fathers realized this when they provided for a form of government here before they ever left the Mayflower; one that applied to everybody, not individuals excepted.

I became a retired person (one of the groups Mr. Berlage accuses of anti-growth) by leaving American history for 25 years. If nothing else, I learned respect for law.

Too much growth can be as bad as no growth. Six aspirin may help your headache, but six hot pills of aspirin will kill you along with the headache. The condominiums in Charlevoix had become a really big headache to the city.

About two months ago, April 23, the congregation at the Charlevoix Methodist Church was addressed by the Rev.

Elmer Faust, a former pastor here. He congratulated the people on the appearance of the church — new carpeting, new altar drapes, etc., and then he added, "I see your city has been busy too, countering your beautiful scenery. Too bad."

Too bad, too, that long-time residents need to sad, because we have obscured the natural things that made Charlevoix beautiful, made it special, one of a kind. We are certainly not one of a kind now. Not every city has lakes to look at, but every city has condominiums.

Our town needs protection against individuals who do not believe in majority rule. We must have a law to control the "growth" of more condominiums. If a majority of the people want such a law, then they can and should elect a council that will pass such a law for them.

CLOCKWISE

BOB CLOCK

Meatloaf: All-American food

They say there are as many different ways to make borsch as there are Russians.

And as many different ways to make to make paella as there are Spaniards.

And as many different ways to make chili as there are Mexicans.

But is there a typically American dish that can be tampered with willy-nilly without changing the chief characteristics of end product?

I think so. It's called meatloaf.

The other day I drove to Grand Rapids to fetch home daughter Allison from her school year at Davenport College. I arrived just in time for lunch and instead of heading for the fast-food eateries on 28th Street as we usually do, Allison suggested stopping at Zak's restaurant downtown in the Monroe Center shopping plaza.

"They make meatloaf just like you do," she explained.

So we headed straight for Zak's and both of us ordered the meatloaf special — which I wouldn't ordinarily do in a strange restaurant.

But Allison was right. The meatloaf was extraordinarily akin to the home-grown variety and I wondered how the chef had discovered my recipe, particularly since I don't have a recipe. In fact, I cannot recall ever actually seeing a recipe for meatloaf, although I know they must exist.

The meatloaf that I prepare occasionally when I tire of grilled cheese sandwiches and tomato soup dates back to my childhood, with several additions and deletions over the years depending on which chef I talked to last.

The basic recipe came from my mother, who always started with one pound each of ground beef, pork and veal. Then she added chopped onion and celery, soft bread crumbs, an egg, a little milk and salt and pepper, thoroughly mixing the concoction with her bare hands before shaping it into a free-standing loaf which she baked in a roasting pan in the oven.

She slashed the top diagonally in both directions with a sharp knife to give the loaf a diamond pattern on top and she never used a loaf pan, preferring the drippings to part company from the meat.

I watched the process so many times when I was a kid that I have it down pat.

Then Margaret Weir, our next-door neighbor, suggested that meatloaf wasn't meatloaf unless you added a little ginger. So in went the ginger.

When I left home, I remembered how to make meatloaf but I couldn't afford veal. So I substituted another pound of ground beef. It came out just fine. Then ground pork was sometimes hard to come by, so I substituted a pound of mild-flavored pork sausage.

I also replaced the soft bread crumbs with oatmeal since I didn't like big white eyes of bread looking up at me from the dinner plate.

After moving to Charlevoix, Fran Martin told me that meatloaf wasn't meatloaf without a sprinkling of oregano. So in went the oregano.

I also learned from Betty Washburne, food editor at the Petoskey News-Review, that cornmeal makes a good binder for ground meat entrees. So I cut the oatmeal in half and add an equal amount of cornmeal — about one-quarter cup.

Then a friend gave us a pot of sage, which I planted in the backyard. Dried sage leaves, crushed between the palms, are a savory addition. And they make your hands smell good.

Of course, meatloaf variations go on and on. Some folks add tomato juice or catsup, but I avoid anything red because it makes the loaf look undercooked. Ray Bay, former proprietor of Bay's Restaurant in Petoskey, always covered his meatloaf with strips of bacon. Which is OK, I guess, but the entire loaf became permeated with the flavor of bacon, which you don't need with all those other delicious flavors.

Although meatloaf isn't exactly gourmet fare, I notice that a three-pound loaf never lasts very long around our house, particularly when the leftovers are converted into cold meatloaf sandwiches.

If I were called upon to nominate an all-American food, I guess it would have to be meatloaf.

But I have no illusions that the meatloaf I made Sunday is the end of the line. Meatloaf, as a social institution, is in a process of continual evolution. The perfect meatloaf — like a Platonic ideal — will float forever above the kitchen range.

THE MAYOR'S CORNER

Our "quality of life" brings hundreds to our city. Unfortunately many of our own townspeople do not have the time or the money to fully enjoy the same advantages.

A swimming pool would be healthful activity for everyone — children, working couples and senior citizens.

The school system should not carry the whole burden. The school would pay 1/3rd, public donors 1/3rd and corporate foundations 1/3rd.

The Department of Natural Resources could grant $100,000 towards the cost. The cost of operation would be shared by the users, the school, and the recreation funds of the city and the four adjoining townships.

We have in our community shakers and movers who could bring this to a successful conclusion.

Would appreciate phone calls from those persons who would back such a campaign.

Box seat for parade

This tree house along the roadway in Horton Bay will be rented out as a perch from which to watch the Horton Bay Fourth of July parade. It is furnished with table and chairs, checkered table cloth and hanging baskets of flowers. The highest bid for use of the tree house is now reported to be over $100.

Garbage pickup rates increasing

Garbage rates will be going up $2 a month after city council gave up what appeared to be a losing battle to halt the increase.

Council previously approved a rise from $7 to $9, but Waste Management of Northern Michigan asked for a rehearing on the $9 proposal.

A city ordinance says council must approve rate hikes, though there is a question if such a requirement is legal.

Waste Management said the reason for the proposed garbage rate hike was a 71 percent increase in dumping fees at the Charlevoix County Landfill Inc. near Ironton. Dump rates jumped from $3.50 to $5 a yard June 1.

The company has repeatedly said the rate hike at the landfill was a result in part of the county solid waste committee's refusal to allow expansion and cutting back of the service area to Charlevoix and Emmet counties.

Councilwoman Shirley Roloff fought the rate hike, saying Waste Management of Northern Michigan's parent company, Waste Management Inc., also owns the landfill and has a monopoly.

City attorney Jeff VanTreese said the ordinance states if a company demonstrates costs have increased, the city must approve a rate hike.

Council agreed costs have gone up, approving the rate hike with the stipulation that rates for senior citizens will remain at $7 a month.

Governor's office gives OK to county mass gathering ordinance

delayed when the first copy sent to Lansing was "lost" and another copy had to be forwarded.

Before receiving the governor's approval, the ordinance was reviewed by the attorney general's office.

The ordinance is designed to "permit, license, regulate and control, in the interest of public safety, health and welfare, outdoor gatherings of persons in excess of 2,000 in number."

It specifically exempts "an event which is conducted or sponsored by a governmental unit or agency on publicly owned land or property," or "an event which is conducted or sponsored by an entity qualifying for tax exempt status under (federal and Michigan income tax laws)" or "an event held entirely within the confines of a permanently enclosed or covered structure."

Under the ordinance, sponsors of an applicable mass gathering must obtain a license for the event and must abide by licensing requirements, which include: security personnel, medical facilities, food service, water facilities, plumbing, liquid waste disposal, solid waste disposal, vector (rodents, insects, etc.) control, restroom facilities, supervision of facilities, responsibility for cleanup, general responsibility, access and traffic control, parking illumination, insurance, bonding, fire protection, sound producing equipment, and communications.

The big "push" for the ordinance came from the Charlevoix County Townships Association in support of member Marion Township, where The Castle is located, and some other townships where possibilities for mass gatherings exist.

The ordinance may meet opposition from at least one source.

Last January, Arthur Reibel, owner of The Castle, told the county board that "If this ordinance is signed by the governor and you try to enforce it, I will have no alternative but to become involved, to litigate."

The extent to which a mass gathering such as a concert at The Castle can burden county and municipal law enforcement units is illustrated in a report prepared by Sheriff George Lasater following a May 29 concert presented by AC-DC.

The sheriff and his officers issued 790 warning tickets, 26 notices to appear and 16 citations; made 11 arrests; answered 24 complaints; investigated nine accidents, including one personal injury; and towed 18 vehicles, for a total of 949 police actions.

KCB set for meeting

Keep Charlevoix Beautiful's annual meeting will include a presentation on options for Bridge Park and a floral look at Belgium.

The meeting, which is open to the public, begins with breakfast at 8:30 a.m. at the Weatherane Restaurant on Saturday, June 25.

Following the $3.50 breakfast, the meeting will begin at 9 a.m. Breakfast reservations are limited to 40; call 547-6960 by Friday, June 24.

Traver Wood of Site Planning and Development will talk about Bridge Park, and Mayor Ralph McRae will show slides of the flowers of Belgium from his recent European trip.

Five members will be elected to the KCB board. Nominees are Kirby Diepert (three-year term), Dr. Jim Gibbons, Gordie Meyers and Patty Sizema (two-year), Bob Sell (one-year) and Jean Seymour and Terry D'Angelo (alternates).

Corrections

Transposed corrections created errors in two stories in last week's Courier. The Rev. Benton Heisler will become pastor of United Methodist Church and of Greensky Hill Church. Ronald D. Russell of Charlevoix was fined in district court for impaired driving.

The conservancy is coordinating an effort to raise more than $700,000 by October 1989 to purchase a 28-acre Lake Michigan shoreline dune area.

If successful, the area would be turned over to Charlevoix Township for use as a natural recreation site.

Donations may be sent to 3264 Powell Road, Harbor Springs.

Distribution of surplus foods will be held Wednesday, June 23, in Charlevoix. There will be no July distribution.

The Charlevoix site will be the VFW Hall, where food will be distributed from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m. or until food runs out.

Foods available this month are cheese, rice, flour and butter.

Eligibility is based on family income, with a non-senior household cap of $7,212.50 for one person and $2,450 for each additional person.

In senior households, the cap for a single person is $9,232 with $3,040 for each additional person.

Show features paper creations

"The Paper Chase," an exhibition featuring handmade paper constructions by five Michigan papermakers, will be shown in the sales gallery at McCune Arts Center, Petoskey, through Saturday, July 2.

Gretchen Deems, Mary Lou Mooney, Andy Roeser, Sally Rose and Sally Thielen are the artists showing wall hung and sculptural pieces.

The Art Tree Sales Gallery is located at the corner of Mitchell and Division Streets, downtown Petoskey. Gallery hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Sunday.

Art display shows work of family

Charlevoix artists Russ and Sue Bolt and their family will be represented in a group show Sunday, June 26, through Saturday, July 9, in the Art Tree Sales Gallery in Petoskey's McCune Arts Center.

Russ Bolt produces watercolors and acrylics. Sue Bolt paints on porcelain with bright glazes. Their daughter Lori, creates contemporary quilts and wall-hangings while her husband, Frank Hasseld, sculpts with metal and stone.

Russ Bolt Jr. makes clay animals and Bob Bolt uses clay to make stylized cars.

The Bolts' Limited Engagement Exhibition will be on display and sale from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Sunday.

"Famous Musicians on Film" will be shown at McCune on Thursday, June 23, at 8 p.m.

The musical program contains performances of works by Stokowski, Kreisler, Pinza, Paderewski, Helfetz and others.

Admission for adults is $2.50 and for students and children $1. Refreshments will be served at intermission.

Congressional aide visiting

Betty Mankowski, area representative for U.S. Rep. Bob Davis, will hold office hours in Charlevoix on Tuesday, June 28.

She will be at the Charlevoix County Building from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. to discuss problems people are having with federal or state government.

Rainbow Shoppe thrift store celebrates 5th anniversary

The Rainbow Shoppe, Charlevoix's second-hand store operated by 10 local churches, has celebrated its fifth anniversary.

Beginning as a "hole in the wall" store, the Rainbow Shoppe has grown enough to fill three floors of the former Hess Furniture Store building in the alleyway behind Trademark Clothiers.

Last year, the store did $60,000 worth of business with the help of 200 volunteers and store manager Joe Spurgeon. This enabled the Rainbow Shoppe organization to donate $18,000 to outreach projects.

THE NEW STAR ATTRACTION

Paddlewheeler christened, begins cruises on lake

The new Star of Charlevoix is paddling its way around Lake Charlevoix and Round Lake.

The dual sternwheel paddleboat began its cruise season Friday, June 17, as scheduled, following a 2,000-mile trip under its own power from the East Coast and some touch-up work near Ironton.

The vessel was built at Myrtle Beach, S.C., although it took eight months longer to construct than planned and the entire 1987 season was scrapped.

The ship was christened with the traditional bottle of champagne by Marge McGoff, wife of the principal owner of Star Line Corp., during a Monday, June 20, ceremony.

During its first weekend, the ship carried better-than-hoped-for numbers of passengers, says Phil Lutz, general manager of the Star of Charlevoix, including a capacity dinner crowd on Saturday night.

Some work remains to be done on the ship to bring its capacity up to 140 from the present 92, Lutz says. That includes installation of glass weather enclosures on the second deck and inclusion of dining room seating on that level.

The replica of a turn-of-the-century riverboat is 105 feet long. It is the third Star ship in Charlevoix, according to Lutz — and the first with the paddleboat theme.

About 5,000 reservations have been made already for cruises this year, says Mayor Ralph McRae, who welcomed the ship's return.

McRae was one of several area residents who pleaded with McGoff to bring the ship to Charlevoix when it looked like the vessel might be used elsewhere, such as in Houston.

A local investment group was solicited to give the ship part-local ownership, which McRae hopes will prevent its departure at some future time.

In 1986, the last season the Star was in Charlevoix, about 35,000 rode the ship — with about 20,000 estimated to have come to town primarily for the cruise.

The absence of the ship was felt economically last year, says Jacquie Merta, executive director of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce.

Motel owners and shopkeepers particularly missed the Star's draw during the slower September-October fall color tour season, she says.

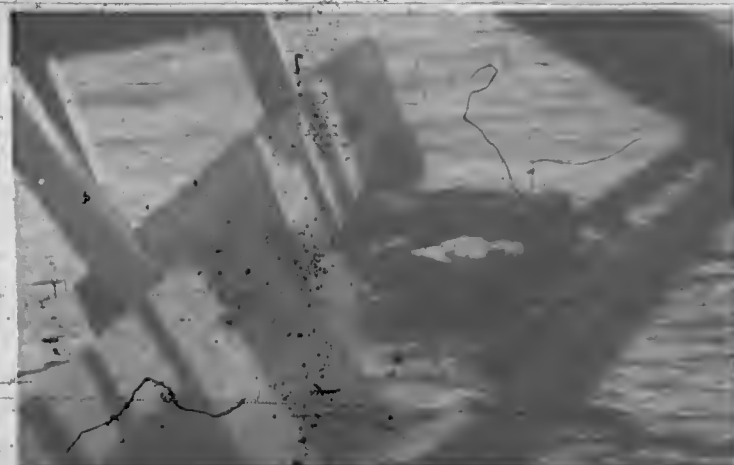

The Star will continue its summer three-day cruises until Labor Day, when it will cut back nighttime sailings to just Fridays and Saturdays.

The color season cruises will continue until Oct. 16.

The Star ticket office is on the street level of 218 Bridge St.

SPORTS

Sailing classes for youngsters set to begin at Depot Beach

The Charlevoix County sailing program will start its second season of sailing lessons Monday, June 27.

The classes will be held in two-week periods throughout the summer at Depot Beach in Charlevoix.

The program is a cooperative effort of Charlevoix County Recreation Services, the Charlevoix Yacht Club and the Lake Charlevoix Mariners.

Its purpose is to teach sailing, which is done by using "puffers."

Children from age 8 to 13 will sail mornings from 10 a.m. to 12:45 p.m., Mondays through Fridays, for two weeks or longer, beginning any Monday.

They provide and wear life jackets and are supervised by adult instructors. They learn to sail through daily chalk talks, on-shore drills, and daily on-the-water practice.

While learning, the children proceed through seven ranks, from seaman third class to skipper.

Many small steps in the learning process assure frequent promotions and build self-confidence, according to program director Mike Davis.

Teenagers will sail from 1:45 to 4 p.m., following the same basic procedures as the younger children.

The more advanced, stronger students may be placed with a Charlevoix Yacht Club racing skipper for a taste of adult racing.

Tuition for each program is $90 for two weeks. All participants must be advanced swimmers.

Further information about the lessons in Charlevoix, as well as those to be given in Boyne City, and application blanks, may be obtained by calling Charlevoix County Recreation Services at 547-5930.

Wieland-Novak wedding

Wendolyn Sue Wieland and Bruce Novak were married Sunday afternoon, May 29, in the United Methodist Church in Petoskey.

The bride is the daughter of Tom and Ardetl Wieland of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is the son of John and Helen Novak of Clearwater, Fla.

The Rev. Charles Fullmer officiated at the double-ring rites in which the bride was given in marriage by her father. Approximately 275 guests were present to witness the ceremony.

For the occasion, the church was decorated with stargazer lilies, freesia, blue dutehris, alstroemeria, purple liatris, ferns and ivy.

The bride's gown was fashioned of white satin, with a deep V-back neckline trimmed with satin leaf pautlets and seed pearls. The sleeves, hemline, and chapel train were also trimmed with seed pearls.

The bride's headpiece was a seed pearl wreath to which was attached a veil of illusion. Her bouquet was composed of white tulips, bridal white roses, yellow freesia, alstroemeria, stargazer lilies, blue corn flowers and ivy.

Janna Wieland served her sister as maid of honor, as did Lynn Blanchard. Tamara Wieland, another sister; Jill Omand; Vicki Stanbury; and Marilyn Corazza, sister of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids.

They wore tea-length gowns of white satin fashioned with three-quarter length sleeves. They also wore matching satin gloves and yellow pearl accessories and carried flowers that complemented those of the bride.

Kirk Shein assisted the bridegroom as best man, and Marty Duda; Drew Corazza, brother-in-law of the bridegroom; Tim Wieland, brother of the bride; Michael Marmorstein; and Richard Mink served as groomsmen.

Don Trimmer and John Decker were ushers.

Traditional organ music was furnished by Margaret Fullmer, and vocal solos were offered by Tom Kaufmann, Ken Chubb and Harmonie Morrison.

Greeters were Terri Ganssley, Linda Leski and Amy McKinney.

During the ceremony, Linda Leski and John Decker presented readings. College friends of the bride flew rainbow-colored kites over the church, in keeping with the Chinese belief that this brings good fortune.

Bruce and Wendolyn Novak

Immediately following the ceremony, a tea reception was held in the church parlors, with Tom Kaufmann providing piano music.

Later in the evening, the bridegroom's parents hosted a family wedding dinner at the Grey Gables Inn, and still later, the bride's parents hosted a wedding ball at the Charlevoix Yacht Club, assisted by Bill and Alison Arnold. "The Sun Messengers" provided the music.

The rehearsal supper was hosted by Mrs. Elinor Speigle, aunt of the bride.

Guests from Florida, New Hampshire, Texas, Louisiana, Utah, Wyoming; The Netherlands and Kuwait attended the wedding.

Following a wedding trip to the Pacific Northwest, including Seattle, Victoria and Vancouver, the newlyweds are at home in Lansing.

The bride recently completed work for a management degree in public affairs and public policy analysis at Michigan State University. Her bridegroom is a sonar technician in the United States Navy stationed aboard the U.S.S. Newport News.

BEACONS

OF BLESSINGS

Prepared weekly by the members of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.

by the Rev. Bruce E. Hamilton
Community Church of God

There is an old story told about John Wesley, one of the founders of modern Methodism. He was preaching to a drowsy congregation. All of a sudden he shouted, "Fire! Fire!" A startled listener woke up, jumped up and said, "where; or where?" Wesley replied, "In hell, for those who sleep during this sermon!"

Now, I don't want to startle anyone with talk of hellfire. Besides that, knowing my fellow preachers like I do, there is no one in Charlevoix that ever falls asleep during the sermons that are preached here, right? Right! But I do want to prayerfully try and kindle a fire in your heart while you read.

You see, God intended for you to live the Christian life with real power. His Holy Spirit is the source of that power. You can see the difference He made in the life of the early church by reading about Him in the book of Acts in the Bible.

The church remembers his coming on a day we call

Pentecost. If you are a Christian, you need to realize that the Pentecostal fire was meant to be a part of your life. Understand that all the word pentecostal means is spirit-powered. For that matter every believer is also supposed to be charismatic as well. All that means is spirit-gifted.

God wants to empower everyone of His children so that we might live a victorious life. It gives Him pleasure to infill His children with His presence and with the gift or gifts most suited to us in order that we might effectively communicate the good news of salvation with others.

Let's be honest. Being a Christian is not always easy. Witnessing can be difficult. Teaching a Sunday School class can be a challenge. The distractions that try to keep you from a prayer and devotional time will amaze you. But, there is no human substitute for the joy of doing things God's way. That's why He sent His Spirit. He brings a fire to our hearts, a glow to our faith that not only makes being God's child a blessing to us but also to those who are around us.

Amy Ellis illustrates the use of one of the exercise tables at Perfect Body Toning.

'Passive exercise center' works at toning muscles

The sign at the front door reads, "Perfect Body Toning, Passive Exercise Center."

Inside are six exercise tables, each of which is designed to tone and massage part of the body. There are tables for the sides, for the waist, for the tummy-hips-legs, and others for body bending, sandbagging, and stretching.

Amy Ellis, who operates Perfect Body Toning, explains that the machines provide a combination of isometric and physical exercise which can help break down fat and increase blood circulation and flexibility while toning the muscles.

"This is a good exercise program for those who can't exercise more strenuously, and others as well," Ellis explained.

She recommends two visits a week. At the second visit, an analysis is made of the participants body, then after four to six visits, she is measured again. "Within a few weeks we are able to notice better toned muscles and improvement in problem areas," Ellis continued, adding that the whole procedure is more for body toning than weight loss.

Perfect Body Toning is open from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Friday, and from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday. Phone 547-0066.

Store makes stained glass, oak home furnishings

A new shop in Charlevoix this summer is the Clipperview Glass Co., located on the north side of Park Avenue just around the corner from Bridge Street.

Mary Teesdale, artist-artisan owner of the shop, has many of her one-of-a-kind creations on display.

Included are handcrafted chandeliers, many with fresh wildflowers smoothed between layers of glass; oak tables with stained glass tops; stained glass windows; prisms; and full-length standing mirror framed in oak.

Teesdale studied art at Alma College and biology at the University of Michigan Biological Station at Douglas Lake as well as in the woods and fields and waters of northern Michigan.

She has served as president of the local Audubon Society and is a member of the Orchid Society.

Her introduction to stained glass work came 12 years ago as an apprentice in a local shop.

The working studio of the Clipperview Glass Company is on Lake Shore Drive in Clipperview, south of Charlevoix.

Teesdale will make to order decorative glass accessories or oak furniture.

SHOPTALK

JACQUE MERTA

Jacquie Merta is executive director of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce.

It's that time of year again when Charlevoix and other communities in Northern Michigan welcome a major influx of vacationers and resorters.

It's exciting and refreshing to see all the activity that comes with the change of seasons and it's definitely a contrast to what you'd see in November or February. Of course, when more people inhabit a town, if even for short periods of time, it results in increased traffic — on the streets and on the lakes.

As quickly as this season comes, it goes. The hot time in the summer is brief, so brief that everyone should go out of their way to enjoy themselves. Enjoy the hustle and bustle, enjoy watching the bascule bridge go up and down (it's an attraction in itself), enjoy the variety of boats on Round Lake, and most definitely enjoy the absolutely gorgeous sunsets over Lake Michigan.

When you feel that the bridge has gone up just one too many times in the past hour or you've had it with the guy who tried to cut you off while driving into downtown as U.S. 31 goes from four lanes to two lanes, just try to remember that there is no such thing as being "half popular."

Charlevoix happens to be a very popular city and destination, and there are many more advantages to being popular than not.

Tourism is big business in Michigan—it has been said that "Tourism is Michigan's future." We know that one tourism dollar will turn over seven times in a community. The travel industry is the second largest private employer in the nation as well as being the third largest industry in the nation.

Aren't we lucky to be a part of this growing industry!

Shop sells yogurt treats

Judy and Lucy Witthoef have opened Yogurt Time Plus in Oleson's Plaza.

The sisters-in-law were looking for a business that would permit them and their families to spend the summer together in Charlevoix.

Lucy Witthoef lives in Charlevoix year around, but her sister-in-law's family lives in Normal, Ill.

The yogurt comes in many flavors, from mocha to peach melba, from French vanilla to raspberry, from chocolate ribbon to pina colada.

It can be bought in a paper cup or in a waffle cone without topping, or with toppings such as coconut, Oreos, pecans and honey granola.

Jordan River area arts council taking shape

A new arts organization established for the East Jordan area and Antrim County will be called the Jordan River Arts Council.

Interim President Fran Pletz said the organization intends to offer programs for the residents beyond the city of East Jordan, where the council will be headquartered.

The council has been given an opportunity for a $1-a-year lease on the present Jordan Valley District Library building in East Jordan after the library moved to a new building in late autumn.

Board members envision the building serving as the focal point for classes and workshops in various areas, including visual arts, writing and performing arts.

Board members said the group hopes to serve not only people in and around East Jordan, but all Charlevoix and Antrim county residents who find it difficult to use the services of Petoskey Crooked Tree Arts Council, which has offered encouragement and support to the new group.

At a general meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, June 28, in the East Jordan High School library, the board will present proposed by-laws, constitution and summer program possibilities.

Traffic dummies aimed to control turning

A Charlevoix Yesterday photo in the June 4 Courier contained a traffic device in the middle of the street at Bridge and Clinton streets several years ago.

Several readers have helped identify the purpose of the stand.

The same picture, along with an explanation, appears in Bob Miles' "Charlevoix." The explanation follows:

"To eliminate traffic snarls on Bridge Street, wooden traffic directors, called dummies were placed in the middle of each of the four downtown intersections.

To make a left turn, a car was supposed to keep to the right of the dummy, all the while the left arm of the driver stretched out full length to indicate the turn.

"It worked all right, except that many dummies were overturned by the drivers and cars kept the policeman on duty busy just setting them up again. Within a few more years, as the first World War came to a close, the wooden dummies were replaced by iron half-spheres about five inches high. Soon these, too, were entirely eliminated."

Jim Flick, Golf's Premier Instructor, Available For Private Lessons at Boyne Highlands

Jim Flick, Director of the Golf Digest Instruction Schools, instructor to PGA Tour pros and neophytes alike, is offering private lessons at select times at Boyne Highlands.

However, well or poorly you play, your game will improve after a session with Jim Flick, hailed as one of the world's finest golf teachers.

Lessons are by appointment only and are limited to June 22-25...and July 2-17 dates at Boyne Highlands. Cost per one-hour lesson is $100.

As George Burns, million-dollar tour winner states, "Jim Flick has helped organize my play thoughts as well as improve my swing fundamentals. Any success I've had lately has been due to him. He's the best teacher I've ever worked with."

Take advantage of this opportunity. Call the Boyne Highlands Pro Shop at 616-526-2171 to schedule your lesson.

SEEING FOR MILES

Photographer-historian's idea of viewing tower gets new look

Since the old water tower has not come down, a dormant proposal to turn it into a viewing platform has again come up.

Advocating taking a look at the possibility of converting the 82-year-old structure into a viewing tower are Dale Boss, long a backer of the idea, and City Manager Mike Wiesner.

Wiesner will be contacting forms which might be asked to study whether the tower is structurally sound to see what it could cost to find out.

A Kentucky tower construction and removal firm offered last spring to remove the unused tower for a bargain-basement price.

But the company — apparently having second thoughts about its $5,000 offer after looking over the sandy, hilltop site — never sent its crew to take down the tower.

Since the latest attempt to remove the tower "didn't materialize, I believe it isn't supposed to come down," says Boss.

Tower conversion was originally the idea of Bob Miles, city photographer and historian, says Boss.

Boss says he has gotten one local estimate of about $150,000 to build a stairway and platform — up from $100,000 three years ago.

And he says it would cost about $50,000 more to fix up the base area of the future attraction.

"We've got a real jewel here, more of a jewel than the petunias," says Boss.

Boaters use the tower, located on a hill near the western end of Pine River Channel, as a homing marker, Boss says.

"There's a great deal of sentiment about this tower," says Alyce Lesser.

Jeff Porter, a former council member, says a study was done about eight to 10 years ago by the firm that constructed the tower. That study, he says, concluded the tower was not safe.

Wiesner says he will dig out that study but he suspects the company was assuming the tank would be loaded with water. The city has since constructed a new tower.

Boss says the tower has shown no signs of distress since the tank was emptied. And Bruce MacArthur of Keep Charlevoix Beautiful says it is a historic site that could be saved.

The city has allocated about $20,000 in the past two budget years for removal of the old tower.

City may get land on channel

The city could soon become the owner of a 300-foot section of the northern bank of Pine River Channel.

As part of an arrangement to provide parking for Edgewater Inn, the parcel west of the Weathervane Restaurant may be sold to the city.

Jon Hisey, owner of the Edgewater, has offered to sell the property to the city for $15,000 after he constructs parking spaces along Pine River Lane.

The property was purchased by Hisey and a partner for $40,000 about two years ago, according to City Manager Mike Wiesner.

The city council has discussed the proposition in closed session and has informally agreed it makes sense for the city.

As it stands, Wiesner says, the property is a buildable site — although it has a narrow width and rises steeply from channel to Pine River Lane.

As part of the approval for construction of Edgewater Inn, Hisey was to provide adequate parking. The Pine River Lane site was included in his plans.

Working with city staff on various configurations, Hisey has found not all the spaces he needs can be obtained along the stretch.

A parking plan drawn up for the site would add 15 of 20 spaces Hisey needs, says city planner Gerry Harsch.

As part of the package, Hisey will seek a parking variance from the city zoning board of appeals. The zoning board is an autonomous body not bound by the wishes of city council.

An agreement is being written which would allow the city to purchase the property if the parking variance were approved and Hisey made improvements to put in the parking spaces.

Cars presently park along the grassy area at the top of the hill, pulling over the curb. By creating standardized, formal parking spaces, Wiesner says, it is possible to also create a handful of angle parking spaces on the north side of the road.

A 24-foot roadway would remain, Wiesner says, allowing adequate access for emergency vehicles to houses and condos on the western end of Pine River Lane.

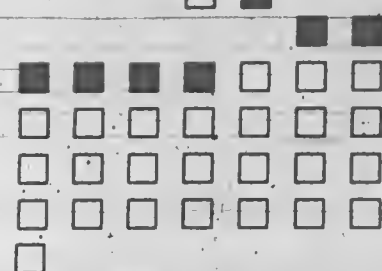

Council member Shirley Roloff says city ownership of the parcel would prevent future attempts to develop the area.

Wiesner — who has advocated plantings along the channel hillside — says the city could beautify the parcel with the aid of community groups.

The north shore hillside along Pine River Channel may soon belong to the city.

Annual home tour benefits hospital

The annual tour of Charlevoix homes will be held Wednesday, July 13, to raise funds for Charlevoix Area Hospital.

The home tours, sponsored by Kappa Sigma, have raised most of the $13,000 the sorority has contributed to Charlevoix Area Hospital in the past six years.

While the sorority has held other fundraisers, the home tours have been the most successful by far, according to a sorority spokesman.

Each year, the sorority turns over its profits to the hospital to purchase equipment. Among the larger items purchased are a mammogram machine and a monitoring device for the intensive care unit.

This year's Home Tour will be held Wednesday, July 13, between 1 and 5 p.m.

Four houses of various age and architecture and one condominium unit will be open for public view. They are:

— The Belvedere Club home of Dr. and Mrs. Don Kelley of Grand Rapids, said to be one of the first Belvedere Club houses. This house has been restored to retain its original character, respecting its simplicity. It contains many collector's items and boasts a "Watermelon Room."

— Another vintage Charlevoix home, that of Burton and Suzy Farberman, on the Belvedere hill overlooking Round Lake. It was once a fashionable tea room called Linda Vista. Owner Suzy Farberman is interior design editor of Detroit Monthly Magazine and an avid art collector. Folk artworks and contemporary pieces fill the house.

— Located on the grounds of Chicago Club, the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas May was built in 1908. It has recently been redecorated and newly landscaped.

The Kelley home as drawn by Traver Wood

— The condominium unit of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Roth in the Harbour Club is described as "a mixture of marble, glass, aluminum and leather blended with brilliant purple." The entire main room is dominated by a mixed media painting by Melony Boone.

— The most fascinating house on the tour is that of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lepman on the grounds of the old Loeb estate overlooking Lake Charlevoix. Called "The Big House," it was built in the late teens for Mr. and Mrs. Albert Loeb of Chicago — and Sears, Roebuck and Co. — as part of a vast country estate which included stone barns (part of which are now used as Castle Farms Music Theater) and huge gardens. Gina Lepman, a granddaughter of the Loeb, her husband and family make this their summer home.

Tickets for the house tour, at $10 each, are available in Charlevoix at the Chamber of Commerce office, Shop of the Gulls and Appletree.

No children under 12 are permitted on the tour.

Council, residents debate indicted lawyer's city job

An attempt to oust the city's indicted attorney was cooled by a procedural maneuver — but that didn't prevent heated conversation at Monday's city council meeting.

Jeff VanTreese was indicted by a county grand jury looking into drug law violations. He faces trial on two counts of conspiracy to possess less than 50 grams of cocaine.

VanTreese is a lawyer in private practice who has had a contact with the city since 1982 to provide legal advice and services.

A not-guilty plea was entered for him by Circuit Judge Richard Pajtas after VanTreese's attorney indicated Monday that his client was waiving arraignment.

Pajtas then withdrew from the case because VanTreese has cases pending before the judge's court. A new judge will be appointed by the state.

County prosecutor Kraag Lieberman has already withdrawn because he had conversations with VanTreese about the grand jury before the indictment. VanTreese is the lawyer for at least one person investigated by the grand jury.

Under Michigan law, a lawyer charged with a felony can continue to practice law. A conviction automatically leads to license suspension.

VanTreese's indictment, however, is enough for one council member and some residents to call for city council to remove him from his post.

Council member Norm Probert asked for a special meeting of council to consider VanTreese's ouster, but Mayor Ralph McRae rejected the request.

Under the city charter, either McRae or three council members could initiate a special meeting, according to City Clerk Arlene Staley.

Probert got no support from fellow council members during Monday's work session.

"Mr. VanTreese has done a good job for this city," said council member Earl Muma.

Muma said the lawyer has taken it upon himself to obtain training in municipal law, something he said previous city attorneys didn't always do.

Muma was critical of Probert's attempts to force the issue because he is about to leave on an extended vacation.

Other council members are sometimes not present when issues arise, Muma said, but "the town still runs."

Probert said he wanted the special meeting called because it would be his only opportunity to comment on VanTreese's indictment before leaving.

Probert has been consistently critical of VanTreese's performance, in the past saying the city is spending too much money in attorney fees.

Resident Bob Kern said VanTreese could make twice his $40-an-hour city rate handling private cases, then said Probert was responsible for a great deal of the city's legal costs in the Miles-Berlage condo lawsuit last winter.

(Probert was one of three city board members who suggested David Miles contact WATCH Inc. about fighting the city's approval of the development on Pine River Channel. That contact led to Miles' suit against the city and developer Don Berlage.)

Bob Timms, a former council member, accused Probert of "grandstanding" and also castigated him for his involvement in the Miles-Berlage dispute.

Billie Smith and Polle VerWys agreed with Probert that VanTreese should be made to step down.

"This man should not be on the payroll," said Smith. "Suspend him."

VerWys said she suspected the city would suspend a police officer or teenaged summer worker who was accused of a crime.

When Smith told council member Shirley Roloff many people in her ward favored removal of VanTreese from his position, Roloff responded that many others did not.

"I have to listen to my conscience, my heart and everything I stand for," said Roloff.

Several people who do not regularly attend council meetings were in attendance, with many speaking in support of letting the court system determine what happens next to VanTreese.

Attorney Dave Campbell said there are no prohibitions in the state or federal constitutions to prevent people from serving in government posts while charged with crimes.

The judicial system presumes a person is innocent until proven guilty, Campbell reminded those in attendance.

VanTreese was not at the meeting. He rarely attends committee meetings of the council.

Clearing the beach

A beach-cleaning machine rented by the city cleared rocks from the shore and swimming areas at city beaches last week. The roughest going was on Depot Beach, where rock accumulation in recent years had chased many residents to other beaches. The machine scooped rocks from pebble to boulder size from the lake bottom and beach and deposited them in dump trucks. Michigan Beach, Depot Beach and Ferry Beach were cleaned by the machine.

State honors Big Rock workers for 10-year no-accident record

The 150 employees at Consumers Power Company's Big Rock Point nuclear power plant were honored by the Michigan Department of Labor on Tuesday, June 28, for their safe work record of more than 10 years without a lost-time accident.

Labor Department officials commended management and employees at Big Rock Point "for their outstanding and exemplary safety record in reaching 10 years without an employee suffering a lost-time injury."

"In an era when a minute's distraction can result in a wide variety of mishaps, 10 years without a lost-time accident is ceterally an unusual accomplishment," said a tribute to plant employees from the State of Michigan, sponsored by Sen. Mitch Irwin, Rep. Ralph Ostling and Gov. James J. Blanchard, and presented by Elizabeth P. Howe, director of the Department of Labor.

"At Big Rock, safety has become a matter of pride, and all those responsible for this remarkable achievement are to be congratulated," Howe told employees during ceremonies held outside the plant.

"We take safe work practices seriously," said David P. Hoffman, the utility's vice president of nuclear operations and plant superintendent at Big Rock from 1982 to 1987.

"Consumers Power is the nation's safest utility, and Big Rock has the longest safe work record of any power plant in the company," Hoffman said.

The Department of Labor's Bureau of Safety and Regulation presented Big Rock Point's employees with a plaque commending them for their safety performance and for "continuing efforts in keeping Michigan safe at work."

The Northwest Michigan Industrial Association echoed the State's praise for employees at the nuclear plant located on Lake Michigan four miles north of Charlevoix, presenting them a plaque recognizing their uninterrupted safe work run since Aug. 3, 1977.

Why not 24-hour alcohol ban?

Because of troubles with drinking youths congregating at Michigan Beach, the city has set closing hours and is considering a 9 p.m. alcohol "last call" at parks.

A public hearing is scheduled for 7 p.m. Tuesday, July 5, to hear what residents think of the alcohol ban. Already, some council members are talking of pushing the limit to 10 p.m. or excluding ballfields.

The problem at Michigan Beach has gotten serious enough, though, that many families no longer feel secure in stopping at one of the best places in the north to watch a sunset.

Because of a state law, no drinking is allowed in downtown parks near the highway. That eliminates the potential for problems there.

Many residents have been surprised to find out drinking has been legal all along at city beaches. Alcohol use may actually increase now that people know it is legal.

The teens and young adults begin gathering—and begin drinking—before 9. So a 9 or 10 p.m. alcohol cutoff (and a mid-night closing) will do little to bring families back to the beach at sunset.

A total alcohol ban would go a long way toward eliminating problems at the beaches. A partial ban isn't the answer.

Albert Thorp: Caretaker, caregiver

Caretaker. That's what the paper called Albert Thorp when they wrote his obituary. What a perfect word to describe him!

He took physical care of numerous summer cottages for over 45 years, that's true. He took care of the lawns and flowers, the storm windows and the snow removal. He called the electrician and plumber, the carpenter and painter when needed.

But what many people don't know is what good, friendly care he took of us who lived in those cottages. Need someone to meet a plane? Call Albert. Need a car to be driven to Chicago? Call Albert. Need a babysitter? Call Albert? Giving a party? Call Albert.

He was the irreplaceable concierge of Michigan Ave. Down in the dumps? Unload on Albert! Something to gripe about? Complain to Albert! Good news to share? Tell Albert!

He was a bit of family counselor, too. I'll always remember a summer visitor down the block who started her day at 6 a.m. She entertained constantly. She served mountains of delicious fresh white fish and vegetables. She baked a variety of desserts. She played tennis. She monitored her children closely. I could go on and on.

EDITH
EDITH

At the end of the summer she was a wreck. It was at this point that Albert said to her, "Why don't you just do every OTHER thing?" We all felt it was too bad she didn't follow his wise counsel.

Caretaker is a lovely word. Except in Albert's case, on second thought, he was more than a caretaker. He was a caregiver.

High school and college kids are vying for restaurant jobs throughout the north. Some are getting more training than others. Mostly it depends where they're working. In some places, they tell the kids to show up at 5:00 and at 5:01 they're already taking your order.

Other restaurants give them a few basics. For the girls it's no jewelry and perfume. For the boys it's clean fingernails and "keep your hands out of your hair." Mainly, the training is limited to how to write up the order for the cook—and if one can add the bill correctly and make exact change, that's it!

A few of the better restaurants try to give the kids a crash course in advanced table service. And here's where we run into real trouble! "My name is Debbie and I am going to be your waitress tonight," she coos smilingly. "Would you like a menu?"

Of course, we'd like a menu, that's what we're here for, to eat, isn't it? We're starving! You're thinking of a nice cold glass of white wine and she asks if you'd like a cup of coffee. You're ready to order and she

My, how others grow old

Family reunions are a grand old American tradition.

And they are just as popular in Canada where 85 descendants of the late Mr. and Mrs. David John Mallard gathered over the weekend to count each others' grey hairs, wrinkles and liver spots while marveling publicly that none of them had changed a jot in 50 years.

As a member of the family, I was privately shocked to find that some of the cousins I remembered as barefoot urchins had suddenly turned into old men and women, the victims of some cruel practical joke. But I tried hard to keep my astonishment in check.

David John was a sawmill owner, groceryman and proprietor of the one and only hotel that ever stood in Oxenden, Ontario (pop. 35). His wife Jane, a native of Ballymena, Northern Ireland, served as his cook, concierge, housekeeper, grocery clerk, mil-lhand and playmate while raising seven children to adulthood.

The hotel and the sawmill are now gone and the general store stands vacant, its mullioned windows gazing vacantly through a cataract of dust onto the seldom-traveled main street of the village.

Otherwise, Oxenden looks much the same as it did a half century ago when I was a bare-foot urchin myself and used to drive my aunt's cows past the store every evening, pausing to see if old Billy Walpole, the blacksmith, was turning out anything interesting at his forge.

In fact, the village probably hasn't changed much since the first Mallards invaded the rocky wilderness of the Bruce Peninsula more than a century ago.

All of David John and Jane's children are now gone and only three of their 16 grandchildren remain. But great-grandchildren abound, along with great-greats and great-great-greats.

And just about all of them were on hand Sunday, indulging in baked ham and fried chicken while reminiscing about days that will never come again.

I DON'T LIKE to argue with the doomsayers, for fear they will put me on their list. But the much-touted drought in southern Michigan doesn't appear to be as serious as the media would have it.

When we emerged last Friday from the Great Northern Michigan Wilderness at West Branch, I was surprised to find fields dotted with giant mounds of baled hay ready to be hauled to the barn.

Corn, although it was scarcely "knee high," looked healthy. A two-day rain would save most of it.

Grain fields also looked almost normal for this time of year.

What surprised me most is that many farmers were cultivating their crops, engulfing the countryside in huge clouds of dust.

I'm no soils expert, but it seems churning up the soil would release what little moisture is left in that parched land.

I suppose farmers figure that loose soil will absorb more moisture when — and if — the rains come.

They certainly weren't cultivating for weed control, because weeds are having the devil's own time surviving in this very dry summer.

THE DROUGHT was most in evidence along I-75 where several embankments in the West Branch area had been blackened by fire, probably caused by careless smokers.

On Route 69, one embankment near Flint was still smoldering when we passed, with a fire truck standing by to keep the fire from spreading.

It also appears that even embankments that haven't burned face serious erosion problems. On many of them, the ground cover is dead and gullying is under way.

Don't let a few penalize all

Editor,

Park hours cut for Charlevoix is foolish. Control would make our parks available to all with very little restrictions.

Too bad so few spoil it for all, to quote Shirley Roloff, council member.

Council, now you are aware of the problem. Do something constructive. Stop the negative approach by punishing the majority because of a few unruly youngsters.

Why not a positive approach that allows the kids to meet and enjoy the parks on equal basis with adults? Seems the parks are a natural place for our youth to meet in an orderly fashion during reasonable hours.

Letters to the editor:

Our new police chief, Dennis Halverson, could control the problem by using radio-controlled reserve officers that would be on duty during the trouble hours.

We don't close roads because of all the DUT's. Council, invest some time for the youth in the community by having an open meeting at the park and get some young views on how to cope with the problem.

Chief Halverson could tell all what is expected. We could have a hard fast rule that would ban troublemakers for 30 days. Please do not knuckle under for a few.

P.S. I am sure you could get 25 volunteers.

says, "Would you like to wait awhile before you order?" (Ah, ha, that's a neat play to get you to order another drink.)

You give your order and then the busboy comes by, interrupts the conversation and asks if you'd like some water. Later he asks if you are enjoying your dinner. It's all very friendly. Very homey.

But the biggest gaffe of all is when you're still eating and the forks in your mouth, that the little eager beavers say, "Are you finished?" You can't even answer with a mouth full of food! You just shake your head helplessly.

Sometimes they whisk your plate away while you're taking a breath without even asking. Then you have the choice of saying, "Hey, I'm not finished," or giving up that choice morsel you saved to eat last.

I wish the restaurant managers would tell the kids there's more to serving than pouring endless cups of coffee and clearing the plate before everyone has finished.

I know waiting table is not easy. Neither is dining out.

THE MAYOR'S CORNER

The mayor should see that all city property owners receive their share of tax supportive benefits from other government units. For example, our community does not get equal treatment from our County Commission on Aging. This commission must receive much of its grant funds based on a head count of the City of Charlevoix and adjoining townships. We should get a bigger piece of the pie.

Our taxpayers (city) pay to the county treasurer 370 thousand dollars. That is a lot of money. Certainly the city does receive some benefits. But just how much? Our airport is a necessary and vital link of transport to Beaver Island. The County Road Commission should include in its budget funds that would help the city make a better airfield.

Judge: Yugoslavia not liable for Razal Bros. sinking deaths

A federal court has ruled the Yugoslavian government has no liability in the 1986 sinking of the Razal Bros. fishing tug.

The tug was hit by or swamped by a Yugoslavian ship in Lake Michigan near Whiskey Island on Aug. 20, 1986, causing the loss of three lives.

Dead in the incident were three Upper Peninsula fishermen.

A U.S. district judge has ruled the fishermen should have known not to put their boat on automatic pilot in an area where freighters traveled.

A Coast Guard report on the accident last year said both the tug and the 620-foot freighter made mistakes before the collision or near-collision.

The Yugoslavian captain was brought back to Charlevoix to face criminal homicide charges, which were dropped when some evidence was ruled inadmissible in court.

The Coast Guard report said the American pilot and Yugoslavian crew of the ship watched the Razal Bros. for nearly 50 minutes before the mishap.

Speculation is that crew of the fishing tug was inside and did not hear the freighter because machinery was running.

After several attempts to alert the tug by radio and whistle, the freighter attempted to maneuver around the boat.

The Razal Bros. was moving at a steady speed on a convergent route, but no one on the Jablanica plotted its course or speed during the 50 minutes the tug was in sight, said the report.

The Yugoslavian ship was headed from Chicago to Duluth with 1,500 metric tons of steel aboard.

Richard Krueger, Administrator of Charlevoix Area Hospital, presents nursing scholarships to Sarah Shooks (left) and Nancy Dewey, both of Central Lake.

Hospital awards 2 scholarships

Two 1988 graduates of Central Lake High School are the recipients of nursing scholarships awarded annually by Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Nancy Dewey is the recipient of the Peggy Carey Northway Scholarship. She is enrolled in the four-year nursing degree program at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor beginning in September.

Sarah Shooks has been awarded the Charlevoix Area Hospital Nursing Scholarship. She plans to attend the nursing program at Northwestern Michigan College in Traverse City.

The Peggy Carey Northway Scholarship was established by the Carey family in 1978 to be awarded to graduating seniors who are planning a nursing career. It provides up to $1,200 to be awarded at $300 per year.

The Charlevoix Area Hospital Scholarship was established by the D.D. Walker family, of the Belvedere Club, in 1958, and is now dependent on contributions for funding.

This scholarship is open to persons in all age groups who are interested in beginning to study or continuing to study nursing careers. This scholarship provides a total of $700 to be awarded at $350 per year.

A third scholarship, the Julius W. Gilbert Medical Scholarship, established by the hospital in memory of the long-time trustee, is in the funding stage. When sufficient funds have been raised, the scholarship will be awarded to assist someone studying to be a physician.

All three scholarships depend on gifts from the public and contributions may be sent to Development Office, Charlevoix Area Hospital, for further information call 547-4024.

History group to hear about Mount McSaubia

The Charlevoix Historical Society will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday, July 5, at Harsha House, 103 State St.

The program will be a history of Mount McSaubia given by Davida Blake-Riedel, former Charlevoix resident, from research by the late Bernice Weststaff.

The McSawby family has been invited to attend as guests. The meeting is open to the public.

Summer reading program starts

The annual summer reading program at the Charlevoix Public Library begins at 1 p.m. Tuesday, July 5.

The opening party will feature games, cartoons and treats. A book log will be issued to keep track of books read over the summer.

This is not a contest but is meant to encourage reading during summer vacation. The reading program is open to all elementary age children.

For pre-school age children, the library has a story hour on Tuesday mornings at 10:30.

Neighboring areas celebrating Fourth

Charlevoix residents who can't wait until the Venetian Festival to see a parade will find plenty of entertainment in surrounding communities over the Fourth of July weekend.

Charlevoix has no July 4th celebration.

East Jordan

East Jordan calls its celebration the Jordan Valley Freedom Festival. It will be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday, July 1-3.

Bingo games and a teen dance will be featured Friday evening. The grand parade will take place at 4 p.m. Saturday, complete with a grand marshal, five bands and a Belgium horse team.

After the parade, there will be a band concert in the park, followed by a Christian music concert and a singing-dancing show by Mainstreet.

There will be a farmers' market and canoe races Saturday morning, a flea market and hobbycraft show and an art fair all day long, as well as a variety of athletic events and other entertainment.

The Rotary Club's chicken barbecue will be served beginning at 11 a.m.

Sunday features include a volleyball tournament at 1 p.m., a fashion and jewelry show from 2 to 2:45 p.m., stunt flying and youth parade at 5 p.m., followed by a gymnastics exhibition and another teen dance at 8 p.m.

Central Lake

The grand Fourth of July parade begins at noon, July 4, proceeding down Main Street. The midway will open after the parade ends, with a Las Vegas casino as a new attraction.

Other afternoon activities in Thurston Park include children's games and a chicken barbecue from 2 to 6 p.m.

One of the largest fireworks displays in the area will be fired over Intermediate Lake beginning at dusk.

Barnard

The Barnard Grange will hold its annual pig roast on Saturday, July 2, at the Grange Hall on Barnard Road.

Serving will start at 3 p.m. with roast pork and dressing, au gratin potatoes, baked beans, cole slaw, beverage and cookies offered. As in the past, John and Sonja Martin are in charge of preparing the pork.

There will be a dance at the hall starting at 8:30, with music furnished by Jasper and His Tag-a-Longs.

Boyne City

Fourth of July activities begin at 8:30 in the morning with foot races. Then at 10 a.m. comes the big parade with bands, clowns and other entries.

There will be two separate barbecues and a pie sale, an auction for collectors, a greased pole contest, games for children, a raft race and a frog-jumping contest.

The annual Waterside Arts & Crafts Fair will operate all day, beginning at 9 a.m.

The big day in Boyne City ends with fireworks over Lake Charlevoix at 10 p.m.

Around the lake

A trolley travels through downtown Charlevoix on one of its trips around Lake Charlevoix for the Charlevoix Transit System. The trolley, on loan from the state, is circling the lake until Thursday, June 30. Times of departure from Charlevoix are 9:45 and 11:15 a.m., 1:45, 3:45, 6:15 and 8:15 p.m. with stops in Ironton, East Jordan, Boyne City and Horton Bay.

Horton Bay

What has become known as the "biggest parade in the smallest town" will begin at 1 p.m. on the Fourth.

Year after year, the parade features creative, off-beat floats and entries. There are no commercial or political entries allowed.

Some of this year's entries tell the story: Sea Creatures Invade Horton Bay, Geriatric Corregated Congregation, Dancing Minnie Mouse, Vanna and the Vowels, and Vic Ruggles and his Trained Flamingoes.

There will also be bands, horse riders, bicyclists and a llama-drawn cart.

Prior to the parade, the Horton Bay General Store will receive a plaque from the Historical Society of Michigan designating it a centennial business.

It is only the third business in Charlevoix County to receive the designation.

Because there is only one road through Horton Bay, traffic will be detoured beginning at 12:15 p.m., so an early arrival is suggested.

Bellaire

Canoe races are the big attraction on the Chain of Lakes Saturday and Sunday.

The first leg of the 50-mile marathon race starts Saturday morning in Elk Rapids and ends at Richard Park in Bellaire. The 22-mile heat begins at 8:30 a.m.

The second leg of the marathon begins from Ellsworth on Sunday morning at 8:30 and finishes at Richard Park.

The Paddler's Open is the largest professional marathon canoe race in Michigan, with a $7,500 purse in cash and prizes. About 40 canoeists are expected to participate.

Some of the vantage points to view the canoeists are Elk Rapids, Torch River, Grass River Natural Area, Clam River, at Torch Lake and Richard Park on Saturday; also at Ellsworth, Central Lake and Richard Park on Sunday.

Centennial business

Coinciding with Horton Bay's annual Fourth of July celebration, the century-old general store is receiving a centennial business plaque from the state.

Bulk of construction in county on west side

The City of Charlevoix and four surrounding townships along the western half of Lake Charlevoix accounted for 52 percent of the building permits issued by the Charlevoix County Department of Building Inspection in May.

The department issued a total of 75 permits, including eight for construction in Charlevoix, six for construction in Charlevoix Township, nine for construction in Hayes Township, nine for construction in Eveline Township, and seven for construction in Marion Township.

The Department of Building Inspection issues construction permits in 12 different categories: new condos and apartments, new residences, residential additions and remodeling, garages, new commercial, commercial additions and remodeling, demolitions, relocations, mobile homes and additions, signs and miscellaneous, residential storage buildings, and commercial storage buildings.

As in the past several years, in May the category in which the greatest number of permits was issued throughout the county was residential additions and remodeling, a total of 20.

Operation Petunia selling flowers for homes next year

Operation Petunia planters will be able to purchase matching flowers for their homes next year.

Keep Charlevoix Beautiful has decided to sell flowers at cost in response to a call by Mayor Ralph McRae for beautification efforts other than along U.S. 31. The mayor was impressed by floral displays at homes in Europe during a recent trip and suggested residents of Charlevoix spruce up their yards with flowers.

At its annual meeting, KCB agreed to sell petunias during the picnic following the May planting.

The KCB meeting was attended by an all-time high 60 people. During the meeting, Dale and Marilyn Boss received a standing ovation for their efforts to promote and beautify the city.

Almost daily, they water the 45,000 petunias lining highway—a chore that takes them three to four hours.

And Dale Boss has driven the petunia watering truck in 17 parades, where he estimates two million people have seen the decorative vehicle.

With four of the parades being shown on television, he said, millions more people have seen the "commercial" for Charlevoix.

The KCB membership elected seven members of its 18-member board. Kirby Dipert received a three-year term; Jim Gibbons, Gordie Meyers and Patty Sitzema two-year terms; Bob Sell a one-year term; and Terri D'Angelo and Jean Seymour alternate status.

A representative will be sent to Washington, D.C., in July to receive an award as a finalist in the Take Pride in America contest sponsored by the U.S. Department of Commerce.

Books, records sought for annual sale

Donations are being sought for the annual Charlevoix Women's Club book sale.

The early August sale is held at the Charlevoix Public Library. Proceeds are used to aid a number of local organizations including the Chico Fund for Indian children.

Hardcover, paperback and kids' books are sought for the sale, along with records. There will be some antique books for sale along with donated items.

The club will pick up donations. Call Fran Tollas at 547-9479 to donate or for further information.

College troupe presents plays on McCune stage

Central Michigan University's drama troupe presents three comedic plays during the summer season at Petoskey's McCune Arts Center.

The first play features the humor of American writer and caricaturist James Thurber. "A Thurber Carnival" of 16 fables and stories will be presented Wednesday through Saturday, July 6-9.

The second play is "Blithe Spirit," a farce by Noel Coward. "Blithe Spirit" will be performed Wednesday through Saturday, July 13-16.

"The Good Doctor," a Neil Simon comedy, closes the CMU series Wednesday through Saturday, July 20-23. Based on the short stories of Anton Chekov, "The Good Doctor" is a series of vignettes.

All performances begin at 8 p.m. Tickets may be purchased in advance by calling 347-6647 after Friday, July 1.

Library obtains investment survey

The Charlevoix Public Library will carry the weekly Value Line Investment survey for the next year.

This is a trial period to determine the amount of use of the survey in Charlevoix and if it would be worth continuing to receive it.

Ferry Beach fix-up items picked

City council has given the go-ahead for design of Ferry Beach improvements to begin.

The engineering work is the first step in converting the beach and park into a larger facility.

Council members, however, have told City Manager Mike Wiesner they think the engineering work should be completed earlier than he anticipated.

Wiesner said he expected engineering to be done by February. Several council members want it done earlier so work can be scheduled in the spring.

Wiesner asked council for direction in what items should be included in the beach plan.

Of main concern to council members and some recreation commission members are relocation of Ferry Avenue along the former railroad right-of-way and installation of sewer and water lines.

Relocation allows for placement of an enlarged parking area along the current road route.

Another high priority for council members is preparing the new portion of the property to the north for beach use.

The land would have to be filled and the beach area would have to be dredged and filled, according to city officials.

A permit request to the state Department of Natural Resources is being prepared and will probably be sent out within a week, Wiesner said.

Included in the design package will be determination of the future sites of additional restrooms and concession stands, play areas and a transient boat parking area at the north end of the facility.

Reconstruction of the two southerly launch ramps and construction of a launch area breakwall will also be considered.

Eliminated from consideration was a boat pumpout station, although Wiesner indicated that was a point-gaining item in a state grant request.

The city is requesting a state Land Trust Fund grant to help pay for beach improvements.

Park, beach alcohol ban hearing set

A public hearing on a nighttime ban on alcoholic drinks in city parks and beaches will be held Tuesday, July 5.

The hearing will be held during the 7 p.m. meeting of city council in City Hall.

The ban is being proposed by Police Chief Dennis Halverson and Ike Boss, director of the recreation department.

Problems with congregating youths at Michigan Beach led to the request for the 9 p.m. to 6 a.m. alcohol ban.

Some city council members are questioning the 9 p.m. start time, however, wondering whether 10 p.m. might be a better time or if the city ballparks should be excluded because of an after-game beer tradition.

Under the proposed amendment to the city ordinances, possession or drinking alcoholic beverages would be prohibited in any public parking, playground, recreational area or athletic field during the hours stipulated.

Exempted from the regulation would be private boats moored in the Round Lake Yacht Basin and functions approved by the city manager.

A state law prohibits drinking at any hour within 1,000 feet of U.S. 31—an area that includes Bridge Park, East Park and Memorial Park.

City council last week approved park closing hours because of the troubles with rowdy youths.

All parks—except East Park—and beaches are now closed from midnight to 6 a.m.

East Park must be dealt with separately because of the boat docks at the marina, Halverson said.

Clarence A. Odmark Pavillion

*"Just as my fingers on these keys make music
So the selfsame sounds on my spirit make a music too."*

A new band pavillion in East Park, Charlevoix, is to be named in honor of Clarence A. Odmark, beloved band director here for many years.

The Odmark Pavillion will be twice as big as the former, unfinished shell. It will provide storage, restrooms, a changing room, electrical outlets, speakers, lights, and a microphone for the entertainers.

It will be used for many occasions in addition to concerts in the park.

It will be located adjacent to the Wharfside Market, at an angle bisecting the park. There will be a ramp starting at the sidewalk on Bridge Street for easy access to the Pavillion. This will facilitate transporting equipment and will also serve as a handicap access.

Architect Jack Begrow has borrowed the Victorian theme which is so prevalent in many Charlevoix homes and cottages. The roofline will be carefully studied by an expert for maximum acoustical projection.

When I showed "Odie" the plans he vigorously nodded his approval!

The band stand is 5 feet high, in front of which will be a half-moon shaped waterfall, spilling into a 10 foot wide fish pond. This can be lighted with multi-colored lights. The waterfall may be turned off during performances.

The plan is to re-terrace part of the park to blend with the total redesign of the pavillion.

We are writing to you, all former students and concert enthusiasts, to be part of this exciting project in honor of "Odie", who started the bandshell project in the early years of his teaching career. It is our goal to have "Odie" see his dream come true!

Our aim is to raise $110,000 for the total reconstruction of the present band stand. To date we have $56,000 on hand from previous fundraising projects, special donations and from the City of Charlevoix.

Please mail your tax deductible contribution right away in the return envelope. We hope to begin bulldozing possibly this spring, but for sure this fall!

There will be a special concert to dedicate the new facility. We expect many of "Odie's" friends and fellow band directors to be on hand to play in the band. We will notify you as soon as the date and plans for the dedication concert are firm.

Looking forward to seeing you in the park by the beautiful new Odmark Pavillion, Cordially,

Jacquie Merta, executive director of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, welcomes Marilyn Wilnot (right) to the Star of Charlevoix cruise.

Industrial appreciation cruise draws 105 to Star

A dinner cruise to thank area industrial firms for providing jobs attracted 105 people to the Star of Charlevoix.

The cruise was sponsored by the industrial development committee of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, which is operated in conjunction with the city government.

On board for the evening event were management personnel from area manufacturing firms, their guests, members of the city government and chamber of commerce directors.

The thank you dinner was conceived as a way to tell area industries they are appreciated as much as tourism businesses.

Manufacturing firms provide 40 percent of the jobs in Charlevoix County, compared to 27 percent statewide.

The industrial development committee works to encourage manufacturers to locate or remain in the area.

The group is working to sell lots in the city industrial park through an arrangement with a Detroit area realty firm.

And it has produced a promotional videotape telling industrialists why they should locate their factories in the Charlevoix area.

Government members of the committee are Mayor Ralph McRae, City Manager Mike Wiesner and council member Earl Muma from the city, and Supervisor Oscar Stroud of Charlevoix Township.

Jacquie Merta, executive director of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, and Dick Beagle of the Antrim-Charlevoix Growth Alliance are joined by Tom Wieland, representing the Charlevoix County Economic Development Corp., and Don Volson of the Charlevoix Economic Development Corp.

Business members are Jim Hater of Charlevoix Manufacturing, Elbert Kaiser of Medusa Cement Co., Bob Kern of Robert Kern Realtors and LoAnne Brown of Charlevoix County State Bank.

Russell-Ward wedding

Rhonda Jean Ward and Jeffrey Scott Russell were married Friday afternoon, June 10, in an outdoor ceremony on the bridge crossing Brookside Creek.

Magistrate Janet Potter officiated at the simple double-ring ceremony which was witnessed by close friends and relatives.

The bride is the daughter of Carol R. Fratrack Ward, and the bridegroom is the son of William E. and Penny I. Russell, all of Charlevoix.

The bride wore a light blue street-length dress and a headpiece of baby's breath. She carried a bouquet of pink and white sweetheart roses.

Kimberly Van Meter, as maid of honor, also wore a light blue street-length dress but her bouquet consisted of two white sweetheart roses wrapped in ribbons.

Brian L. Van Meter served as best man.

The bridegroom's mother and his sister, Lorrie Russell, decorated the bridge in flowers and ribbons.

Before the ceremony, both grandmothers and mothers were presented with long-stemmed sweetheart roses.

The bride's mother and her grandparents, John and Mildred Fralick, hosted a small gathering following the ceremony.

Timothy and Carrie LaBlance

Richardson-LaBlance wedding

Carrie Sue Richardson and Timothy LaBlance were married Saturday afternoon, June 18, at the Assembly of God Church in Charlevoix.

The bride is the daughter of Rod and Linda Richardson of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is the son of Tom and Maureen LaBlance, also of Charlevoix.

Pastor Lowell Anderson officiated at the double-ring rites in which the bride was given in marriage by her father.

Approximately 225 guests witnessed the ceremony which took place before an altar decorated with gladiolus, variegated white and deep rose carnations, baby's breath and candelabra.

The bride wore a gown of white Chantilly lace over tulle, and trimmed with Venice lace and satin ribbon. It was fashioned with a beaded lace collar, a Basque waistline, long fitted sleeves, full skirt hemmed with baby ruffles, and cathedral train.

Her headpiece was a hat trimmed with baby pearls and silk flowers to which an illusion veil was attached.

The bride carried a hurricane candle lantern decorated with silk flowers in pink and white with white ribbon.

Missy Ogden assisted the bride as maid of honor, and Pam Way, Colleen LaBlance and Colleen Green were bridesmaids. They wore black and white dresses and carried hurricane candle lanterns decorated with silk flowers in deep rose, pink, white and black with maroon ribbon.

Danielle Vogelheim, as flower girl, wore a white lace dress. Ryan Vogelheim was ringbearer.

Tom Naughton served as best man, and Packy LaBlance, Dean Ulrich and Casey Richardson were groomsmen. Mark LaBlance and Corey Richardson were ushers.

Piano music for the ceremony was provided by Steve Stargardt. Sara Stargardt sang "We've Only Just Begun" and joined Dan Gobel in a duet rendition of "Always."

The bride's parents hosted a reception at the Holiday Inn of Petoskey following the ceremony.

The rehearsal dinner was held at the Grey Gables Inn, hosted by the bridegroom's parents.

The newlyweds will make their home in Farmington Hills. The bridegroom is a 1984 graduate of Charlevoix High School and a 1988 graduate of Alma College. He is in the management training program for the Kinney Shoe Co. in Troy.

The bride is also a 1984 graduate of Charlevoix High School and a later graduate of the Petoskey Beauty Academy. She is a licensed cosmetologist. (Photography by Don Smith)

Bradley-Sladek engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Bradley announce the engagement of their daughter, Laura, to Joseph L. Sladek, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Sladek of Charlevoix.

The intended bride has been making her home in Walden, Colo., with her mother. Her father lives in Bowie, Md.

She is a 1983 graduate of North Park High School in Walden and is employed by KOA Campgrounds.

Her fiancé is a 1981 graduate of Charlevoix High School and is employed by Geophysical Services.

The wedding will take place July 23 at the North Park Community Church of Walden.

James Ance and Rebecca Gengle

Gengle-Ance engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Gengle of Petoskey announce the engagement of their daughter, Rebecca, to James Ance of Rancho Palos Verdes, Calif. He is the son of Mrs. Ruth Ance of Charlevoix.

The intended bride, who is a teacher in the Charlevoix Public Schools, is a graduate of Central Michigan University with a major in special education. She is a member of Alpha Sigma Alpha sorority.

Her fiancé is employed by the City of Los Angeles Department of Water and Power. He is a graduate of Michigan State University.

The wedding will take place Aug. 13 at St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church in Petoskey.

Sixth graders aid flower show

"Charms of Charlevoix" is the theme chosen by the Charlevoix Area Garden Club for its first flower show in two years.

The show will be held at the home of Pat Moore, 200 Auld St. on Saturday, July 30, from 1 to 5 p.m.

A special feature of the show is a display of wildflowers and birds by sixth grade students at Charlevoix Middle School who prepared it under the tutelage of club members Anna Belle Webb, Marie Stone and Edith Close. Classes met for five consecutive Mondays.

The show is open to the public, according to Phyllis Block and Derith Lane, co-chairpersons.

Sixth grade students prepare displays for the Charlevoix Area Garden Club flower show. Meeting for five Mondays with garden club members, the students learned about wildflowers and birds.

Health department services touch most area lives

by PEG OHLE

The one public agency that touches just about everyone in Charlevoix County is the District Health Department.

The extent to which it serves infants, children, adults and elders in protecting and promoting health is graphically shown in the department's new two-year report.

Its services to the county's 19,800 residents are described in three broad categories — personal health, environmental health and health education.

Under each of these categories, the department provides the following services:

Family health — child health clinics and services (WIC nutritional program; screening, diagnosis and treatment; immunizations; and home visits). Maternal health services (prenatal and post partum care and maternal support).

Generalized public health nursing (communicable disease, crippled children case management, and general community health). Family planning clinical program. Vision and hearing screening program.

Adult health services — home health care program (nursing, physical and speech therapy, and aide services). Senior health services (aide services and health screening).

Environmental health — Air quality. Food service. Shelter (foster homes, camps, nursery schools, mobile home parks, etc.). Waste, Water, Community health and safety (vermin control, public bathing beaches, ground water quality control, on-site sewage disposal, and many others).

Health education — Child passenger safety. Emergency medical services. General health education (over 26 news releases a year).

Charlevoix County residents pose a different problem in health care than those who live in most other parts of the state: They are older.

Over 12 percent of them are over age 65, compared with 9.8 percent statewide. This means they have a higher mortality rate, especially in such diseases as heart, cancer and stroke.

The leading cause of death in the county for the past two years was disease of the heart, which was 29 percent higher than the state average.

A larger population of older people also requires more personal care for chronic health conditions. For these needs, the department has set up a basic care program and care management project.

In addition, there are clinics for foot care and blood pressure.

Personal health services accounted for 60.7 percent of the cost of operating the department last year.

Environmental health services accounted for 16.4 percent of the cost, and "other" services (including health education) accounted for 13.1 percent. Administration accounted for 9.8 percent.

LaRue 50th anniversary

Eloise and John M. LaRue will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary Friday evening, July 1, at a dinner at the Grey Gables Inn hosted by their four children.

John LaRue and the former Eloise Tillotson were married July 1, 1938, at the First Congregational Church of Ypsilanti where they had met in the college youth group.

The couple moved from Saline to Charlevoix, Eloise's home town, in 1974 after retiring from teaching careers and an insurance business.

The LaRues' four children, their spouses, and seven of their nine grandchildren will be celebrating with them this weekend.

Their children are John N. and Roxann LaRue of Longmont, Colo.; Brian and Karen LaRue of Manchester; Gerald and Joan Weaver of Hobbs, N. M.; and William and Diane Picotte of Hillsdale.

The grandchildren include Jordan LaRue, Michelle LaRue, Tracey LaRue, Chad LaRue, Ty Holborn, Christopher Holborn and Nathan Picotte.

Special guests at the dinner will be the couple's maid of honor and best man, Floyd and Clara Benghauser of Black River.

Also, John's brother, Robert LaRue of Ypsilanti, and Eloise's sister, Lila Wieting of Wyoming, will attend the celebration.

Rabbi begins temple services

Student Rabbi Glenn Jacob of the Hebrew Union College-Jewish Institute of Religion, Cincinnati, is conducting summer services at the Temple B'Nai Israel in Petoskey.

Jacob holds a degree in philosophy from Washington University, St. Louis, Mo., and will graduate from Hebrew Union College in the spring of 1989.

He has served various rabbi duties in congregations in Minneapolis, Ind.; Logan, W. Va.; Casper, Wyo.; and Orlando, Fla., as part of his program prior to being ordained.

Friday night Sabbath services at Temple B'Nai Israel include a greeting time at 7:45 p.m. with service beginning at 8 p.m. Services are open to the public and a social hour with refreshments follows each service.

Obituaries

Albert W. Thorp

Albert William Thorp, 71, of Charlevoix, died June 24, 1988, at Little Traverse Division, Northern Michigan Hospitals, Petoskey.

Funeral services were held Monday, June 27, at Assembly of God Church in Charlevoix. Pastor Lowell Anderson officiated and burial was in Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix.

Mr. Thorp was born June 5, 1917, in Charlevoix. He served with the U.S. Army during World War II and was a member of American Legion Leslie T. Shapton Post 226 in Charlevoix.

He married the former Peggy Drake on May 19, 1947, in Charlevoix.

Mr. Thorp was self-employed as a caretaker of private homes in the Charlevoix area. He also drove school bus for the Charlevoix public schools and at one time was employed by American Mold in Charlevoix.

Survivors include: his wife; three sons, William, Jeffery and Thomas, all of Charlevoix; two daughters, Lorrie Ann Thorp of Houston, Texas, and Pamela Sue Potter of Charlevoix; nine grandchildren; two brothers, Edward of Ellsworth and John of Brutus; four sisters Agnes Christ, Thelma Powell and Wilma Sitzema, all of Charlevoix, and Alice Bricker of Petoskey. He was preceded in death by one sister, Hildabell Bruce.

Marjorie Ellen Casper

Marjorie Ellen Casper, 72, of Charlevoix, died June 23, 1988, at the Charlevoix home of her daughter, Barbara Timms.

The former Marjorie Thayer was born Jan. 20, 1916, in New Brighton, Pa. She spent most of her life in the state of Washington where she married Robert Thompson. He preceded her in death in 1952. She then married Mike Casper in 1953 in Blaine, Wash. He died in 1971.

Mrs. Casper was a post master for the U.S. Post Office in the Broadway Hardware Store which was operated by her husband in Everett, Wash. She moved to Charlevoix in 1965.

She is survived by: one daughter, Barbara Ellen Timms of Charlevoix; three grandchildren; one great-grandchild; one sister, Millie Brame of Bremerton, Wash. There will be no services or visitation at this time. Arrangements were handled by Winchester Funeral Home.

Dorothy C. Beckman

Dorothy C. Beckman, 86, of Charlevoix, died June 25, 1988, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Funeral services were held Tuesday, June 28, at St. Marys Catholic Church, Charlevoix. The Rev. James K. Gardiner officiated and burial was in St. Marys Cemetery, Charlevoix.

The former Dorothy C. Sheridan was born April 9, 1902, in Milwaukee, Wis., the daughter of James and Mary Belle (Carmody) Sheridan.

In 1929, she married Frank Beckman in Milwaukee. He preceded her in death on Sept. 14, 1969.

Mrs. Beckman recently moved to Charlevoix from Rifle Lake.

Survivors include: two nieces, Eileen Sutherland of Charlevoix and Joan Boeltz of Boynton Beach, Fla.; one great-niece and two great-nephews.

The family suggests memorials to St. Marys School Fund. Envelopes for that purpose are available at Winchester Funeral Home, Charlevoix.

BEACONS

Prepared weekly by the members of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.

by The Rev. Lowell Anderson
Charlevoix Assembly of God

War rages in South America. Acts of terrorism continue in the Middle East. Gang wars and bloodshed are almost a daily occurrence in some of the metro areas of our United States. Worldwide, the rich and powerful oppress the poor and weak. Many are made to ask: "Does God see?" "Does God know?" "Does God care?" Why doesn't God do something about all the injustice in the world?

The answer is - He is! The Bible tells us that God's kindness, tolerance and patience leads toward repentance. God is a God of justice and judgment and sooner-or-later the judgment of God will come against all unrighteousness and justice.

But at the same time that God is just, He is also kind, patient, and tolerant. God does not neglect justice. He delays it in order to give mankind an opportunity for repentance and forgiveness that leads to salvation not damnation.

As humans, our problem is perspective. We simply do not see as God sees. We do not know as God knows. The Apostle Paul gives us the perspective we need:

Romans 2:1-4 - You, therefore, have no excuse, you who pass judgment on someone else, for at whatever point you judge the other, you are condemning yourself, because you who pass judgment do the same things. Now we know that God's judgment against those who do such things is based on truth. So when you, a mere man, pass judgment on them and yet do the same things, do you think you will escape God's judgment? Or do you show contempt for the riches of his kindness, tolerance

Pastor joins East Upright Church of God

The Rev. Floyd Henderson is the new pastor of the East Upright Church of God in Charlevoix. He replaces the Rev. William Elders.

Henderson comes to Charlevoix from the Plymouth (Mich.) Church of God. In his 25 years in the ministry, he has also served Churches of God in Mt. Clemens, Pontiac and Warren.

Although he was born in South

Carolina, the son of a Baptist minister, Henderson grew up on the east side of Detroit and graduated from Detroit Southeastern High School.

He later attended Macomb Community College and the Detroit Bible College (now called William Tendale College).

The new pastor and his wife, Penny, have a grown son who lives in Tustin with his wife and baby.

Henderson plans to add a Thursday evening Bible study class to the church's program.

The Sunday schedule includes Sunday School at 10 a.m., worship at 11 a.m., and evening service at 6 p.m.

SPORTS

Dave VanLoozen watches his drive on the fifth hole of the final round of the Michigan Amateur golf tournament at Belvedere Golf Club. The 22-year-old son of a golf pro won the match by being three-holes ahead with two to go.

With spectators lining the edge of the green behind him, Dave VanLoozen lines up a putt. The Michigan State University student defeated professional hockey player Darren Veitch in the final.

Amateur departs; Van Loozen wins

The final Michigan Amateur golf tournament to be held at Belvedere Golf Club for at least five years was won by Dave VanLoozen of Union Lake. VanLoozen defeated former Detroit Red Wing Darren Veitch, who is now a member of the Toronto Maple Leafs, 3 and 2.

Though bigger and stronger, Veitch was erratic in his drives. Van Loozen, a member of the Michigan State University team, played an unspectacular, but consistent round. The pair met in the finals after outlasting 160 other golfers in the five-day event, which was held at Belvedere for the 26th straight year.

The Golf Association of Michigan has decided to rotate the 77-year-old tournament among state courses — but may bring it back to Belvedere in 1993.

Sites selected for the next four years are Country Club of Jackson, Meadowbrook Country Club of Northville, Michaywe Hills of Gaylord and Oakland Hills Country Club of Bloomfield Hills.

Darren Veitch found himself in sand traps and rough heather as his long game accuracy deserted him in the final round. Veitch won a 19th hole playoff to reach in the championship match.

135 contribute funds to bandshell replacement project

About 135 individuals and companies have contributed funds to the Odmak Pavilion fund.

The purpose of the fund is to raise money to go with about $52,000 in city funds to build a replacement for the deteriorating bandshell in East Park.

The new facility would be named for long-time school band director Clarence A. Odmak.

A committee of residents is working through the city recreation commission to design a bandshell and to solicit funds.

Tax-exempt donations may be made to Clarence A. Odmak Pavilion, care of Joni Olach, 300 Alice, Charlevoix.

These are the persons and organizations which have made donations so far:

Official Notice

DRAFT LEAD PUBLIC NOTICE
Sampling by the Michigan Department of Public Health has confirmed the presence of lead in drinking water from certain piping systems where the water has remained stagnant for a period of time. Levels in excess of the current drinking water standard (50 parts per billion) have been detected. Laboratory testing has shown that the principal sources of lead are lead piping and lead based solders and fluxes used to join copper piping. Based on these results and those from other studies, the Michigan Department of Labor, Bureau of Construction Codes and the Michigan Department of Public Health have supported legislation which prohibits the use of lead based solders and fluxes in potable water piping systems. The plumbing industry and homeowners who may construct potable drinking water piping systems must no longer use lead based solders and fluxes for joining copper piping. Other solder materials or joining methods are available and must be used. Lead piping has not been allowed for new installations for about the last ten years. Building copper piping water systems constructed to date likely contain lead based solder and flux.

Water is the universal solvent and even relatively stable water when stagnant for a period of even a few hours in contact with lead solder and flux can result in significant concentration of lead in the water. The health department is recommending that those piping systems in which the water has remained stagnant overnight or for longer periods be flushed for several minutes prior to using the water for drinking or cooking purposes. This typically has been found to satisfactorily reduce the level of lead and other metals that may concentrate in the water within the building's piping system.

The United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) sets drinking water standards and has determined that lead is a health concern at certain levels of exposure. There is currently a standard of 0.050 parts per million (ppm). Based on new health information, EPA is likely to lower this standard significantly.

Part of the purpose of this notice is to inform you of the potential adverse health effects of lead. This is being done even though your water may not be in violation of the current standard.

EPA and others are concerned about lead in drinking water. Too much lead in the human body can cause serious damage to the brain, kidneys, nervous system, and red blood cells. The greatest risk, even with short-term exposure, is to young children and pregnant women.

Lead levels in your drinking water are likely to be highest:
- if your home or water system has lead pipes, or
- if your home has copper pipes with lead solder, and
- if the home is less than five years old, or
- if you have soft or acidic water, or
- if water sits in the pipes for several hours.

Besides lead in water from certain piping systems, there are other exposure pathways to lead including:
air - from industrial discharges, automobile exhaust food - from airborne deposition of lead on crops and lead solder seams in some food containers nonfood items - lead based paint, dirt, solder, or any object containing lead

It should be noted that the major source of lead exposure and lead poisoning in the United States is due to children consuming lead based paint chips.

People who may have concerns about the concentration of lead from their building or household piping are advised to contact a reputable private laboratory for a water analysis. Others who may have specific concerns relative to any possible health effects are urged to contact their physician.

For more information about this matter, please contact your water department (building management) at 616-547-3273.

Trash plan finally near completion

by PEG OHLE

"At the next meeting of the solid waste management committee, all we have to do is go over the text for language - no substantive changes are expected - and clear up a couple of conflicting motions. Then we can approve the plan."

These were the words of county planner Larry Sullivan after last week's meeting where a decision was reached on what to do with the county's solid waste when a privately operated landfill in Eveline Township is full.

The committee voted to ship the county's waste to a facility outside of Charlevoix County, rather than expand the present landfill or develop a new one. A decision on this question has held up completion of the solid waste management plan for several months.

According to Sullivan, it will be necessary for Charlevoix County to reach an agreement with other counties to accept this county's waste in their landfills.

Manistee and Crawford-Otsego counties have already expressed a willingness to do so, and Emmet and Presque Isle counties are providing for new landfills in their solid waste management plans.

Last week, the committee also voted to set up procedures so every commercial and industrial waste generator in the county could submit a plan showing that as much solid waste as possible is being diverted from a landfill into a recycling center.

Although there was no formal vote on setting up recycling facilities, there is general support among committee members for this method of waste disposal, Sullivan said.

If it dots all the i's and crosses all the t's at its next meeting, on Thursday, July 21, the committee will send its plan to the 19 local units of government in the county.

After 67 percent of these bodies (13) approve the plan, it would be submitted to the county board for approval, then sent to the state Department of Natural Resources for final approval.

State law requires that the county update its plan every five years to keep abreast of changing social conditions.

Back on the beach

The amount of beach that has returned along Lake Michigan is clearly shown in this aerial photo of the area along Michigan Avenue. Many sandbags along the beach ended up under water two summers ago, but 20-inch lower water levels have brought the beach back. More aerial photos of Charlevoix on page 3.

20th crafts show expects largest turnout of exhibitors

The 20th annual Crafts Show will have 225 artists participating - including a number from Charlevoix.

The show, sponsored by the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce, will be held in three downtown parks as it continues to expand.

About 10,000 people are expected to visit the show from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, July 16.

Last year the show expanded from East Park into Bridge Park (north of East Park). This year, the park area south of the chamber building will also be used.

Last year, there were 197 entries, the largest number of exhibitors before this year.

The crafts show is a separate event which began as an offshoot of the Waterfront Art Fair and has grown on its own in the past two decades.

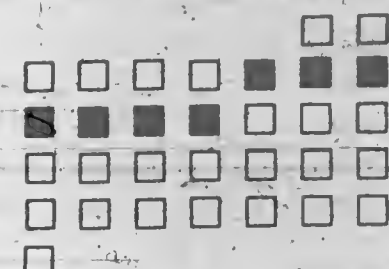

Among the area participants: Bonnie Webster, pot pourri; Mary Lee Huber, pot pourri; Janice McKay, native American jewelry; Dawn Fletcher, country painting; Mary Cook, wooden toys; Virginia Peterson, ceramics; Pamela Shepard, stained glass; Linda Behringer, decorative painting on wood; Linda Zettler, fabric painting; Wanda Olach, woodworking; Connie and Frank Thiel, stained glass; Charlevoix Senior Citizens, home furnishings and gifts; Susan Louiselle; floral arrangements; Sandra Johnson, home furnishings; Jim and Mari Marshall, woodworking; Janet Simpson, handpainted sweatshirts.

Computer art by David Bueh is based on name and date of crafts show.

Lake Charlevoix advisory body disbanding

The Lake Charlevoix Management Planning Advisory Committee will be disbanded next week after over three years of study and work.

But its suggested provisions for protecting the lake won't be presented to local units of government until this fall.

Last March, the committee presented the county board of commissioners with a copy of its report, covering all aspects of the lake: its value as a natural resource, the impact of humans on this resource, present legislation covering the lake, and the committee's plan for further protecting the lake as a natural resource.

The county board "accepted" the plan but offered no suggestions about implementing it, some members stating that it was a matter for the townships and cities bordering Lake Charlevoix.

The 15-member Lake Charlevoix Management Advisory Committee was made up of representatives of seven townships and three cities on the lake, as well as persons from environmental groups such as WATCH (Water, Air Team, Charlevoix), the Lake Charlevoix Association and land developers.

The need for some sort of plan governing development of the shoreline of Lake Charlevoix had been discussed by the county planning commission as far back as 1982.

However, there were no funds available to undertake a planning project and it was dropped.

Later on, during a public hearing on a proposed marina at Hemingway Point, the need was publicly highlighted and WATCH donated $2,000 toward the undertaking, after which the committee was set up.

Eventually, the State Department of Natural Resources, through its Coastal Management Program, donated $12,500.

All committee members served without pay throughout the committee's lifetime, often attending two meetings a month.

For its part, Charlevoix County provided the services of its planning department and planner Larry Sullivan, who coordinated the committee's work.

Preparation of the Lake Charlevoix Management Plan was, therefore, a joint effort of private individuals and government people working toward the goal of protecting Charlevoix County's greatest natural resource.

There was one hitch, however:

One of the committee's suggestions was that a "Lake Charlevoix Watchdog Commission" be formed as an advisory body with the duty of making recommendations to government units on projects on and near Lake Charlevoix, enforcing watercraft regulations, monitoring water quality, and setting safety standards for docks, moorings and new marinas.

The establishment of such a commission seemed to county board members just another layer of government which would not be happily accepted by their constituents.

At least one county board member called it a zoning matter which would rightfully be in the hands of local township or city officials.

Although the county board was cool to the Lake Charlevoix Management Plan, most of the townships on the lake have expressed an interest in some kind of conformity in their rules and regulations governing use of the shoreline.

The matter has also been discussed several times at meetings of the Charlevoix County Townships Association.

Beginning in September, Sullivan will start holding meetings with township boards and city councils to explain to them that they can use any part or all of the lake management plan in their governing process.

He is also preparing a sample county zoning ordinance into which some of the suggestions in the plan could be incorporated.

Even there, he says, each unit of government would have the option of accepting the county plan or continuing to operate under its own zoning laws.

Water tower idea is all wet

This cockamamie idea of turning the old water tower into a viewing platform has been knocking around for a long time. But now a few people are taking the idea seriously so it's time to speak out!

I used to live adjacent to the water tower at 217 Park Ave. One day the phone rang and I was invited to go boating. "It's raining," I said. "No it's not," my friend argued. "It's a beautiful day and the sun is shining." "Well it's raining hard over here," I replied.

Puzzled, I promised to call my friend back. Then I went outside and solved the mystery. The water tower was overflowing! Water was pouring all over our yard.

Now, if I still lived on Park Avenue, I would be up in arms over the idea of having people climbing up and down the old tower, dropping gum wrappings, empty cigarette packs and cans into my flower garden, pitching trash onto my lawn and Lord knows what else.

I would deplore the added traffic on that already busy residential street; I would be dismayed by the parking situation. And I would wonder at the insurance policy that would cover my roof in case of an accident.

I would appeal to the city fathers to reduce my taxes due to the inconvenience thrust upon me. I would corral my neighbors to petition the council. That's just for starters.

As for nostalgia and sentiment, the water tower should go the way of the railroad bridge, the Beach Hotel, and the horse and buggy. Let it remain in our hearts as a special fond memory of by-gone days.

Even the idea of a viewing platform smacks of turning back the clock. Today man can fly and we can enjoy a view from a plane that mocks any platform.

The $150,000 proposed to be spent on a stairway and platform on the old water tower in the heart of a lovely residential neighborhood could certainly be used to a far better purpose. Charlevoix needs this project like "a dead man needs a wedding gown!"

Editor: "Pentagon probe firms gave honoraria to Davis." That's the headline that appeared in one Upper Peninsula daily newspaper. I have accepted speaking fees from defense contractors. ## High-speed chase not worth risk

The old town has been abuzz all weekend over the propriety of high-speed police chases.

We had one Friday night and a couple of young ladies — innocent bystanders — escaped serious injury although their car was demolished.

Friday, you'll remember, was a concert night at Castle Farms and traffic was very heavy on M-66. However, that's when law officers elected to give chase to a suspected reckless driver.

The details are not important. It's the principle of the chase we're talking about.

Witnesses said the suspect's vehicle proceeded toward Charlevoix at a high rate of speed, with the patrol car in hot pursuit. The route took the vehicles past concert-goers walking on the road shoulder, past homes and businesses, including the Captain's Corner shopping mall, right to the busy junction where M-66 joins U.S. 31.

That's where the accident happened.

Under such crowded conditions, was a high-speed chase really necessary, particularly when the law officers had a good description of the vehicle and probably had committed the license number to memory?

I don't think so, particularly when such a chase put so many lives in jeopardy — including pedestrians, other drivers, the suspect and the law officers themselves.

Furthermore, I cannot believe that any crime the suspect may have committed was worth the death penalty — for anybody.

Sometimes I think our lawmen forget that anyone fleeing the law is in a high state of mental stress to begin with and is likely to take chances that no driver would take under normal circumstances.

Then, too, with the prevalence of drugs in the community, it appears the wiser course would have been for the lawmen to back off — unless the suspect is Jack the Ripper — and let the situation cool down. If the vehicle license number is known, the suspect can always be picked up the next day under less hazardous circumstances.

Of course, there is always an outside chance that the plates or the vehicle itself have been stolen, and the suspect will escape scot-free. But that is a risk we are going to have to take. It is certainly preferable to having someone killed.

I'll never forget one afternoon I was listening to a police monitor in Petoskey when local authorities took after a young fellow traveling east on Mitchell Street in the downtown section.

The faster the suspect drove, the faster the patrol car followed.

Faster, faster, faster. Up the Mitchell Street hill, across city limits, past the high school access drive — with someone in the patrol car giving a blow-by-blow account of the chase.

Finally it happened. The suspect's vehicle left the highway and rolled over several times. The driver was killed instantly.

I forget now what he was wanted for, but it was some minor offense — certainly not worth his life. But that's the price he paid.

The question is a sticky one since circumstances differ from case to case.

But it seems a good rule of thumb would be not to give chase if it is going to put anyone's life — even the suspect's — in jeopardy.

Certainly on Friday night on M-66 many lives were at stake. We are very fortunate that only property was lost.

THERE'S A GOOD Reason for Everything Department:

Last week I wondered aloud why farmers in southern Michigan continue to cultivate crops on their bone-dry land, since it seems that loose soil would give up more moisture than an unbroken cover.

Keith Lamkin, Emmet County's Cooperative Extension director, says there is a good reason for cultivating during a drought.

Sometimes deep cracks develop in the parched earth, reaching down to and releasing whatever moisture remains in the sub-soil. Shallow cultivation seals the cracks, trapping what little moisture is left.

You learn something every day.

Congressman: No payment, scandal link

factually correct. Placed together into a single story, however, allow some people to infer that somehow I did something wrong. That innuendo is absolutely unfair and inaccurate.

Here are some facts of my own:

1. Accepting both honoraria and campaign contributions is a perfectly legal and acceptable practice — both here in Washington and in state houses across the country. Each year I report exactly how much money I have received. This information is public and I have never tried to hide anything.

2. I had no knowledge of the Pentagon scandal until two weeks ago when it was announced publicly. Even President Reagan and the Secretary of Defense were not told. Some of the contributions at issue date back several years.

3. The practice of accepting honoraria, or speaking fees, by member-of Congress is commonplace and perfectly legal. There are two schools of thought on this issue and it is a subject of legitimate debate. As for the unrelated issue of the Pentagon scandal, there is only one school of thought; those found guilty should be punished to the fullest extent of the law.

4. I have been asked why most of my speaking fees come from the defense community. My area of expertise is defense. I am a senior member of the House Armed Services Committee and a recognized authority on important military matters facing our nation. It is only logical that requests for me to give speeches would come from the defense community.

I have asked myself what I should have done differently. The answer is "nothing." I always have been completely aboveboard with my constituents about my emphasis on defense.

The people in Northern Michigan know that defense is big business in our area. It has an annual economic impact on Northern Michigan of $750 million. They also know that I have been able to use my seat on the Armed Services Committee to create jobs throughout my district.

They know that I believe that providing for our nation's security is a primary responsibility of the federal government; a responsibility I take very seriously.

As this investigation continues, I think you will see that the harshest response will come from congressmen and senators like myself who support a strong national defense. We feel the most betrayed by this corruption. These scandals detract from the truly important debate of what our defense needs are and how they are best met.

Members of Congress are required each year to disclose their assets, liabilities, and personal income — including honoraria. A quarterly report of our office equipment and salary accounts is published. Federal election laws require a dollar by dollar accounting of our campaign finances — twice in non-election years and seven times in election years. I have no objections about these disclosure requirements. I firmly believe that as keepers of the public trust, elected officials should be subjected to this kind of scrutiny.

The fact is that for years I have received support from three companies named in the scandal and for years no one seemed to mind. I have received support from defense contractors in general for years and no one has complained. Now, an event completely out of my control — the Pentagon scandal — has turned these well-known, long documented facts into something extraordinary. If one disagrees with the entire idea of honoraria, that's fine. But to attempt to somehow link it to the defense scandal takes two separate issues and unfairly tries to connect them.

After 22 years of public service, I have learned that you sometimes disagree with the way a set of facts is presented. That is a reality of political life. In this particular case, the facts are right but the implied conclusion is wrong.

THE MAYOR'S CORNER

The city has seven separate and important boards, commissions and authorities. All the 43 members of these branches of the city are appointed by the Mayor or the Council. Less than 2% of our eligible citizens volunteer their services, but without them our town could not function.

It is often their stressful responsibility to make decisions affecting us all. They should be commended more and criticized less.

During my 18 months in office there have been 18 new appointments — meaning that 18 persons, most of them for personal reasons, no longer serve the city. In all cases we have respectfully appreciated and honored their sincere past participation. Of course, there have been numerous re-appointments.

In a thorough study of these different boards and commissions, I found that the first precinct had a dominating and an overwhelming majority of the memberships — even more than the combined totals of the second and third precincts.

This unequal representation could discourage the fullest cooperation from some of the areas of our city. Since that revelation, four of my appointments have been from the second precinct. Myself and the council should strive to bring about a better balance between all three precincts.

Boat parade entries get good fireworks 'seats'

In order to entice more boat owners to participate in the lighted portion of the annual Venetian Festival boat parade, they are being offered prime docking spaces for the fireworks show.

Participants in the parade will be allowed to dock free after the event in marina spaces vacated during the parade.

In past years, some boat owners have complained about being directed into Lake Charlevoix after participating and not being able to see the fireworks display.

There will be three categories in the parade, as in past years: sailboats under sail at 8 p.m., classic boats at 9 p.m. and the Grand Electrical Boat Parade at 10 p.m.

The classic boats will be tied up at the city marina from 7 to 9 for a closer look.

There will be no cash prizes, but boats will be judged. All entries will receive photos, with the first three place finishers receiving enlargements.

Japanese lanterns and 12-volt white lights are available at the chamber of commerce office for use in the lighted parade.

Swimmers' itch conditions present

The warm, dry weather of recent weeks has resulted in area lakes developing conditions conducive to contracting a skin rash known as swimmer's itch, says a spokesman for District Health Department No. 3.

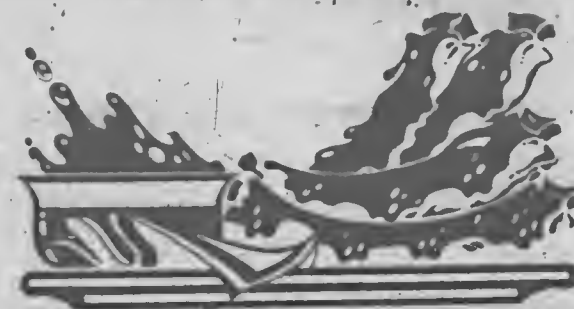

Swimmer's itch is caused by a tiny larvae which penetrate into the skin of humans. As the larvae enter the skin, minor itching may occur, followed by more intense itching several hours later with the development of raised red spots.

Four to five days after contact all symptoms have normally disappeared except in extreme cases, but small red spots may persist for some time.

After swimming, rinsing the body as well as possible and briskly rubbing with a towel immediately after emerging from the water is an effective means of minimizing swimmer's itch.

Fire fighters begin rescue truck drive

The Charlevoix Volunteer Fire Department has launched a drive to raise $35,000 to help purchase a rescue truck to carry all of the department's emergency equipment to the scene of accidents.

Douglas C. Bergmann, president of the department, recently sent a letter to 470 Charlevoix residents explaining the need for the equipment.

A rescue truck is smaller than a regular fire engine, a feature which gives it greater mobility. It would carry such items as the "Jaws of Life" for freeing victims from wrecked vehicles, air bags for lifting heavy objects, cutting torches, emergency lighting fixtures, a winch and other pieces of equipment needed in emergencies.

James Elliott, an honorary member of the department who is spearheading the fund-raising drive, said that the number of calls for the "Jaws of Life" has tripled in recent years.

Volunteer fire fighters are raising money to buy a rescue truck to hold gear presently stored on several fire vehicles.

"Today's light cars collapse like accordians in accidents and you need help getting people out," Elliott explained.

He said the vehicle will travel between 70 and 75 miles per hour, meaning a speedy initial response.

In addition to the rescue equipment, the vehicle will carry 200 gallons of water and a pump for fighting small fires and washing down gasoline spills.

Elliott said the vehicle will be built on either a Ford or Chevrolet chassis by the 3-D Fire Apparatus Co. of Shawano, Wis.

Bergmann said the vehicle will cost $70,000, but that the Volunteer Fire Department already has $35,000 on hand for the purchase.

Elliott said the response to the initial mailing has been reassuring.

All donations to the rescue truck fund are tax deductible. They should be mailed to the Charlevoix Volunteer Fire Department, City Hall, Charlevoix, Mich. 49720.

The sidewalk along Pointes North Inn will be a reflection of what the Downtown Development Authority envisions all of downtown looking like when a sidewalk replacement project is complete. Paver bricks and iron tree guards will fill this area left unpaved.

Beaver Island hosts arts project

Visual artist Pat Hough and improvisational theater artist Josh Broder are leading workshops for summer and year-round residents of Beaver Island.

Hough's workshops will culminate with an art show. Broder will direct a show developed and performed improvisationally.

Hough has shown her paintings at the 22 Wooster and Peder Bonnier Galleries in New York City, and has taught workshops at the New York Public Library, the Bank Street College for Education and in the New York City Public Schools.

Broder has worked at The New York Shakespeare Festival and is a member of the Ironclad Ensemble Project.

Broder and Hough have split their time the past five years between Beaver Island and New York City.

"Basically we've used our time on Beaver Island to develop the work we later show in the City," says Broder. "The Beaver Island Arts Project gives us our first opportunity to do a full cycle, creation and presentation, on the island."

The Beaver Island Arts Project is being funded in part by the Michigan Council for the Arts. The Island's two townships and school board are also providing funds.

The theater workshops will be open to students in the 7th through 12th grades and to adults.

"I'll be training and prove company," says Broder. "The same training actors at Second City receive or on 'Saturday Night Live.'"

"But, because the company will consist of residents of an isolated, rural community, the content of the show will be different than with professional actors in a major urban center."

With theater improvisation, the show comes from the performers and the audience. It's a true expression of community."

The art workshops will be open to students in kindergarten through the sixth grades.

"I'll be doing pup-up books, accordion books and maybe a Beaver Island sketch book," said Hough.

"Basically, I say 'here's what we're doing but you can make it about anything you want.'"

Driving force behind the Beaver Island Arts Project is Kathleen McNamara, principal of the 60-student Beaver Island Community School.

City band concerts beginning

The first Charlevoix City Band concert of the 1988 summer season will be held in East Park at 8 p.m. Wednesday, July 6.

Subsequent concerts will be held every Wednesday evening during July and the first Wednesday in August.

The concerts are about 45 minutes in length and are open to the public free of charge.

For the first concert the band will perform several traditional marches, including John Philip Sousa's "Washington Post." Also featured on the first program will be highlights from the musical "Fiddler on the Roof."

The Charlevoix City Band is a community band made up of instrumentalists from Charlevoix and the surrounding area.

The band is still seeking new members. Persons who can play a band instrument are invited to join the group by going to rehearsals at 6:30 p.m. Wednesdays in the high school band room.

Sunday in the park

Big band sounds filled East Park on Sunday afternoon, thanks to Dilworth Boat Shop. The Larry Wojcik band played for about three hours. The first city band concert of the year will begin at 8 p.m. tonight at the bandshell.

A new way to walk

The new walkway along the south shore of Pine River Channel was a popular place for strollers and boat watchers over the holiday weekend. The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers constructed the walkway this spring as part of a hillside erosion-control effort.

Corrections

Rhonda Jean Ward wore a light blue street-length dress for her recent marriage to Jeffrey Russell, not a pink one, as the Courier reported June 29.

Her mother, Carol R. Fratrack Ward, and grandparents, John and Mildred Fratrack, hosted a gathering after the ceremony. The grandparents' name was misspelled in the previous story.

Also, the newlyweds objected to the ceremony on a bridge crossing Brookside Creek being characterized as a simple ceremony. No disparagement was meant in the use of that phrase which is commonly used in reference to a wedding not held in a church setting.

Luncheon scheduled at area church

"Come Ye and Eat What's Good" is the invitation of the Charlevoix Community Church of God in announcing its salad luncheon on Thursday, July 14. Lunch will be served from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the church building at 202 West Huribut.

The prices are $3.75 and $3.50, with children under five eating for free.

Prepared weekly by the members of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.

by The Rev. Bruce E. Hamilton
Community Church of God

Do you know who George Burns is? Mr. Burns is a 92-year-old comedian and actor. He began his career in vaudeville more years ago than most of us have been alive. He never got beyond the fourth grade in his education.

A few months ago, in a tribute to the way he has touched people's lives over the years, the University of Hartford awarded him an honorary doctor's degree. Now, when you're 92 years old and famous, people are very interested in your opinions.

At a press conference that followed the graduation, they asked Mr. Burns his secret for such a long and successful life and career. His answer is worth thinking about. He said, "fall in love with what you are doing." Whether it was work or play, being in love with the life he was living made a tremendous difference to him.

Let me pose a few questions to you. Are you in love with Christ? Are you in love with being a Christian? Does the idea of coming to God's house to worship and praise him stir up deep excitement in your soul?

Please know that we're not talking surface infatuation here. We're talking total and complete sold-out devotion to the Son of God who gave His life on Calvary for you. You talk about love. There was an act of love!

Never forget that Jesus went to the cross willingly. He was indeed in love with what he was doing. He never forgot who He was doing it for. I suspect the Roman guards had crucified many real criminals who were not so submissive to the brutality of their punishment. But the Lord what as the final sacrificial lamb, meek and without dissent, because He loved us. He loved the hope that freeing us from our sins forever would offer.

What about you? Does Jesus' act of love move you? Are you in love with what you are doing for God? When you are in love with being a Christian and really serving God, your life is not the only one that is affected. The lives of those around you are touched as well.

Julia Leedy

Julia Bowman Leedy, 76, of Charlevoix, died July 4, 1988, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Mrs. Leedy was born Dec. 2, 1911, in Indianapolis, Ind. She was a 1933 graduate of Butler University, Indianapolis, and a member of Pi Beta Phi fraternity.

On July 2, 1932, she married Edwin H. Leedy, in Indianapolis.

Mrs. Leedy has been a summer resident of Walloon Lake since her marriage and has lived in the Charlevoix area for the past eight years.

She was the current president of the Charlevoix Area Hospital Guild and treasurer of the Charlevoix Woman's Club. She was recently named secretary of the North Central District of the Michigan Association of Hospital Auxiliaries.

Mrs. Leedy is a past president of the Charlevoix Garden Club and a member of Christ Episcopal Church in Charlevoix.

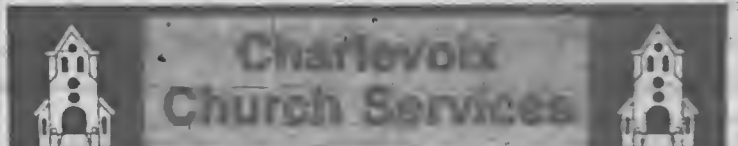

At one time, Mrs. Leedy served as president of the Great Rivers Girl Scout Council in Cincinnati, Ohio. She had also served on the board of the Chicago Girl Scout Council and was a member of the Woman's Board of Rush Presbyterian St. Luke's Hospital, representing Episcopal Church women of Chicago.

Mrs. Leedy is survived by her husband Edwin H. of Charlevoix; one son, Maj. Gen. E. B. Leedy of Fort Belvoir, Va.; two daughters, Barbara Leedy Blocker of San Diego, Calif. and Julia Leedy Baer of Charlevoix; six grandchildren.

There will be no services held at the present time.

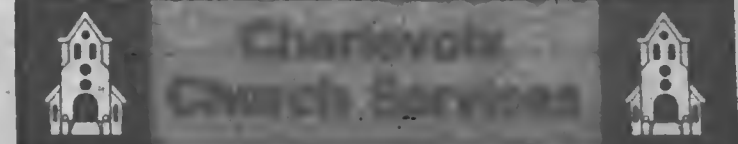

Interment will take place at a later date in Crown Hill Cemetery, Indianapolis, Ind.

The family suggests memorials to the Charlevoix Area Hospital or Christ Episcopal Church. Envelopes for those purposes are available at the Winchester Funeral Home, Charlevoix, where arrangements were handled.

SPORTS

Basketball camp open to 7th-10th graders

Charlevoix High School basketball coach Jim Kanine will conduct a basketball camp for boys in grades seven through 10 during the week of July 11-15, and an additional week, July 18-22, for boys in the 9th and 10th grades.

The camp will be held in the high school gym, with 9th and 10th graders working out from 8 to 10 a.m. and 7th and 8th graders from 10 a.m. to noon.

The fee will be $15 for one week and $25 for two weeks. Kanine said the purpose of the camp is to improve individual skills in ball-handling, shooting, dribbling and passing.

Each student will receive individual attention.

Each participant will also receive a "camp" T-shirt and a daily refreshment as part of the camp fee.

Boating class can lead to certification

Pleasure boating classes sponsored by Charlevoix County 4-H and the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department, are being offered free of charge to people of all ages Wednesday and Friday, July 13 and 15.

Class members between the ages of 12 and 16 will receive a boater's safety certificate upon completing the course. This allows them to operate a boat with an engine of 8 horsepower or more on the waters of any state without adult supervision.

Topics covered will include marine laws, required safety equipment, rules of the road, nautical terms, courtesy on the water, water sports and safe vessel operations.

The call will be held from 9 a.m. to noon at the Consumers Power Building on East Street in Boyne City.

Registration must be completed by July 10.

Call 547-4461 and ask for Mark Loding or call the Cooperative Extension Service Office in Boyne City at 582-6232 for further information or to register.

Yachting Notes

The Charlevoix Yacht Club's Spring Series ended June 22 with a brisk 18-knot northerly that produced few surprises in the three fleets. (Remember, two JAM Fleets beginning the Summer Series.)

Fleet A finished with Pygmalion, Sorcerer and John Hall's Pearson Flyer, Tiger, in that order. For the series (with a throwout), Dave Irish's new sloop Traveller took honors with 8.5 points. The remainder of the fleet produced Sorcerer 11.75, Pygmalion 12.5, Gotcha 17, Mint 20.75, Night Moves 26, Tiger 30, H.S.M. 36, and Babe 41.

Fleet B results: Bandit 7.25, Tireless 8.5, Blazen 11.75, Cygnus 18, Kittiwake 21.0, Nulli-Scundus 30.

Fleet C (JAM): Flash 8.5, Maureen 11.75, Sandpiper 11.75, Cabaret 15.5, Apothecary 29, Stalwart 30, Cheemaun 34, Lost Vermonter 34, Bald Eagle 39.

Saturday, July 9, at 10 a.m., yachts will be listening for Bob Schofield's starting gun for the first leg of the Third Annual LaBlance Memorial Cup from Charlevoix to Beaver Island. The race will begin off Medusa Point and should finish off the pierhead Sunday around 3 p.m.

It's still not too late to register for the Irish Cup Race, scheduled in Lake Charlevoix on Saturday, July 16. Three fleets are planned: spinnaker, jib and main, and the "fun fleet," designed for those who do not race regularly.

Registration forms are available at the Irish Boat Shop on Stover Road. (Don't forget the party and band following!)

Remember the CYC clubhouse is open each Friday night for social hour and try to make it down each Wednesday following the evening race to sample Dave and Gail Phillips' weekly buffet.

Till then.

What's News

CHARLES BENTLEY has been elected to serve as secretary of the Michigan ACT council for one year. Bentley is director of guidance at Charlevoix High School. The Michigan ACT council serves as a representative body whose components include American College Testing Program-participating post secondary institutions, groups, and agencies within the state, as well as the secondary schools whose students attend these institutions.

H & R Block employee NANCY SHAFER attended a training seminar in Gaylord. H & R

Block offers seminars monthly June through December at eight locations throughout the state. A variety of current tax and management topics are taught at the seminars.

MARILYN A. IZOR of Charlevoix has been recognized on her 10th anniversary with Welcome Wagon with presentation of a Welcome Wagon pin set containing a cultured pearl. Welcome Wagon in 4,500 communities throughout the continental United States, provides gifts from sponsoring businesses to engaged couples and their families, new parents, movers and college students.

REAL ESTATE

Gregory Smith is the president of the Antrim-Charlevoix Board of Realtors.

Trying to sell a home without the aid of a Realtor is like performing surgery on yourself: you may get the job done, but the results often are not worth the effort.

Here's some advice to persons considering trying to sell homes themselves.

— Setting the proper price for the home is not as simple as it may seem. It involves a thorough understanding of the market, an awareness of what comparable properties in the community are being sold for, a determination of value based upon the years of experience and training and many other factors.

— Potential buyers often discount from the asking price the fee that the seller otherwise would have paid for Realtor services. Even if the seller is successful, he still may only net the amount he would have through a Realtor office.

— The seller does not have the time nor the ability to screen "lookers" from potential buyers. The experienced salesperson brings to his client those people qualified to buy the home, and arranges for appointments and open-house events at time convenient to the clients.

— Answering the questions and criticisms of potential buyers takes a good deal of know-how. It's especially difficult for the buyer to honestly critique the home in front of the owner, and if he does, it's difficult for the owner to answer criticism objectively — without becoming angry at the questioner.

— The seller does not know — and can't learn overnight — all the intricacies of financing a purchase, nor the techniques of closing the transaction. If he is not able to provide the buyer with all possible financing alternatives, and is unfamiliar with the closing process, he easily could lose a sale he otherwise could have completed.

— For many reasons noted above, it often takes a good deal longer for a seller to complete a transaction that it does a Realtor. Panic may eventually set in, resulting in the seller's lowering the price considerably to gain the sale.

— And, of course, there are those sellers who sheepishly admit defeat and end up listing the home with a Realtor in the long run. What they should know is that the time lost in selling the home is actually money lost: additional cost for interest, taxes, repayment of principal and maintenance of the home.

The possible benefit from selling a home is outweighed by the problems and risks encountered by the seller along the way. And how do you measure the value of the seller's time, or how much a worry-free transaction is worth?

NOTICE OF CORRECTION: The notice of this mortgage sale in the June 23 edition of the Charlevoix Courier incorrectly stated that this sale was set for June 21.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE.
Default having been made in the terms and conditions of a certain mortgage made September 28, 1978
by SALLY E. TABER as Mortgagor, to CHARLES M. NOVAK as Mortgagee, and recorded on October 23, 1978, in the office of the Register of Deeds for Charlevoix County,
Michigan, in Liber 154 of Mortgages on Page 165 and 166, on which Mortgage there is claimed to be due and unpaid at the date of this Notice $4,800 principal and $4,801.23 interest; no legal or equitable proceeding having been instituted to cover the debt, or any part of the debt, secured by the Mortgage, and the power of sale in the Mortgage contained having become operative by reason of such default.

Notice is hereby given that on Thursday, August 11, 1988, at 10:00 a.m. at the Astor Street entrance of the Charlevoix County Courthouse, that being the place for holding the Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix, there will be offered for sale and sold to the highest bidder, at public sale, for the purpose of satisfying the amounts due and unpaid upon the Mortgage, together with interest at 7 percent per annum, and the legal costs and charges of sale, including an attorney fee as provided by law and in the Mortgage, the lands and premises mentioned and described in the Mortgage, as follows:

Lands situate in the Township of Charlevoix, Charlevoix County,
Michigan, described as:

Lot Number 13 of Homeland Sub-

Pier work to start this summer

Reconstruction of the south pier into Lake Michigan is expected to begin before summer ends.

Although state and local authorities have been battling the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers over the configuration of the pier, a company is preparing to start construction.

A seven- or eight-person crew will come from Luedtke Engineering Co. in Frankfort around the first of September, says Erich Luedtke, treasurer of the firm.

Luedtke was awarded a

$1,612,400 contract by the corps to build a U-shaped pier with a sloping rock "cushion" to break up waves.

Fishermen, backed by city council and the state Department of Natural Resources, say vital fishing spots would be lost.

Construction of a catwalk across the open end of the U-shape would retain fishing sites, they say. But the corps says it cannot build for recreational purposes, only for navigational ones.

After months of disagreement with the DNR -- on the Charlevoix project and several others along Lake Michigan -- the federal agency is moving ahead without DNR approval.

Steel sheet piling will be fabricated by the end of July, says Dave Foster, chief of the construction section of the corps' Grand Haven office.

Foster expects work to begin in early to mid-August, with 350 days needed for completion of the project.

But Luedtke says early September is more likely. He anticipates completion about one year later.

Plans to reconstruct the entire pier have changed. Foster says the outer section -- which holds the lighthouse -- will be encased in sheet piling and will remain.

Luedtke says the tilting lighthouse will be leveled, but work on it will be "nothing major."

Most of the early work will be done from shore, Luedtke says, so water traffic will not be disrupted.

In the spring, though, a 130-by-140-foot barge could cause watercraft slowdowns, he says.

Political approaches to allowing construction of a catwalk are being pursued by U.S. Rep. Bob Davis.

Davis has introduced legislation to give the corps the authority to preserve, recreational facilities when making navigational changes. The bill is written to make approval retroactive to this year's projects.

The corps has declared the pier a "failed structure," but has not prevented anyone from using it.

Land and water crafts

Arts and crafts shared downtown parks with watercraft during the 20th annual crafts show. The addition of a third park to the exhibit area filled the east side of downtown with booths and boats, sellers and sailors. More crafts show photos on page 3.

Merchants debate items on sidewalks

A merchants' committee is being formed to determine what -- if anything -- should be done about the proliferation of items on downtown sidewalks.

Representatives of 11 stores met Tuesday, July 12, with city and chamber of commerce officials -- but found little common ground.

Discussion about the placement of signs, merchandise and furniture on the sidewalks has been going on for years without resolution.

And there was little agreement this time -- even on who should enforce whatever rules are enforced.

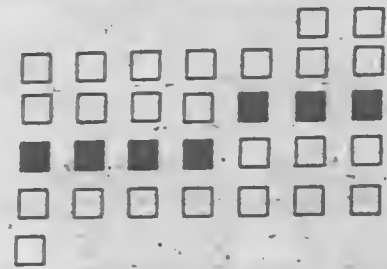

Mayor Ralph McRae said he thought the merchants should police themselves. Jacquie Merita, executive director of the Chamber of Commerce, said the organization is not a law enforcement agency.

City Manager Mike Wiesner told the group that he would enforce current law -- which allows no private displays or signs on public property -- next spring if the problem is not resolved.

Compounding the situation is the inclusion of some private property along the sidewalks. Some businesses have up to four feet of property in front of their buildings, while others have

58th annual Venetian Festival

The 58th edition of the Venetian Festival is taking shape. The three-day event is Friday-Sunday, July 21-23.

Friday's events include the crowning of Miss Charlevoix and the beginning of the annual fast-pitch tournament.

On Saturday, there will be boat and street parades, fireworks and foot races, and entertainment in the park.

Sunday's events include a pancake breakfast, fast-pitch finals and model plane demonstrations.

Krista Blomgren, Miss Michigan for 1988, will make a special appearance at the Miss Charlevoix coronation, which will be held at 7 p.m. Friday, July 21, in the high school.

The softball tourney will begin at 8:30 p.m. at the ball diamonds on West Carpenter. This is the 13th year for the 10-team event.

Music in East Park will be provided by Larry Wojcik and His Big Band from 8 to 11 p.m.

On Saturday, July 22, the fast-pitch tourney resumes at 8 a.m. and continues until about 6 p.m.

The Jeff Drenth Memorial foot races begin at 8:30 a.m. at the elementary school. There are one-mile, five-kilometer and 10-kilometer events.

The Grand Venetian Street parade begins at noon. The parade route is Carpenter to Clinton Street with the reviewing stand at the Clinton Street intersection.

Grand marshal of this year's parade is Ray Kipke, long-time Charlevoix coach.

Clowns of all ages are being asked once again to join in the parade. Unlike last year, though, pre-registration is not needed.

Anyone who would like to be a clown can show up at the American Legion hall between 10 and 11 a.m. to get aid with make-up.

The parade committee is looking for volunteer help for the event. About eight to 10 people are needed to help register entries, set up entry spacing and handle other tasks. Interested persons may call the chamber of commerce.

Entertainment in the park will begin after the parade and continue until evening. Among the acts scheduled are the Scottville Clown Band, Sons O' Scotia, Grand Traverse Highlanders, Ronald McDonald and Bill Powell.

Miss Charlevoix and her court will be presented to the crowd in East Park at 7:45 p.m.

The three-part boat parade will begin at 8 p.m. with sailboats under sail being presented. At 9, the classic boats will pass the marina, and at 10 the lighted boat parade will begin.

This year, boats entered in the lighted parade will be given special docking spaces along the marina after the parade so they can see the fireworks display.

The fireworks over Round Lake will begin about 10:30 p.m.

A pancake breakfast will be held at the American Legion hall from 8 a.m. to noon Sunday, July 23.

The fast-pitch tournament resumes at 11 a.m. with the finals scheduled for 3 p.m.

From 1 to 5 p.m. model airplanes will be displayed and flown at the Charlevoix Bufts Airfield off Sequanota Road.

All weekend, there will be entertainment and food booths along the Bridge Street end of East Park and carnival rides in the waterfront parking lot off East Clinton.

The Charlevoix Historical Society's museum at Harsha House will be open 1-4 p.m. Thursday through Sunday.

20 WEDNESDAY

Nutritional meals for senior citizens will not be served at the VFW, U.S. 31 North, 12:30 p.m.
 Al-Anon Family Group meets at Alano Club, 104 Mason, 8 p.m. for families and friends of problem drinkers. For more information call 547-9184.

Alcoholics Anonymous meets at Alano Club, 104 Mason, noon and 8 p.m.
 Dancing in the park at Central Lake's Thurston Park, 7:30-10 p.m. $1 donation. Band: Down Home Ramblers.

Charlevoix Historical Society Museum, Harsha House, 103 State St., open 1 to 4 p.m. $1 donation.
 City Band Rehearsal in the high school band room, 6:30 p.m.

City Band Concert in East Park, 8 p.m.
 Zoning Board of Appeals meets in council chambers, City Hall, 7 p.m.

Annual senior citizens picnic, Whiting Park, 10 a.m.
 Barbecue chicken will be served at 1 p.m. Sponsored by Charlevoix County Commission on Aging.

Summer Bazaar at First Congregational Church of Charlevoix, 10 a.m.-3 p.m. Luncheon 11:30 a.m.-1:30 p.m. Sponsored by Women's Fellowship.

Channel land buy OK, parking plan hit

A proposal that would lead to city ownership of a 300-foot portion of the north Pine River Channel bank has gotten approval from the city.

But the planning commission has recommended against passage of a four-space parking variance needed for the purchase to go through.

The final decision on the parking proposal is up to the zoning board of appeals, which meets at 7 p.m. Wednesday, July 20.

Jon Hisey, developer of the Edgewater Inn, has offered to sell the property to the city for one-third what he paid if the parking question is resolved.

When Edgewater was approved, 116 parking spaces were required. That number was lowered to 105 because of conversion of office space to hotel rooms.

Because The Lodge foundation encroaches onto Edgewater property, an area intended for parking could not be developed, according to city planner Gerry Harsch.

Under the proposed plan, Hisey remains four spaces short. But, Harsch says, there is a net gain of 15 spaces over present parking.

Neighbor Judy White questions how additional spaces are being formed when people already park along the south side.

"It's public parking on private property, now," says Hisey. Planning commission Don Brown says Hisey or a future owner could "virtually close off the north side of the channel" with buildings if he wanted to.

The site is a buildable lot, which is one reason city council members favor purchasing the property.

Hisey and partner Bill Martin purchased the property for about $48,000 two years ago. They are offering it to the city for $15,000 once the parking question is cleaned up.

Hisey says the parking improvements are costing him another $18,000.

Work on installing the paved parking area along the south side of the road has begun.

Wiemer says if Hisey does not obtain the variance, he will still have to find room for another four spaces - even if construction continues.

CRAFTY EXHIBITION

The 20th annual Crafts Show in downtown Charlevoix was attended by an estimated 10,000 people. The show featured more than 220 exhibits of hobby and professional craft items. Warm, sunny weather greeted the crowds that looked - and bought - in the three parks lining Round Lake.

Probert suit role distorted

Editor:

I must take exception to the recent statements made by Robert Kern and former councilman Bob Timms in the Petoskey News-Review of June 28 and the Charlevoix Courier of June 29 regarding councilman Norm Probert's alleged role in and responsibility for "a great deal" of Charlevoix's "legal costs" in the Miles-Berlage condo lawsuit last winter.

Mr. Probert was in no way responsible for any of these costs. All the facts of the case were not presented to the public in full or wholly coherent form; understandable in light of the mass of detail and confusion that surrounded the issue.

Yes, he did approach us about seeking knowledgeable legal advice on a zoning matter, should we feel we needed it, from WATCH's attorney. But this was several days before the condo-hotel controversy began to materialize and came to our attention.

Mr. Probert informed us only about the shoreline zoning amendment recommendations then being debated, because he felt that those that would affect our zone might result in devaluation of our property. In this he was correct.

We alone would have been squeezed in three areas while the other properties in our zone would have remained unaffected because they'd already been developed. Due to his concern for his constituents, we were able to remain aware of the ongoing debates and finally request the planning commission and ultimately the City Council to alter the recommendations to parity with the surrounding properties, which they kindly did. Legal recourse was not needed.

Letters to the editor:

Mr. Probert also advised other shoreline property owners in our ward, not just ourselves, to follow the debate through. We feel he acted in a thoroughly responsible and commendable manner by doing this, and remain appreciative of his efforts to protect the interests of the residents of his ward. His is an example that should be heeded by all members of the council, no matter how much they might disagree with him on other city issues.

Again, the role Mr. Probert played in our eventually seeking out legal help had absolutely nothing to do with the Park Place hotel request, but began and ended with the shoreline amendments alone. He only had provided the name of the person we contacted two months later for assistance on another zoning matter altogether, and never participated in that controversy in any manner other than the one he performed in his duties as a council member.

Responsibility for the city and taxpayer's legal costs in the hotel issue, up to $15,000, lies elsewhere within the city administration. Mr. Probert tried to prevent it.

P.S. As this controversy came to its conclusion and wound down, certain parties expressed the conviction that one person's recommendation to another person to seek out legal advice on a matter, if only to clarify a question, was some kind of reprehensible, irresponsible, abominable act and should never be condoned, but even used against them.

Is parking lot work premature?

Editor:

Was I surprised Wednesday, July 6, to find work being started on Pine River Lane, apparently to accommodate Edgewater Inn's required off-site parking spaces. True, City Council had agreed the night before to purchase this area, but the "deal" was to be contingent on the city's zoning board of appeals (ZBA) granting a variance from previously accepted parking requirements made necessary by the size of Edgewater. This board does not meet until July 20 at 7 p.m.

I also had difficulty understanding the statement in the Petoskey News-Review article (July 6, pg. 3), "Hisey recently discovered he could not accommodate all the parking he was required to have..." I don't know how he just recently found this out. Was this not part of his original plan, submitted and approved with this required parking?

Edgewater is, I understand, already short nine on-site spaces and 20 off-site spaces. In no way do I see anywhere near that total number added on the site plan for Pine River as presented. That city street already has angle public parking all along the south side and parallel parking on the north side. How can public parking spaces be designated parking for a private business not even adjacent?

Please urge your ZBA members to study carefully this "deal" before granting any variances.

Judy White

Ripping out a piece of history

I hesitate to mention it again, but if the city intends to repave Dixon Avenue this summer, I hope someone is making plans to slice out a section of that old scored pavement and save it for posterity.

The street, according to at least one Charlevoix historian, is a genuine antique.

More than a score of years ago, the Charlevoix Courier ran a series of articles on the early days of the city written by the late P. D. Campbell and the late Will Hampton.

One of authors — I don't remember which — claimed that Dixon Avenue was the third paved street in the world.

It seems Henry Ford of Model T fame laid a strip of concrete on Woodward Avenue in Detroit between Six and Seven Mile roads. A marker has been placed at the site proclaiming it the world's first concrete roadway. Prior to concrete, roads were either dirt, gravel, wood, stone, brick or macadam (a mixture of tar or asphalt mixed with small stones.)

Shortly after Ford's pioneering paving project, officials in the forward-looking city of Ann Arbor wondered if concrete could be poured on a hillside and set before it all collected at the bottom. A test strip was poured on an Ann Arbor hill — and it held fast.

When Charlevoix city fathers heard of the experiment, they hurried to Ann Arbor for a look-see. They had been toying with the idea of paving Dixon Avenue so that summer visitors wouldn't have to travel through clouds of dust in their carriages after arriving by train at the Charlevoix depot.

Dixon drops rather sharply as it nears the station, explaining the council's concern over hillside paving.

Convinced that the hill could be paved successfully, the city council agreed to pave Dixon — with the proviso that the pavement be scored into blocks so that horses wouldn't slip and fall climbing the hill.

Although the street has been patched and resurfaced many times over the years, sections of the original scored pavement are still plainly visible in the vicinity of Coast Guard Hill.

That's why I believe a chunk of that pavement should be saved, sort of as a reminder of days gone by. It could be incorporated, with an appropriate marker, on the grounds of the Historical Society's Harsha House museum on State Street. Or a section could be moved to the little island at the junction of Dixon and Mercet Boulevard — with an appropriate marker telling what it is and why it was saved.

I'd hate to have all of historic Old Dixie wind up in somebody's landfill.

Many years ago when the old Carnegie Library was razed, someone had the good sense to preserve the engraved cornerstone. It still stands at corner of Clinton and State Street in front of the First State Bank.

The stone probably gives grass cutters fits, but whenever I pass that monument I can still see old library that stood like a gold brick on the corner and sniff the musty aroma of old books that wafted from its front doors on summer days.

I also like to walk down to the foot of Antrim Street on Round Lake to see how the retaining wall around Veterans Park is holding up. I am sure that wall was part of the foundation of the old Golden Rule Livery Stable which has been gone for these many years.

Are there any Charlevoix girls still living who were wooed and won by a lithe lad who did his courting from the seat of a horse-drawn rig rented at the Golden Rule Livery Stable?

And wasn't that a beautiful name for a business?

In later years the stable became a roller rink and was a popular gathering spot for Charlevoix's young people, further enhancing the site's romantic associations.

Perhaps we should put markers on all these old relics as a reminder not only of where we have been and where we are going.

Wouldn't it be nice, a hundred years hence, if someone remembers that the Edgewater Inn and the Weatherlane once stood on the north bank of Pine River Channel?

Don't knock down tower dream before idea even gets off ground

Editor:

I would like to respond to last week's column by Edith Gilbert, entitled "Water tower idea is all wet." I say, "Edith, you're all wet."

Coming up with ideas like I do, I expect to receive criticism, but I also want to let you know that your ideas of people throwing items from the water tower, etc., are all wet.

You would do best to stick to writing about what you know best, and let those who are endeavoring to make something nice for all the people here and visitors to enjoy at least have a say. Not everyone can afford to take a plane up in the air to view all the sights like you are privileged to do. There are a few things we town peasants would like to do, and are doing, that some folks say cannot be done.

From the public parking lot at the old Coast Guard station, you see hundreds of people per hour coming down the new walkway on the south side of the channel. These people would live to view Charlevoix from Bob Miles' old perch on top of the tower.

Whoever said it was going to raise or lower your taxes to consider this project, which is part of the downtown development? Jumping to conclusions and making absurd accusations before anything has been done to plan this tower is unfair, to say the least.

The tower will not contain one platform, but three, and 80 percent of the climbers will enter from the channel side. At the present time, most of the visitors are on foot, walking all over town, and this will most likely be the way the majority of them will enter the viewing tower.

Think about going up an air-conditioned, enclosed staircase, with glass or strong clear panels which would keep anything from being thrown over the side, and also keep any noise from disturbing the neighborhood. The 3 air-conditioned platforms will be for resting along the way and viewing to panoramic scenes which Bob Miles talked about all his life. This was his dream, and we would love to see it fulfilled. It can be done and with a positive attitude, it will.

Role distorted

Oddly enough, the parties expressing this opinion were lawyers themselves. Is the law such a sacrosanct institution in their eyes, a closed society, that no one can question, appeal to, or use it except lawyers themselves? who's to figure?

David L. Miles

I think you are confused thinking Charlevoix is a resort town. In the middle 1980's, when you moved to Michigan Avenue, it was a resort town. At that time they took the resort town sign off the wall at the Parkside Dining Room, and the town changed from a resort town to a three-day-a-week tourist town. The families that used to live here all summer are no more.

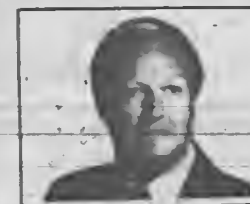

The chauffeurs and limousines have left, even though there are more limousines manufactured today than ever before. However, the residents of Charlevoix have been able to adapt to the change that has occurred. Due to aggressive advertising from the Chamber of Commerce and the industrial development people, Charlevoix is flourishing, but in a different manner.

The charge to go up the tower will make money for the community, just like the marina and the golf course do. Our merchants need tourist trade to survive, and we want to present another tool to accomplish this. So, please don't knock what we are only beginning to look into and present plans for. We don't even know at this time if it is feasible. Give us a chance to examine all the ins and outs of such a project.

The plans are to develop this lot into a park, anyway, and it will be used by everybody, year-rounders and tourists alike. This is our town, and we don't want another $18,000 episode to prove it, like the public drive in your neighborhood at the end of Division Avenue, which is for everyone's use, thanks to persistence by Oscar Stroud and residents who fought to keep it public.

Our scenic splendor is unequalled anywhere on Earth, and this is a great opportunity to save it and enjoy it ourselves! Give us a chance. Can't never did anything.

THE MAYOR'S CORNER

CHARLEVOIX THE BEAUTIFUL... THERE IS MORE TO IT THAN PETOSKEY AVENUE AND BRIDGE STREET. VISITORS WILL SEE STREET AFTER STREET WHERE NOT A SINGLE-BLOOMING FLOWER RAISES ITS HEAD. All home owners having profuse flower displays in the front yards should receive city wide recognition.

For two weeks each spring, flower transplants would be sold to local property owners at very low prices. The city and KCB would give financial support to the retail garden centers.

Our local Garden Club has only three members south of the Bridge. They should encourage beautification in all areas of the town. The KCBers could also become effective city wide.

Every precinct has patches of blight. Those blighted premises should be taxed higher. Blight devalues adjoining property.

Senior citizen annual picnic set at park

The annual senior citizens picnic sponsored by the County Commission on Aging will be held Wednesday, July 20, starting at 10 a.m., at Whiting Park. Barbecued chicken and all the picnic trimmings will be served at 1 p.m., in place of the usual noon meals served at meal sites in Charlevoix, East Jordan and Boyne City.

Tickets for the barbecue are for sale at the meal sites for $1. They will cost $1.50 at the picnic gate.

For the first time, there will be a midway with games, dunk tank, square dance, kissing booth, clowns, balloons, lemonade and watermelon, and flea market tables.

There will also be door prizes and a 50-50 prize drawing.

Flea market tables are available for the day at $5 each. Reservations may be made at any senior center.

The Charlevoix County Transit System will provide transportation to the picnic at regular senior citizens fares. Call 582-2900 for pickup.

After a half-century of reporting Charlevoix news, Fran Martin has put down her pen and notepad. She began writing for the Petoskey News-Review in 1939 and the Courier in 1943 and has served a number of community organizations, including the jury board, Red Cross, hospital guild and United Way. Fran has received special recognition from the students at Charlevoix High, who dedicated their 1985 yearbook to her, and from the Charlevoix city council, which praised her for giving "us all a deeper understanding of our communities, our neighbors and ourselves." The following was written by Peg Ohle, a long-time colleague and friend.

Our good friend Fran Martin made a big move last week.

Fran moved from her comfortable apartment in Pine River Place to a room in Grandvue Medical Care Facility.

It wasn't an easy move for Fran but it was one she made herself.

When we saw her a few days before moving day, Fran and her sisters were busy sorting out the accumulation of a busy lifetime, deciding what items should go with Fran to be kept in a much smaller storage space.

I first met Fran almost 15 years ago when I came to work for the Courier. I was assigned to cover proceedings of the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners, which Fran was covering for the Petoskey News-Review.

I had studied journalism at one of the best journalism schools in the country; Fran had learned "on the job" after an automobile accident in her young years made it impossible for her to pursue her chosen profession of nursing.

But here we were, both covering the same news source and even being a bit competitive with each other.

I was professionally trained, but Fran knew all the "who, what, where and when's" of northern Michigan.

I watched and learned as she raised her hand and pointedly, but always politely, asked questions about matters the county board was considering.

Fran and I became good friends, and, during the past several months when she hasn't been able to get around much, even in her trusty wheelchair, I have especially missed her big, broad smile.

People call the Courier office these days saying, "I have a notice for your paper. I used to call Fran Martin, but - can you take care of it?"

Of course, we at the Courier will try to take care of this notice and all the others that Fran used to handle, but it's going to take more than one of us.

Fran is the only person we know who could ever cover all the news from sports to school board to obituaries to the Coast Guard to the county board to animals to long-time Charlevoix residents to whatever else that might come along.

Fran took her typewriter to Grandvue. Somehow we feel that every once in a while that typewriter will produce some words that sound like Fran Martin.

When that happens, we will share them with you.

Wiesner said the city can force removal of items from public property, but cannot do anything about displays on private property.

A committee of four business owners and Merta will work with city staff to find out how other resort towns handle outdoor displays.

Several proprietors at the meeting voluntarily agreed to remove sandwich-board signs. Others, though, say displays and tables are essential to their livelihood.

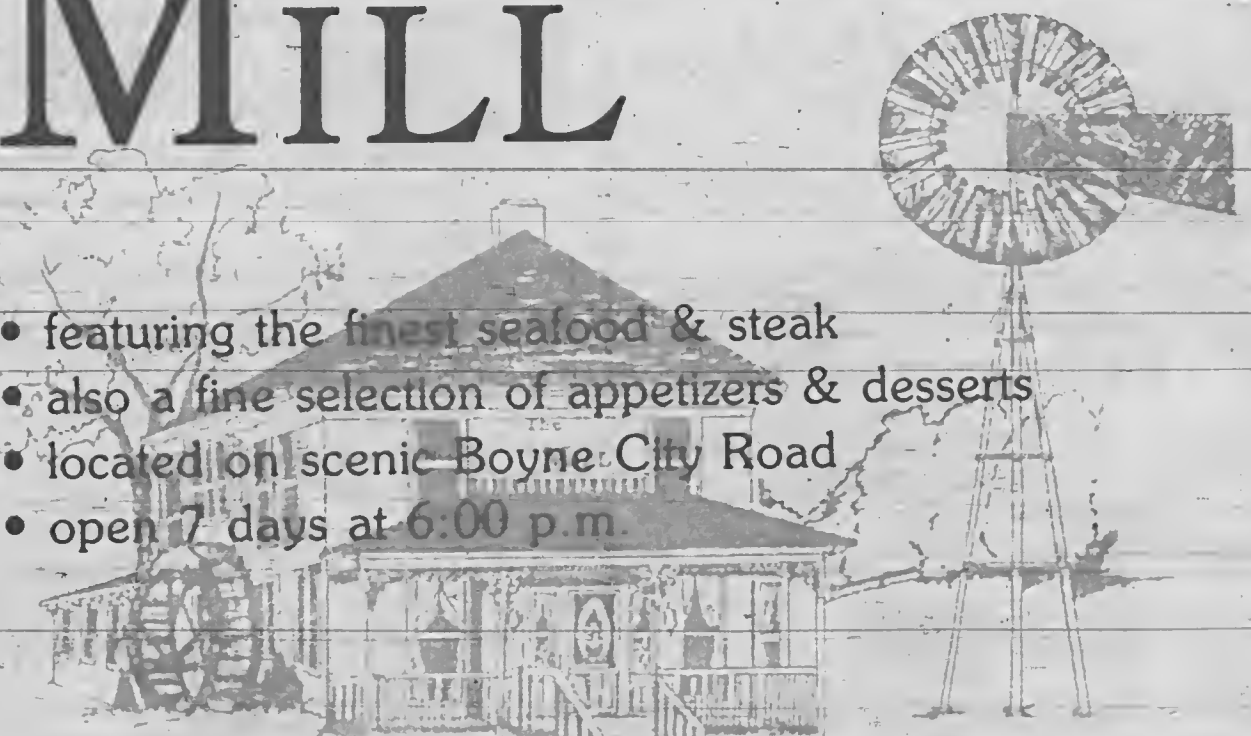

The group agreed to ask other merchants to volunteer to keep outside displays as attractive as possible.

Adult education program doubles in year

Academic classes offered in the Charlevoix Community Education Adult Learning Center doubled in size last year, according to the center's annual report.

Many of the students were working toward high school completion diplomas (five received diplomas at Charlevoix High School commencement ceremonies), and others were trying to qualify for a General Education Diploma.

Twenty-five students studied English in the first semester and 10 in the second semester, 14 studied history in the first semester and 11 in the second semester, and 12 studied current events in the first semester and six in the second semester.

Also, seven studied American literature in the first semester, 11 studied psychology in the first semester and seven in the second semester.

cond semester, 43 studied health and exercise in the first semester and 16 in the second semester, six studied business communications in the second semester, and seven studied government in the second semester.

In addition, 49 students took lessons in arts and crafts in the first semester and 38 in the second semester.

Academic classes were also held for inmates of the Charlevoix County Jail. In the first semester nine persons were in the directed study class (working toward a high school diploma), and in the second semester six persons were in this class.

In the first semester 11 persons were in the general education diploma class (seven completed requirements), and in the second semester 12 persons were in this class.

Seven jail inmates studied math both semesters, and 27 participated in the physical education program both semesters.

Sherry Black is coordinator of the Charlevoix Community Education Adult Learning program, as well as a teacher.

Debbie Purcell teaches at both the Charlevoix Senior Center and the jail, Jim Studevant teaches at the senior center, and Dave Van Zon teaches at the jail.

No community education classes are held during the summer, but there are other week-day activities at the senior center in the V.F.W. Hall on U.S. 31 North.

Monday: Lunch from 12:30 to 1 p.m.; bingo from 1 to 3 p.m., and crafts from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Tuesday: Lunch from 12:30 to 1 p.m., and bridge from 1 p.m.

Wednesday: Lunch from 12:30 to 1 p.m. and crafts from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Thursday: Lunch from 12:30 to 1 p.m.; golf from 10 a.m., and band from 1 p.m.

Friday: Lunch from 12:30 to 1 p.m., and flea market from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Margaret Thomson has been added to the staff of the Charlevoix Senior Adult Learning Center. She will run the craft department.

Park alcohol limit OK'd

In a compromise vote, city council has decided to ban alcohol from city parks and ballfields after 9:30 p.m. this summer.

An emergency ordinance, good for 60 days, was approved after council members had trouble agreeing on when the proper time to shut off drinking should be.

Police chief Dennis Halverson asked for a 9 p.m. limit because of problems with congregating youths and young adults at Michigan Beach.

Recreation department director Ike Boss told of problems with litter and disorderly conduct and said drinking at the ballfields was increasing.

John Hess, chairman of the recreation commission, agreed with the call for a 9 p.m. cutoff.

But council members, led by Bill Haggard and Shirley Roloff, said 9 was too early. And Bill Bellows wanted an exclusion for the ballfields so teams could drink after completing games.

Resident Hagan Manker said the law should be applied evenly, but objected to closing the beach to people who wanted to have a beer and watch the sunset.

Jan McKay said alcohol should be prohibited at the beaches, and Al Ranger said 10 p.m. was too late.

After votes to curb drinking at 9 and 10 p.m. failed on 3-2 ballots, council approved a 9:30 p.m. to 6 a.m. ban on a 5-0 vote.

Council already has approved closing all beaches and parks from midnight to 6 a.m. as part of the effort to combat rowdiness.

Sidewalk payment district killed

Property owners along Bridge Street will not have to pay for construction of a sidewalk to Captain's Corner shopping center.

The decision by city council to cancel a "special assessment district" came after much of the work had been done on setting up the forced payment plan.

About $1,000 had been spent on title searches of all properties along the east side of U.S. 31 from Garfield to M-66 and along M-66 to Stover.

Payments were computed and legal language was worked out. Notices were sent to owners and other interested parties.

Council members, however, agreed with property owners who complained they were being made to pay for a sidewalk that was for general public use, not their own.

The sidewalk will provide a continuous safe walking area from downtown to the shopping center.

Only property owners along the east side of U.S. 31 and north side of M-66 were being assessed for the cost of construction.

Normal city procedure is for property owners to pay 60 percent and the city 40 percent for sidewalk construction in neighborhoods.

The city will pick up 100 percent of the cost of construction. Bids from contractors will be opened Tuesday, July 26.

Tight fit

Some of the equipment that a new rescue truck would hold is displayed by Doug Bergmann (left), president of the volunteer fire department, and fire chief John Martin. A fund-raising effort is underway to raise another $35,000 to go with an equal sum the firemen already have to purchase the first-response truck. The equipment is now kept on three trucks, which fire fighters say slows response to an emergency.

Pischner-Kindt wedding

Lisa Marie Pischner and Steven Kindt exchanged marriage vows Saturday afternoon, June 11, at St. Mary's Church in Charlevoix.

The bride is the daughter of Roger and Connie Pischner of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is the son of Clarence and Sandra Kindt of Ossineke.

Father James Gardiner officiated at the double-ring rites in which the bride was given in marriage by her parents.

Approximately 350 guests attended the ceremony, for which the church was decorated with fresh garden flowers and white satin bows.

The bride wore a gown of organza and silk decorated with Venise and Chantilly lace and fashioned with a sweetheart neckline, short puffed sleeves, a natural waistline with lace overlay, and an A-line skirt with semi-cathedral train.

Her headpiece was a wreath of silk flowers and seed pearls to which a finger-length pencil-edge veil was attached.

The bride's bouquet was a cascading arrangement of silk purple and white lilies, ivy, baby's breath and pearls.

Amy Pischner served as maid of honor, and Sandy Miller, Karen Kindt, Heidi Bolduc and Pam Pischner were bridesmaids.

They wore aqua mist satin gowns accented with lace and satin bows. The gowns featured short puffed sleeves, sweetheart necklines and fitted bodices.

They carried cascading bouquets of silk aqua and pink baby carnations.

Mike Kindt assisted the bridegroom as best man. Ed Prevo, Bob Kautz, Michael Pischner and Francis Pischner were groomsmen, and Gary Timmerack and Paul Mousseau were ushers.

Ellen Cutting provided organ music for the ceremony, and vocal offerings were made by Barry and Marylee Pischner, Tammy McDonough, Missy Pischner and Phillip Pearl.

The parents of the newlyweds hosted a reception at the American Legion Hall following the ceremony, with Nick Scott of radio station WJML furnishing the music.

Diane Abraczinskas, Katherine Abraczinskas, Evelyn Oleky and Amy Rauser assisted the hosts during the reception.

The bride's parents also hosted a gift-opening lawn reception on the day following the wedding.

The rehearsal dinner was held at Nanny's Old Place, hosted by the bridegroom's parents.

Following a trip through the Upper Peninsula, they are at home in Ossineke.

The bride is a registered nurse at Alpena General Hospital, and her bridegroom is a machinist at Ossineke Industries.

Hanson-Wells engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hanson of Elkhorn, Wis., announce the engagement of their daughter, Terry Lynne, to Daniel Lee Wells. He is the son of Richard Wells of Ellsworth and Joyce Brown of Charlevoix.

The intended bride graduated from Elkhorn Area High School in 1984 and is employed by the ECM Motor Co. in Elkhorn.

Her fiancé graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1976 and served in the U.S. Army for six years. He is presently a member of the National Guard unit in Elkhorn and is employed by Getzen Musical Instruments while working toward an associate's degree in law enforcement.

The wedding will take place Sept. 17 in Bethel United Methodist Church in Elkhorn.

Barnes-Balter wedding

Suzanne Marie Barnes and Michael Peter Balter were married May 21 at the Michigan League in Ann Arbor.

Judge John Kirkendall presided at the ceremony uniting the daughter of Ann-Marie Barnes of Ann Arbor and J.T. Barnes of Charlevoix with the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wolfgang Balter of Fraser.

The bride wore a white taffeta gown embroidered with lace and seed pearls and carried a colorful bouquet of lilies, stephanotis, carnations and bachelor buttons.

Honor attendants were Corrine Ranger of San Jose, Calif., and Craig Bassin of West Bloomfield.

Bridesmaids were Mary Goulet of San Jose; Ruth Brasle of Boston; Pia Manley of Fraser, sister of the bridegroom; and Shari Forman of Austin, Texas, and Valerie Barnes of Charlevoix, sisters of the bride.

Groomsmen were Roger Balter of Plymouth, brother of the bridegroom; Thomas F. Barnes II, of Charlevoix, brother of the bride; Warren

Michael and Suzanne Balter

Anderson of San Jose; Stuart Pann of West Bloomfield; and Peter Matheson of Union Lake.

The bridesmaids wore pink taffeta tea-length gowns. Following a reception at the Michigan League, the couple left for a cruise in the Caribbean. They will reside in Franklin.

Katherine A. Blair Obituaries

Katherine A. Blair, 98, of Charlevoix, died July 10, 1988, at Bortz Health Care of Petoskey. Funeral will be 11 a.m. Wednesday at the Winchester Funeral Home, Charlevoix. The Rev. Leo Scheel will officiate and burial will be in Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix.

The former Katherine A. Ahern was born Jan. 13, 1890, at Fort Douglas in Salt Lake City, Utah Territory. She moved to Detroit as a small child.

On June 19, 1912, she married

James J. Blair in Detroit. He preceded her in death in 1948.

Mrs. Blair was a licensed practical nurse and practiced at Henry Ford Hospital and did private duty until she retired at the age of 75.

In 1930, Mrs. Blair moved to Northern Michigan. She had been a resident of the Pine River Place in Charlevoix from 1961-

84. She was a member of the Calvary Presbyterian Church in Detroit.

Mrs. Blair is survived by one son, John W. Blair of Charlevoix; five grandchildren; five great-grandchildren.

The family suggests memorials to the Zion Lutheran Church of Petoskey. Envelopes for that purpose are available at the Winchester Funeral Home where friends may call 7-9 p.m. Tuesday.

off into the fire and never missed a step. The islanders all thought it was a miracle. For Paul, it was simply a matter of faith in the promise of God.

I would not have you think even for a moment that I am trying to downgrade or de-emphasize the power of miracles or their importance in our lives. Quite the opposite! I hope you will see that instead of few and far between, miracles are meant to be a part of our daily lives.

For miracles to be a part of our daily lives, it is not necessary that we believe in them. It is necessary to have faith in the God who provides them.

by The Rev. Bruce E. Hamilton
Community Church of God

For all the summertime sailors in Charlevoix, let me share a Biblical sea story from Acts 27 and 28. It recounts a voyage the Apostle Paul took to Rome.

He warned the centurion who escorted him that such a voyage would be dangerous and not to go. They left anyway. Not long into the journey, a fierce storm blew up threatening their ship's safety.

God gave Paul a vision that the ship would be wrecked but no lives would be lost. He shared the vision with his traveling companions and added, "I believe, I have faith in God that it will happen exactly as it was told me."

The ship broke up off the coast of Malta. All on board made it safely ashore. To the Romans and the prisoners they escorted, it was a miracle. To Paul, it was a matter of faith in the God he lovingly and willingly served.

What is it when God works His wonders (really what He's doing is keeping His promises to us)? Is it a miracle or a matter of faith?

The folks on Malta built a fire and welcomed the castaways. As Paul was warming himself, a snake came out of the wood pile and bit him. The islanders all said, "this must be a real bad guy! Since the Shipwreck didn't get him, the snake will!"

But Paul just shook the snake

Slow boat to the island

Boats head toward Beaver Island on the first leg of the two-day LaBlance Memorial Cup Race. The absence of wind caused the 15 boats to take from 8½ to 10½ hours to reach St. James. The run back to Charlevoix took less than 4½ hours for 14 of the entries. Nite Moves had the best overall time in fleet C, while Blasen took fleet B honors and Cabaret captured the jib and main event.

Yachting Notes

Mother Nature provided two of her extremes for the 15 sailboats engaged in the third annual LaBlance Memorial Cup Race from Charlevoix to St. James, Beaver Island, on July 9-10.

The Saturday leg to St. James took place in 95 degree will-o-wisps and a near mirror-image Lake Michigan.

As the boats searched for traces of wind sufficient to fill the genoas, Sunday's return leg found 18-20 knot winds in 3-4 foot seas and repeated rain squalls.

The fleet made a quick crossing with most yachts reaching the pierhead within four hours.

First place finisher in jib and main was Cabaret, followed by Sandpiper and Hot Mustard. Blasen was first, Kittiwake second and Cygnus third in Fleet B, and Nite Moves first, American Blue second and Pygmalion third in Fleet C.

The Charlevoix Yacht Club is very appreciative of the efforts of Bob Schofield, Paul Hoadley and family and Tansley Stewart in serving as race committee for the race, which is conducted in fond remembrance of the CYC's first commodore, the late George LaBlance.

What's News

William H. Horton, son of Howard and Rosemary Horton of Charlevoix, has been promoted to systems analyst by The Prudential Co. of America and transferred from corporate headquarters in New Jersey to Western Group Operations in Los Angeles where he is working in the Prudential-Tesseract Division. Tesseract is a San Francisco-based software subsidiary of The Prudential. Horton joined Prudential three years ago. He is a 1982 graduate of Charlevoix High School.

Dr. John H. Lignell of Charlevoix has completed continuing medical education requirements to retain active membership in the American Academy of Family Physicians, national association of family doctors. The requirements call for members to complete a minimum of 150 hours of accredited continuing medical study every three years.

Laura Farmer, executive officer of the Antrim-Charlevoix Board of Realtors, has completed the National Association of Realtors Executive Officer Self Study Course. The course consists of 13 units of independent study. Farmer will be awarded the Executive Officer Certificate by the executive vice president of the Michigan Association of Realtors.

Carolyn Young is pictured in front of some of the silk flower creations at her shop in the Edgewater Inn.

Shop features cloth flowers

The Silk Flower, a shop specializing in custom-designed silk flowers, bushes and trees, has opened in the Edgewater Inn.

Carolyn and Richard Young, former Springfield, Ohio, residents, have retired to their summer home on Torch Lake to operate the Charlevoix shop.

They will concentrate on decorative arrangements for the home, the office and the boat.

Customers may buy flowers and greenery in separate pieces and or may purchase a finished arrangement.

"We have almost every known domestic flower and even some that are not found in nature's garden," Carolyn Young said as she picked up a blue peony. "We have them in designer colors, too, in mauve and peach, and others."

The silk flowers come in many different shapes and forms, in hanging baskets, in wreaths, in bousal, in bouquets, in table arrangements, in hairpieces, and in tree-size plants.

Silk flowers are no longer made of silk. They are made of polyester, but the silk terminology has remained because of its connotation of quality, according to the shopkeeper.

EMERGENCY ORDINANCE No. 505

An Ordinance to amend the Code of the City of Charlevoix by adding a new Section, which new Section shall be designated as Section 3.15, Chapter 31, Title III of said Code.

THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX ordains:

That Title III, Chapter 31, of the Charlevoix City Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

It is determined that an emergency exists pursuant to Section 5.4 of the City Charter in that the use and possession of alcoholic beverages are causing public disturbances on City property. This Ordinance No. 505 is hereby given immediate effect.

Section 3.15. Prohibition against Possession or Consumption of Alcoholic Beverages in Certain Public Places.

It shall be unlawful for any person to possess or consume alcoholic beverages, between the hours of 9:30 p.m. and 6:00 a.m. except within any specially designated area by resolution of the City Council, in any public park, playground, recreational area or athletic field owned, leased, or rented by the City of Charlevoix or in any specially designated area at any time.

Provided, however, that such restriction does not extend to privately owned vessels moored in the yacht basin nor does it extend to any specific function authorized by the City manager as set forth in Section 3.14 of this Chapter. Any violation of this Section shall be deemed a misdemeanor and shall carry the penalties upon conviction set forth in Section 1.12 of Chapter 1 of the Code.

This Amendment to the Charlevoix City Code was adopted by the City Council of the City of Charlevoix at a regular meeting held on July 5, 1988 by the following yeas and nays vote:

YEAS: Councilmembers Muma, Russell, Roloff, Haggard & Bellows

Marion school's students reunited

While many schools in the area were holding class reunions, former students of the one-room Marion Center School met for a school reunion.

Everyone who ever attended the school was invited to the gathering to recall how it was in days gone by, and to catch up on news of long-lost friends.

Twenty-three former students attended the reunion from various parts of the country. They gathered for a picture and are identified as follows:

Front row: Darleen Hisey, Wayne; Velma Powell, Charlevoix; Dorothy Shaw, Havana, Ill.; Betty Casler; Bessie Van Dorn, Boyne City; and Ernestine Roberts, East Jordan.

Third row: Gerry Stephens, Hamilton; Vida Richardson; Hilda Perron, Charlevoix; and Marguerite Davis, Petoskey.

Top row: Elmer Crain, Boyne City; Glen Crain, Charlevoix; James Rayman, Clarkston; Lyone Wert, Howard City; Joe Martineck, Charlevoix; and Adolph Ecklund, Grand Island, Fla.

CITY OF CHARLEVOIX ordains that Section 5.7 (7) designated Height of Buildings be amended to read as follows:

Height of Building

That building height for any structure or portion of a structure (having its ground floor in a single horizontal plane), is the vertical distance measured from the lowest elevation of the finished grade line of the ground around the structure to the highest point of the roof for flat roofs; to the deck line of mansard roofs; and to the mean height level between eaves and ridge for gable, hip and gambrel roofs. Intrusions below finished grade about the building for stair or window wells, courts or yards, designed in casements or cellars, to accommodate the minimum glazing area requirements of the BOCA National Building Code shall not be considered when calculating building height.

Building height for buildings having ground floors in two or more horizontal planes at differing elevations may be calculated as if each ground floor plane area were a separate building.

RAY'S DAY

Long-time coach leads Venetian parade

He's in the coaches' hall of fame. The sports field is named for him. Even the teams are named for him.

But, after reaching the state finals and having undefeated seasons, Ray Kipke remains — to use his word — bashful.

An unassuming man whose accomplishments are legendary in Northern Michigan, Kipke is being honored this week as the grand marshal of the Venetian Festival street parade.

But he has reservations about even being singled out for an honor in his hometown of 60 years. So he's recruited daughter Nancy Bambach — Venetian queen in 1949 — to ride with him in the parade.

Kipke, now 86, came to Charlevoix in 1928. In the coming decades he would coach teams to seasons most coaches just dream of.

Basketball was the big local sport in the 1930s, he says, because the school was small.

"We didn't have enough football players. We'd have half a line on offense and defense," he says of those days when players who left a game could not go back in until the next half.

There was little baseball activity, because of the weather. Kipke coached baseball teams off and on but the sport didn't catch on until much later.

So, basketball it was. In 1938 Kipke's Rayders went to the Class C finals, where they were beaten in the last half-minute by Kalamazoo St. Augusta.

Then, in 1948, a missed free throw in the final seconds of the semifinal game led to an overtime that was won by Milan, the eventual state champion.

In the late 1940s, the Rayders lost only seven games in four years — and four of those losses were in the state tournament.

By that time, football was catching up in excellence. From '45 to '50, the Rayders won 39 of 41 games. And those two other games ended in ties against an East Jordan team coached by future college and professional star coach Dan Devine.

It was in 1950 that Kipke suddenly quit coaching. He passed out at halftime of a stressful game with Petoskey near the end of the season and hung up his clipboard right then.

Kipke continued to teach math until 1964 and kept his other job — as caddy master of Belvedere Golf Club — until he completed his 41st year in 1972.

The nickname Rayders fit the team's winning style, but it wasn't Kipke's idea. He credits Stewart "Irish" Coolman with coming up with the name — and spelling — at a time when other area teams were taking nicknames.

Kipke and wife Mabel produced a winning team at home, too. Their three daughters — now Nancy Bambach, Amy Gibson and Bennis vonHellen — provided Charlevoix High with two valedictorians and a salutatorian.

Alumni celebrating 100 years of graduations

A celebration of Charlevoix High School's 100 graduating classes will be held Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 6-7.

The class of 1988 was the 100th to graduate from the city's high schools.

A committee from the reorganized alumni association has been putting together a schedule of events and informing former students of the weekend.

The Charlevoix High School Alumni Association was reactivated last winter to plan the centennial celebration.

The original alumni association was formed in 1946 and became dormant in 1948.

Planned for the weekend are a dance, an open house and a picnic.

The weekend was chosen to coincide with a benefit concert for the Clarence Odmark Pavilion project.

Jan Raecke, head of the alumni group, says any alumni are welcome at any of the events without pre-registration.

A pig roast and concert are planned for the afternoon of the 6th in East Park, where the Odmark concert will be held at 8 p.m.

At 9 p.m. a dance featuring music by local alumni will begin in the middle school.

Then, a family picnic will be held at Depot Beach at 1 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 7. Each family is expected to take its own meal.

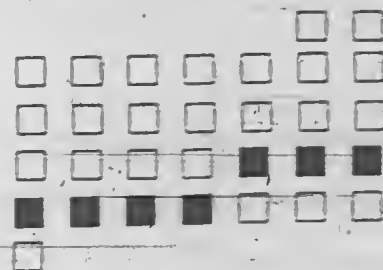

The committee sent out 1,200 letters inviting former students to return for the day. They were aided financially by the Charlevoix Schools Enrichment Foundation, which raises money for education-related projects.

The committee has asked area merchants to participate in the event by offering discounts that weekend to people who can produce evidence — such as yearbook or class ring — they graduated from Charlevoix High.

The 100th graduation party was scheduled for after school got out because committee members did not want to take away from the ceremonies for the 1988 graduating class.

Former presidential yacht Sequoia visits

The former presidential yacht Sequoia will be making its second stop in Charlevoix in five years when it arrives Wednesday, July 27.
The former "floating White House" is scheduled to arrive at 4:30 p.m. and dock at the Star of Charlevoix loading platform on Round Lake.
Public tours of the 104-foot craft are planned for 5 to 7 p.m.
The Sequoia is on its second fund-raising trip as the Presidential Yacht Trust restores it for preservation as a national landmark.
The ship has gone from family yacht to catching rum runners to presidential duty and then to use as a floating cocktail lounge in its 63-year history.
The ship was built for a Philadelphia family in 1925. A Texas oil magnate bought the vessel in 1928 and changed the name from Savarona to Sequoia.

The government acquired the ship in 1931 and used it to trap rum runners on the Mississippi River.
About that time, President Hoover summoned the ship to Washington so he could use it on Potomac River fishing trips.
The ship served eight presidents for the next 41 years — including four decades as "the floating White House" for such things as wartime meetings by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill.
President Carter had the ship sold and three different owners tried to market it as an attraction over the next four years.
That was when the Presidential Yacht Trust purchased the ship.

The former presidential yacht Sequoia will be making its second stop of the decade in Charlevoix. The ship was here (above) overnight in 1984.

Mason, noon.
Alatons meets at Alano Club, 104 Mason, 8 p.m.
Lions Club will meet at Edgewater Inn for a luncheon meeting.
City Council Committee of the Whole meets at City Hall, 7 p.m.

26 TUESDAY

Story Hour for pre-school children at Charlevoix Public Library, 10:30 a.m.
Nutritional meals for senior citizens served at the VFW, US 31 N., 12:30 p.m.
Kiwanis Club meets at Grey Gables Inn for a luncheon meeting.

City Planning Commission meets at City Hall, 7 p.m.
Fleet Reserve Association meets at the American Legion hall, 7:30 p.m.

Council likes bandshell — except for roof

A model of the proposed band pavilion in East Park was unveiled for city council — with a somewhat enthusiastic, but not wholehearted, reception.

Council members and audience members questioned various aspects of the Victorian structure, with most zeroing in on the height of the central roof.

Also questioned were the size of a side wall facing Bridge Street and an area at the back of the roof where snow would accumulate with nowhere to go.

John Hess, one of three committee co-chairmen, was instructed by council to find out whether the roof could be lowered and stretched to the back of the building without hurting the acoustics.

Otherwise, council members seemed generally satisfied with what they saw — at least from an architectural standpoint.

Some members of the audience and of the committee expressed concerns about blocking the view of Round Lake from Bridge Street.

The pavilion — named for long-time high school band director Clarence Odmark — would be placed along the south end of the park.

Stakes and yellow plastic ribbons have been used in the park to mark off the area the pavilion would occupy.

The structure would start about 45 feet from the sidewalk on Bridge and continue onto the area now taken up by the stage. That stage area, originally intended as a covered bandshell, was built in the early 1950s and never finished.

This is a scale model of the proposed Clarence Odmark Pavilion designed by architect Jack Begrow for a city-community committee. The silhouette behind the pavilion is the side wall of Wharfside Market.

The committee working on design of a new structure is also working on fund-raising activities.
So far, there is a total of $68,000 available for construction. This includes $52,600 the city has in special municipal accounts and from private fund-raising efforts in previous years.

The committee has raised under $18,000 and spent about $2,000 through solicitations to former band members and through a newspaper advertisement to the general public.

A benefit concert is scheduled for 8 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 6, at the old stage. The committee is bringing in musicians from around the country to play at the event.

Committee leaders are hoping the concert will be the final event on the old stage and construction of the new facility can begin in the fall.

A projected cost estimate by Begrow puts the top cost for the project at $138,000. His estimate was based on profit-motivated construction by private contractors.

The committee is hoping a great deal of the materials and labor needed will be donated by area firms.

And Hess said such items as a $23,000 tile floor can be set aside for possible later inclusion.

The city has indicated it may fund construction of public restrooms on the bottom level of the building at a later date.

The facility would include dressing room-restrooms for musicians and storage areas behind the 60- by 30-foot stage.

In front of the stage would be a reconstructed pool forming a semi-circle between the stage and a seating area. The pool would have a lighted, full-length waterfall about three feet high along the back edge.

Hess is checking with acoustical experts — probably from Interlochen — about placement of the roof and possible inclusion of baffles to project sound into the park.

He expects to report to council again at its Monday, July 25, study session.

AROUND THE TOWN

Two new tours offer a look at some of the area's grand architecture.... One presents a 30-stop tour of Earl Young designed homes and businesses in Charlevoix and the other shows off the styles of the 1930's....

"An Earl Young Tour of Charlevoix" was prepared by a committee put together by Mayor Ralph McRae.... The brochure includes a biography of the "dreamer, designer and builder of unique and fascinating stone houses," drawings by his wife Irene of some of those homes and a map by Linda Boss of 30 Young buildings....

These include the famous gnome homes on the Park-Clinton-Grant block, Boulder Park houses, Thistle Down houses and businesses Young worked on....

The brochures should be available at the Chamber of Commerce office by Venetian Festival.... Members of the committee were Bruce MacArthur, Jackie Merta, Harold Krusch, Jeannine Wallace and John Hess — aided by members of the Young family and Linda Boss....

"A Driving Tour of Public Buildings in Charlevoix and Emmet Counties, Michigan" concentrates on government buildings built in the 1930's.... The styles of the day included Art Deco, Moderne, Vernacular and Spanish Colonial Revival....

The 10 buildings on the tour include Charlevoix City Hall and Charlevoix Diesel Electric Plant.... The city hall is an example of Art Deco design and the electric facility an example of Moderne.... The tour was prepared for the Crooked Tree Arts Council.

Charter revision commission question split onto 2 ballots

A change has been made in the way Charlevoix voters may choose a charter review commission.

At the suggestion of city attorney Jeff VanTreese, there will now be votes at separate times on whether to have a commission and who would serve on it.

VanTreese asked for the change after speaking with state elections officials.

Under the new plan, voters will be asked during the Tuesday, Nov. 8, general election whether the city should form a charter review commission.

If that vote is affirmative, candidates for nine charter positions would file for the second vote.

That election would have to be held within 60 days of the November vote, VanTreese said.

The first vote could not be held in August because of the time constraints involved in getting anything on that ballot, city Clerk Arlene Staley said.

Under state law, June 14 was the last day for clerks to accept certification of ballot wording for local proposals on the primary ballot.

It took a tie-breaking vote from the mayor to make the change in vote scheduling, as some members of council have been against charter review at all.

Voting for the two elections were Earl Muma and Butch Russell, while Shirley Roloff and Bill Haggard voted against them. Absent were Norm Probert and Bill Bellows.

Saying it should be up to the voters to decide whether the charter needs review or revision, Mayor Ralph McRae cast the deciding vote.

A member of the audience if a charter commission would be looking at anything specific.

VanTreese said the council has talked in the past of giving the mayor a vote on all items, but there are no limits in what a commission could address.

"They could change all of the charter or one section of the charter," he said.

The charter was adopted in June 1978 after a lengthy process which resulted in two voter rejections before a final version was approved.

Charter review commission members could be paid for their work if council chooses to do so, but several council members and audience members said they thought serving should be a civic duty without compensation.

Members of most city commissions and boards serve without pay.

Thanks, Fran, for help, smile

Editor,

This is written to publicly say, "Thanks, Fran Martin, you're the greatest."

Yes, the greatest for having the wit, know-how, humor and information to have made your column so very interesting and entertaining.

The greatest for having the tact and patience not to bang up on me when I called you at the last minute to put an article in the Courier pertaining to a bake sale, a meeting or St. Mary's annual festival.

Letters to the editor:

When the Rainbow Shoppe was just getting started, all the coverage published was willingly accomplished by you, dear Fran. At that time, we certainly needed the publicity!

If I were to take a survey about town, I'm sure everyone would agree that one could always depend on you for some excellent publicity. We will miss your column and you, my dear, and again, "Thanks, Fran Martin, you're the greatest."

Keep old water tower

Editor,

Charlevoix would not be Charlevoix without the old water tower! I wholeheartedly agree with Dale Boss, City Manager Mike Wiesner, Bob Miles and Alyce Lesser.

I'm sure my No. 1 son, Peter, would agree. I haven't been back in years, but Peter and his wife, Valentina, come from Arizona every summer — and he continues to remind me that the happiest years of his life were spent in Charlevoix the Beautiful.

Please save the old water tower!

Bring back purple petunias

Editor,

To Mr. Boss and K.C.B. thanks to all your efforts, once again we are enjoying beautiful petunias along highway 31.

However, please bring back "the color purple" next year. We miss the contrast in color.

Ralph and Norma Teague

Saving old tower is wonderful idea

Editor,

Keeping our water tower is a wonderful idea. I'm sure there would be lots of people enjoying the "bird's eye" view. And they wouldn't have to zoom by in an airplane, seeing only the tree tops. Don't let this idea of Dale Boss's go down the tube.

What type person would scratch car?

Editor,

Last Thursday, July 14, while I was shopping in Oleson's someone raked the side of my station wagon four times with a car key. What type of "thug" is being allowed on the streets of "Charlevoix the Beautiful" this year?

Willows area birthplace of north's swans

Editor,

In your issue of July 6th you show a picture of "The Willows" at the entrance to "Old River." This could rightfully be called the birth place of all the swans in Northern Michigan, because under these willows was a nest of the first swans imported from England by Mrs. Douglas of the Chicago Club.

The first cygnets were born here, I know because, when transporting a hairdresser from the Belvedere to the Chicago Club by rowboat, I had to fight papa swan every time I passed the nest.

CLOCKWISE

BOB CLOCK

Two sides to every story

To chase, or not to chase. That is the question.

A couple of weeks ago I took exception to the fact that law officers initiated a chase on M-66 during a rock concert at Castle Farms. At the time, the highway was jammed with vehicles and the road shoulders were crowded with pedestrians.

The chase ended at the junction of M-66 and U.S. 31 with three vehicles badly damaged and minor injuries to at least three persons who were not even involved in the chase.

Judging from skid marks at the intersection and the condition of the vehicles, we were very lucky that no one was killed.

At the time, I wasn't certain which law enforcement agency started the chase, but apparently it was the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department, with Sheriff George Lasater at the wheel of the pursuing patrol car.

I have already said how I feel about such chases under such conditions. I think they are bad news. Now it is Sheriff's Lasater's turn. Following is the text of a report he submitted to the Charlevoix Courier about the incident.

"AT APPROXIMATELY 2200 hours, while in the large parking lot at Castle Farm, on routine patrol, as I was about to exit the parking lot, I observed an older vehicle do a half wheel with his vehicle near the exit gate where several people were standing. Due to the disregard for the pedestrians standing there, I felt it appropriate to stop the vehicle.

"I activated the overhead lights. He proceeded east, down Wickersham toward M-66 going in and out of cars and pedestrians walking on Wickersham. He was not traveling at a high rate of speed at this time. My estimated speed was approximately 30 mph down Wickersham.

"As we got closer to the intersection of M-66 and Wickersham, where there were more pedestrians and more cars, and it was more obvious he wasn't going to stop, I felt it appropriate to activate the siren on yelp to alert the pedestrians at the intersection. He disregarded the stop sign at M-66 and Wickersham and proceeded west toward Charlevoix, passing several cars almost hitting them and what appeared to be several pedestrians on the shoulder of the road also almost hitting them.

"Due to his erratic driving and almost hitting multiple cars and pedestrians, I made a judgement call to continue behind him with lights and siren keeping him in sight and advising via radio the main office that I had a vehicle that was not stopping and asked for assistance to stop the vehicle.

"I continued behind him, he continued to pass cars with his speed never reaching past 60 mph, my speed fluctuating between 40-50 mph. I advised any units in the area of our exact location and asked for help in getting him stopped. I advised, via radio, passing Loeb & Ferry Ave. and as we were coming upon Kit Carson's, I observed what I estimate as two to three patrol units attempting to stop the vehicle in question.

"He went around each of the vehicles, approached the intersection, disregarded the stop sign, and collided with two vehicles. I exited my vehicle at the intersection, hopped upon the hood of one car, hopped upon the side of the second car that was on it's side, helped one female out of the side door, then let myself down into the car, cut the seatbelts, rendered what aid I could and stayed with the female subject until we were cut out of the car."

(Signed) George T. Lasater, Sheriff.

AS IN ALL public issues, there are two sides and the question certainly is one worthy of public debate.

I don't think police should give chase for minor infractions of the law when the lives of other motorists and pedestrians are endangered. Isn't that what law enforcement is all about, protecting lives and property?

Of course, we want our police officers to be aggressive in the apprehension of criminals. But I believe in many instances aggressive action is clearly out of order.

School board chief gets 15th term

Max Novak has been elected to his 15th term as president of the Charlevoix Schools board of education.

Novak was selected for the one-year term by his fellow school board members. He became president in 1973, a year after his first election to the board.

Novak, a Charlevoix native, was a teacher at Charlevoix High for 25 years and was middle school principal for three years before his retirement in 1972.

Vice president Elaine Martin and treasurer Ardeth Wieland were also re-elected to their posts. The new secretary is Doris Pearl, who replaces Ken Boss in that position. Boss did not run for re-election.

Joining the school board are new members Janet Ratlike and Larry Levensgood, who were elected in June.

The cost is $2.50 for adults. Children's prices are available.

The breakfast is open to the public. The chapter serves breakfast the last Sunday of the month throughout the summer.

THE MAYOR'S CORNER

The Mayor's job is more than presiding over the Council four times each month. He also participates in many activities concerning the city.

During the first four days last week, I had ten meetings involving two or more persons.

Also, I met several persons individually, and during that time I received or made more than twenty phone calls.

Frankly though, there were other meetings I should have attended.

So, a Mayor does more than preside at the Council meetings.

It is suggested that either the Mayor or one Council member be present at all meetings of the County Commission, School Board, Waste Management Board, Housing Commission and Commission on Aging.

Petunias blooming but weed blanket has mixed results

While Charlevoix's petunias have thrived during the drought, the verdict is still out on the effectiveness of the weed blanket.

The petroleum-based covering — which has holes punched in it for the flowers to grow through — was placed the entire 4 1/4-mile length of Operation Petunia this spring.

Last year, Keep Charlevoix Beautiful spent considerable time and money with hand-weeding of the .18-inch-wide flower patch.

With the weed blanket in place, weeding has been trimmed considerably — but not eliminated.

And the black-surfaced material has combined with sun and concrete in some places to produce a blast furnace effect — suffocating the flowers.

Rather than protect water near the surface from sunlight evaporation, as some thought the blanket may do, the material has taken more watering.

While other communities which have copied Charlevoix's display have had troubles keeping their petunias alive in the hot, dry weather, KCB's flowers are blooming.

Dale Boss, chief waterer and originator of the Operation Petunia idea, says the weed blanket has increased water requirements by nearly double.

With the old watering truck, Boss and his wife Marilyn could spread 8,000 to 10,000 gallons a day on their morning runs.

The new truck used last year and this put 12,000 to 14,000 gallons on the flowers each watering in 1987.

But this year, Boss says, they have been using 20,000 to 22,000 gallons most days — and used 30,000 in two runs on one day at the height of the heat wave.

Even so, Boss says, this is the "best crop ever" in 80 percent of the flower bed.

Boss blames the black color of the weed material for part of the problem. KCB has told the manufacturer a sand color would be better from a heat-repelling standpoint and an aesthetic one.

In some areas, the blanket has been removed to give the flowers a better chance at survival.

Near St. Mary's Church and in a couple other places where there is little shade and lots of concrete, the flowers have been baked.

Removal of the blanket has helped, MacArthur and Boss say, as the heat not longer is held in by the blanket.

Overall, though, MacArthur says, the weed blanket "very definitely is a positive thing."

One place where the blanket's positive effects can be seen is in front of the chamber of commerce office.

Two squares of petunias were planted there, one covered by the blanket and the other without. Both areas were covered with wood chips after a few days.

The area with the weed blanket is much fuller and much more colorful than the one without.

One possible way to reduce

Two petunia patches at the Chamber of Commerce are used as a test area. The front section, without a weed blanket, is not growing as well as the blanketed area. In an area without a full covering of blanket (left), three trash bags of weeds were pulled from one side of the street in less than a block.

Petunias

heat problems with the blanket in the future, MacArthur says, is applying wood chips or another kind of mulch over the material.

After the season has ended, KCB will evaluate whether to keep the blanket in place.

The material has done its job of cutting down weeds, but has not stopped them completely.

There is still a quarter-inch strip between the edge of the blanket and the curb which fosters weeds, MacArthur says, and in every 25th to 30th petunia holes a weed will grow beside the flower.

And, says MacArthur, holes where petunias did not get planted or did not grow are being filled by stubborn crabgrass.

It would be nice if people living near the petunia bed would take a few minutes to do some weeding, MacArthur says.

Many people, he says, mistakenly think placement of the weed blanket has ended the need for volunteer weeding.

Restoration interest shown in city-owned house

FIRST OF AMERICA Financing

Interest is being shown in restoring a century-old house owned by the city.

Four or five people have inquired about purchasing the house — commonly called the White house — on Clinton across from the library.

The city decided last year to buy the property on land contract from Betty White to expand downtown parking. The property is next to the Erber lot developed last summer.

The Downtown Development Authority initiated the purchase, then became concerned about the loss of older homes in the business district.

Several other older houses have been removed in recent months — some for current development and some for future development.

The DDA decided it would like to see the White building sold and renovated, while city council is closely divided on whether to retain the building or tear it down.

On a 4-3 vote, with the mayor breaking a tie, the council is letting the DDA try to sell the original building to someone who would restore it.

The city would sell only the building and front part of the parcel. The rear portion would remain city parking, adjacent to other city and private lots.

The back yard is being used by the city for parking, and plans call for the purchaser to rip off additions on the back of the building. That would create a couple more parking spaces — and would restore the building to its original shape.

A couple area businessmen who have looked at the building think it could cost anywhere from $80,000 to $100,000 to completely renovate the structure.

The city has gotten an appraisal of the site and is working on guidelines for renovation.

When planner Gerry Harsch has completed the specifications and the DDA has approved them, bid proposals will be sought.

City council has indicated it wants the sale question resolved by next spring.

Mayor going to D.C. to pick up KCB award

Mayor Ralph McRae will be going to Washington, D.C., next week to accept an award for Keep Charlevoix Beautiful.

The civic organization — backbone of the Operation Petunia planting of 45,000 flowers — is a finalist in the Take Pride in America national contest.

KCB has been informed it is not a top award winner, but is among the 200 finalists from around the nation, KCB president dent Bruce MacArthur said.

The Interior Department-sponsored contest leaned more toward clean-up efforts than beautification efforts in its final selection, he said.

The KCB board decided to ask the mayor if he would accept the award for the organization.

"He's been inspirational, trying to generate good things," MacArthur said of McRae's enthusiasm toward KCB and city projects.

McRae said he will be flying to the capital on Sunday, July 24, for the Tuesday, July 25, ceremony. He will return that night.

KCB is paying for some of the mayor's expenses, including room and meals. The city is paying for air fare.

The mayor says he is saving the city about $200 by driving to Grand Rapids to begin his air journey.

All lower-fare tickets from Traverse City have been sold with only $500-plus round-trip tickets available.

He was able to buy a $200 round-trip ticket from Grand Rapids, though.

Kentucky handicrafts go on display, sale

Traditional handicrafts from the mountains of eastern Kentucky will be shown in northern Michigan on Tuesday, Aug. 2, when Morris Fork Crafts brings handmade quilts and other crafts to the Presbyterian Church in Boyne City for display and sale.

The show will be held from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and there will be no charge for admission.

Morris Fork Crafts is an Appalachian cooperative supported as a mission project by the Presbyterian Church to promote traditional handicrafts of the area.

Besides quilts, there will be dolls, cornshuck and wooden flowers, baskets, woodenware, clothing and furniture.

The women of the Presbyterian Church will serve a salad luncheon from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Tickets, at $3.50, are available at Applebee Coterie, 111 North Park St., Boyne City. On the day of the showing they will be available at the church door.

Lithographs, tone poem exhibited

A trunkful of letters found in a century-old barn provided the inspiration for Eastport artist Betty Beeby to create a suite of lithographs illustrating the story she entitled the "Peterboro Letters."

The lithographs subsequently inspired Michigan composer Lynne Palmer to write a fivemovement tone poem about the letters.

Both the lithographs and the tone poem will be featured at the McCune Arts Center in Petoskey, Tuesday, July 26, as the artist and composer make a joint appearance.

Palmer's composition will be performed at 9:30 p.m.

Davenport-Cole wedding

Jodi Kay Davenport and L. Jay Cole were united in marriage June 25 at the United Methodist Church in Charlevoix.

The bride is the daughter of Dean and Joyce Davenport of Charlevoix and Big Rapids, and her bridegroom is the son of Clyde and Eileen Cole of Greenville, Ill.

The Rev. David Yingling officiated at the double-ring rites. Steven Stargardt provided traditional wedding music and accompanied Ruth Cole, sister of the bridegroom from Kenosha, Wis., as she sang "Friends" and "Never Thought I Could Love."

The ceremony took place in front of a candle-lit altar with candelabra decorated in wild white roses, fresh greens, aqua silk flowers, ivory bows and aqua candles.

White wicker baskets on the altar held similar floral arrangements. The decorations were created by Nancy Fowler, assisted by Judy Cockfield and Nomi Mol.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her parents. She wore a gown of ivory satin that featured a V-neckline in front and back that was enhanced with Schiffli lace, continuing on into the fitted bodice. Pearls and sequins accented the lace.

The Ascot sleeves were detailed with insets of matching lace at mid-sleeve and tapered to a bridal point at the wrist. The skirt flowed from a large bow in back into a chapel-length train, and the entire hem of the gown was trimmed in lace.

The bride's headpiece was an ivory satin hat trimmed with small silk flowers, pearls and pouffed veiling. She carried a bridal bouquet of orchids, champagne roses and ivy.

Anne Harmon of Battle Creek was maid of honor. Other assistants were Chris Way of Royal Oak, Valerie Davenport of Westport, Conn., Karen Carlson of Muskegon, and Patti Donback of Springfield, Ill.

All wore identical gowns of ivory chiffon over satin featuring a drop waist accented with an ivory satin sash and bow.

Each attendant carried a bouquet of aqua and ivory silk flowers with aqua ribbon streamers.

Flower girls were Kasey Lauren Davenport and Sumner Anne Way, nieces of the bride.

Their gowns were of ivory lace over deep aqua satin, designed by the bride's sister, Chris Way. They carried ivory wicker baskets filled with potpourri and decorated with aqua silk flowers.

Jeff Huston of Springfield, Ill., served as best man. Groomsmen were Terry Davenport of Westport, Conn., and Scott Hubbard, John Baker and

FAMILY

Jay and Jodi Cole

Thom Woodward, all of Springfield.

Ushers were Bill Cole, H.C. "Bud" Cole and Scott Vance. They all wore black tuxedos and ivory shirts, with aqua ties and cummerbunds.

The bride's parents hosted a dinner reception at the Edgewater Inn in Charlevoix. Dinner music was provided by Margaret Thomson on the piano.

The bridegroom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner at the Weathervane Inn.

The bride is a graduate of Big Rapids High School and Ferris State University. She is an account executive at Midwest Families Radio in Springfield, Ill.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Illinois College and is an officer of Systems 2000 Corp. in Springfield.

Following a wedding trip through northern Michigan, the newlyweds will be at home in Springfield.

Baird-Left wedding

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale L. Baird of Petoskey, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald D. Left of Charlevoix.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a satin gown fashioned with a bateau neckline, low Vee back, Edwardian sleeves, and a basque waistline with cut-out detail on a semi-cathedral length train.

The bride carried a bouquet of wild Australian orchids, lilies of the valley and baby's breath.

Kellie Baird, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and Kristy Schwartzfisher, Kathy Chappuis and Debra Hacker were bridesmaids.

They wore pink satin tea-length gowns with Vee necks adorned with bows. They carried pink baby roses with several colored carnations.

Tom Left, brother of the bridegroom, was best man, and Tom McNamara, Steve Hufford and Tom Bradley were groomsmen.

Tom Jones and Guy Carter served as ushers.

Traditional wedding music was offered by organist Jeannie Lignell, trumpeter Evelyn Wujek and vocalist Lee Ann Lovell.

Herschel Baird of Petoskey, grandfather of the bride, was designated "most-honored guest."

The bride's parents hosted a reception at the Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club, and the bridegroom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner at the Argonne Supper Club.

Following a wedding trip to Canada, the new Mr. and Mrs. Left are residing in Charlevoix.

The bridegroom is employed by Tallberg Chevrolet Olds in Petoskey, and the bride, a licensed Realtor, is employed by Ski and Shore Northern Properties in Petoskey.

Garden club set for show

Members of the Charlevoix Area Garden Club are gearing up for their annual flower show, to be held Saturday, July 30, from 1 to 5 p.m. at the home of Pati Moore, 200 Auld Street.

The theme of this year's show is "Charms of Charlevoix."

Club members have been meeting since early June at the home of Annabelle Webb for workshops in preparation for the show, covering such subjects as miniatures, living room arrangements, basket arrangements, parallel arrangements, and floor arrangements.

Inge Ledahl is this year's president of the Garden Club. Chairpersons for the show are Derith Lane and Phyllis Block.

They are being assisted by a large committee to handle the duties of scheduling, entries, placement of entries, hostesses, judges, hospitality, staging properties, classification, clerks, special gifts, finance and awards.

Judges for the show are Edna Rosenfield of Suttons Bay, Lois Pollock of Boyne City, Edna Mather of Onaway, Jane Raley of Midland, Shirley Schweitzer of Midland and Mildred Webb of Traverse City.

They will be served coffee at the home of Nancy Fowler prior to judging the entries and later will be guests at a luncheon at the home of Ida Stewart.

There is no admission charge for the flower show.

Orchard hosts foods workshop

A "fancy food fiesta" will be held at Sunnyview Orchards on Thursday, July 28, from 3 to 8 p.m. in the expanded and remodeled farm market.

Cooperative Extension Service home economist Lorraine Hoalt will prepare a variety of fast and easy vegetable and fruit recipes with the microwave oven.

Also topics include tips on selecting and storing fresh produce, which varieties are best suited to what use, how to figure the quantity of produce for canning or freezing and when favorite fruits and vegetables can be expected to be in season.

Brian and Rebecca Allard

Allard-Kuehn wedding

Rebecca Lynn Allard and Brian Richard Kuehn exchanged marriage vows Saturday morning, July 9, at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Charlevoix.

Approximately 200 guests from Michigan, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Wisconsin, and California witnessed the double ring ceremony conducted by Father James Gardiner.

The bride, who has been living in Ocean City, Maryland; is the daughter of Fritz and Sandy Allard of Charlevoix. The bridegroom, also of Ocean City, is the son of Richard and Ramona Kuehn of Rockford.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white embroidered organza with off-the-shoulder puffed sleeves, fitted bodice, sweetheart neckline, and gathered waist. Her headpiece was a wreath of silk flowers with pink and white ribbons trailing down the back, and she carried a traditional bouquet of pink roses, white baby carnations, and baby's breath.

Kristen Allard of Ypsilanti, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor, and Michele Clapper of Grand Rapids, another sister, served as matron of honor. They wore tea-length gowns of ice pink taffeta and carried pink and white baby carnations and baby's breath in white fireside baskets.

David Steel served as altar boy. Richard Kuehn, father of the bridegroom, served as best man, and Jeff Young of Grandville was groomsmen. Lee Allard of Streamwood, Illinois, brother of the bride, and Lance Erickson of Grand Rapids were ushers.

The bride's parents, assisted by many friends, hosted a garden reception at their home. The four-tier pink wedding cake was made by the bride's father. The rehearsal dinner was hosted by the bridegroom's parents at Nanny's Old Place.

The newlyweds will take a trip to Jamaica later in the year. They are now at home in Ocean City, where the bridegroom is employed as a loan officer by the Equitable Bank, and the bride is a purchasing and receiving agent for a sporting goods company, Salling, Etc. (Photography by Aartvark Studios)

Klingbeil-Lee wedding

Susan Slocum Klingbeil and Erik Kreston Lee were married Saturday, June 18, at the century-old Ironton Congregational Church in Ironton.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hayward Klingbeil of Grosse Pointe Shores, and the Sequanota Club in Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Shurle Lee and Harry Lee, both of Midland.

The Rev. Harold Kruse officiated at the single ring ceremony in which the bride was given in marriage by her father.

The bride wore an off-the-shoulder ivory silk-faced satin gown fashioned with scooped neckline and puffed sleeves. The fitted bodice was embellished with silk Venise lace and seed pearls.

Satin bows adorned the shoulders as well as the cathedral-length train and back of the bridal headpiece. The headpiece itself was a circle of silk blossoms and filaments of pearls from which fell a veil of French illusion.

The bride carried a bouquet of white roses, stephanotis, trailing ivy and ferns.

Martha Murphy served her sister as matron of honor, and Faye Higbie, Page Klumpp, Gail Koski and Mary Jane Shumaker were bridesmaids.

They wore tea-length pastel peach moire gowns with an ivory lace overlay on the fitted bodice which featured puffed sleeves. They each carried a single long stemmed white rose.

Andrea Klingbeil, a niece of the bride, as flower girl, scattered rose petals from a white wicker basket. She wore a dress similar to those of the other attendants.

Dr. Kevin Lee, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man, and Daniel Lee, Jeffery Lee and Timothy Lyons were groomsmen.

For the occasion, the church altar was decorated with two large grapevine baskets filled with local white peonies, blue delphinium, Sonia roses, and cascading green spring rye.

Following the ceremony, the bride's parents hosted a dinner reception, catered by Stafford's, at the Sequanota Club, under tents overlooking Lake Charlevoix. The bridegroom's mother hosted the rehearsal dinner at the Sequanota Club.

Other gatherings included a bridesmaids' luncheon hosted by Mrs. William Rudolph Jr. of the Sequanota Club and a Sunday brunch hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Allan M. Warner, cousins of the bride, at their Chicago Club home.

Following a wedding trip through Canada, the newlyweds are at home in Midland.

Winchester-Burke wedding

Susan Winchester and Michael Burke were married May 29 at the First Congregational Church of Charlevoix.

The Rev. Phillip Schallbaum, of the host church and the Rev. James Gardiner of St. Mary's Church officiated at the double ring rites.

The bride is the daughter of Robert and Leona Winchester of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is the son of William and Mary Burke of Hingham, Mass.

For the occasion, the church altar was decorated with baskets of rose alstramaria, white button chrysanthemums, snapdragons, and plants of peace lilies and schefflera surrounding the brass candelabra.

The bride wore an ivory gown and veil by Bianchi. It featured a Sabrina neckline, an Alencon lace bodice over point d'esprit with pearls and sequins, and a Basque waist which accented the open back with a large bow.

The chapel-length train was of tissue taffeta trimmed in Alencon lace, and the Juliet headpiece was edged with pearls. The pout veil was also adorned with scattered pearls.

The bride carried a bouquet of champagne roses and rose-colored alstramaria with strings of pearls and ivy.

The attendants entered the sanctuary to the music of "Trumpet Tune in D Major" and the bride entered to "Trumpet Voluntary."

Wendy Burke of Hingham served as matron of honor, and Lisa Winchester of Charlevoix, Kathy Anderson of Ellsworth, Maine, Maura Greallish of Quincy, Mass., Kimberly King of Hollywood, and Kathy Sullivan and Sarah Lane of Milwaukee were bridesmaids.

They wore ivory cotton chintz dresses with fitted bodices and drop waists accented with rose sashes and bows, and tea-length skirts. They carried bouquets of champagne roses, rose alstramaria, yellow chrysanthemums, and ivy, with loops of pearls and ribbon.

Two of the attendants who were readers carried Bibles decorated with similar flowers and streamers.

Adrienne Winchester, the bride's niece, served as flower girl. She wore a rose cotton chintz dress with fitted bodice, Peter Pan collar, and short puffed sleeves trimmed with ivory lace. An ivory sash and bow accented the full-length ruffled skirt.

The flower girl carried an ivory basket of miniature roses, alstramaria, and ivy, decorated with loops of ribbon and floor-length streamers. She wore a wreath of matching flowers and ribbon in her hair.

Sean Burke of Seattle assisted the bridegroom as best man, and Ron Winchester of Charlevoix, Bill Burke of Cohasset, Mass., Patrick and Tim Burke of Hingham, Shaun Scully of Hingham and Jim Devaney of Franklin, Mass., were groomsmen.

Following the marriage ceremony, the bride's parents hosted a reception at Stafford's Bay View Inn. The bridegroom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner at the Grey Gables Inn.

The newlyweds are at home in Old Chatham, N.Y., following a stay at the Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island.

Frank P. Lyons Obituaries

Capt. Jack P. Lyons, 73, of Taylor, died July 6, 1988, at Henry Ford Hospital, Detroit.

Funeral was July 11 at Martenson Mortuary, Allen Park. The Reverend Ingall of Mariners Church in Detroit officiated and burial was in Michigan Memorial Cemetery, Flat Rock.

Mr. Lyons was born Dec. 25, 1914, in Lorain, Ohio, the son of Capt. James B. and Louisa (Price) Lyons.

He began his sailing career under his father's tutelage and in 1932 he sailed with the Charles M. Schwab Inner Lake Steamship Co. He received his master's license in 1935 and from 1948-1950 he and his brother Richard co-owned and operated the "North Shore," a motorship ferry service that ran between the mainland and Beaver Island.

In 1956, Mr. Lyons sailed for the McCarthy Steamship Lines and in 1959 he was founder and vice president of the Great Lakes Pilots Association. At the time of his death, Mr. Lyons was president of North Central Maritime Corp.

In 1967, Mr. Lyons developed a course of instruction for those seeking a master mariner's license for Marine Engineers Beneficial Association School of Navigation. He taught at the Toledo, Ohio school for 15 years. His navigational career on the Great Lakes spanned 50 years.

Mr. Lyons was a member of the International Shipmasters Association and was an honorary trustee of Mariners Church in Detroit.

He is survived by: his wife Jerry of Taylor; three daughters, Jeanne Lyons of San Jose, Calif., Jennifer Sharp of Vacaville, Calif., Julie Lyons of Miami, Fla.; one son, James B. Lyons of Taylor; two brothers, Capt. Thomas Lyons of Lorain, Ohio and Dr. Jay B. Lyons of North Ridgeville, Ohio; one sister, Mary Lou Austin of Lorain, Ohio.

A brother, Capt. Richard Lyons, preceded him in death.

Margaret LaValley

Margaret S. LaValley, 88, of Traverse City, died July 16, 1988, at her home.

Cremation has taken place and there will be no services. Mrs. LaValley was born Nov. 21, 1901, in Tennessee.

She had lived in Traverse City since 1961, moving there from Big Rapids. She was a member of the Cherryland Baptist Church in Traverse City.

Mrs. LaValley is survived by: her husband, William E. LaValley; two daughters, Frances R. Groham and Helene J. Ritchey; 11 grandchildren; 16 great-grandchildren and five great-great-grandchildren.

Annabelle Hazel

Former Charlevoix resident Annabelle C. Hazel, 78, of North Lake, Mich., 78, died July 10, 1988, at Tuscola County Medical Care Facility, Caro.

Services were held Wednesday, July 13, at Hanlin Funeral Home, Millington. The Rev. Frank Jansen officiated and burial was in Watertown Township Cemetery.

Mrs. Hazel was born June 20, 1910, in Flint. From 1971 to 1981, she was a resident of Charlevoix. She was active in the Charlevoix VFW Auxiliary. Survivors include: one son, Richard Hazel of Millington; two grandchildren, Kimberly and Katie Hazel.

Obituaries

Florence G. Forbes

Florence G. Forbes, 87, of Charlevoix, died July 14, 1988, at Grandvue Medical Care Facility, East Jordan.

Graveside services were held Monday, July 18, at Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix. The Rev. Donald H. Merrill, interim pastor of the Charlevoix United Methodist Church, officiated.

The former Florence G. Greeley was born Dec. 18, 1900, in Norwood township, the daughter of Charles and Lottie (Alward) Greeley. She has been a life resident of the Charlevoix area.

On Dec. 14, 1945, she married Kenneth B. Forbes, in Traverse City. He preceded her in death Dec. 23, 1967.

Mrs. Forbes was a member of the Charlevoix United Methodist Church.

She is survived by: one son, Gerald Ryan of Sacramento, Calif.; one granddaughter, Theresa Moore of Charlevoix.

The family suggests memorials to the Grandvue Medical Care Facility. Arrangements were handled by Winchester Funeral Home.

Contemporary Christian musician performs

Ohio keyboardist Bill Powell will perform at 11 a.m. Sunday, July 24, at Assembly of God church.

Powell, who calls himself The Psalmist, will also play during Venetian Festival activities

Saturday in East Park.

Powell is a former rock band member who now plays contemporary Christian music, including original songs and scripture set to music.

Bible School sign-up underway

"Come Meet Jesus" is the theme of Community Vacation Bible School this summer.

The school will be held at the Assembly of God Church Monday to Thursday August 15-18. Students will learn about five characters of the New Testament - Peter, Mary and Martha, the woman at the well, and Jesus.

Each day activities will include meeting and learning about these people through drama, Bible verses, singing, songs, crafts and recreation.

Children who will be four years old by September through those who have completed the fifth grade may register.

Immediate registration is requested. Forms can be found displayed in local stores and other community businesses.

Bus transportation for children living in and around Charlevoix will be provided. Approximately six stops, all adult-supervised, will be set up.

Children riding the buses must be registered prior to the first day of class. Bus schedules will be mailed to all registered families.

For more information, contact Jan Boss at 547-9482.

Official Notice

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS PLEASE TAKE NOTICE, the regular evening meeting of the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners, scheduled for 7:00 p.m., Wednesday, July 27, 1988 will be held at the Hudson Township Hall, Hudson Township, Charlevoix County. This meeting is open to the public and residents of the east side of Charlevoix County are invited to attend and address the Board regarding matters of concern.

Jane E. Brannon, Clerk

IN MEMORIAM

The family of Julia B. Leedy expresses its deepest appreciation for the expressions of sympathy extended by her many friends subsequent to her death on July 4. While family considerations require that final services be conducted in Indianapolis, Ind., she will be memorialized, in prayers, at Charlevoix's Christ Episcopal Church during the regular 10:00 a.m. service on Sunday, July 24. Christ Church and her family invite friends to be present.

OF BLESSINGS

Prepared weekly by the members of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.

by The Rev. Bruce E. Hamilton
Community Church of God

As pen and paper meet, it has just finished raining. What was moments ago a hot and sticky office has now become quite pleasant. It never ceases to amaze me how something like a little shower can just make all the difference in the world.

You should know that this is written on Friday. It is a treat just to watch the shower unfold. The dark clouds gathered over the lake. The lightning danced across the sky. The thunder sounded like tympany drums heralding the start of a symphony. The rain shield moved on shore reminiscent of a curtain parting at the start of a play. And if your yard and garden are as thirsty as mine...

Could it be that's what brought you to this part of the Courier today? I know there are days that your heart and life can get just as dry as our yards and gardens have been. The dust of doubt can cloud your vision. Hardpacked fears can make every step torture. Believe me, friend, that's not the way God wants your life to go.

The prophet Hosea challenges us to "sow for yourselves righteousness." If you want corn from your garden, you're not going to plant potatoes, are you? If you need happiness, encouragement or hope, plant some seeds that will bear that kind of fruit in your life.

The prophet continues, "reap the fruit of unfailing love." I can promise you this. If you will do all you can to be a blessing to others, God will be more than a blessing. He will be an unfailing source of strength for you.

Next Hosea says, "break up your unplowed ground." Farmers tell me that occasionally they have to give their fields a rest, leave them unplowed. To make a living, though, they have to rotate their unplowed fields! Do you have some talents or abilities that have been resting unplowed? You'll never know what God can really do with your life until you truly try.

Hosea concludes, "for it is time to seek the Lord, until he comes and showers righteousness upon you." Therein lies the real answer to everything that you face, seeking the Lord. These are not just idle words. God does not hide himself from you and I. He's here. But you have to make the first move. If you are open and honest about your life with him, he will bring the showers of blessing you need for real faith to take hold and grow in your heart.

held Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 6-7, at Ferry Beach.

The event, also known as the Weyer North Americans, will feature various fun and triangle course races.

Board sailers from around the country attend the event each year.

Registration will begin at 9 a.m. Saturday, Aug. 6, at the regatta site at Ferry Beach.

Weyer One design boards will be available for charter on a first come, first served basis. Events will be held in three classes: open, Weyer One and recreation.

Registration forms or information are available from G.S. Sports Inc., sponsor of the event, at 547-6646 or from the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce office at 547-2101.

The registration fee is $10. There are some camp sites available for out-of-town board sailers.

Youth soccer sign-up underway

The Charlevoix County Recreation Department will hold final registration for soccer on Friday, July 29.

To register a child for the program, stop by or call the recreation department at the county annex building.

Charlevoix players are to arrive at Shanahan Field on Thursday, Aug. 18, at 6 p.m. They must be registered prior to that time.

The cost of the program, $7, covers the cost of soccer shirts.

Former area artist returns for show

A collection of former area artist Todd Warner's animal sculptures will open at Koucky Gallery on Thursday, July 28, and continue through Wednesday August 17.

A reception for the artist is planned Saturday, July 30, from 4 to 9 p.m.

Warner sculpts off-beat giraffes, warthogs, sheep, gazelles, alligators, flamingos and other animals up to eight feet high in clay, wood and metal.

Warner's career began in Charlevoix, where he created smaller versions of the animals. After 10 years, he relocated to Boca Raton, FL, where his works grew in size and diversity.

Cable firm aids disease fight

Northern Cable TV is offering free installation to people who donate $5 or more to the Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy Association telathon against neuromuscular diseases.

The campaign will run until July 29 as a part of a national industrywide cable-TV campaign to help "Jerry's Kids." For more information call Thomas A. Walker at 547-4423.

SHOPTALK

JACQUIE MERTA

This is one of the many times of the year when volunteerism is made overwhelmingly evident with the celebration of the annual Venetian Festival.

Not only does it take chairmen and committees to organize, structure and bring each part of Venetian into reality but it also takes people who want to participate in these special activities... like the Venetian Queen contest, the Street Parade, the "Jeff Drenth Memorial" foot race and the Grand Electrical Boat Parade.

Last year there almost wasn't a Miss Charlevoix because there was no chairman to be found. Just think we wouldn't have been able to have Miss Charlevoix — Wendy Voisin — waving to all those thousands of people during Detroit's Thanksgiving Day Parade.

This year's a different story however, because chairman Yvonne Engler, has been doing an excellent job with committee members Pam Way, Kelly Mathews and Liz Mulville.

In addition, there are six delightful young ladies who are all willing to spread good will in behalf of Charlevoix and have entered the contest. These talented ambassadors are Sheri Prater, Lori Maue, Heidi Olinger, Betsy Haggard, Kay Stoneham and Kathleen Klimas. Chairmen of the Street Parade, Marell Staffel and Deb McDowell, are doing a repeat performance this year and expect an outstanding street parade.

John Ochs, chairman of the Venetian Boat Parade is hoping for a much better turnout this year. He and John Upjohn have met several times to brainstorm to provide incentives for people to enter. As a result, those entering will be able to pull into the city docks to view the fireworks, while the docks last (those in the lighted parade will be served first).

Venetian night started with only the boat parade followed by fireworks and has grown to a full-fledged festival. It's unfortunate that in 1987 we almost had as many judges as lighted boats.

Hopefully this year will be different... with many boats entering. If there aren't at least eight boats in the Grand Electrical Boat Parade (lighted boats - sail and power) registered by Wednesday, July 20, the boat parade will be cancelled.

To all of you who unselfishly give your time and effort, I would like to take this opportunity to say "thank you" for your service to the community. And at this time of the year a very special thank you to everyone who makes Venetian happen - it's a lot of work.

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY MASS GATHERING ORDINANCE CHARLEVOIX COUNTY STATE OF MICHIGAN

SECTION 1.0 GENERAL PROVISIONS

1.01 PURPOSE

An ordinance to permit, license, regulate and control, in the interest of public safety, health and welfare, outdoor gatherings of persons in excess of 2,000 in number, to provide penalties for violations thereof and to repeal all ordinances or parts or ordinance inconsistent therewith.

1.02 PREAMBLE

The Board of Commissioners of Charlevoix County finds and declares that the interests of the public safety, health and welfare of the citizens of Charlevoix County require the regulation, licensing, and control of mass gatherings of large numbers of people in excess of those normally drawing upon the health, sanitation, fire, police, transportation, utility and other public services regularly provided in this County.

1.03 DEFINITIONS

A. "MASS OUTDOOR GATHERINGS" means any outdoor event attended by more than 2,000 people, all or any part of which includes a theatrical exhibition, public show, display, entertainment, amusement or other exhibition, including, but not limited to musical festivals, rock festivals, peace festivals or similar gatherings, but does not mean:

- 1) An event which is conducted or sponsored by a governmental unit or agency on publicly owned land or property; or
- 2) An event which is conducted or sponsored by any entity qualifying for tax exempt status under Section 501 (c) (3) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, being 26 U.S.C. 501 (c) (3), as incorporated by reference in Section 201 of the Michigan Income Tax Act of 1967, Act 281 of the Public Acts of 1967, being Section 206.201 of the Compiled Laws of 1948; or
- 3) An event held entirely within the confines of a permanently enclosed or covered structure.

B. "Person" means any natural person; partnership, corporation, association or organization.

C. "Sponsor" means any person who organizes, promotes, conducts, or causes to be conducted a mass outdoor gathering.

D. "Attendee" means any person who obtains admission to an outdoor assembly by payment of money or by the rendering of services in lieu of the payment of money for admission.

E. "Licensee" means any person to whom a license is issued pursuant to this ordinance.

F. "Health Department" means the Charlevoix County Health Department, or its authorized representatives.

G. "County" shall mean Charlevoix County.

H. "Approved" shall mean any construction or procedure of operation which is in accordance with the established regulations of the Charlevoix County Department of Health and applicable provisions of federal, state or local law, or regulations established pursuant thereto.

I. "Drinking Water" shall mean water provided or used for human consumption or for lavatory or culinary purposes.

J. "Communicable Disease" shall mean an illness due to an infectious agent, or its toxic products, which is transmitted directly or indirectly to a well person from an infected person, animal or arthropod or through the agency of an intermediate host, vector or the inanimate environment.

K. "Garbage" shall mean all putrescible wastes (except sewage and body waste): Included in this term are animal and vegetable offal.

L. "Plumbing" shall mean all the following facilities and equipment: water pipes, waste pipes, drains, vents, water closets, sinks, trays or tubs, catch basins, and any other similar supplied fixtures, together with all connections to water systems or sewage systems.

M. "Refuse" shall mean all nonputrescible wastes generally regarded and classified as rubbish, trash and junk, and similar designations which have been rejected by the possessor thereof as useless or worthless.

N. "Sewage" shall mean any substance that contains any of the waste products, excrement, or other discharge from the bodies of humans or animals, and any noxious or deleterious substances which are harmful or inimical to the public health, to animal or aquatic life, or to the use of water for domestic water supply or for recreation.

O. "Sewerage System" shall mean any community or individual system, publicly or privately owned, for the collection and disposal of sewage and industrial wastes of a liquid nature, including various devices for the treatment of such sewage or industrial wastes.

P. "Toilet Facilities" shall mean water closets, privies, urinals, chemical toilets, and rooms provided for installation of these units.

Q. "Operator" means any person who organizes, promotes, conducts, or causes to be conducted a mass outdoor gathering. The term operator is interchangeable with the term sponsor within the definitions of this ordinance.

SECTION 2.0 LICENSE REQUIREMENTS

2.1 NECESSITY OF LICENSE

A person shall not operate, sponsor, maintain, conduct, promote or allow a mass outdoor gathering in Charlevoix County without first having made application for, and obtained, as hereinafter prescribed, a license for each such mass outdoor gathering.
